Garrett Baseball Belts Out Four Wins In Succession Of Spring Break Games

The Garrett College baseball squad has been spending its spring break in Myrtle Beach, S.C., not on the beach, but on the JUCO diamonds at Ripken Stadium. The Lakers have encountered a few losses, but have, for the most part, kept their heads above water.

The first game of a twinbill against College of Morris County (N.J) on Sunday went in favor of Garrett, but the Lakers dropped a decision later in the day to Parkland College (Ill.), and two more the next day to Mercer and Musatine. The small streak of losses was interrupted over the next two days when Garrett stopped Sullivan twice, and turned the tables on Mercer.

Garrett turned 10 hits into 12 runs in a five-inning 12-1 rout of Morris, and outhit Parkland by one later that day, but came up short in their comeback to be beaten 4-2.

In the first game on Sunday, Garrett's Louis Majia recorded two hits and two RBI, while K.J. Ventry recorded two hits of his own.

Pitcher Cody Loomis got the win with six strike-outs in four innings.

Garrett accumulated seven hits to Parkland's six, but the Lakers failed to generate more than two runs in the 4-2 loss.

The first run came in the third inning off a Parkland hit, and the Cobras increased their lead to 3-0 with two runs in the fourth inning.

Kris Torrance smacked two base hits in the fourth and Corey Carr, a Northern High School graduate, had a run producing double in the fifth to pull the Lakers to within one at 3-2, but the Cobras scored in the top of the seventh for the two-run victory.

Ventry hauled in two runs on a double, and Northern alumnus Greg Beachy was efficient from the pitcher's mound, striking out eight in five innings.

Garrett's loss to Parkland set the mood for the following day as the Lakers found themselves on the wrong side of 5-2 loss in their morning contest against Mercer (N.J.), and a throwing error later that day put Garrett one down in a 5-4 edge by Muscatine (Iowa).

The Mercer Vikings had a no-hitter going on Garrett until Zach Nair got a pinch hit single in the sixth to break the spell. Garrett got one more hit and two runs in the bottom of the seventh, and even though Mercer finished with only four hits, the Vikings built up all the offense they needed when they scored three times in the second inning.

Against Muscatine, Garrett scored a run in the top of the eighth inning on a Ventry double that brought in Torrance, who led off the inning with a single.

The Indians got runners on first and second in the bottom of the eighth with a single and a walk. A base hit to right field scored the tying run, and a throwing error on the Lakers' part allowed the winning run to make it home.

In Wednesday's doubleheader against Sullivan and Mercer, Garrett used one big inning in each game and held both teams to four points.

Garrett trailed 4-3 heading into the bottom of the fifth inning, but scored eight runs to say goodbye to Sullivan with an 11-4 win.

Carr belted a pinch hit grand slam in the fifth shortly after Tony Russo knocked in a pair of Lakers with a single. It Garrett just five hits to score its 11 runs. Keith Johnson and Alex Barth teamed up to hold Sullivan to six hits and four runs in the win.

The two teams were tied momentarily in the fourth. Albert Bevacqua and Ali Ferreiras each smacked solo homers for the Generals.

Russo connected for a two-run home run during the fourth, and finished with four RBI by adding two more singles. Carr hit three doubles, Nair collected two RBI on a double and a single, and Joe Wilt had three singles.

The big fourth started with a Carr double, followed by the Russo home run. Ventry has a two-run single in the inning, and Wilt recorded an RBI base hit.

The Lakers (8-7), who are still in Myrtle Beach, play two games today beginning with Lackawanna [illegible] (Pa.) at 3 p.m., and Parkland (Ill.) at 6 p.m. Garrett Friday to round up the week.

CRASH COURSE!
When you're buying a home, who do you think is the most important person in the transaction? YOU, of course! That doesn't mean you won't need experienced professionals for guidance and assistance, but quite frankly, if YOU choose not to buy, the entire process comes to a halt.
While home ownership is called the American Dream, it's a shame that nobody teaches it in school. Most folks face the biggest purchase of their life without any experience. That's why it's critical for someone to help you understand everything that happens during the process, whether it's your accountant, your banker, or your trusted real estate columnist!
Demand explanations to questions like how much home can you afford? How do you get the best loan? Do you choose a new home or a resale? Which properties will increase in value? Where do you begin?
Since YOU are in charge, take command of the situation, and surround yourself with a team of experts in every aspect of the transaction, all of whom can be coordinated by a local real estate agent.
Plan from the very beginning to educate yourself and approach your purchase with confidence and intelligence. Then you'll be sure to find the home of your dreams and the peace of mind that comes with knowing that you've made the right decisions all along. Flex those buying muscles!
If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate give me a call today.

Lakers Edged By Knights In NJCAA Natn'l Championship

The numbers were close across the board, and Tanika Jeffers dropped a game-high 22 points on Community College of Rhode Island, but the Garrett College women's basketball team came out on the wrong side of a heartbreaking 67-66 edge in overtime in the NJCAA Division II National Tournament at Illinois Central College.

The Knights had a slight 23-21 advantage at halftime, and the two teams were neck and neck at 57 at the end of regulation play.

Jeffers was 7-for-10 from the charity stripe and sank five field goals to get 22 points. Tegra Hillman was the only other Laker to hit double-figure points, with 17.

Mindy Sharp led on defense by hauling in 13 rebounds to go with her eight points, and Requita Davis collected 10 rebounds and six points.

The two teams were evenly matched in the numbers. Rhode Island was whistled on 13 fouls, which was just one more than Garrett, and the Knights led in rebounds, 55-53. The widest spread was in turnovers – Garrett with 33 and Rhode Island with 23 – which perhaps indicates how the Lakers came up just short in the end.

Pacing the Knights was Lauren Harrington with 19 points, four steals, and three assists, followed by Denise Scott with 16 points and four steals. Rachel Murray finished with 14 points in the win.

The Lakers finish their season with a 25-5 record, with its only losses coming to Frederick, ACM twice, Cecil, and Rhode Island.

Northern's Gibson To Compete In Tri-State Elite Game

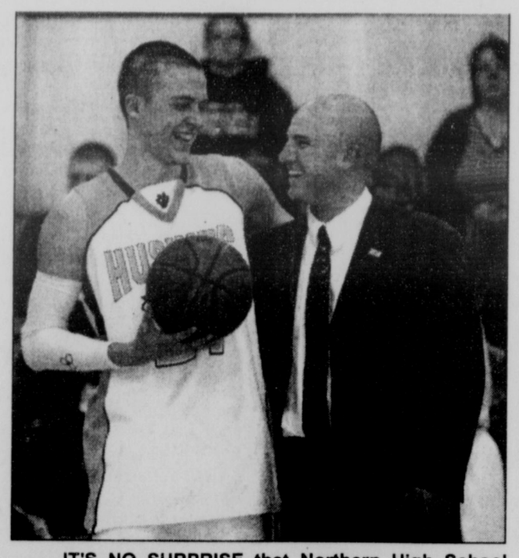
Northern High School senior standout Kory Gibson will be joining 15 other basketball players on the North All-Stars team in the Tri-State Elite Game of the 2008 McDonald's Roundball Classic this Friday at Hagerstown Community College ARCC.

This season, the Roundball Classic has three all-star games (two boys' and one girls' contest), a three-point shootout, a dunk contest, and a hot shots contest. Over 90 players from 35 different schools will participate in this season's event.

The Tri-State Elite Game showcases 30 players from Maryland, central Pennsylvania, and West Virginia.

For this year, Gibson averaged 27.5 points per game to lead the area with 631 points, which is the second best in school history.

He excelled in three-point shooting, ranking second in school history with 163 treys during his high school career, followed by 443 rebounds, and 101 steals. He ranked fifth in the area with a 37 percent shooting average, and has been a two-time Christmas Tournament MVP.



IT'S NO SURPRISE that Northern High School senior basketball standout Kory Gibson was chosen to play for the North All-Stars team in the Tri-State Elite Game of the 2008 McDonald's Roundball Classic, with his average of 27.5 points per game in leading the area with 631 points, which is the second best in school history. Lakers Receive All-Region XX Team Accolades

Two members of the 2007-08 men's basketball team at Garrett College have been awarded post-season regional honors.

Shawn Greenfield received the highest recognition from the Region XX Division I coaches, as he was voted to the first-team All-Region XX. Greenfield led the Lakers in scoring this season with a 15 ppg average.

Glen Izevbigie, a 6'9" sophomore center, was selected to the second team.

A 6'0 freshman, Greenfield led the third-seeded Lakers to a 75-71 win in an opening round game of the Region XX tourney against host and second-seeded Hagerstown CC. He led the Lakers in that game, recording 24 points, three assists, and four rebounds. He added 13 points and three steals in the loss to top-seeded Chesapeake CC in the championship game.

Laker coach Dennis Gibson said that both players were "very deserving" of the recognition.

"I could not agree more with these selections," he said. "Shawn has been our offensive catalyst all season and was definitely one of the top guards in our league. He played as he usually does in the game against Hagerstown, by stepping up to the pressure of big games. In our game with Chesapeake in the championship, he was the one who finally got us going offensively. We did not play well as a team, but he tried to pick us up and get us going offensively.

"Glen has also done a great job for us," he continued. "A center is often like an offensive lineman in football – they do a lot of the dirty work and get little recognition. Glen was very important to us throughout the season. He is a great team guy and too unselfish.

"The best thing is, both of these guys epitomize what JUCO is all about. They do things the right way," he concluded.

Garrett Softball Opens Season With Stifling Losses To Potomac

The Garrett College softball team barely made it out of the gate in its season opening doubleheadder against Potomac State on Friday, with staggering scores of 35-1 in the first game and 29-0 in the second. The Lakers were scheduled to travel to Westmoreland on Wednesday for a 3 p.m. twinbill, but results were not received.

Potomac State (2-2) clobbered Garrett with 31 hits in both five-inning games, behind Southern High School alumna powerhouse Ashley Metcalfe.

In the first game Metcalfe and teammate Lindsey Twigg recorded two home runs apiece – Twigg's being a grand slam in a 22-run third inning. She also collected 12 RBI.

Morgan Shockey had a home run and two doubles for the Catamounts, and Brittany Wright finished with three doubles, as every member of the team recorded hits.

From the mound, Metcalfe struck out seven and walked two. Garrett's sole hit of the afternoon came on a base hit from Unathi Mal.lati.

Metcalfe had two homers in the second game and drove in eight RBI. Wright had six RBI on two singles, a double, and a triple, and Twigg, who had 10 strikeouts in the no-hitter, drove in eight runs off four singles and a double. Shockey singled four times and doubled twice.

County Students To Sleep Over At Science Center

Several Garrett County students from the middle and high schools will be traveling to Pittsburgh, Pa., for the Pittsburgh Regional Science Fair. The trip, which includes an Omnimax film, presentations, and an overnight stay on the floor of the Carnegie Science Center, will end with an awards ceremony.

"We've been invited to participate at the Carnegie Science Center on April 4 and 5," said Lynn Bell, director of secondary education. "The fair is going to be conducted on Heinz Field."

Several other areas have been forced to end their regional science fairs, so when the Tri-County Council made the decision recently to expand involvement in other areas and withdraw from conducting the regional fair, Bell began looking into other options for the students, feeling there was a definite benefit to the students to get the opportunity to create a project and present it at the fair.

Bell said that by participating in the science fair in Pittsburgh, students will not only have to opportunity to spend the night at the center, but compete with other students to advance to an international fair later this year. While the board had considered just a county fair, she said she felt that the Carnegie event provided a better competition than simply to have the students compete locally.

There will be additional expenses for students who move on to the international level, but Bell said there has already been support in the community to raise money to provide all of the participating students with T-shirts for the event.

She said staff will have the opportunity to attend staff development programs during their time in Pittsburgh. The teachers traveled to the center in October to meet with the coordinators of the fair.

Bill Janoske, eighth grade science teacher at Southern Middle School, believes there is more enthusiasm this year from students.

"They're excited because they're going to be staying overnight at the Carnegie," he said. "The main thing the students are looking forward to is the Carnegie Science Center. I think it's better than what we had in the past. I think it's a little better organized."

Brian Price, chemistry teacher at Northern High School, said he is looking forward to the fair. He said because the Pittsburgh competition is part of the Intel International Engineering Fair, it makes it like the "Super Bowl" of science fairs.

"We're going expecting to learn," Price said. "We will probably have to up our 'game' for a couple of years."

Price said there will be about $750,000 in scholarships given out to qualifying participants, which is an added opportunity for the students.

According to Bell, 80 students from the county will be going on the trip with 10 teachers accompanying them. Parents from the area have been making plans to attend the awards ceremony.

Ask Sheila

Decorating Dilemma?
Sheila offers helpful advice.

Dear Sheila,

After badgering my husband to get rid of our old paneling in the living-dining room we have wonderful drywall in a soft buttery cream color. We have a lot of bare walls now that are just crying for artwork. I have all the family pictures in the den and I will admit, I would like my newly done area to have a more upscale look. We both like the colors and finishes that are on some of the new artwork we have seen. Is there a way you can help us put the finishing touches on our room? My husband is very handy and said if you tell him where to put it he can do it.

WANTING BEAUTY TO LOOK AT!

Dear Wanting:

Have no fear! The art girls are here! We have some great pieces in stock and several catalogs to select from. We will even tell you where to hang them! Come by and check it out. Oh yes, make sure you bring pictures of the room and any colors you may have to work with. One of our designers will be glad to pull it all together!

RAILEY REALTY

I would like to take this opportunity to give my opinion and clear up a few misconceptions and misinformation about the condition of the real estate market in Garrett County. The old adage "If it seems too good to be true, it probably is" used in the article of March 6, 2008 in The Republican may be applicable in certain situations. The old adage "Don't believe everything you read" may also be applicable. Contrary to the opinions of some who have been in the real estate business much longer than I have, the real estate market in Garrett County is alive and well and quite frankly improving each and every day.

There is no doubt that 2007 was a year for Garrett County real estate companies, as well as buyers and sellers of Garrett County properties, to re-evaluate strategies, do some belt tightening, and find innovative ways to market their properties. The real estate market in Garrett County over the past 20 or so years has been nothing short of amazing. National publications have called the Deep Creek Lake real estate market one of the hottest in the East. The last several years have continued that trend and we have been in a boom market since the early 1990s. Any downturn at all from those highs was bound to be a shock to buyers, sellers, real estate agents, and real estate companies. While the number of transactions in Garrett County were down in 2007 from 2006, it would have been very difficult, in any market, to sustain those levels generated over the past three or four years. Even though the total number of sales was down, listed below are some facts that I would like to share with you.

- According to our MLS, the Metropolitan Regional Information System, the average marketing time for properties in 2007 was roughly the same as the previous five years in both the Deep Creek Lake and the Garrett County residential markets.
- The average sales price for a residential property in Garrett County actually increased in 2007 over 2006 – and so far in 2008 has increased again, roughly 21% over the previous year.
- The average sales price for a residential property in the Deep Creek Lake area also increased in 2007 over 2006 – and so far in 2008 has increased again, roughly 19% over the previous year.

What does all this information tell me? It tells me that the market isn't as bad as the "doom and gloom" people would have you believe. There are hundreds of ways to look at statistics and manipulate them into what you want to believe. At Railey Realty, we choose to believe that Garrett County and Deep Creek Lake real estate is still one of the best investments a person can make, no matter how hard the national news networks are trying to convince us otherwise.

In my opinion, 2008 is looking to be a great year for real estate sales in Garrett County. Because there are so many "spin off" businesses that rely on the real estate industry, I hope and believe they will also have a banner year. If the last couple of months turn out to be a good barometer of what will happen in 2008, everyone in the county should benefit from the increase in real estate activity. Our agents have been very busy recently showing properties to prospective buyers. They have been busy listing new properties. They have been busy writing offers and contracts. As an owner and the Broker of Railey Realty, I am extremely excited about what lies ahead in 2008. We look forward to continuing our efforts to help hundreds of families each year realize the "American Dream" of home ownership.

Sincerely,

Kevin D. Liller

State Looking

the moths include predators, parasites, and diseases, but insecticides are sometimes necessary, according to a written statement from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, which said the "leading edge of the gypsy moth infestation has long since passed through Maryland."

But Frank Dudek, an arborist and owner of the Carroll Tree Service Inc. in Owings Mills, said in testimony to the Senate Education, Health, and Environmental Affairs Committee that 2008 could be "one of the worst years we've ever seen."

He said the problem has been ongoing in western parts of the state, but worsening in the Baltimore area in recent years.

Left unchecked, Dudek said the moths' fecal matter can leach into drinking water, and the thousands of acres of dead trees they leave can put the state at risk for forest fires.

But the methods for controlling the pests can be harmful as well, leading some advocacy groups to push for representation on the proposed task force. Chemical Sensitivity Disorders Association president Dr. Lawrence Plumlee urged lawmakers in written testimony to include a public health representative.

He said some people experience nausea, short-term memory loss, asthma, and other side effects from pesticide sprays and often have to avoid sprayed areas for 10 days.

Dr. Diana Post, a veterinarian and president of the Rachel Carson Council, a group promoting alternatives to pesticides, said the chemicals can affect pets, chickens, wild birds, and crustaceans, including blue crabs.

Dudek said the task force could be a valuable way to unite environmentalists and the government in addressing a statewide problem.

"I think there are a lot of groups out there looking at gypsy moths, but everyone's sort of working in their own little corner," he said. "If the state can put together a task force, bring some of these groups together, and unify their energies, I think they can do a whole lot more for the environment."

vide funding for local economic development activities that stimulate reinvestment and strengthen communities through such activities as business retention and attraction, encouraging homeownership and commercial revitalization.

Community Legacy funding, in the form of grants and loans, is available for projects located in Priority Funding Areas and is meant to complement and supplement other state funding programs. As part of a competitive application process, communities are required to have and/or develop a comprehensive plan that specifically identifies projects meant to revitalize transitional neighborhoods and downtowns.

Funded projects have included housing acquisition rehabilitation initiatives, creating loan funds for local businesses, streetscape enhancements, and façade improvement activities. Awards have been made statewide to a variety of local governments and community development organizations.

St. Paul's UM Offering Two Easter Services

St. Paul's United Methodist Church, located on the corner of Oak and Fourth streets in Oakland, will offer two worship services on Easter morning, March 23. The first will be at 8:30 a.m. and the second at 10:45 a.m. The pastor of the church, Rev. Dr. T. Patrick Kerr, will deliver the Easter message.

Special Easter decor will include butterflies made by the children of the Sunday School. See related photo.

The altar flowers are being given in memory of Doug Malone by Ed and Marianne Green, former residents of Oakland. White Easter lilies presented by members of the congregation in memory of loved ones and to the glory of God will decorate the sanctuary.

Special music for the 8:30 service will be provided by the Early Singers Choir, directed by Donna Lee Shogren. They will perform a 20-minute mini-musical titled The Old Rugged Cross Made the Difference, arranged by Crumpton and Smith and narrated by Betty Pritt. The organist and pianist for the 8:30 service is Doris Gaskill.

At the 10:45 service the Chancel Choir, under the direction of Tom Shelton, will present several Easter selections. The organist and pianist for this service and the director of music for St. Paul's is Pat Shelton.

During both worship services, the hand bell choir, under the direction of Dr. Herbert S. Lambert Jr., will perform.

Children from the elementary Sunday School classes will give a puppet show titled An Easter Gift. The pre-kindergarten and first grade class children will present Jesus Is Living Easter Banner. Denise Kerr will give a children's Easter message, and youngsters will be invited to attend children's church as well.

The community is welcome to attend these services. For more information, persons may contact the church office at 301-334-2391 or visit the web site at www.gbgmumc.org/paulsumc/. The church's e-mail address is mychurchl@verizon.net.

EASTER BUTTERFLIES – The children of St. Paul's United Methodist Church have worked for several weeks on special decorations that have been used in the sanctuary throughout Lent, and will continue to evolve through the rest of Holy Week and into Easter Sunday. More than 100 construction-paper leaves inscribed with the words "Jesus loves me," "Jesus forgives me," "Jesus is God's son," and "Jesus takes care of me" are now on the walls. The students above are shown as they work on the butterflies that will be placed on the leaves for the Easter services at St. Paul's, which will be held at 8:30 a.m. and 10:45 a.m. Pictured from left are Zachary Shay, Alanna Kinney, and Jessica Thayer. Earlier this month, the children made caterpillars for the leaves, then cocoons. The theme of the project is "Everyone can become new creatures in Christ," a spokesperson said. See story for details of St. Paul's various services.

Local Man To Serve 10-Day Jail Sentence

Oakland resident Edward Scott Moats, 23, faces a 10-day jail term handed down by Judge Edward A. Malloy Jr. after pleading guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct in a criminal summons case in recent Garrett County District Court. His court fee of $57 was suspended.

Police officers were dispatched to handle an altercation between two males. Upon making contact, the men told the officer that "they were just playing and wrestling around." According to the officer, the men were causing a disturbance of peace to the public.

In other recent court news, a Lutherville/Timonium man pleaded guilty to a charge of second degree assault, and his 18-month jail sentence was suspended. He was, however, handed 18 months of supervised probation and a $100 fine.

The charges were filed against Timothy Allen Welch, 42, when Garrett County sheriff's deputies were called to his residence for a domestic abuse incident by the female victim he allegedly assaulted.

Gary Lejames Coddington, 26, Friendsville, pleaded guilty to a charge of second degree assault in a criminal summons case and was handed an 18-month jail term, all of which was suspended, as well as 18 months of supervised probation and an order to complete 20 hours of community service. His fines and court costs, which totaled $157, were all suspended.

Court reports document that Coddington allegedly hit a female victim in the head with an open hand in August 2007.

Henry Randall Gatto, 62, Aurora, W.Va., pleaded guilty to a charge of selling tobacco to a minor, and was given a probation before judgment, as well as one day of unsupervised probation and a fine of $50.

According to reports, Gatto sold a pack of menthol cigarettes to a minor from an Oakland business.

Jeffrey R. Henderson, 30, Oakland, pleaded guilty to a charge of having an animal at large and received a $50 fine.

Henderson's dog reportedly attacked a neighbor's dog in July 2007. Reports state that Henderson's dog escaped his house, ran into the neighbor's yard, and attacked another dog.

Henderson was not prosecuted on a second charge of having an animal at large and two charges of failure to restrain a dangerous dog.

DUI/DWI CHARGES

Among the recent driving while under the influence (DUI) and driving while impaired (DWI) cases heard in Garrett County District Court were the following:

Roy Jason Devore, 25, Md., pleaded guilty to a charge of DWI, stemming from a June 2007 incident, and was handed a 60-day jail term, all of which was suspended except for 30 days. He also received two years of supervised probation and a fine of $150.

Devore pleaded guilty to another moving violation, and was not prosecuted on 10 additional charges.

Stanley William Platter, 29, Md., was found guilty on a charge of driver consuming an alcoholic beverage in the passenger area of a motor vehicle on a highway and was issued 12 months of unsupervised probation. His fine of $555 was suspended. The charge was filed against him in August 2007.

Platter pleaded guilty to another moving violation, and was not prosecuted on DWI, DUI, and one other offense.

Betty Jean Bailey, 40, Pa., pleaded guilty to a charge of DWI and received a probation before judgment (PBJ). She was given 12 months of unsupervised probation and a fine of $250, and was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DUI per se issued during her May 2007 arrest.

Koby Lyn Barclay, 22, Md., received a PBJ after pleading guilty to a charge of DWI, stemming from her December 2007 arrest. She was issued one year of unsupervised probation and a fine of $200, but was not prosecuted on a charge of DUI and one other driving violation.

Mathew Thomas Savage, 21, Md., faces charges of DUI, DUI per se, DWI, and one other driving offense issued during his January arrest. He was found guilty on an additional driving violation.

Gregory Allan Simmons, 36, Md., received stet rulings on charges of DUI, DWI, and driving a motor vehicle with alcohol in the blood in violation of a court order. The charges were filed against him in February.

GCMH Receives Accreditation From American Association Of Blood Banks

Garrett County Memorial Hospital was recently granted accreditation by the American Association of Blood Banks (AABB), according to laboratory director Joyce Nutter, pictured above.

Accreditation follows an intensive, on-site assessment by specially trained AABB assessors and establishes that the level of medical, technical, and administrative performance within the facility meets or exceeds the standards set by AABB. By successfully meeting those requirements, Garrett Memorial joins approximately 1,800 similar facilities across the United States and abroad that have earned AABB accreditation.

"The AABB's accreditation procedures are voluntary," Nutter explained. "Garrett County Memorial Hospital has sought AABB accreditation because this program assists facilities around the world in achieving excellence by promoting a level of professional and medical expertise that contributes to quality performance."

Since 1958, AABB has been engaged in the accreditation of blood banks and transfusion services. Today its accreditation program assists blood banks, transfusion services, cellular therapy facilities, relationship testing laboratories, immunohematology reference laboratories, and perioperative services in determining whether methods, procedures, personnel knowledge, equipment, and the physical plant meet established requirements.

The minimum requirements for accreditation are based primarily on a set of specific standards for the area in which accreditation is being sought. These standards not only reflect the level of professional proficiency for blood banks and transfusion services in the United States, but also provide the basis for practice in similar facilities around the world.

"AABB accreditation," stated Nutter, "is the designation of choice for blood banking, transfusion medicine, blood management, relationship testing, and cellular therapies because it demonstrates an organization's commitment to advanced learning, continuous improvement and innovation by striving to sustain the highest possible level of patient and donor care."

AABB is an international non-profit membership organization dedicated to advancing the field of transfusion medicine and related biological therapies. AABB sets standards, accredits facilities, publishes books and publications, and produces educational programs to improve patient and donor safety.

AABB membership comprises independent blood centers, hospital blood banks, transfusion services, HPC facilities, cord blood banks, somatic cell facilities, relationship testing facilities, and perioperative services, and the dedicated professionals who staff them, in 50 states, the District of Columbia, and 80 countries. AABB serves about 1,800 institutions and 8,000 individual members, including physicians, scientists, administrators, medical technologists, nurses, researchers, blood donor recruiters and public relations personnel.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

ULTRASONIC IMAGING

Q. My mom gave me a photo of myself taken before I was born. What kind of camera does that? How does it work?

A. This kind of "camera" is an ultrasonic imaging device. The pictures are produced by a computer.

In the delightful new animated children's movie Horton Hears a Who, the premise of the story is that an elephant has such big ears that he can hear very faint sounds. As a result, Horton discovers tiny people living on a dust speck. Horton must then deal with the problem that no others can hear the voices, and therefore don't believe that the tiny persons exist. The memorable line from the story is "A person's a person, no matter how small."

The original storybook by Dr. Seuss takes under 20 minutes to read out loud, but the movie is about 90 minutes long, embellished with lots of action, chases, and cute critters. The primary "bad guy" is a sour lady kangaroo who is boss of the jungle, and who says, "If you can't see it, hear it, or touch it, it doesn't exist." The outcome of the movie shows this viewpoint to be totally wrong.

In the world of medical imaging, this Dr. Seuss story has come true in a most remarkable way. Advances in ultrasound technology have made it possible to see very small human beings inside their mother's womb. By now there are children in school who have brought their own ultrasound photo in for "show and tell."

Ultrasound is basically a matter of listening to an echo, and then using a computer to figure out where the echo came from. An acoustic transmitter generates a very high frequency sound wave (hence the term "ultra"), which is far beyond the range of hearing. The transmitter is moved across the mother's abdomen, and the ultrasound waves go through the skin and muscles into the womb, where the waves bounce off the baby. The acoustic signal is so gentle that neither mother nor baby feels anything. Think of a person shouting at a rock cliff: The cliff that echoes back those sound waves doesn't "feel" a thing.

As the transmitter moves around to different vantage points, detectors pick up the echoes. Then the computer turns all that data into a picture. The mathematics of how sound waves scatter off an object is so well known that by collecting a lot of detected echoes, the computer can reconstruct exactly what the shape of the object must be. Again, think of shouting at a cliff: If you had enough detectors and enough computer power, you could map out the figures on Mount Rushmore just by picking up echoes.

The details displayed on the screen are amazing. In the case of an unborn baby, the ultrasonic image shows features as small as the eyelids and earlobes. Watching the baby's heart beat is no problem at all.

Ultrasound imaging is used for other medical diagnostics as well. For example, it can tell the difference between a harmless fluid-filled cyst and a solid cancer tumor, which reduces both cost and danger. In the old days before ultrasonic imaging, invasive exploratory surgery would have been necessary.

How small a person can you see this way? It depends on the resolution of the instrument, which is limited by the size of the wavelength of the input signal. Ordinary sound waves have wavelengths of a few feet, but ultrasound wavelengths are less than a millimeter. However, that still means that extremely tiny features, like eyelashes, cannot be seen. In the first few weeks of pregnancy, the instrument resolution is not good enough to discern anything.

Will we ever be able to see anything the size of Horton's dust speck? Most probably not, but scientists seldom use the word "never." Meanwhile, the principle that Dr. Seuss stated with such simplicity and clarity in Horton Hears a Who is still entirely valid: "A person's a person, no matter how small."

Dr. Sheahen is a physicist who was educated at MIT. He lives at Deep Creek Lake and has taught physics at Garrett College. Persons wishing to submit questions for this column may e-mail them to newsroom@therepublicannews.com.

REPRESENTING CALIFORNIA – Carole Wade, fundraiser for former Governor Robert L. Ehrlich Jr., has been appointed to represent California at the 2008 Republican National Convention in Minneapolis, Minn., this September. Wade's family resides in the Oakland area. Wade, who is pictured above with Senator John McCain, has long been active in the California State Republican Party. As a volunteer, she has co-chaired several California State Assembly political campaigns, and has represented California as a delegate to the 2004 Republican National Convention in New York City. Wade, a 2007 alumna of Fairmont State University, earned her CMM designation in 1999 at the Eli Broad Graduate School of Management at Michigan State University. Wade was the 1992 nominee for the "Woman of the Year" award from the Century City Chamber of Commerce in Los Angeles, and in 2006, she was nominated for "Women Making a Difference," sponsored by The Los Angeles Business Journal. During the bombings in Israel in 2002, Wade traveled to Jerusalem on a five-day mission for an immersion view into the difficulty of Israeli life. "Tensions were high in the region during the trip," Wade said. A suicide bomber struck near Tel Aviv during the time Wade was touring the absorption centers and military training bases.

GGBA To Meet At Casselman Inn, Set Future Course

The Casselman Inn will be the new host for the regular monthly meetings of the Greater Grantsville Business Association beginning Wednesday, March 26, at 8 a.m.

"It seems appropriate that with a new meeting place we also take the opportunity to hold a general planning session for the coming year," said GGBA president Peggy Santamaria. "This kind of meeting gives the board of directors a good idea of the direction that the membership would like to go in the coming months."

The Greater Grantsville Business Association offers local business leaders a forum to meet and share concerns and information that affect the quality of life within the community, Santamaria said.

"The more information we get from our members, the better we can organize an association that will meet their needs," she concluded. "So we hope all members will attend."

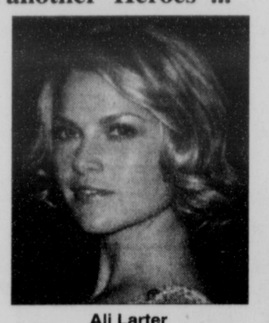
TV Pipeline

For those who need another 'Heroes' ...

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: Has "Heroes" been canceled, or is it just a temporary victim of the writers strike? –Jim Randolph, Long Beach, Miss.

A: The show has turned out to be a bit-longer-than-temporary victim, but Ali Larter, Milo Ventimiglia, Hayden Panettiere and company will return to NBC this fall for year three. The network determined it would take longer to relaunch the next phase of the series than there would be time left for this season, considering when the strike ended and how many (or how few) new episodes could have been made ready by the end of May.



Ali Larter

Q: What ever happened to the new show "Life," about the detective who had been falsely imprisoned and rejoined the police force when he was freed? It just disappeared. Any chance of it resurfacing? –Joan Sass, Hixson, Tenn.

A: More than a chance. However the rest of its current season plays out post-writers strike, the Damian Lewis-starring series already has been renewed by NBC for a second season, which will begin this fall.

Q: How many of the original cast members of "M*A*S*H" are still alive? –Shannon Thompson, Baltimore

A: Assuming you mean the television series as opposed to the 1970 movie, quite a few. McLean Stevenson (alias Lt. Col. Henry Blake) and Larry Linville (Maj. Frank Burns) are deceased, but not only are the other major players still here at this writing, many of them – including Loretta Swit (Maj. Margaret "Hot Lips" Houlihan) – returned to the show's outdoor set recently for a 25th-anniversary commemoration of the airing of the final episode. And Wayne Rogers (Capt. "Trapper" John McIntyre) often turns up on Fox News Channel and Fox Business Network to display his financial acumen.

Q: My wife and I are wondering if Gordon Ramsay's "Hell's Kitchen" and "Kitchen Nightmares" will be back on the air soon, or at all. –Ralph Schlegelmilch, Dexter, Mich.

A: Fox is planning a second season of "Kitchen Nightmares," though no premiere date has been announced, but the fourth round of "Hell's Kitchen" is right around the corner. Master chef Ramsay begins putting other aspiring cuisine stars through their paces April 1 on Fox.

Northern Outreach Center Schedules Computer Courses

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development division has scheduled two computer courses at the Northern Outreach Center in Grantsville next month: "The Internet and Web Literacy" and "A Guided Tour of Microsoft Windows Vista."

"The Internet and Web Literacy" will be held from 6:30 to 9 p.m. on April 8, 10, and 15. Students will use an Internet browser to discover how it all fits together to help find information on the Internet.

Topics include finding information using search engines, shopping online, reading online newspapers, and looking up phone numbers. Information on joining discussion groups and the use of related online services will also be provided.

The prerequisite for this course is "Introduction to Computers."

"A Guided Tour of Windows Vista" is slated for April 29 and May 1 from 6:30 to 9 p.m. This is a demonstration only and not a hands-on course.

Students will learn many of the new features for organizing and finding files, new collaboration tools such as Windows Mail and Windows Calendar, the Internet Explorer 7 features, and the accessibility enhancements.

Additional topics will include concepts and environment, working with applications, customization, security enhancements, and troubleshooting.

Master Gardener Course To Begin At Garrett College

Maryland Cooperative Extension is launching a Master Gardener Program for Garrett County. The 14-session training course will be held from April 8 to May 22 at the McHenry campus of Garrett College from 1 until 4 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The mission of this program is to educate Maryland residents about safe, effective, and sustainable horticultural practices that build healthy gardens, landscapes, and communities. Integrated pest management is emphasized.

This environmental approach reduces fertilizer and pesticide use, resulting in improved soil and water quality, according to an extension office spokesperson.

Master gardeners are trained volunteers who become representatives of the University of Maryland and agree to work in their communities to teach Marylanders how to cultivate garden spaces and manage landscapes sustainably through research-based information.

The purpose of the master gardener course is to train volunteer educators to extend the services, programs, and expertise of the University of Maryland's College of Agriculture and Natural Resources to the general public.

Students will become certified master gardeners after successfully completing the class and subsequently completing 40 hours of volunteer work. That work involves a wide range of activities that promote the master gardener mission and may include education programs, therapeutic horticulture, youth gardening programs, plant clinics, and demonstration gardens.

Interested persons are asked to call the Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division of Garrett College at 301-387-3069 to register. The last day to sign up is April 1, and a minimum number of students is needed in order to hold the class.

New Genealogy/ History Specialist Hired At Library

Addie Glotfelty, a native of Garrett County and resident of McHenry, was recently hired by the Ruth Enlow Library as the genealogy and local history specialist under a western Maryland Regional Library-funded grant to enhance genealogy and local history services at the library.

Glotfelty is replacing Keela Pfaff, who, during the past year, significantly updated the library's collection and organization of historical and genealogical resources.

For assistance with genealogy and local history research, patrons may consult with Glotfelty. She will be available every Monday from 9:30 a.m. until noon at the Oakland branch, beginning Monday, March 24.

The Oakland Library offers numerous materials for the beginning genealogist, such as how to begin and organize research and how to search online. The library's collection includes vertical file materials, family histories, county/town histories, Heritage Quest Online with census records, microfilmed copies of The Republican since 1877, Southern High School and Oakland High School yearbooks, some Pennsylvania and West Virginia materials, and state histories.

For more information about services and materials available at the Ruth Enlow Library, persons may visit the web site www.relib.net or call the Oakland Library at 301-334-3996.

MLP Church To Hold Women's Seminar In April

Precept International Ministries will present a seminar for women on Saturday, April 12, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. at Faith Evangelical Free Church in Mtn. Lake Park. A luncheon is included.

Inspirational speaker Dorie Van Stone, author of The Girl Nobody Loved, will be featured at the event.

"Dorie Van Stone is remarkable woman whose life can give hope to the hopeless," said a church spokesperson. "She was dropped off at an orphanage as a very young child. Her parents simply did not want her. Growing up in an orphanage where she suffered much abuse, Dorie was continually rejected by those looking for a little girl to adopt."

After leaving the orphanage, Van Stone graduated from the St. Paul Bible Institute and served on the mission field in Papua New Guinea. She speaks at churches, schools, colleges, prisons, and orphanages.

There is no admission charge for the seminar, but reservations are required. Women may call Gail Getty at 301-859-3646 to make a reservation.

We extend a compassionate helping hand.

GETTING ACCUSTOMED TO YOUR NEW INSTRUMENT

Once you receive your new hearing instrument, familiarize yourself with it gradually. With this in mind, try wearing it two to three times daily for 30 to 60 minutes at a time. Steadily increase the time you wear the instrument, and avoid overexposure to new sounds that might cause discomfort and fatigue. In fact, it may be best to talk to only one person at a time with your new instrument in a quiet environment. It will also likely help to wear your hearing instrument while you are alone. Doing so will help you filter out background noises. In addition, try reading aloud to yourself. This will help you grow accustomed to your own voice.

Rely on a hearing specialist to help you get the maximum benefit and therefore the highest satisfaction rate of your hearing instrument. His or her job isn't complete until this goal is achieved, whether in choosing the most appropriate hearing aid, proper fitting, or follow-up support. A comprehensive hearing evaluation awaits you at AUDIBEL.

P.S. At first, your new hearing instrument may focus your attention on sounds that you are not used to hearing.

Plenty for All

Birds flock to the feeder when it is full. They gather to eat the seeds, wings fluttering, beaks chirping. God gives birds the instinct to forage for food.

God gives us instincts, too; we know we need food for nourishment, but we also want to fulfill our needs for human interaction and spiritual awareness. As He provides for the birds, God provides us with even more. He gives us strength to gather our daily bread and He gives us a source of food for our soul...a place where we can gather in community and joyfully fill our spirit. That place is our house of worship!

Won't you visit God's house and replenish your strength with the seed He has sown? With the seed of God's word planted in you and a community of worshippers to support you, all your needs will be fulfilled. There is plenty for all!

The Meaning of Easter

What does Easter mean to you? If you are a child, or have a bit of the child still in you, it might mean a basket full of candy, and images of the Easter Bunny. But, if you've considered the true meaning of this Holy day, you know it means so much more than marshmallow candies and chocolate crosses. Perhaps the deepest meaning of Easter is the aspect of sacrifice. That is God sacrificed Himself by becoming human, quite literally sacrificing His divinity and taking on the lowly flesh of humanity; and suffering the most ignominious death as an atonement for a race of creatures who don't seem to merit the sacrifice. There is another important meaning to Easter, however, and that is the meaning surrounding Christ's resurrection. The resurrection is more than just Christ ascending up to heaven. The true significance of the resurrection is that our earthly existence is only the first stage of our cosmic life. In this way we are like caterpillars that will be reborn as butterflies as we live and die in Christ, only to live again as we ascend to heaven. Our current existence gives us only the merest glimpse of eternity. The true gift of Easter is the message that the resurrection is the soul's transformation from an earthbound soul to a heavenly spirit.

Blessed to be God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ! By his great mercy we have been born anew to a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, and to an inheritance which is imperishable, undefiled, and unfading, kept in heaven for you.

Marigold Therapy for Plantar Warts

The marigold is a flowering plant from which an extract has been used traditionally to treat stomach ulcers, inflammatory diseases, and liver disorders. It is commonly used to treat various types of skin disorders such as wounds, skin infections, burns, bee stings, and warts. The extract is commonly used in the United Kingdom to treat various foot disorders including plantar warts and bunions. Marigold extract exhibits activity against the HIV virus in laboratory tests. It also exhibits anti-inflammatory and wound healing activity. Active substances in marigold are called triterpenoids, the most active of which is faradiol.

The triterpenoids are thought to be responsible for marigold's anti-inflammatory activity. One recent study showed that a particular formulation available only in the United Kingdom significantly reduced the size and number of plantar warts in three patients with the HIV virus. The study was small in size, and it remains unclear if the other formulations have the same effect on plantar warts. Allergic reactions have been reported. Women who are pregnant or breast feeding should not use marigold extract

Strange BUT TRUE

• The next time you're drinking to someone's health, you can tell your fellow imbibers that the word "toast" originated in ancient Rome. It was the custom there to put a small piece of spiced and burned bread into a cup of wine in order to absorb any sediment and improve the drink's taste.

• It was American novelist, short-story writer and essayist Flannery O'Connor who made the following comment on her craft: "Everywhere I go I'm asked if I think the university stifles writers. • When you picture the quintessential pirate, you imagine him with at least one gold earring, right? Ear-piercing was common among pirates, but it wasn't entirely for decorative purposes: It was claimed that it improved eyesight. That assertion was scoffed at for centuries, but it turns out there may have been some truth to it. Those who study acupuncture say that the spot on the earlobe where piercings are done corresponds to the auricular point, which controls the eyes.

• Those who study such things claim that hot water weighs more than cold water does.

• Only one person in history has been both president of the United States and the country's chief justice, but I won't hold it against you if you can't name him. Not many people remember much from their schoolday lessons about William Howard Taft.

Keeping Your Hamster Healthy

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: How can I tell if my hamster is sick? — Damian J., Washington, D.C.

DEAR DAMIAN: The best way to tell if your pet hamster is not feeling well is to be familiar with its habits. While hamsters have common behaviors, each one also has individual traits that only an attentive owner will notice.

A healthy hamster's common behaviors include:

—Stretching, yawning and quickly grooming its fur as soon as it wakes up.

—Being inquisitive — raising its nose in the air and vibrating its whiskers — when you open the cage door to give it food.

—Busy activity at regular times — filling its cheeks with food, exploring the cage environment, playing with toys or hopping on the exercise wheel.

You can tell a healthy hamster from physical signs, too. The next time you hold your hamster, check it out. Look for bright, shiny eyes with no discharge in the corners; a smooth, sleek, satiny coat; a dry, not runny, nose; and a dry anal area.

Sick hamsters will look and act much differently, with dull eyes and ratty coats, and often will not move much or show the same interest in things. They should be looked at immediately by the vet, as these small creatures can quickly become seriously ill and die without help.

Keep your hamster healthy by making sure it has a great environment. Clean its cage every week and wash or replace its bedding. Keep the cage out of drafty, cold areas, and change its drinking water daily. Provide lots of chew toys and an exercise wheel. Pay your hamster regular attention, not only so it has regular stimulation, but also to accustom it to being held.

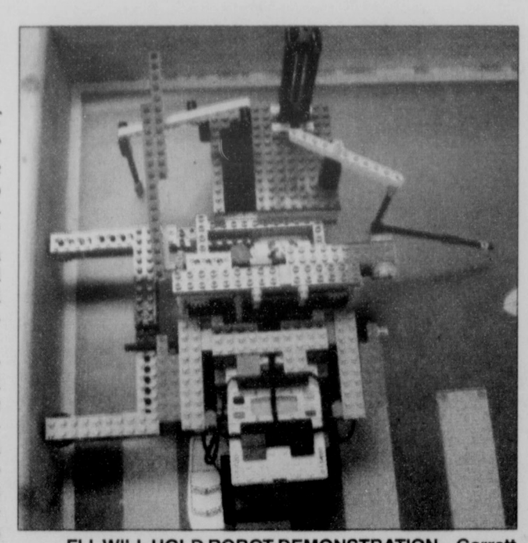
LEGO League Team To Present Project To Public

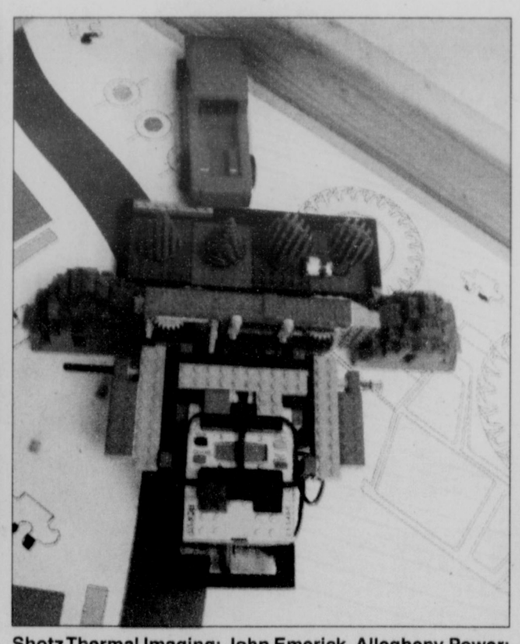
Garrett County's NeXT GEN FIRST LEGO League (FLL) team would like to invite the public to an "Alternative Energy Program" and luncheon, as the team continues to practice and prepare for the FLL World Festival to be held in Atlanta, Ga., next month.

The program is scheduled for Saturday, March 29, starting at 10 a.m. at the Pleasant Valley Community Center. "Several local experts have contributed to the team's success," stated coach Arlene Lantz. "The team has invited them to share their expertise with those in attendance."

Invited guest speakers and topics include Richard Waybright, Mason Dixon Farms, who will share their methane digester used to create "cow power" (electricity from the cows' waste). In addition, he will share other innovative farm practices, such as robotic milkers and self-designed silage handlers.

"The students are very excited about bringing this presentation to the public," said Lantz. "They were very impressed with the Waybrights' farming operations when they toured the Mason Dixon Farm."





FLL WILL HOLD ROBOT DEMONSTRATION – Garrett County's NeXT GEN First LEGO League (FLL) will hold a demonstration on its robot projects in preparation for the World Festival to be held in Atlanta, Ga., next month. The presentation will be held at the Pleasant Valley Community Center on Saturday, March 29, at 10 a.m. Following the demonstration, soup, hotdogs, and desserts will be served free of charge. Also involved are guest speakers Richard Waybright, Mason Dixon farms; Mark Watkins, Hot Shotz Thermal Imaging; John Emerick, Allegheny Power; and Steve Kauffman. All aided in the Southern Middle School team's development of its robots. Above are the two creations to be presented. See story for details.

Mark Watkins, Hot Shotz Thermal Imaging Services, was also an assistant to the team. After the team members conducted an energy audit on Swan Meadow School, they selected several areas of concern that were not energy efficient. Watkins spent an afternoon practice with the students explaining how his equipment worked, and then he thermal-imaged the school's trouble spots to confirm the students' concerns. He then gave the team several low-cost, energy-efficient suggestions.

John Emerick, Allegheny Power, also visited Swan Meadow school to do a walk through energy audit. Emerick suggested many low-cost, short-term, energy-efficient ideas as well. Allegheny Power, who will also have a display set up, donated an energy usage meter for the team to monitor electrical usage in the school.

Steve Kauffman of C.N. Metals will also have a display set up with new and improved insulation options. Kauffman helped the team do a cost proposal for the research project.

In addition to these experts, NeXT GEN members will share their alternative energy research. They will give a demonstration with the robot that the team designed,.built, programmed, tested, and continue to redesign, reprogram, and retest at weekly practices.

"I think the community will be impressed with what these middle school students have learned and accomplished," said Lantz.

Following the program the team will provide luncheon complete with a soup, hot dog, and dessert bar. There is no cost for the program, but guests will have an opportunity to make a free-will donation to help the team defray the expenses to the FLL World Festival.

Those unable to attend, but would like to support the team's accomplishments, may send a tax-exempt donation payable to GEARS Inc., P.O. Box 277, McHenry, MD 21541. Team #2765 should be noted on the memo line.

The Garrett Engineering and Robotics Society (GEARS) is an organization that supports the FIRST teams and other engineering competitions, camps, and robotic programs in the county.

Part of the team's research score at the national competition involved how public awareness of energy-efficient practices has increased. Those interested in registering for the FLL Alternative Energy Program should call the Cooperative Extension Office at 301-334-6960.

St. Mark's Notes Tenebrae Service, Easter Additions

St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland will hold its annual Good Friday Tenebrae service on March 21, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Rev. Dr. C. Scott Robinson, pastor of the church, has also noted additions to the Easter Sunday service, slated for 10 a.m. on March 23.

"Tenebrae" means darkness or shadows, Robinson said, and this Good Friday service, dating back to the Middle Ages, involves a gradual darkening of the church by extinguishing candles following successive readings of Christ's passion story. The service ends with a short period of meditation in total darkness.

The Easter Sunday service, beginning at 10 a.m., will feature trumpeters Joe Ashby and Moe Turrentine, Pastor Robinson said, along with the hand bell choir. Other special music will be offered by the church choir, under the direction of Susan Peterson, music director for the church. The hand bells are led by Lynn Grimm, and the church organist is Muriel Franc.

The public is invited to attend. For further information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-2668.

GC Humane Society: Think Twice Before Purchasing An Easter Bunny

by Lisa Baker, GC Humane Society president

This week members of the Garrett County Humane Society responded to a report of animal neglect at a local farm that was selling rabbits. A man had stopped at this farm to purchase a bunny for his kids, but was shocked to see the poor conditions the rabbits were living in. He called the Garrett County Animal Shelter, which then contacted the Humane Society.

Upon arrival, over 25 hutches were inventoried, containing over 85 rabbits. The conditions were appalling. Only about 10% of the rabbits had any water, and the others had no water. Though the rabbits appeared to be in good body weight, the only thing in some of the cages for them to eat was corn cobs. All but eight rabbits were in cages almost ½ to ¾ filled with rabbit feces.

It would be easy to say that it has been months and months since the cages were cleaned out. Some of them were so filled up that the rabbits' ears were touching the roof of the hutch. It was a sad sight to see. Plus some cages were so small the rabbit could barely turn around, and others contained more then one rabbit.

Once photographs were taken as evidence, the owner was contacted. He said that he had been too busy to keep up with things. He was told to correct the situation or he would be charged with animal neglect, as per the Annotated Code of Maryland.

As of now, he will not be charged, nor will his name be released, as he agreed to correct the situation within the 48-hour time period he was given by a Humane Society officer.

It was obvious that he could not adequately care for that number of rabbits. We are surprised that no one had called to report this situation before now.

NO WAY TO TREAT THE EASTER BUNNY – The Garrett County Humane Society this week responded to a report of animal neglect involving 85 rabbits. Though the rabbits appeared to have good body weight, most were living in cages filled nearly ½ to ¾ with feces. The Humane Society is asking families to think twice before purchasing or adopting a rabbit. See story for details.

Anyone considering going into business that involves dozens of animals should really consider how much time and money it takes. Any animal will require daily cleaning, food, and water, and most require vaccinations or some kind of upkeep.

If food, water, shelter, adequate space, and veterinary care are not provided, then persons can be charged with animal abuse or neglect. In some cases the animal can be seized, but in most cases the owner agrees to correct the problems or sign the animal over to us.

Rabbits have their own requirements for care. They need adequate room to move around, a partial wire floor for their feces to drop through, and a small solid surface for them to be off the wire. They need sufficient food, clean water, and something to chew on to keep their teeth from overgrowing.

You will need to keep their cages clean and provide the right diet to prevent the rabbit from getting sick.

Anyone who purchases a rabbit should read a book on rabbit care. And rabbit dealers should provide some written rabbit care information to their customers.

In order to have a happy healthy pet you need to give it what it needs to grow, plus a lot of TLC.

A rabbit can make a good pet if you provide it with its basic needs and attention from the very beginning. Easter is the time of year when some parents think that it is a great idea to buy a bunny for their child, only to find out it requires a lot of care.

Before purchasing a pet, research which one would fit into your family's lifestyle: get a book from the library, go online, or ask friends about various different kinds of pets.

But if you are interested in adopting a rabbit, please check out Petfinder.com and click on "small & furry" animals. All of the rabbits listed are owner giveups. No doubt, many of them were once Easter bunnies.

St. Mark's Adult Forum To Resume After Easter Week

The St. Mark's Adult Forum will begin a Bible study/discussion series on the biblical prophets when the forum resumes on Wednesday, March 26. This weekly class of St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland was suspended during the season of Lent.

"The Nevi'im, or prophets, in the Hebrew Bible (our Old Testament), also include the books called Joshua, Judges, Samuel, and Kings, and these contain many stories that get little or no attention in prescribed Bible readings today in the Catholic and most Protestant churches," said Rev. Dr. C. Scott Robinson, pastor of the church. "In addition to studying the prophetic books and the fascinating persons to whom they are attributed, we will also look at the language, historical, and cultural influences that helped to shape the books in the form that we have them today."

The pastor said class members will discuss the historicity of the stories, or how they compare with currently known archeological and historical evidence, and how they can be of interest even to those who may not accept them as completely factually accurate.

Robinson leads the forum, which features weekly PowerPoint presentations and written handouts of presentation highlights. The class is open to the community, and people from different religions have been regular participants and contributors over the years, the pastor noted.

The forum meets Wednesdays at 6:15 p.m. at the church, which is located at the corner of Second and Center streets in Oakland, across from the Ruth Enlow Library. For more information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-2668.

Treatment for Hyperparathyroidism

Hyperparathyroidism is a condition characterized by the overproduction of parathyroid hormone. This hormone helps maintain an appropriate amount of calcium and phosphorous in the body. Excessive amounts of parathyroid hormone can result in an imbalance between calcium and phosphorous. This may adversely affect teeth, bones, the nervous system, muscles, and kidneys. Many persons affected by this condition may not display symptoms. Some people, however, may experience fatigue, aches and pains. More severe signs and symptoms that may develop over a long period of time include kidney stones, abdominal pain, and osteoporosis. Primary hyperparathyroidism may be the result of a benign growth on one of the parathyroid glands, or an enlargement of two or more of the four parathyroid glands. Secondary hyperparathyroidism occurs when a separate medical condition leads to the overproduction of parathyroid hormone.

There are a variety of treatment options available for persons affected by this condition. Both types of hyperparathyroidism may be treated with a medication called cinacalect, which works to decrease the levels of parathyroid hormone and serum calcium levels. Surgery is also an option for certain individuals.

Citizens Must File Tax Form To Get Rebate

by Will Skowronski
Capital News Service

File a federal tax return and the rebate check really will be in the mail, lawmakers told citizens at a free filing center in Baltimore Tuesday.

Money from the government's recent economic stimulus package can be used for anything from heating bills to food, said Rep. Elijah Cummings, D-Baltimore, but it won't arrive unless residents put in their paperwork.

Cummings and other Maryland lawmakers came to the Western Community Action Center Tuesday to explain the benefits of the government's $152 billion answer to a struggling economy.

"Every rebate check claimed is another few months on food or another monthly bus pass for its recipients . . . as well as another check to be pumped back into the economy to help bring it back to stability," Cummings told the 30 or so persons at the center. "We simply cannot afford to let these dollars go unclaimed."

The center houses more than a dozen programs to help low-income residents, including the Baltimore CASH Campaign, which provides free assistance for tax filing.

Many people living in low-income areas who could benefit from the rebate, said Joanna Smith-Ramani, executive director of the Baltimore CASH program, don't normally file returns because their earnings are too small to tax or they receive non-taxable benefits.

Taxpayers making more than $3,000 a year, as well as Social Security beneficiaries and disabled veterans, are set to receive between $300 and $600 starting May 2 as part of the rebate. About 2.5 million Maryland families could receive up to $1,200 with an additional $300 for each child. Tax returns must be filed by April 15.

The IRS sent out 340,000 special packets to Social Security and Veterans Assistance dependents, who wouldn't normally need to file, said Jim Dupree, an IRS spokesman. The Treasury Department expects that Marylanders will receive about $2.1 billion as part of the rebates.

Maryland Democratic Sen. Ben Cardin and Reps. C.A. Dutch Ruppersberger, D-Cockeysville, and John Sarbanes, D-Towson, said more economic catalysts are in the works to stave off a recession threatened by a collapse in the sub-prime mortgage market. The collapse and buyout of Bear Stearns, a major investment banking firm, as well as a reported loss of 63,000 jobs in February are the latest indicators of more trouble to come.

"I think the stimulus package is just one part," Cardin said. "We clearly need more. It needs to be multifaceted."

Cardin has proposed legislation to award tax benefits to first-time home buyers. Another Senate bill would allow bankruptcy judges to adjust mortgage rates to help struggling homeowners who would otherwise be forced to give up their homes. Unemployment benefits and job-creating infrastructure projects have also been mentioned as potential remedies.

Even though the tax rebate may be only $300 and not come until May, Sarbanes said, the benefits will be felt.

"I wouldn't second guess the stimulus package. It's going to be a boost," Sarbanes said. "You have to also keep in mind what's happening around people's kitchen tables."

Gwendolyn Johnson came to the meeting to learn about the rebate and pass the word to other Southwest Baltimore residents. She doesn't normally file tax returns, but will this year.

"It's to the point now where you look at your paycheck and ask, 'Am I going to be able to pay my gas and electric bill, get food and pay rent?'" Johnson said of her neighborhood. "It's bad. We need this tax rebate."

It's important to get the word out, Cummings said, because people struggling to make ends meet don't know they're eligible for the rebate.

"I think there are so many people suffering that any funds coming will help them," Cummings said. "It's never too late."

Richard Byrd, the commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service Wage & Investment Division, showed the audience what the tax form envelope looks like when it arrives by mail and explained they would only need to fill out five lines to be eligible for the rebate.

"It is not that often that us from the IRS can say we're here to help you," Byrd said. "Please send us what we need to send you what you deserve."

The IRS will hold help session at its offices on March 29 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Applications For Miss Farm Bureau Being Accepted

The Garrett County Farm Bureau announces that applications are now being accepted for young women seeking the title of Miss Garrett County Farm Bureau. This contest was started as the Garrett County Farm Queen contest and has evolved into a professional competition.

The purpose of the contest, according to a bureau spokesperson, is to identify and encourage young women with an agricultural background to serve as leaders who will promote the agricultural industry and the Farm Bureau organization throughout the year and in the future.

The contest will be held on Thursday, April 10, at 7 p.m. at the Bittinger fire hall. A luncheon for each contestant and a parent will be held prior to the contest. Each girl will be asked to answer questions from judges about her agricultural experience.

The 2008 Miss Garrett County Farm Bureau is required to attend the 2008 orientation at the Maryland State Fairgrounds in Timonium on Monday, Aug. 4. This differs from previous years, as it is not the first Monday of the Garrett County Agriculture Fair. She will also be required to attend the 2008 Miss Maryland Agriculture Contest on Thursday and Friday, Aug. 21-22.

Miss Garrett County Farm Bureau will be awarded a $500 cash prize at the county level. She will be awarded a minimum of $300 at the state level, depending upon placement. Miss Maryland Agriculture will be awarded $13,000 in the form of a college scholarship.

Contestants must be young women who are 16 years of age, but no older than 19 years of age on April 1, 2008. She and/or her family must be current Farm Bureau members and be involved in the agricultural industry in Garrett County.

Completed applications are due by April 1, and are available at the guidance offices of Southern and Northern high schools, or by telephoning Mikal Ann Zimmerman at 301-334-0511.

SBA Disaster Loan Deadline Drawing Near

The U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) is reminding the public that April 9 is the filing deadline for federal economic injury disaster loans that are available to small businesses located in Garrett County as a result of damages and losses to crops caused by drought beginning May 15, 2007, and continuing.

"This county is eligible because it is contiguous to one or more primary counties in the state of West Virginia," said Frank Skaggs, director of SBA Field Operations Center East. The Small Business Administration recognizes that disasters do not usually stop at the county or state lines. For that reason, counties adjacent to primary counties named in declaration are included."

The SBA's disaster declaration was issued as a result of a similar action taken by the secretary of agriculture to help farmers recover from this disaster. Under this declaration, the SBA's Economic Injury Disaster Loan program is available to farm-related and non-farm-related small business concerns and small agricultural cooperatives that suffered financial losses as a direct result of this disaster.

Farmers and ranchers are not eligible to apply to the SBA, but nurseries are eligible to apply for economic injury disaster loans for losses caused by drought conditions.

Eligible small businesses may qualify for loans up to $1.5 million. These loans are available at a 4 percent interest rate with loan terms up to 30 years.

The SBA determines eligibility for the program based on the size and type of business and its financial sources. Loan amounts and terms are set by the SBA and are based upon each applicant's financial condition.

Under this disaster declaration, the SBA cannot provide loans to agricultural producers.

Interested business owners are asked to contact the SBA's Customer Service Center by calling 1-800-659-2955 (1-800-877-8339 for the hearing impaired) Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. until 9 p.m., and Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Business loan applications can also be downloaded from www.sba.gov.

Completed applications should be mailed to: U.S. Small Business Administration, Processing and Disbursement Center, 14925 Kingsport Road, Fort Worth, TX 76155.

Completed loan applications must be returned to the SBA no later than Wednesday, April 9.

AUTHORITY FOR CONSERVATION RESERVE ENHANCEMENT PROGRAM EXTENDED

Eric McCartney, executive director of USDA's Farm Service Agency in Preston County, informs producers that on March 14, 2008, the president signed a bill providing for, among other things, continuation of the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) through April 18, 2008.

"This extension also includes the Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program (CREP), which is an enhancement of FSA's CRP that uses federal and state resources to safeguard environmentally sensitive land through special CRP enrollments," said McCartney.

The West Virginia CREP offers rental payments to farmers who voluntarily convert highly erodible cropland and other environmentally sensitive acreage to vegetative cover, such as riparian buffers, filter strips, and/or wetlands.

The following conservation practices may be eligible for land enrolled in a West Virginia CREP contract: reseedings of permanent introduced grasses and legumes; reseedings of permanent native grasses; hardwood tree plantings; filter strips; riparian buffers (including fencing and livestock water developments); and wetland restoration.

Eligible producers will be able to enroll in 10- to 15-year contracts. Cropland must have been cropped at least two of the past five years and be physically and legally capable of being cropped in a normal manner. Marginal pastureland is also eligible for enrollment, provided it is suitable for use as a riparian buffer planted to trees. In addition, producers must generally have owned or operated the land for at least the last 12 months prior to enrollment. Persons who have an existing CRP contract or an approved offer with a contract pending are not eligible for CREP until that contract expires.

West Virginia CREP participants are eligible for five types of payments: signing incentive, practice incentive, annual rental payment for the life of the contract, up to 50 percent cost-share assistance for the installation of eligible conservation practices, and one-time state of West Virginia lump-sum incentive payment.

With the 50 percent cost-share payment and 40 percent practice incentive payment, the participant is paid 90 percent of the total cost of installing approved practices under CREP. Participants who perform their own labor can be reimbursed for that as well.

Haying and grazing are not allowed during the contract period unless FSA permits them for emergency purposes under normal CRP rules.

For further information on the West Virginia Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program, persons may contact the Farm Service Agency, located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, by telephone at 304-329-1923, by fax at 304-329-3056, or by e-mail at eric.mccartney-@wv.usda.gov. Information is also available on FSA's web site at www.fsa.usda.gov.

Workshop On Agritourism To Be Held Mon.

GINGER MYERS

The Garrett County Extension Office will hold a workshop titled "Inviting Visitors to Your Farm: Tips and Techniques to Make the Most of Your Agritourism Venture" next Monday, March 24, from 6:30 until 9 p.m. at the Pleasant Valley Community Center. The cost is $5 per person, and dinner will be provided.

"Farmers interested in inviting visitors to their farms and those who already do will learn more about how to have a successful agritourism enterprise," said an extension spokesperson

The workshop will provide farmers with ways to increase their farm income by diversifying into agritourism ventures, she added.

Topics will include how and why to set up an agritourism business on a farm, ways to attract customers, how to keep visitors at the farm longer, how to get them to spend more money there, and liability issues with an agritourism venture.

Ginger S. Myers, regional agriculture marketing specialist with the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension, will be the speaker.

"Ms. Myers has a wealth of knowledge of agritourism ventures in the region, and brings valuable experience to this workshop," said the spokesperson.

Myers holds a bachelor of science degree from Penn State University, and additional certifications in agricultural economic development.

She also serves on a wide variety of committees and organizations, including the Maryland State Agriculture Commission, and Maryland's Agricultural Marketing Professionals, and is an officer with Future Harvest – a Chesapeake Alliance for Sustainable Agriculture.

While relatively new to Maryland Cooperative Extension, Myers has more than 25 years of experience in agri-business and small farm production. She has worked as an agricultural marketing specialist in Maryland since 1999.

To make a reservation for the workshop or obtain more information about the event, persons may call the Garrett County Extension Office at 301-334-6960.

Firefly Farms Is Finalist In Gallo Awards Program

Firefly Farms of Bittinger was recently chosen as a finalist in the third annual Gallo Family Vineyards Gold Medal Awards.

According to a spokesperson, this nationwide search for the country's top artisanal food producers was created by the Gallo family in 2005 to give back to the artisanal community by recognizing individual businesses that share their commitment to high standards of quality, traditional methods of artisanal food producing and sustainable agriculture.

Two producers in the state of Maryland met the judges' qualifications and are recognized as top-quality food producers whose products adhere to artisanal means.

Firefly Farms is a finalist in the dairy category for its line of goat cheese.

The other Maryland finalist is Circle C Oyster Ranch of Ridge. It is a finalist in the fish and seafood category.

"From year to year, we have seen an increased excitement for the Gold Medal Awards program and we're equally pleased to see the artisans of Maryland participate for year three," said Gina Gallo, third generation winemaker for Gallo Family Vineyards in Sonoma, Calif. "This year marks the E. & J. Gallo Winery's 75th anniversary, so we are even prouder to bestow this honor to deserving American artisans who started out just like my grandfather Julio and great-uncle Ernest did many years ago."

The finalists have been asked to submit their products to be judged by a panel of culinary experts who will determine the grand prize winners across seven categories: bread and baked goods; dairy, meat and charcuterie; fish and seafood; confectionary goods; condiments/oil/vinegar; and fish and vegetable.

In addition, a special "All Artisanal Award" will be presented to a family-owned business that exemplifies artisanal food production and stands as an inspiration for other food industry professionals.

"The Gallo Family Vineyards Gold Medal Awards means so much to our family, and we're extremely pleased to recognize another generation of exemplary artisans," said Stephanie Gallo, senior director of marketing for Gallo Family Vineyards. "As the country's first family of wine, we truly understand the hard work and dedication that producing a quality artisanal product requires, and we are privileged to honor those who continue to uphold the tradition."

Each grand prize winner will receive a $5,000 business development grant. In addition, winners will be flown to New York City in April for a celebratory luncheon with members of the Gallo family, an annual membership to the Chefs Collaborative, and the Gallo Family Vineyards' seal of excellence to display on their winning products.

The winner of the "All Artisanal Award" will receive a trip to Aspen for the Food and Wine Classic in June to showcase their winning product as well as an advertisement in a top national culinary publication touting the product and their title.

In Loving Memory of

Tiffany Ann Morgan

November 3, 1993 - March 21, 2007

An angel on Earth, a child so sweet,
Has left us all behind to weep.
A girl who's smile could brighten your day
Whose caring personality led the way.
A girl whose strength outweighs us all,
Whose courage so great, but body so small.
A loving sister, the perfect daughter,
A wonderful niece, cousin, and granddaughter.
She managed to shine through all her pain, and through her suffering, never complained.
Making others happy, that was her gift,
Living till a cure; always her wish.
Making us proud, never a doubt,
Our memories of her will never run out.
In our hearts, she will remain,
Until the day we meet again

A year has passed, without you here,
We all have wept and shed our tears.
Although we miss you more each day,
Your caring personality still leads the way.
You're in a better place now, breathing easily,
Free of treatments and resting peacefully.

God saw you were getting tired, and a cure was not meant to be
So He put his arms around you , and whispered, "Come with me."
With tearful eyes we watched you, as we saw you pass away,
Although we love you deeply, we could not make you stay.
Your golden heart stopped beating, hard working hands at rest,
God broke our hearts to prove to us... He only takes the best.

Love,
Mom, Dad, Brittany & Family

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Sheila Southerly, Sally Poholsky, and I saw robins last week. That is nothing compared to what Meredith saw last week in McHenry, which were a pair of Baltimore orioles.

Since the road to Brenneman's Grove was closed during a couple of the fall months, I had to depend on lifelong memories as to how it looked in its autumn dress to paint an oil painting of it. If memory serves me correctly, I did pretty well. The most difficult aspect is the zigzag rail fence. Even with a photograph to look at, it is still very difficult.

I have so many happy moments of the Grove at many Bittinger picnics. Carol and I used to go there when we stayed with my Buckle grandparents. We enjoyed walking on the top rails of the fence and going to watch the making of maple syrup. When I was young, the sap wagon was drawn by two white Percheron workhorses, and what a magical place the sugarhouse was to see. It was filled with wood smoke and steam and the scent of maple syrup. In fact, it's probably maple sugaring time, and as in many places, it is replaced by plastic tubing.

I hope I can convince my daughters and their cousins to fill the potholes in my lane. They are so bad I dread to drive on it.

Rodney and Marci Glotfelty were able to listen to their University of Maryland and Towson basketball games on their radio on their way back from a short vacation in Florida. Their drive home from Dulles airport took them longer than their flight back from Florida.

Their twin sons, along with the Bass boys, are spending part of their break in Chicago, compliments of their employer, Brenda. Several of the other boy workers also are in the group. Hopefully, she doesn't have a hard time chaperoning those young boys, as they are really fine young men.

The worst is over, and I hope I will never buy another pack of cigarettes or smoke one. Nicotine gum did its job and I have been smoke-free for about five days. A friend, David Seaman, told me from his experience that after three days it was easy. But I still want to have the gum around just in case.

I can't wait for warm weather so I can open my windows and doors to let fresh air into my house. Thirty years of smoking was enough; actually, too much. I want to tell everyone that if I can quit there are hopes for you, too. I am also overjoyed I don't need to run my furnace, because I still owe several hundreds of dollars from last winter. I still have some oil in my tank for those unexpected cold snaps during the summer. I can remember many times in the summer that I needed a little furnace action.

Quitting smoking is a lifelong job. So many people caution about starting to smoke again, but there is no way I would start again. These days a smoker is a social outcast, and I do want to protect my health. The task of quitting was hard, and I wouldn't want to go through it again.

I have a runny nose, but I am lucky, compared to some other members of my family. Mother has had a terrible cough, diarrhea, and vomiting. She finally had to pay a visit to her doctor today. Barry was quite sick, and Claire had to go to the college health center. I think quite a few in the area have caught it.

The next step in my "Joan Improvement Mission" is to get that ankle surgery this summer. I am so tired of walking badly, and I wouldn't miss the pain.

I saw something truly remarkable on the "Ellen Show," which was a video of a woman rider doing a routine without a bridle or saddle. The lack of saddle is not that big a deal, but doing sliding stops, pivots, and figure eights without a bridle was among the most awesome display of horsemanship I have ever seen.

It is glorious daylight saving time again, and it is still full light at 7 p.m. I heard that there are even bigger flocks of Canada geese at the Peat Bog Lake.

It is wasp season again in my house. One died in my paint water.

I doubt that many people realize how hard painting is. There are dozens of decisions for each painting. You have to mix paint maybe a dozen times to get the right color, and think of your full resources available. They are so expensive, and you are often under pressure of time, too. I probably need 30 paintings for my show.

Danny and Hazel Klotz celebrated their wedding anniversary at Emmanuel on Sunday morning. The date of their anniversary is March 31. Sometimes it hits on Palm Sunday, but not this year. They were married in Emmanuel Lutheran Church 61 years ago.

The weather was frightful on Sunday morning, and I had to try and deal with ice again on my deck and ramp after a dose of freezing rain and a little snow. Yesterday I saw another robin. They usually come before we are finished dealing with the winter weather.

McKenna Stanton is back in Bittinger with her father Aaron and grandparents, Sam and Cindy Stanton. I haven't seen her for a long time, but when I saw her at church Sunday, I was surprised how long her curls were.

I remember when working as a faculty member at Garrett College during spring break I put the first stage of my garden in the ground. That March was quite mild. But this year our ground is still frozen. I heard from a friend in the Accident area that she has daffodils sprouting. My mother reported that hers are coming up too, but I haven't seen any around Bittinger yet.

Sally and Lenny Poholsky traveled to the University of North Carolina, Greensboro, to see their son Torrey, and then followed the baseball team to Ferrum University in Virginia. Torrey's team won a game on Sunday and another on Monday. Torrey recorded a save for the game on Monday.

While they were in the South, Ferne Beachy spent the weekend with her sister, Beulah Moon. Sally celebrated her 54th birthday last week.

Ida Reckner celebrated her 103rd birthday. A party in her honor was held on Palm Sunday at the Emmanuel Lutheran Church educational building. Emmanuel recently expanded the dining area in the building.

I think everyone in Bittinger is looking forward to spring. Sherry George told me that a client from Oakland told her that she saw a bluebird around Mtn. Lake Park. According to Kevin Dodge, a few bluebirds do winter in the milder part of Garrett County, which is not Bittinger.

In Loving Memory of

Arnold R. Hoff, Jr.

A cure not meant to be,
So He put his arms around him,
and whispered "Come With Me."

Federal regulation limits total transactions paid (excluding unlimited "over the counter" withdrawals) to six per statement cycle, of which three may be by check, draft or debit card. Excess transactions will result in a per transaction fee and if repeated could cause the account to be changed to a non-interest-bearing account. 4. Home Equity Line of Credit Annual Percentage Rate (APR). The introductory rate is based on the index minus 1.01%, currently 4.99% variable APR for the first four billing cycles after closing. The regular variable rate will be based on the index (the Wall Street Journal Prime rate as of the 15th day of the preceding month) minus .25%, currently 5.75% APR, and may vary monthly. Disclosed regular rate requires a credit score greater than or equal to 760 and includes a .25% discount for automatic deduction from a Susquehanna account. Higher rates apply for lower credit scores. The maximum APR is 18% (Maryland 24%, New Jersey 16%). Maximum LTV is 85%. Standard underwriting criteria apply. Property insurance required. Property must be your primary residence to qualify for the Lender-paid closing costs. Title Insurance is not included in the Lender-paid closing costs for loans over $250,000. For properties located in the state of Maryland, if the line is terminated within the first 30 months, all Lender-paid closing costs estimated between $350.00 and $982.00 (estimate for $50,000 line, varies by county) must be reimbursed to the Lender. HART Fundraiser Being Planned To Kick Off Summer

HART for Animals Inc.'s first major fundraising event, "Kayaks, Kegs, and Kicks," which will take place on Saturday, May 24, at Adventure Sports Center International from noon until 6 p.m.

HART president Candy DeGiovanni made the announcement at the conclusion of a meeting with Nancy Beakes, ASCI facility and events coordinator, and Tim Prather, general manager and chief operating officer of the Wisp Resort.

"Kayaks, Kegs, and Kicks will become an annual event that will serve as the kickoff to summer," Pather said.

The event was the brainchild of Deb Clatterbuck, member of HART and longtime animal welfare activist. She has been one of the key organizers of the Autumn Glory Festival, Deep Creek Lake Art & Wine Festival, and other events.

The ASCI's facility will provide room for multiple activities, vendor areas sorted by different category, demonstrations, pony rides, children activities, beer, music and dancing, dog obedience demonstrations, carriage rides, and more during the event.

On the educational side, there will be brief "I Want to Give My Pet the Best" sessions to demonstrate how to care for birds, cats, dogs, horses, snakes, rats, fish, turtles, and small rodents.

Vendors wishing to participate in the event may contact DeGiovanni at 301-334-4278 or Beakes at 301-387-3250.

All food and beverage vendors must be non-profit, but other vendors may be either non-profit or for profit. The vendor registration will be $50 for non-profit organizations and $100 for companies or individuals that are for profit. Vendors will retain 100 percent of their sales, according to HART secretary Mercedes Pellet.

"Based on past attendance, all the organizations involved expect a crowd of 1,000 to 1,500 people," she said.

Volunteers who wish to help can contact Clatterbuck, the team leader for the event, at 301-501-0314.

HART for Animals Inc. plans to build a $1 million animal adoption center. The group is a 501(c)(3) organization, established in Oakland in 2003 to rescue homeless animals in Garrett County.

All contributions are tax-deductible and can be made by mail to HART for Animals Inc., P.O. Box 67, Oakland, MD 21550, or by visiting the HART web site at hartforanimals.org.

Women's History Month Event Set: "Making Waves, Making History"

"Making Waves, Making History" is the title of a celebratory performance for Women's History Month, being held at Garrett College on Wednesday, March 26, in the auditorium. A lunchtime performance is scheduled for the college students and an evening performance for the public will begin at 7 p.m.

Terry Kasecamp, professor of psychology, initiated the program. Those participating in the event will present monologues honoring the historical contributions of women, past to present, and honoring some of the men supporting the women's movement, such as Frederick Douglass, John Stuart Mills, William Garrison, and Harry Burns.

The women being represented in this year's program are Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Jane Addams, Alice Paul, Betty Friedan, Shirley Chisholm, Lillian Nygoyi, and Clarissa Pinkola Estes. The program will include music and photos documenting the historical progression of the three stages of the women's movement.

Kasecamp said her primary goal is to promote the idea that men and women should be equally valued, regardless of their contributions to society.

"It is important to recognize that much of the suffering in the world can be directly attributed to the dominance of a patriarchal social structure for thousands of years; that is, the overvalued masculine qualities and devaluation of human qualities that are considered feminine: nurturance, cooperation, compassion, interdependence, and wisdom," Kasecamp said. "By honoring the contributions made by women, we ultimately work toward restoring balance between men and women. The focus of the women's movement has always been and will always be to create an egalitarian society, so that we, men and women, might take better care of our world, better care of each other, and, most importantly, better care of our children."

A $3 admission fee will be collected for the evening performance. Proceeds will be used to help pay for a Women's History Museum trip scheduled for May 1 to 3. Kasecamp planned the program with her psychology of women class, but other students and individuals may participate. The group will include students from both Garrett College and Frostburg State University who will go to Seneca Falls, N.Y., where the women's rights movement began in 1848. This three-day trip will include a visit to the Susan B. Anthony House, the Women's National Historic Park, the Elizabeth Cady Stanton House, The Women's Hall of Fame, and other historic locations. There will also be a stop at Niagara Falls.

The Garrett County chapters of Business Professional Women and American Association of University Women have provided financial support for the trip for the last 5 years. Kasecamp wished to encourage other community members to consider making a donation to help with the excursion. She noted that with the high cost of gasoline, additional financial assistance is needed in order to make the trip affordable for students.

Fundraising efforts have been planned so that costs can be kept to a minimum for students. Brenda's Pizzeria has agreed to sponsor Women's History Night, on March 24 and donate 10% of the sales to the trip.

Students are also selling raffle tickets for gift certificates and prizes donated by area businesses and individuals from the following: Brenda's Pizzeria, State Farm Insurance (Rob Michael), Uno Restaurant, Sheetz, Wal-Mart, and Double G. The raffle drawing date is scheduled for April 24. Additional donations for the raffle from area businesses and individuals, such as gifts certificates or merchandise, would be appreciated, Kasecamp said.

For more information or to make a donation, persons may contact Terry Kasecamp at 301-387-3005 or tkasecamp@garrettcollege.edu.

WOMEN WILL BE CELEBRATED, and men, too, next week at Garrett College as several actors take the stage to give monologues. The writings will be the words of historic women of the United States who made sweeping changes in the pursuit of equality, and of men who supported those women in their efforts. The program, which is being held as part of the college's celebration of Women's History Month, will take place on Wednesday, March 26, in the Garrett College auditorium. A lunchtime performance will be given for the college students. An evening performance for the public will begin at 7 p.m. See story.

Falconry Program Slated In Accident

Luther Huff, a member of the Potomac Falconers Association, will present a program on the sport of falconry with a red-tailed hawk, at the Accident Library on Wednesday, April 2, from 6 to 7 p.m.

The program is free and open to the public. For more information, persons may call Janet Otto at 301-746-8792.

THE CRIPPLE OF INISHMAAN, a play written by Martin McDonagh, will be the next offering of Our Town Theatre in Oakland. Directed by Richard Hill, the comedy is "dark, edgy, and challenging." Hill said the writing is "tight and very Irish, putting the audience on an emotional roller coaster." It takes place on a barren rock of limestone, the middle island of three, out in the bay of Galway. Inishmaan is the gaelic word for "middle island," one of the Aran Islands. "The time is 1934 and the bored, unstimulated islanders find that a documentary is being filmed on the big island, Inishmore, to be called the Man of Aran (this really happened). A deformed boy (Cripple Billy) longs to escape Inishmaan with some others to participate in the filming. In the play we learn the dark secret of Billy Claven." Pictured above in the front, from left, are Erin Peacock, Joshua Elmlinger, and Christie Hamilton. In the back, same order, are Keith Fike, Kelly Baker, Jack Spencer, Fred Jacoby, Dylan Barnard, and Ashley Roush. The show will be given April 2 through April 5 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, April 6, at 2 p.m. Tickets are $5 on Wednesday, Thursday, and Sunday and $8 on Friday and Saturday. This play contains violence, although not of a graphic nature, and crude language, Hill noted, adding that parents are cautioned. Reservations can be made by calling 301-334-5640. The Cripple of Inishmaan is produced by special arrangement with Dramatists Play Service, and is funded, in part, by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland Arts Council.

Robotics Team Wins Several Awards, Will Head To World Championships

Garrett County's FIRST (For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology) Robotics Team 1629 traveled to two regional competitions over the last two weekends. The local youth won several awards, including one that earned them an invitation to advance to the FIRST World Championship in Atlanta, Ga., from April 16 to 19.

At the first competition in Annapolis, Team 1629 earned the number 12 seed out of the 60 teams participating. However, they were eliminated in the quarterfinals.

In Annapolis, they received the Kleiner Perkins Caufield & Byers Entrepreneurship Award. The award "celebrates the entrepreneurial spirit by recognizing a team that, since its inception, has developed the framework for a comprehensive business plan to scope, manage, and achieve team objectives."

This past weekend, the team members traveled to Cleveland, Ohio, for the "Buckeye" Regional, where they earned third seed out of forty-six teams participating. They made it through the quarter finals in the double-elimination matches.

The team received several awards in Cleveland. The Delphi "Driving Tomorrow's Technology" award was given for recognition of elegant and advantageous machine features and design.

They also received the Engineering Inspiration Award, which is the second most prestigious award given by FIRST. It recognizes the team's accomplishment in advancing the goals of FIRST in their schools and community. The award earned the team an invitation to the competition in Atlanta.

"Winning the Engineering Inspiration Award is a huge achievement and takes the efforts of not only those directly involved with the team, but many volunteers who do a wonderful job supporting our team and the goals of FIRST," said coach Chuck Trautwein. "I personally thank all of those individuals from those making our summer technology programs possible to the great support that the Office of Economic Development and GEARS gives the team and especially the support we receive from the Garrett County Board of Education – all of which played a major factor in Team 1629 receiving the EI award."

As FIRST Robotics Team 1629 prepares to go to the world championship, members noted that they would like to thank their many partners, including

Bill Eliminating County Funds Rejected By House Committee

House Bill 625: Forests and Parks – Special Funds and Accounts – Payments to Counties, a bill introduced by Del. Doyle Niemann (D-Prince George's County), received an unfavorable report from the House Environmental Matters Committee on Monday.

The measure would have eliminated annual payments that the Department of Natural Resources makes to counties for state forests and parks. Garrett County alone would have lost more than $1 million annually in revenue, according to Del Wendell R. Beitzel (R-Garrett and Allegany counties).

"This was a very collaborative team effort," Beitzel said. "Senator Edwards, the [Garrett County] commissioners, and I all fought hard to defeat this very detrimental bill that confiscated revenue from the counties. I am happy to report that the bill was defeated in committee."

The bill sought to eliminate the funding received by the counties from the State Forest or Park Reserve Fund, the Forest and Park Concession Account, and the Deep Creek Lake Recreation Maintenance and Management Fund.

Currently, counties where the state owns more than 10% of the land receive 25% of the revenue that is generated by the forests and parks in that particular county. Those counties where the state owns less than 10% of the land receive 15% of the revenue generated from the state forest or park reserve located in the county.

"I am very happy that this piece of legislation didn't see the light of day and died in the committee," said Sen. George C. Edwards (R-Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties). "This proves that good things can be accomplished when we have a united front to oppose unfavorable legislation."

In written testimony submitted to Maggie McIntosh, chair of the House Environmental Matters Committee, the Garrett County commissioners stated, "House Bill 625 fails to acknowledge that the third smallest county, by population but the largest county by land area, is burdened with the greatest ownership of state land."

"Commissioner Holliday and I worked with the rep-

Man Charged With 16 Counts Of Child Abuse

An 86-year-old Frostburg area (Garrett County) man was arrested on Monday by Maryland State Police officers and charged on an arrest warrant with 16 counts of sexual child abuse and sex offenses.

The man's name is not being released in order to protect the victims' identities, according to investigating officer Tfc. J.B. Schlossnagle.

A joint investigation was initiated by Maryland State Police and Garrett County Department of Social Services, Child Protective Services after a woman called to report her young daughter was molested by a neighbor, Schlossnagle said.

The investigation revealed that three other juvenile victims that are related to the accused were inappropriately touched by the man. Reports indicate the incident date as 2004 through February 2008.

The defendant was released after a District Court bond hearing on a $20,000 unsecured bond.

Man Sentenced To 10 Years For Escape, Theft

A 19-year-old local man recently pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court to first-degree escape and to motor vehicle theft. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Ronald Dewain Smith Jr. to five years in the Division of Corrections on each charge, with the sentences to run consecutively.

This 10-year prison term will run consecutively to an 18-month sentence that Smith was serving for a felony theft conviction when he escaped from the Garrett County Jail on Nov. 5, 2007.

At around 11:30 p.m., personnel at the jail determined that Smith had escaped through a window in the facility. Maryland State Police later attempted to stop a vehicle along Rt. 495 and chased the vehicle to a location near the intersection of Dry Run Road, where the vehicle crashed into a tree.

The registered owner of the car was contacted, and she advised she did not know her car was missing and that no one had her permission to have the vehicle at that time.

It was determined that Smith was the driver of the car, and that he fled into the Dry Run Road area, where he was taken back into custody on Nov. 6 at about 2:30 p.m.

In an unrelated case, Charles Eugene Kifer, 51, Swanton, was found guilty on the charge of third-degree sexual offense. Kifer entered an Alford plea, by which he does not admit guilt, but acknowledges the evidence that would be presented by the state would be

Two Charged With CDS Possession, Intent To Distribute

An arrest was made of two Deer Park residents following a traffic stop that resulted in an investigation.

A Garrett County sheriff's deputy was traveling down Oak Street, in the area of Sixth Street, when he noticed a vehicle being operated with an expired registration plate. He conducted the stop on Sixth Street.

Upon contact with the driver, Edward Joseph Mutchler, 44, and passenger Lorie Lynn Martinsen, 45, the deputy discovered that Mutchler 's license had been revoked through communication with GCSO dispatch.

He was placed under arrest, taken to the patrol vehicle, and a search was executed on his vehicle. Search revealed a large plastic bag containing suspected marijuana and marijuana paraphernalia. located inside the vehicle.

Martinsen was also placed under arrest after the controlled dangerous substance (CDS) was discovered by the deputy.

Mutchler was charged

Commissioners Hear Staff Reports, Ask Departments To Reduce Budgets

The Garrett County commissioners held their monthly staff meeting on Tuesday, hearing update reports from 17 different county departments and agencies. Topics discussed this month included the county budget, housing issues, a rural leadership academy, and job programs.

Financial Services

Director Wendy Yoder, Financial Services, reported on the status of developing the county's fiscal year 2009 budget. Department heads recently submitted their budgetary figures, but have been asked to decrease their requests.

"As you know, there is a pretty wide margin between projected revenue and requested expenditures to the tune of about $29 million," Yoder told the commissioners. "We have sent a letter to all county departments and agencies, asking them to take another look at what they had initially requested and send a revised request to us by April 1."

After the resubmissions are received, she said, the FY '09 requested budget figures will be available for public viewing on the county's web site.

Commissioner Fred Holliday asked the department heads to review their budgets again, as they have a better understanding of their priorities than the commissioners do.

"I would rather have you cutting your budget than me," Holliday told staff members. "Do your best to help us, and hopefully you'll bear with us through these tough times until we get back to where we have been before."

Yoder noted that the departments' FY '09 requests totaled $101 million, yet the county's expected revenue is only about $72 million. The revenue for FY '08 is projected at about $80.7 million. It was $85.2 million in FY '07 and $62.8 million in FY '06.

Yoder also reported that the county's constant yield tax rate hearing has been set for Tuesday, April 15, at 10 a.m. in the commissioners' meeting room.

Maryland School Superintendents Push For Changes To Federal Law

by Veena Trehan
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – Maryland school superintendents met with U.S. Deputy Secretary of Education Raymond Simon on Wednesday, asking him to consider changes to the No Child Left Behind law for disadvantaged students.

"Special education students, English language learners, and our poverty students – those are the issues most of us are grappling with," said Kevin Maxwell, superintendent of Anne Arundel County Public Schools, at a roundtable discussion with 13 county superintendents, Maryland Schools Superintendent Nancy Grasmick, and other state education officials.

Maryland schools placed in the top three states nationwide in an Education Week survey this year and showed an upward trend in several key performance measures since 2002. Yet Maryland still has a way to go before all children pass basic math and reading proficiency tests by 2014, the absence of which may trigger state takeovers of schools or reduced federal funding.

"I don't think any of us don't want standards," said Maxwell at Annapolis Senior High School, a school that avoided a state takeover last month by implementing a three-year restructuring plan. "This . . . is going to be a big struggle."

In a state scorecard distributed at the panel, poor Maryland students lagged behind white, black, and Hispanic students. State data show that among low-income students, 76 percent of fourth-graders and 50 percent of eighth-graders are proficient in reading, versus 93 and 82 percent of white students in the same respective grade levels. Math proficiency was at 76 percent and 35 percent in the fourth and eighth grades, respectively, for poor students, versus 93 and 74 percent for white students in the same grades.

Carl Roberts, Cecil County superintendent, said a nurturing environment for little more than half their day is insufficient to help these disadvantaged students. Schools should get credit for helping these students graduate in five-to-seven years, rather than see their metrics reflect a drop in on-time high school graduation, he said.

"We should credit our perseverance and the school's perseverance," said Roberts. "School systems need to be recognized for how many children get a diploma."

Karen-Lee Brofee, Somerset County superintendent, said the 68 percent county poverty rate shows students should have greater access to career and technical programs, both of which have taken funding cuts.

But Simon said these programs exhibit low performance standards and of-ten teach less important skills than reading, writing, and math fundamentals.

Special education students and those with limited proficiency are often poor, and experts say they may require greater accommodation.

Harford County Superintendent Jacqueline Haas said delays to the 2014 goal should be considered for special education students.

"Why don't we fix the root of the problem versus being in a situation where there is misalignment of (Individuals with Disabilities Education Act) and (No Child Left Behind)?" she said.

A significant minority of special education students are subject to waivers, Simon said, and he is not willing to delay No Child Left Behind requirements past 2014.

Superintendent Sydney Cousin said students in Howard County come from 85 different countries and speak 70 languages. Often, he said, teachers cannot make students proficient within a year, the point at which they must take the assessment.

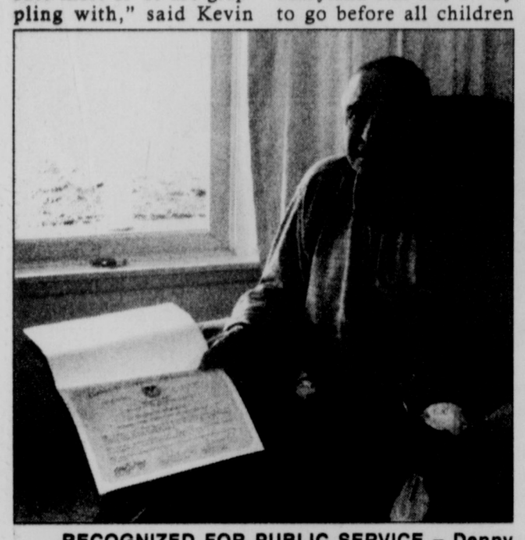
"It's just not realistic – nor a fair standard – to have teachers deal with our requirements," he said.

Simon talked of opportunities for testing in another language, an option that took Cousin and other superintendents by surprise.

Down the line, Simon said, states could see administration support for flexibility in measuring teacher "effectiveness," restoration of the considerable budget cuts to Reading First programs, and reworking the definition of violent high schools.

Grasmick concluded the panel by telling Simons that the state would apply for "differentiated accountability," a pilot of up to 10 states to separate schools close to meeting their target from those requiring significant reform. The administration has called for this measure in the reauthorization of the expired No Child Left Behind law.

But Simon sounded a warning note. "It would be great if all states could get differentiated accountability," he said. "But they don't all qualify."



RECOGNIZED FOR PUBLIC SERVICE – Denny Margroff holds a certificate of appreciation he recently received from the Garrett County commissioners in recognition of his many years of public service. He served on the Garrett County Planning Commission from 1992 to 2007 and was instrumental in preparing the existing Garrett County Comprehensive Plan (adopted in 1995), the Garrett County Subdivision Ordinance, and the current Deep Creek Watershed Zoning Ordinance. Before his term expired last November, Margroff also assisted with the county's ongoing effort to update the Comprehensive Plan. "Denny was a very reliable member who assisted in any way he could to improve the quality of life and the well being of the citizens of our county," said Director John Nelson, Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development.

HUMANE SOCIETY MEMBERS TAKE FIRST AID CLASS – Members of the Garrett County Humane Society and other local residents recently took part in a pet first aid class taught by Ralph Biltz. "It was fast paced, interesting, and we all learned a lot," said society president Lisa Baker. "The class was tested on pet CPR using a dog mannequin, which was a great hands-on activity." Biltz plans to offer the class again in mid-April. There will be two four-hour sessions offered in the evening and one four-hour session offered on a Saturday. There is a registration fee that includes a take-home book. Information about the class will be posted in The Republican at a later date. For more information, persons may e-mail rebiltz@-verizon.net. Pictured, left to right, are Karen Haught, Baker, Biltz, Carol Craver, Sherry Friend (back row), Bernadine Friend, Janet Ridder (back row), and Pat Adams.

If You Were Diagnosed...

by Linda Murr
of Garrett County
2008 Event Chair

If you were diagnosed with cancer, what would be your first thoughts?

Why me? Am I going to die? Will I lose my hair? Where can I get more information? Who can I talk to? Where do I find someone who has been through this and can give me advice and encouragement?

All of these questions can be answered by one source: the American Cancer Society.

Why me? Because one in every two men and one in every three women will develop cancer in his/her lifetime. Therefore, there is a very high chance you will be one of them.

Am I going to die? A lot of cancers are not the death sentence they used to be. In fact, the two most common cancers are very survivable. Breast cancer has a 5-year survival rate of 88.5%, and if localized (has not spread to other parts of the body) has a 98.1% 5-year survival rate. Prostate cancer now has nearly a 100% 5-year survival rate.

Will I lose my hair? Not all chemo-therapy drugs make you lose your hair. However, if you do, the American Cancer Society provides free wigs and turbans just for the asking. Also, the Look Good... Feel Better program shows you where and how to draw eyebrows and apply make-up to make you feel good about yourself.

Where can I get information? The American Cancer Society has a 24/7 tollfree hotline (1-800-ACS-2345). Call in the middle of the night or middle of the day, and a specialist will always be available to speak to you. The ASC web site (www.cancer.org) has cancer specific information to help educate you and help you develop the right questions to ask your doctors.

Who can I talk to? Besides the 800 number, there are two programs that link newly diagnosed patients to survivors. Reach to Recovery matches breast cancer patients to breast cancer survivors, and Man to Man matches prostate cancer patients to prostate cancer survivors. These programs allow patients to speak to someone who has already gone through surgery and treatments and can tell them what to expect.

In addition, I Can Cope are classes taught by health care professionals to provide cancer patients and their families information, encouragement, and practical tips in a supportive environment. The web site also provides the Cancer Survivors Network, which is an online community created by and for survivors and caregivers as an outlet to cope with the challenges and spectrum of emotions that living with cancer can bring. It affords the opportunity to find strength through a shared experience.

What can you do to lessen your risk of developing cancer? More than 50% of cancer deaths could be prevented through healthy lifestyle choices. If you smoke or use other tobacco products, stop. If you are overweight, lose weight and maintain a health body weight. Eat a healthy diet, including five servings of fruits and vegetables per day. Stay active; at least 30 minutes of exercise five or more days a week. And get regular cancer screening tests.

Through research we have made many advances that have saved lives. The American Cancer Society helped fund initial research of 42 Nobel Prize winners who discovered various cancer screenings and treatment. These discoveries have saved millions of lives. There are currently 10.5 million American cancer survivors alive today.

A cure could be discovered any time now. What would you give to not have yourself, your spouse, your child, your siblings, your mother, your father, or your dear friend never have to hear the words, "You have cancer."?

Relay for Life is the American Cancer Society's signature fund-raising community event that offers everyone an opportunity to fight back against cancer. These funds make the programs noted above available in Garrett County free of charge because of the successes of Relay for Life.

Garrett County's Relay for Life event will be held June 13-14 from 5 p.m. to 9 a.m. at the Southern High School track.

How can you make a difference? If you own a business, you can become a corporate sponsor, encourage your employees to form a team, or donate a gift, food or services. As an individual you can form a team of family and friends, and participate the night of the event, or send a donation. Checks should be made out to the American Cancer Society and mailed to P.O. Box 421, Oakland, MD 21550.

Please prove our 2008 theme – "United as One Community Against Cancer" – to be true by supporting Relay for Life in whatever way you can. For more information, visit our web site at www.events.cancer.org/rflgarrett, or call me at 301-387-8027 or Rick Layton, 2008 Event co-chair, at 301-533-0133. Rick and I are both cancer survivors.

SUPER SuGO SUNDAY SLATED IN APRIL AT GEARS – A LEGO Sumo Robot competition (SuGO) was held recently at the Garret Engineering And Robotics Society (GEARS) in Accident. Six local teams each spent the afternoon building a Sumo wrestling robot with LEGOs, and then the robots competed against each other in a small Sumo ring. Team "Go-SuGO-4" started the day with four members, but later split into two smaller teams. The newly formed "Extra-Bot" team ended up playing against Go-SuGO in the final elimination match. Go-SuGO's experience showed in the end with a 2:0 victory over Extra-Bot. In April, two other area robotics teams will be going to Atlanta Georgia to represent Garrett County and Maryland in international Middle School and High School robotics competitions. To assist with their travel costs, GEARS will be hosting a special fundraising Super-SuGO Sunday competition slated for April 6. Super SuGO will permit larger, heavier and more powerful LEGO robots to be built by competitors. No experience is required to compete in a SuGO event, and new teams are welcome. All required materials are provided. Entry fee is $10 for non-member teams. Those seeking more information may visit www.sugo.GEARSinc.org, or call Phil at 301-387-2331. Above, from left, are runner-up team Extra-Bot, Logan Garrett and Justin Maust, and winning team Go-SuGO, Jeffrey Bender and Kevin Maust.

Local Resident Reports Burglary Attempt To MSP

An attempted burglary sometime between March 9 and 17 at a Sang Run Road residence was reported to the Maryland State Police McHenry Barrack and was investigated by Tfc. Kurt Whitaker.

Investigation revealed that sometime between the aforementioned dates, unknown suspect(s) attempted to enter the house of Andrew Hinkel at 4978 Sang Run Road. Reports indicate that damage was done to doors and windows of the residence. A large tool similar to a pry bar was allegedly used, but no entry was made into the residence.

Persons with information about this case are asked to call the McHenry Barrack at 301-387-1101.

Pa. Man Sustains Injuries In Motor Vehicle Accident

The quick reaction of rescue personnel after a Tuesday morning car crash on Old Frostburg Road prevented a Pennsylvania man from going into shock and complicating his injuries, according to the investigating officers at Maryland State Police McHenry Barrack.

Richard Max Gudowski, 61, Johnstown, was traveling north on Old Frostburg Road at Carey Run Road around 11:08 a.m. As he attempted to negotiate a left hand curve, his 2005 Lexus SC430 lost traction and began to skid. The vehicle overturned and came to rest at the bottom of a 10-foot embankment, as stated in the accident report.

The extent of Gudowski's injuries were not noted in the MSP report.

Gudowski was transported by Trooper 5 to Cumberland Memorial Hospital. Other responding agencies were Frostburg Area Ambulance, Eastern Garrett Volunteer Fire Department, Frostburg Volunteer Fire Department, Trooper 5, and Garrett County Sheriffs Office.

READY FOR SOME GOOD NEWS?

Some financial experts have labeled 2007's market as the "roulette economy." As we all know, whatever goes up must come down, but the nice thing about real estate is that whatever goes down always comes back upward again (much like stocks work).

A healthier market is anticipated in 2008, as Wall Street cleans up the lending mess and the pressure cooker of home demand releases its top. While the national average of home prices declined between one and two percent in 2007, that's peanuts compared to how much homes appreciated in the previous years. And many markets are appreciating still.

Keep in mind that "national" statistics for real estate mean about as much as a forecasted high temperature for the entire nation. Consumers get skittish when they hear that 40% of foreclosures are due to doubtful subprime loans, but it's important to put that in perspective, because those loans only constitute about 10% of all mortgages.

As the lending industry stabilizes and interest rates rise only slightly, buyers who are ready to purchase will discover that housing is still the best investment out there. Ask a real estate agent to monitor new listings, selling times and final sales prices, and then to advise you when conditions are right to either buy or sell. 2008 should be a year of opportunity in the real estate industry. If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

Gambling for Education...

The 2008 presidential election is shaping up to be one of the most interesting in a long time, at least on the Democratic side of the ticket, as the selection of either Clinton or Obama is likely not going to be made until the Democratic convention. However, there are two other issues – one county and one state – that will be on Garrett County's ballot, both of which should draw a large turnout of voters.

The county issue/question will be whether or not to repeal the county law forbidding the Sunday sale of alcoholic beverages. The state issue will be whether or not to legalize slot-machine gambling in four counties – including Allegany – and Baltimore City.

In last November's special – and extremely short – legislative session called by Governor O'Malley, legislators were presented with, among many things, a 70-page document that was the slot-machine bill. There is a definite element of desperation in the governor's office, as the state is facing an estimated $1.5 billion deficit. Within just a few years, the 15,000 slot machines that Governor O'Malley hopes will be approved by the voters in November will generate an estimated $700 million annually. To make the proposal a little more palatable, half of the money generated has been earmarked for public education.

Just last week the Maryland State Teachers Association board of directors voted to back the referendum. Those directors who voted to support said that, without the slots, funds for education were going to be cut. Those who opposed said that Senate President Mike Miller was holding teachers "hostage" with the legislation.

Also supporting slots is Speaker of the House Michael Busch; however, Comptroller Peter Franchot has been outspoken against the legislation, calling shot-machine gambling a "sleazy, predatory, corrupt, regressive tax on poor people." He added that the results of legalized gambling include corruption and crime, broken families, and ruined communities.

It is true that slots have the potential to produce large revenues for the state. It is also true that surrounding states which currently have slot-machine gambling are sucking money out of Maryland (money being spent by Marylanders). However, there is also a lot of truth in the comments by Comptroller Franchot. There is without question an unsavory element that accompanies gambling establishments, and the real question is whether or not the trade-off – the "side effects" of gambling – can somehow be justified and worth the risk.

It's unfortunate that our elected leaders have decided to resort to these kinds of practices in order to adequately fund something as precious as the education of our children. There has to be a better way.

Letters to the Editor

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

To the Editor:

Time Almanac reports that around the world there are 32.8% Christians and 19.6% Muslims.

Question: Where are the Christians and the churches? Dividing themselves and building more churches?

Jesus said in Matthew 12:25, "Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand."

We all could unite and speak out as Ezekiel said in chapter 33:6, "But if the watchman sees the sword come, and blow not the trumpet, and people be not warned; if the sword come, and take any person from among them, he is taken away in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at the watchman's hand."

This is an election year. We must all learn the facts before we vote. It is truly a matter of life and death. Let not the blood be on our hands. John 8:32, "And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

Sincerely,

To the Editor

Recently I was asked to participate with a small group to discuss the local real estate market and what effect if any it is having on our local economy.

The story that centered on that meeting was published a few weeks ago in your paper. The quote attributed to me was: Doug Railey, a local homeowner's insurance specialist, says he knows of instances in which people are deciding whether they can "heat or eat."

The "heat or eat" comment was in no way associated with the discussion pertaining to the local real estate market but was instead taken from a separate, private discussion I had with one of the other individuals in attendance at the same meeting. Up through 2002, I was involved in the sale of long-term care insurance and frequently interviewed retired and elderly folks who were forced to make such decisions when their living expenses exceeded their limited incomes, as is often the case. That quote and conversation should not have appeared in conjunction with the story on the local real estate market. It is my understanding that it was merely a mistake that this quote ended up being included in the final article.

Hopefully, this letter will bring closure and clarity to this matter.

To the Editor:

When the building on Liberty Street collapses, who do you think will be injured? A child, a mother or dad, someone and their pet? Does the town think that the flimsy plywood wall is going to hold back the building when it does come crashing down? Why is a private citizen allowed to have the road closed for his convenience – both in front of and next to his building? Why is a private citizen allowed to have his brick rubble blocking the storm water run-off on the side street and the one lane on Liberty Street? Why is a private citizen allowed to have his dumpster blocking a public street?

This building collapsed about 4 or 5 weeks ago. Pedestrians must go around it – vehicles must go around it. The town can pay to have it demolished and bill the owner. This will get his rear in gear. Is anything being done?

Sincerely,
Alisa Duncan

resentatives from the Maryland Association of Counties (MACo) to make sure that the counties knew what was really at stake here," said Garrett County commission chairman Denny Glotfelty.

Representatives of both the Allegany and Garrett County commissioners testified in opposition of HB 625 during the Environmental Matters Committee hearing on March 7.

sufficient for him to be found guilty.

After State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch presented to the court the state's evidence, the judge entered the guilty finding.

Kifer was then sentenced to four years in the Division of Corrections, with all of the sentence suspended in favor of supervised probation. He must also pay a fine and court costs totaling $945. Kifer will have to register as a child sex offender.

He was arrested and charged in August by Garrett County Sheriff's Office investigators, who learned that Kifer had touched a female inappropriately in the fall of 2003. Department of Social Services workers also participated in the investigation.

Hear Reports

seeking help with housing had recently increased.

"I'm not sure where this is coming from, but we've experienced in the last month a significant increase in the waiting list for our different housing programs," the president said. "We're well over 200 people who are on the waiting list for our rental assistance program."

For transitional housing, the waiting list has grown from 70 to 133 people in a month. Additionally, Duane Yoder said, the agency's rental properties have waiting lists of more than 20 people for each development.

"[This] is remarkably higher than where we were just two months ago," he noted about the rental lists.

The president said he wants to learn more about the people on the waiting lists to find out what is happening to cause this "significant shift" in such a very short period of time.

The president added that the "vast majority" of those on the lists were local residents.

Extension Office

Agent Willie Lantz reported that the Extension Office has received funding to start a program called the Western Maryland Rural Leadership Academy. It used to be that many U.S. leaders, including the president, were involved in agriculture, Lantz noted.

"But that has been dwindling as the percentage of people involved in agriculture has been dwindling," he said.

As a result, the Extension Office has been looking at ways to increase the number of leaders in the western Maryland agricultural community.

"We wanted to start working with young and old folks alike who would want to get back into the idea of becoming active in their community, whether its on a community board or agriculture organization or a county government type organization," Lantz said.

The Leadership Academy will be a 16-month program. Participants will meet once a month to learn more about the field of agriculture, county government, and community issues.

Hopefully, at the end of the program, Lantz said, the graduates will feel more comfortable about serving on a board.

"We're still in the process of putting the program together," he said, "but we hope to be able to start about October or September."

Lantz also reported that approximately 45,000 acres will be spray for gypsy moths in Garrett County this spring.

"That's three times the amount that was sprayed last year," he said. "That should make a pretty good dent."

Lantz noted that a little over 11,000 of those acres would be sprayed under the county's program. He said 7,000 to 10,000 acres had been originally projected to be sprayed, but the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association will help supplement the money from the commissioners for the program.

"So, that's a nice little boost," Lantz said.

Western Md. Consortium

Director Jon Wynn, Western Maryland Consortium, reported that the Garret County office has seen an increase in job program enrollments. Compared to last year, there is a 63 percent increase in adult participants and a 50 percent increase in out-of-school GED preparatory enrollees.

Wynn added that he projects 45 to 48 students will be able to participate in the Summer Youth Employment Program, which is close to last year's enrollment.

"I'm encouraging youth from 14 to 21 years of age to give us a call to see if they're eligible for the program," Wynn said.

The Western Maryland Consortium phone number in Oakland is 301-334-8136.

Deceased Game Warden Will Be Honored Sunday

The name of a former Garrett County game warden has been added to the memorial stone in Gwynnbrook State Game Park in Owings Mills, and will be dedicated in a special ceremony there this Sunday, March 30.

Officer Leo G. Friend was appointed a "salaried deputy game warden" on Nov. 1, 1948, and was assigned to Garrett County, where he served for 23 years, performing law enforcement duties of a game warden and wildlife officer.

Among his duties was inspecting commercial wildlife establishments. While inspecting fur dealers, taxidermists, and rabbit breeders during the winter of 1970, Officer Friend was infected with staphylococcus aureus bacteria, which ultimately claimed his life on Jan. 8, 1971.

Friend left behind his wife, Olive Elizabeth (Betty) Friend, and two daughters, now Patty Friend Thompson and Terrie Sue Lewis. He was the fourth-great-grandson of John Friend Sr. of Friendsville.

Monthly Meetings Slated By GCMH Arthritis/Fibromyalgia Support Group

The Garrett County Memorial Hospital's Arthritis/Fibromyalgia Support Group will soon begin its monthly meetings. The support group will hold a "Welcome Back, Meet & Greet Meeting" on Thursday, April 3, at 6:30 p.m. in the Community Services Center at Garrett Memorial.

"The first meeting is a welcome back session and is designed to get everyone acquainted or reacquainted as the case may be," explains group coordinator Lisa Schad, GCMH wellness coordinator. "I'll also be spending a little time on a presentation called 'Eating for a Healthy Immune System in a Stressful World.'"

Arthritis is one of the most prevalent chronic health problems and the nation's leading cause of disability among Americans over age 15. Although arthritis affects people in all age groups, according to the Arthritis Foundation, the number of adults suffering from arthritis two years ago had risen to 46 million, nearly one in five adults.

Beginning in April and continuing through Autumn, each month GCMH's Arthritis/Fibromyalgia Support Group meets for support through camaraderie, guest speakers, and activities about their respective conditions. Schad arranges for each meeting to focus on a distinctive theme.

At the group's May meeting, which requires reservations, members will be invited to join in a healthy, well-balanced meal at Cornish Manor Restaurant. Arthritis Foundation research has shown several connections between food and nutritional supplements (vitamins, minerals and omega-3 fatty acids) and certain forms of arthritis or related conditions

"The meal has been designed based on the guidelines set forth by the Arthritis Foundation," explains Schad. "Their guidelines for a healthy, well-balanced diet include eating a variety of foods including: plenty of vegetables, fruits, wholegrain products, and sugar, salt, and fat (especially saturated fat found in animal products) in moderation."

In addition to the dinner out, this year's meetings will include question and answer sessions with a GCMH pharmacist. Schad also plans on having an occupational therapist and an orthopedic surgeon speak at one of the sessions.

Meetings are held the first Thursday of every month during April through September from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at the Community Services Center of Garrett County Memorial Hospital unless otherwise noted. Those seeking more information on these meetings may contact Lisa Schad at 301-533-4366 or Vicki Insley, at 301-334-9767.

Man Arrested After Reportedly Inhaling Harmful Substance

An Oakland man was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies early Wednesday morning after he was reportedly observed inhaling a harmful substance near the entrance of Wal-Mart.

Deputies received a complaint from management, and upon arrival, they located Richard Bevan Orr II, 29, near the door to the business. Through investigation, it was determined that Orr was the reported suspect.

He was placed under arrest and charged with inhaling a harmful substance. He was transported to the Garrett County Detention Center to await a bond hearing.

Two Men Charged By Deputies For Traffic Violations

A Garrett County sheriff's deputy responded to a reported motor vehicle accident on Knight Street and Virginia Avenue on Friday.

Upon investigation it was determined that Dennis Leslie Wolfe II, after turning right onto Knight Street, failed to stop in time behind two other vehicles stopped at a stop sign. Wolfe's vehicle rear-ended Devon Diana Sweitzer's vehicle, which caused her to hit the vehicle in front of her, driven by Onie Franklin Sweitzer.

Each vehicle had minor damage, and no injuries were reported. Wolfe was charged with failure to control speed to avoid a collision.

In a separate incident, deputies conducted a traffic stop in the parking lot of Enterprise Car Rental, Oakland, which led to the arrest of an Oakland man.

Upon an investigation of the driver, Charles R. Burton, 21, it was discovered that his license had been suspended. He was arrested and charged with driving on a suspended license.

Loaded Handgun Located Inside Va. Man's Car

A Virginia man was charged with a handgun violation when his vehicle was searched during a traffic stop on I-68 on Friday, according to the Maryland State Police McHenry Barrack.

Kenneth Lee Greenway, 59, was stopped for traveling 80 miles per hour in a 65 mph zone at 10:15 p.m. on I-68 west of Keyser's Ridge. A scan of his driver's license revealed that it was suspended, and Greenway was placed under arrest.

A search of his vehicle incident to the arrest revealed a loaded .45 caliber semi automatic handgun in a black nylon gym bag, according to investigating officer Tfc. Steven LeMay.

Greenway was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to await an initial appearance. He was charged with a handgun violation, speeding violation, driving on a suspended out of state license and driving on a revoked license.

Ask Sheila

Decorating Dilemma?
Sheila offers helpful advice.

Dear Sheila:

I absolutely LOVE Garrett County in the spring, summer and fall. We like entertaining outside and have a great 3 level deck. It is perfect EXCEPT it looks blah. The deck and railings are all stained natural as is the furniture. I seem to buy new cushions each year because they get so yucky! They only seem to come in boring patterns.

WAITING FOR SPRING

Dear Waiting:

One of the ways is to use actual Sunbrella Fabrics to coordinate your pieces. We have over 200 patterns to pick from. Another is to use these fantastic rugs especially made for the outdoors. This will really make your deck POP with color, take a beating and keep on ticking! We also have access to outdoor art!

IN MEMORY OF

Brian B. Wolfe

Oct. 15, 1981 - April 2, 2006

Brian, My Son,

Sadness is a vein that runs through my heart
The pain remains when we're apart
No voice I hear, but pain I feel
Your loss is too great for me to bear

The death of my child
Is a tear in my heart
I will never hold you in my arms
Nor see your smiling face

The death of my child leaves me hollow inside
Your voice, your smile
Your laughter I will never hear

I only have memories of you
Until we meet again my son
I will mourn your loss to eternity.

Your mother, Pam

Mom, please listen
Mom, please listen to me
As I take the time to write,
I see parents struggling daily,
Their pain is such a fight...

All of us who've gone
And left the rest of you behind...
We're okay, Mom, I promise...
Heaven is beautiful, and God is kind.

You used to tell me that one day
God would call and take you home.
You told me you'd make me strong
So I would stand tall when alone.

But things happen, Mom
That does not go in our plans,
I wasn't scared, Mom
When God held out His hand.

I didn't want to leave you,
I didn't have time to say good-bye
When the angels said, "Come with us"
There wasn't time to question why.

I've watched you daily, Mom
It hurts to see you cry.
I don't want you to be unhappy,
Just because we didn't get to say good-bye.

Tell others what I'm telling you,
So many parents need to know
That Earth was just a layover
we had another place to go.

I know you miss me, Mom
I know your heart was broken in two.
But God really needed me
Because my earthly life was through.

I'm always alongside you...
I smile and touch your hair.
I whisper "Mom, I love you"
You just can't see me there.

I'm the one who gently touches you...
On your shoulder when you're sad.
I'm happy now that you finally found
God again, and are no longer mad.

Tell the parents, Mom, for me
That all of us kids are okay.
God had plans for our lives
When He called us home that day.

I love you, Mom, I always will
And remember I'm not far away.
We're going to be together
When God calls out your name.

With Love... Brian

Sadly missed, Mom, Alicia, Jason, family and friends

MEN, LISTEN UP!

Sometimes, seemingly unrelated events show a causal connection that most people would never suspect. Such is the case with taking erectile dysfunction (ED) drugs such as sildenafil (Viagra), tadalafil (Cialis), and vardenafil (Levitra) and experiencing hearing loss. Because a small number of men who took these popular impotence drugs reported sudden, persistent hearing loss (which was sometimes accompanied by ringing in the ears and dizziness), the Food and Drug Administration took the step of requiring a hearing-loss warning for these ED drugs. If a man experiences hearing problems shortly after taking one of the drugs mentioned, he should refrain from further use and call his physician. The same warning applies to Revatio, a drug used to treat pulmonary artery hypertension.

We bring you our hearing health column as a way of educating the general public about the importance of being well informed about hearing healthcare issues. If you have questions about your hearing and the effects of medication, noise levels, aging, or other concerns, please do not hesitate to give us a call at AUDIBEL.

P.S. Other drugs known to be associated with hearing loss include some antibiotics, some chemotherapy drugs, and some anti-inflammatory drugs.

TALKING WATCH HELPS VISION IMPAIRED

For people with vision problems, simply looking at their watches can be a daily challenge. A talking watch that allows visually impaired people or those in low light to hear the time instead of struggling to see it can be a huge help. The user simply pushes a button on the side of the watch and a voice clearly announces the current time. With a bright white dial with large black numbers that are easy to see and extra thick hour, minute, and second hands, the watch is designed for easy viewing when conditions are right. It's also simple to set. With an extension band to fit just about any wrist size, it's a gift that will be most appreciated.

A talking watch is a great boon to the visually impaired. At TENDER LOVING HOME CARE, INC., we can provide an elderly or infirm person at home with home care skills and services tailored to the needs of the individual. For more information about our services, call us. Our caring professional staff is available for 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Long- or short-term care is available, whenever it's needed. Each care provider is employed by Tender Loving Home Care – which relieves clients and families of burdensome tax obligations. Our adult clients are primarily elderly, requesting non-medical assisted living at home.

P.S. One in eight Americans older than 40 are blind or have low vision, according to the National Institutes for Health.

Bagpipers From Estonia Set To Perform At GC

by Christy Stahl

As part of many contributions to Garrett College, the World View International Club will host a concert featuring the sensational Estonian band known as RO:TORO. The concert will be held on Tuesday, April 1, at 7 p.m. in the Garrett College auditorium. It is free for anyone who wishes to attend, however, monetary donations at the door would be greatly appreciated. Garrett College students who attend this event can earn one co-curricular credit toward graduation.

RO:TORO's name is derived from the Estonian words for reed and pipe. The four members of the band, featuring two bagpipers, a saxophonist, and a water drummer, will amaze the audience with their one-of-a-kind blend of musical talent.

Cätlin Jaago is one of the bagpipe players and served as the head of her electric band. She studied bagpipe at the University of Tartu Viljandi Culture Academy, Estonia, where she became further educated in her instrument. Learning her trade well and becoming one of the best pipers of Estonia, she has grown into an accomplished virtuoso player and composer. She also serves as one of the musical arrangers for the group.

Sandra Sillamaa, the group's second bag piper, has been Jaago's student for eight years. The two pipers combine their fantastic talents to sound as one united voice. Sillamaa has traveled the globe, from Ireland to Belgium to the Ivory Coast, and she brings those worldly influences to the group.

RO:TORO TO MAKE GARRETT COUNTY DEBUT – The Estonian musical group RO:TORO is slated to perform in the Garrett College auditorium on Tuesday, April 1, at 7 p.m. The group consists of bagpipers Cätlin Jaago and Sandra Sillamaa, water drummer Silver Sepp, and saxophonist Marko Mägi. The event is sponsored by the Maryland/Estonian Exchange Council and the Estonian Cultural Ministry. See story.

Marko Mägi plays saxophone for RO:TORO. Having visited Viljandi, a town in southern Estonia that was chartered in 1283, he had strong contacts with folk music that changed his original jazz-like tone. Mägi creates unique balance between virtuoso saxophone improvisation and riffs all the while maintaining traditional intonations.

Silver Sepp plays the out-of-the-ordinary homemade percussions. Sepp decided not to use modern, familiar drums because they are not a true part of Estonian culture. He instead constructed his own by taking six plastic washbasins, filling three with water and placing the remaining three on each upside down. When hit, it creates a sound that is soft and rounded. In addition, Sepp uses wooden boards and a tuned bicycle wheel to add to RO:TORO'S dynamic performances.

While most Americans may think of bagpipes as coming from Scotland, bagpipes were actually popular throughout Europe as early as the 13th and 14th centuries. RO:TORO's web site, old chronicles, and other documents verify the popularity of bagpipes in Estonia where it was widely used in weddings and various other customs.

One story is that the bagpipe was used in Estonia during feudal times when manor overseers would hire bagpipers to follow the grain cutters while playing the bagpipes. When it was noticed that a cutter was being lazy or careless, the bagpipe player would follow that person making a whining sound with his instrument "like the piglet would do when it is in trouble." This brought attention and ridicule from the other cutters, motivating the lazy cutter to work harder and faster in order to stop the whining.

RO:TORO will perform traditional bagpipe tunes from these and other historic times and will also offer some pieces of the members' own compositions, inspired by the long history of their home country and the bagpipe.

Those who are interested in hearing some of RO:TORO's music in advance of the concert may do so by going to www.myspace.com/rototo.

Thanks should be directed to the Maryland/Estonian Exchange Council and the Estonian Cultural Ministry, who serve as sponsors and further make this act possible.

For additional information about the performance, persons may contact Judy A. Carbone, Garrett College International Club coordinator, at 301-387-3046 or at judy.carbone@garrett-college.edu.

Garrett Women Take Seventh Place In National Tournament

The season is now officially over for the women's basketball team of Garrett College, which downed Mesa (Ariz.) last Thursday, before finishing seventh place in a victory over Penn Valley (Mo.) at the Junior College Division II national tournament. The 2008 Lakers set a record for the highest national ranking in Garrett College's history, and finished the season with an overall 25-5 record.

The Lakers went to nationals ready to play. They went 2-1 in three tournament games, with the loss being 67-66 in overtime in the tourney opener to the Community College of Rhode Island.

"We were so excited to be in Illinois to play for the national championship," said sophomore forward Larisha McAdory.

Because of the first-round loss, the best the Lakers could finish in the 12-team field was seventh.

"Even though we didn't win nationals, I wouldn't have finished it any other way," said sophomore center Mindy Sharp. "Before we went out for the final game, I told the team, 'This is our last game together, and I expect us to go out with a bang.' I believe we went out with a bang."

After the first loss, the team knew they had to press on and turn things around for their final two games of the tournament.

"It was hard to lose the first game, but you can either give up or keep going," said McAdory. "I knew we were going to win the last two games because we had the heart to do so."

"After we lost the first game, I just knew we were going to win the last two games," sophomore point guard Tegra "Kitty" Hillman agreed. "We couldn't lose any more games. This is my last year. We had to win."

The team's determination paid off in its final two tournament games.

Garrett's contest with the Mesa Thunderbirds was played on day two of the tourney, and was a concentrated effort for the Lakers, who came out on top with a 70-56 win after busting out a big second half.

Neither team shot particularly well from the field – Garrett hitting on 36 percent (21-for-58) and Mesa 31 percent (22-for-71) – but the Lakers won with decisive edges from the foul line and the bench.

Garrett was able to take advantage of its 23 successful shots from the foul line, while Mesa (13-21) only converted on five of its 11 attempts. SEVENTH BEST IN THE NATION – The Garrett College women's basketball team downed Penn Valley (Mo.) to finish seventh out of 12 teams in the National Junior College Athletic Association Division II National Championship at Illinois Central College. The 2008 Lakers, pictured above, set a record for the highest national ranking in Garrett College's history, and finished the season with an overall 25-5 record. The team attended a college-organized send-off party in Laker Café on March 13. See story.

Sharp was right on in Saturday's 71-50 win over the Penn Valley Scouts and went out with a bang as she put forth a near-perfect game with a double-double of 24 points (six of which came off two treys) and 10 rebounds. She recorded four blocked shots and two steals, and was 11-for-17 from the charity stripe.

Sharp efforts paid off. She made All-tournament at nationals.

"I'm thrilled to have gotten All-tournament," she said. "It made my day." Sharp said she is still unsure of her post-Garrett plans, although she intends to continue her basketball career. "Whatever four-year college I end up attending will be good," Sharp said. "It'll be sad to leave, but I'm excited to move on."

Jeffers did her fair share with a perfect 8-for-8 performance from the free-throw line to finish with 14 points, seven assists, and two steals. Bradley contributed 13 points, and had seven assists and four steals in the win.

Hillman chipped in with six points and six rebounds, and Tiffany Mace had six points, five rebounds, and three assists in the victory.

"Winning the last two games was a great feeling," said sophomore point guard Requita Davis. "I'm really happy we won the last game."

Sharp expressed her feelings in a similar way.

"In the end, finishing strong settles well with me."

Hilary Walker led Penn Valley with 19 points and six rebounds.

Garrett led 38-26 at halftime in a game that saw only one tie and two lead changes. The Laker's widest lead came in the second half at 56-38.

Penn Valley (23-13) held a slight 46-44 edge in rebounds, but 23 of the 46 rebounds came on the offensive side. As a result, the Scouts held a big 20-9 advantage in second-chance points.

Garrett more than made up for it by outscoring Penn Valley 31-12 in points off turnovers. The Lakers, who shot 46 percent from the field (28-for-61) converted 14 of 22 free throws compared to Penn Valley's 4-for-11 shooting.

In addition to capturing seventh place in the tournament, the Lakers were awarded the Betty J. Graber Sportsmanship Award, which is given to the team that demonstrates the highest level of sportsmanship on and off the court during the tournament.

"I was very impressed by the way our team represented the district and Garrett College," said Ann Wellham, Garrett College athletic director. "The fact that they were able to secure seventh place in the nation in addition to being awarded the Betty J. Graber Sportsmanship Award says a lot about the team's competitive ability and character."

This is the second time the Laker women have been honored with this award. The team was also given the sportsmanship award when it went to the nationals in 2004.

Even though the team spent most of their time practicing and playing basketball during their time at the national tournament, they did have some free time to enjoy their trip.

"It felt so good to be in Illinois," said McAdory. "We were treated like stars. We got dressed up and went to a banquet for the players and we received gift bags and free T-shirts. We worked really hard to get there, and I believe we deserved to be there."

"I'm truly going to miss some people," Davis said. "It's going to hurt to leave the people you really care about. Some of the teammembers are my best friends; however, I am excited about my future."

For more information about the Garrett Lakers, persons may contact Ann Wellham at 301-387-3059 or by e-mail at ann.wellham@garrettcollege.edu.

Northern Shows Early-Season Potential With Three Victories

The defending area champion Northern High School varsity baseball team became the H.L. Kerns Easter Tournament champions by beating Ferndale (Pa.) and host Hancock with the mercy rule in a Saturday season opening twinbill. The Huskies improved their record to 3-0 overall (1-0 AMAC) after whipping Keyser on Tuesday.

"We're off to a good start," said Northern head coach Phil Carr. "Our pitching is strong, as we expected, and we're playing good defense – not great – but good."

The first win came off a six-inning 11-1 blasting of Ferndale. The Huskies jumped to an early lead by scoring four runs in each of the first two innings to get an 8-1 lead. Northern scored another run in the third and then forced the 10-run rule with two runs in the bottom of the sixth.

Patrick Brady doubled in a run and had a single, and Matt Sisler and Jeff Smith recorded two singles each, with Smith getting an RBI. Brandon Beachy drove in two runs on a single in the win for Northern.

Kyle Gillum struck out eight in four innings for Northern, and relieving pitcher Trey Beasom wrapped up the final two innings with four strikeouts.

It took even fewer innings for Northern to capture a 15-2 victory over Hancock in the championship contest, with just five innings.

The Huskies used a big 11-run second to blow the game open. Another Northern run came in the third, and the mercy rule was implemented after three more runners made it home in the bottom of the fourth.

Beachy drove in five of the Huskies' runs with two singles and a double, Brady had an RBI on a double and a single, and Beasom finished with three singles. Dan Warnick drove in a run with a double and a single, and Ryan Finzel brought in two runners with a single.

Jake Foreman was responsible for both of the Panthers' runs with a single in the fourth.

The Huskies captured another early-season widespread win, this one being a 6-1 triumph on Tuesday over the Keyser Golden Tornados (2-2 overall, 2-1 AMAC).

Sisler tossed a three-hitter, which included two walks and seven strikeouts to get the win, and reliever Beasom achieved a hitless seventh inning. Sisler further assisted in the Northern win with a double.

Brady rapped a double and single, knocked in a run, and scored a run for the Huskies, while Dan Warnick hit an RBI single. Smith also recorded an RBI single, and Ben Diehl singled three times.

Southern Baseball Team Makes Split Between Campers, Trojans

The Southern High School varsity baseball team came up short to Allegany in the season opening Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference game for both teams on Monday, but bounced back and blanked Hampshire on Wednesday.

Allegany got the first run of Monday evening's 2-1 edge in the bottom of the first inning, and Southern answered back with a run in the third, but Campers Cody Ellsworth and Chris Wilson did everything they could from the mound to earn the save.

Elisworth was relieved before the sixth with the 2-1 lead after allowing just one run on one hit and striking out four. Wilson wrapped things up by collecting two stikeouts in two innings pitched.

Derek Barb brought home the winning run with a fielder's choice in the fifth inning.

Reese Duncan collected two of Southern's five hits with singles. Jason Ashby fanned five in the loss, while Jake Briley picked up three strikeouts for the Rams.

Brennan Connelley hit two singles for Allegany, and J.D. Hook recorded a single and both of the Campers' runs.

Southern did all of its damage in the first two innings, and Ram pitchers Cody Parsons and Nathan King combined to take the reins of a three hitter, to thwart host Hampshire, 10-0 on Wednesday.

The Rams scored five runs in the first inning and added four more in the second. Parsons dominated the first four innings and allowed just one single while accumulating nine strikeouts. King gave up two hits and struck out five in three innings.

The leading hitters for the Rams were Kody Lewis and Jake Briley. Lewis smacked two singles and had an RBI and Briley recorded a double, a single, and an RBI. Ryan Sweitzer and Derek Taylor both had a double and a single.

Southern (1-1 overall, 1-1 AMAC) plays at noon at Keyser on Saturday. The Rams will then travel to Fort Hill for a 4 p.m. contest on Tuesday and Petersburg for a 7 p.m. game on Wednesday.

Garrett Gets Win Over Muscatine After Lackawana, Parkland Losses

It was with the security of early leads that Lackawana (Pa.) and Parkland (Ill.) were able to hand the Garrett College baseball squad losses in a Thursday doubleheader in Myrtle Beach, S.C., but the Lakers wiped out Muscatine (Iowa) the next day to bring their spring trip to an end.

Lackawana rolled to a 6-3 win in the first game Thursday with the help of Craig Killinger's third inning grand slam that put the Falcons up at 5-0.

K.J. Ventry managed to get the Lakers on the board when he belted a double and a single and knocked in a run. Justin Quinn recorded an RBI single.

In the second game, Parkland got started early and dropped four runs on Garrett in the top of the first, as the Cobras ensured a 6-4 win.

John VanAsdlen hit a two-run home run in the four-run Parkland first, and Garrett fired back in the second inning with a Ventry solo homer. Garrett rallied for three runs in the fifth when Ventry delivered a two-run single.

The Lakers loaded the bases with no one out in the bottom of the sixth, but came away empty as Parkland reliever Rico Martinez wiggled out of the jam with two strikeouts and a groundout.

Brandon Sherman doubled and singled for Garrett.

Former Northern High School standout Greg Beachy allowed just two hits from Muscatine in Friday's 8-0 shutout, and the Lakers leveled their record at 9-9.

Beachy struck out eight in a complete-game performance.

Garrett's first run came in the second inning, and the Lakers were up by four points after a three-run fourth. Ventry slammed a solo homer during a four-run fifth that blew the game open.

Dustin Adams hit two singles and knocked in two runs, and Julian Cabrera singled in two runners in the win.

Garrett plays on the road at Allegany in a 3 p.m. single game on Friday.

A New Season Provides A Fresh Opportunity For Ram Softball

The Southern High School girls' varsity softball squad has an opportunity to turn over new pages this season, as it demonstrated in its season opening victory over Bishop Walsh, and has the advantage of a mature team, consisting of mostly upperclassman players to make the 2008 season a booming one.

Tuesday's opener, played at Bishop Walsh, saw a 9-3 win for the Rams as Melodie Stolbom pitched a four-hitter and collected 10 strikeouts in a complete game victory.

Alyssa Dick led the Rams at the plate with a double and two singles, while catcher Sarah Brenneman led a defensive effort.

The Rams scored twice in the top half of the first and added a third run in the third inning to go up to 3-2. Southern pulled away for good with a five-run fourth.

Abby Mathews provided a double and two singles for the Spartans, and Rochelle Wolford rapped two singles. Wolford struck out nine.

The Southern jayvees picked up a 12-1 win the same day. Kelsey Graham hit a double and a single while teammate Katie Egglesten slugged two singles in the win. Alice Helmstetter doubled for BW.

Chief among those who departed from last season's unit were Lauren Shue, Amber Plank, Lacy Matthews, and Elizabeth Ray, but Coach Dick welcomes back seniors Brenneman, Dick, Brittany Boyce, Clarissa Blamble, and Stolbom, and junior Shayna Sweitzer.

Of the six starting seniors, Coach Dick notes that they have all been playing ball since they were nine years old.

"I feel we will be strong in the field and with the bat," Dick said. "We have good team speed and have four girls with long ball potential."

The only thing concerning the head coach is his players' ability to strike out their opponents.

"We have to throw strikes, but I think every coach has that issue," he said.

Commanding the battery this season are pitchers Stolbom and Dick, with Brenneman working from second base. Dick expects his only freshman player, Ayla Fuller, to get a lot of play time as a second baseman and left fielder.

"We have a great bunch of hard working young ladies with a common goal, which is "win ball games." he said.

The team members camaraderie and guardianship of each other only adds fuel to the Rams' fire.

"All the girls get along well and look out for each other," said Dick.

Dick is anticipating threatening Mountain Ridge and Fort Hill teams, but trusts that his players have the dedication to carry the team over all others.

"I think we can go as far as they want to, all the way to states."

The Rams will go after wins this evening at Petersburg and Saturday at Hampshire. Tonight's game starts at 4:30 p.m. and Saturday's begins at noon.

Huskies Edged By Campers In Opener, Trojans In Game Two

The Northern High School varsity softball squad had a rough season opener on Monday at Allegany as the Campers forced a shutout, and the Huskies again found themselves down on Wednesday in a 9-7 edge by the Hampshire Trojans. Other than a box score, no details were received about Northern's loss to the Trojans.

The Huskies found themselves ill-equipped when Camper Jenna Mathews picked up the bat and belted a three-run home run as part of Allegany's 15-0 shutout at Carl Belt Field.

Mathews also had a double and five RBI. Other leading hitters for Allegany were Hilary Lyons with three base hits and three RBI, Erin Hansel and Katie Alkire with two hits and one RBI each, and Haylie Harper with a double and two RBI.

The Huskies were held to one hit, managed by Abby Sherrard. Alkire and Hayley Stankan pitched for Allegany with Alkire striking out seven and Stankan fanning five.

The junior varsity Huskies were also on the receiving end of a shutout – theirs being a 10-0 defeat.

Taron Rosenberger pitched a no-hitter to lead Allegany to the five-inning victory Monday at Hudson Field.

Rosenberger struck out four and didn't allow a walk, but one Camper error scratched the surface of a near-perfect game.

Rosenberger had two singles at the plate, as did Bailey Ellsworth.

Northern will play Saturday at Keyser at noon, Monday at Frankfort, and will host Mountain Ridge on Wednesday, with both games starting at 4 p.m.

THE MIDDLE-CLASS MILLIONAIRE
by Russ Alan Prince and Lewis Schiff
c. 2008, Currency Doubleday, $23.95, 228 pages
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

One of your neighbors has a new car – one of those high-mileage vehicles – and it's pretty impressive. You're thinking you might go car-shopping soon.

Last week, you bought a new cell phone on the advice of a co-worker. Hers has all these features, and you could see the benefits of owning one yourself. In fact, you told your brother about it and he's getting one, too.

You think you're being smart. In the new book The Middle-Class Millionaire by Russ Alan Prince and Lewis Schiff, you'll see that you're very smart, but you're also being swayed by a new class of Joneses you can't wait to keep up with.

In places all over, suburbs are planned and built to cater to people who want to live in a Leave-It-to-Beaver-like neighborhood. If the suburb already exists, perfectly good houses are being torn down and replaced with "Mc-mansions." People are joining elite clubs that offer luxury "cabins" to members for family vacations. Parents are sending their kids to ivy-league colleges, not just for the education, but also for the "contacts" they'll gain.

What's going on?

Prince and Schiff say that a recent study done on behalf of a magazine yielded some intriguing information: people with extremely high net worth ($10 million or more) rarely influence the buying decisions of others. They don't rave about their purchases, and they don't interact with people enough to sway shopping habits.

Surprisingly, those with less money are the ones with influence. People with net worth between $1 million and $10 million dollars – a sociological group the authors call "middle-class millionaires" – are the ones we watch.

Most middle-class millionaires, the authors say, are baby boomers who made their money rather than inherited it. They're technology-minded, with an entrepreneurial streak. They're family-focused, but work hard. Hobbies are great, but they'd rather make money than tinker. "Experiences" are better than possessions. And quitting? It's not an option for them.

But does it really matter where anybody falls on the scale? According to the authors, it does. Middle-class millionaires are changing the way government is run, purchases are made, products are manufactured, and cities are planned. Smart entrepreneurs are starting businesses to make the MCM's life easier. Savvy corporations recognize their influence. Educators are guiding the next generation of MCMs to the future.

I'm a ways away from the minimum net-worth, but I was intrigued by this book. I have many of the traits. Am I a middle-class millionaire in the works?

Authors Russ Alan Prince and Lewis Schiff indicate that it's possible. There's a short questionnaire in here that will help you decide if you have what it takes, and advice on changing yourself if you don't. This book fascinated me, and I think it's important information in today's economy, no matter where you fall in line.

If you've been influenced by a member of this shrewdly-affecting group – and the authors say we all have – then pick up this book. The Middle-Class Millionaire gives you hundreds of little reasons to watch the Joneses closely.

Students Chosen To Attend People To People Conf.

Four local students have been accepted into the People to People World Leadership Forum, which will take place next month in Washington, D.C. The four girls, Rachael Huxford, Logan Miller, Alexandera Miske, and Jillian Yant, will earn high school credits while studying leadership and touring the monuments and museums of the capital city, as well as those of Colonial Williamsburg in Virginia.

The students will be examining the characteristics of American leadership during times of national challenge and prosperity. Forum delegates will also participate in small group discussions and exercises to experience firsthand how successful leaders develop strategies, make decisions, build consensus, and foster change, a spokesperson said.

The girls were nominated and accepted for the honor based on scholastic merit, civic involvement, and leadership potential. Rachael is the daughter of Dusty and Elizabeth Huxford, Logan is the daughter of Vaughn and Donna Miller, Alexandra is the daughter of Curt and Rita Miske, and Jillian is the daughter of Bill and Lori Yant. All four girls are sixth graders at Southern Middle School.

The program is coordinated by People to People Student Leader programs that fulfill the vision of President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who worked to foster world citizenship. He founded People to People during his presidency in 1956. More information about the programs may be obtained by visiting www.wlfleaders.org.

Mtn. Lake Park Teenager Makes Eagle Scout Rank

William Goldsborough, 17, of Boy Scout Troop 31, received Eagle Scout honors at a ceremony on Sunday, March 9, at Dennett Road Elementary School. To earn scouting's highest award, Goldsborough earned a minimum of 21 merit badges, served as a leader in his troop, and completed a community service project.

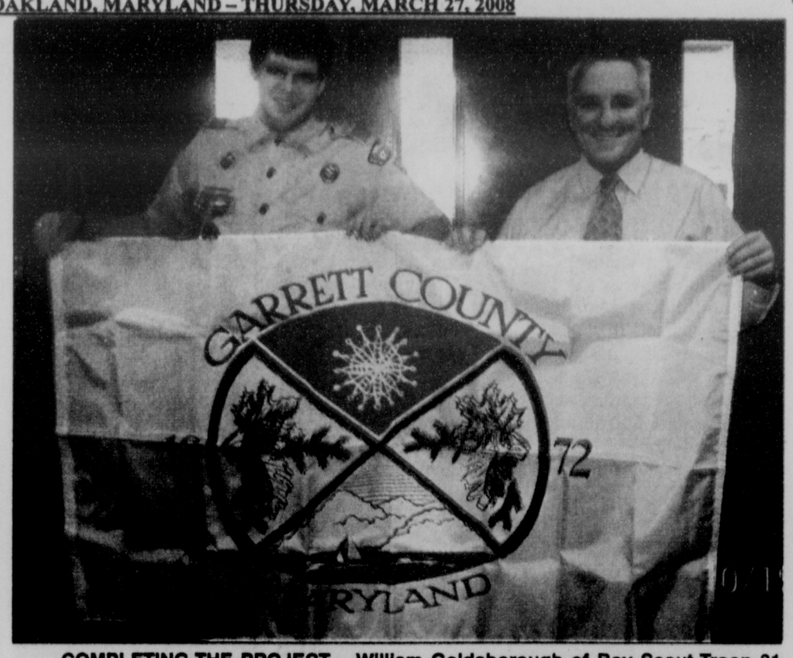
For his community service project, Goldsborough led members of his troop and family in installing three new flag poles, four benches, and six picnic tables in the arboretum at Dennett Road Elementary School. He also replaced a dead tree and added bushes to the landscaping. The project took four months to complete.

In addition, he obtained new flags for the school, including a county flag donated by the Garrett County commissioners, and American flags from Winner's Circle. Goldsborough also received an American flag that had been flown over the U.S. Capitol building from Senator Barbara Mikulski, and he designed and ordered a new school flag.

During his career as a troop member, Goldsborough has served as patrol leader, troop guide, assistant senior patrol leader, and scribe, and has earned a total of 42 merit badges. Troop 31 is sponsored by Bethel United Methodist Church of Mountain Lake Park.

Goldsborough has been an active participant in the People to People Student Ambassador program for the past three years, and is a current member of the Garrett County Democratic Club.

Goldsborough is a senior at Southern High School, and said he plans to attend Garrett College next fall. He is the son of David and Elizabeth Goldsborough of Mtn. Lake Park.



COMPLETING THE PROJECT – William Goldsborough of Boy Scout Troop 31 recently presented Gary Galloway, principal of Dennett Road Elementary School, with a Garrett County flag that was donated by the county commissioners. The flag was part of an Eagle Scout project Goldsborough completed for the school. See story.

School Readiness On The Rise For Maryland Youth

Children entering kindergarten in Maryland are better prepared to begin school than in years past, according to a new report by the Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE).

"Children Entering School Ready to Learn –School Readiness Information for School Year 2007-2008," a report by MSDE's Division of Early Childhood Development, revealed modest, steady progress in all demographic subgroups. Maryland students entering kindergarten fully prepared for learning increased by 1 percent from 2006 to 2007, up to 68 percent. That is up 19 percentage points since the baseline year of 2002.

"Children who have a good start in learning before they begin kindergarten do better in school," said Nancy S. Grasmick, state superintendent of schools. "It is clear that this message is getting out to most households, but every family needs to know how important this is."

The annual MSDE study reflects portfolio assessment information on kindergartners' readiness levels in social and personal areas, language and literacy, mathematical thinking, scientific thinking, social studies, the arts, physical development, and health.

The MSDE study found improvement across demographic categories in the percentage of student ready for kindergarten work. For example:

•School readiness levels for English language learners went up 6 percentage points between 2006 and 2007, from 49 percent to 55 percent.

•The improvement in school readiness for low-income children – students receiving free or reduced price meals – was one percent overall, from 58 to 59 percent.

•The percent of special education students deemed fully ready for kindergarten remained flat at 43 percent, but that is 13 points higher than it was when the survey project began in 2002.

The study results highlight the importance of high-quality early learning opportunities, according to Dr. Grasmick. Children who spent time in early-care settings started school better prepared for learning that those who remained at home or in the homes of relatives, the research found. Children enrolled in pre-K programs (70 percent fully ready for kindergarten), child-care centers (72 percent), and non-public nursery schools (83 percent) the year prior to kindergarten exhibited stronger school readiness levels than those who were at home or in informal care settings the year prior to kindergarten.

In the "State of Preschool 2007" report released last month, the National Institute of Early Education Research found that Maryland has been strengthening access to quality pre-K programs. The report said that Maryland ranks 10th in the nation in preschool access for 4-year-olds.

Maryland's annual school readiness report is the result of legislative action to gauge the progress on school readiness skills of incoming kindergartners. This year, more than 2,000 kindergarten teachers used portfolio-based assessment to document their students' performance in their classrooms during the first eight weeks of school.

Kindergarten teachers evaluated and rated student performance between Nov. 5 and Nov. 21, 2007, using the early childhood assessment protocol and specific guidelines that were developed by MSDE. The assessment information in the report reflects scores for each of the seven domains of learning, such as literacy, math, and social skills, as well as the composite score of all domains.

MSDE is a national leader in the evaluation of early childhood learning, establishing an annual evaluation of what entering kindergartners know and are able to do. The complete School Readiness report will be available soon on the MSDE web site, www.MarylandPublicSchools.org.

Treatments for Stem Cell Dysfunction

Myclodysplasia is the medical term for a condition in which the body's stem cells do not function normally. This leads to an inadequate amount of healthy cells, which may lead to life-threatening complications. Stem cells are found within the bone marrow and normally develop into mature blood cells. Signs and symptoms of the condition include fatigue, unusual bruising, paleness, and possibly petechiae. Petechiae is the appearance of small red spots beneath the skin due to bleeding. Myclodysplastic syndrome may develop in response to certain types of chemotherapy medications, as well as to large amounts of certain chemical substances found in the environment. Chemicals found in cigarette smoke and some types of household products are a few.

Although there is no cure for myclodysplastic syndromes, people affected by this condition may receive treatment to alleviate associated symptoms. Azacitadine and decitabine have been approved by the Food and Drug Administration for treatment. These medications improve the development of cells into mature blood cells. Lenalidomide may decrease the need for blood transfusions. A stem cell transplant is another possible treatment option.

Sixth Annual Family Fun Festival Slated At Broad Ford Elementary

The Kids First Committee will sponsor the sixth annual Family Fun Festival on Saturday, April 5, at Broad Ford Elementary School from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. This free event will kick off the Month of the Young Child in April.

Kids First will celebrate the month of April to recognize the needs of young children and to thank educators and others involved in building better futures for all children.

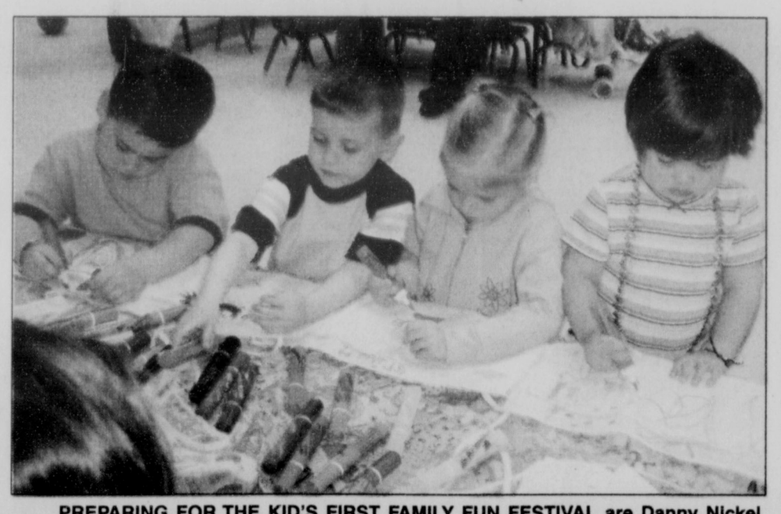
"Early learning experiences are essential to the growth and development of young children, and the Month of the Young Child provides opportunities for all of us to recognize the importance of the early years," said a festival spokesperson.

The Month of the Young Child, sponsored nationally by the National Association for the Education of Young Children, is an opportunity for early childhood programs across the country – including preschools and elementary schools – child care, Head Start, and visiting programs to hold activities to bring awareness to the needs of young children.

At the Family Fun Festival, agencies and organizations will provide a day of fun, food, and hands-on activities for young children (birth to 8 years of age) and their families (older siblings welcome).

The festival will feature a special guest appearance by Smokey Bear from the Department of Natural Resources (DNR). Officers from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office will offer fingerprinting for all of the children attending. In addition, the Garrett County commissioners will answer questions parents may have about county government.

There will be a light lunch, door prizes, face paint-ing, ice cream, a book giveaway, and much more.



PREPARING FOR THE KID'S FIRST FAMILY FUN FESTIVAL are Danny Nickel, Brogan Kealy, Bridget Kealy, and Maggie Nickel. This free annual event is slated for Saturday, April 5, at Broad Ford Elementary School from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Planned activities include face painting, a book giveaway, and an appearance by Smokey Bear. See story.

"Kids First is sponsoring the festival for the sixth year and promises that the day will be full of surprises, games, and giveaways," said the spokesperson. "Last year, approximately 166 children and 169 parents attended the festival. The event promotes healthy, family-oriented activities that should enable parents/care-givers to walk away encouraged to help their children learn and succeed in school."

Information about the various services available for young children and their families will be offered, and agency/organization staff members will be on hand to answer questions.

"Young children and their families depend on quality education and care, which helps children get a great start, and brings lasting benefits for our society as a whole," said the spokesperson. "Month of the Young Child is a time to recognize the people, programs, and policies that are helping build better futures for all children."

Locally, Month of the Young Child activities are coordinated by the Kids First Committee. Kids First is a sub-committee of Local Interagency Coordinating Council (LICC) that is comprised of early childhood professionals working together to plan, develop, coordinate, and advise early childhood prevention and intervention services for children birth though five and their caregivers.

"LICC empowers parents to recognize and address the individual educational and developmental needs of their children," the spokesperson said.

No reservations are required. For more information about the festival, persons may call Overlook Judy Center at 301-334-4211.

Companies contributing to the festival include Sysco Food Services of Virginia, Peppers Inc., U.S. Food Service, and McDonald's.

"Recovery is a journey of personal growth and transformation. It's about living well, moving beyond diagnosis, defining for yourself who you are, and creating a satisfying life of your choosing," a spokesperson said.

This training will include a recovery slide show, introduction to recovery self assessment tools, an introduction to Network of Care, recovery experience, and a question/answer session. Light refreshments will be served.

Garrett Memorial Offering Info Mtgs. On MRSA Bacteria

Garrett County Memorial Hospital will host several informational meetings about methicillin resistant staphylococcus aureus (MRSA), a type of bacteria that causes "staph" infections that are resistant to treatment with usual antibiotics. MRSA has been the subject of media reports for the past few months, and GCMH staff wished to provide information about the issue.

The planned MRSA informational sessions are as follows: April 2, Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland, 11:15 a.m.; April 3, Grantsville Senior Center, 11:15 a.m.; April 14, Friendsville Senior Center, 11:15 a.m.; and April 15, Swanton Senior Center, 11:30 a.m.

Residents who would like to learn more about MRSA but cannot attend any of the community sessions may contact Kearstin Hinebaugh at GCMH, 301-533-4041.

MRSA occurs most frequently among patients who undergo invasive medical procedures or who have weakened immune systems, Hinebaugh said.

Staphylococcus aureus (staph) is a germ that often lives in the noses and on the skin of healthy people. Not all staph infections are resistant to antibiotics like MRSA, Hinebaugh said. Staph is spread from person to person on contaminated hands, skin, and objects, but not through the air. Most infections caused by staph affect the skin, causing a spot that may look like a pimple or boil and can be red, swollen, and painful, sometimes with pus or drainage.

"Recent news reports about the bacteria have been prompted not only by deaths caused by MRSA, but by new evidence that infections from it are increasing faster than experts previously realized," Hinebaugh said. "Because MRSA is resistant to most antibiotics, it is important that we all work together – health care providers, schools, health departments, hospitals, nursing homes, patient care centers, public service centers and facilities, and community members – to prevent the spread of this and other infections."

To prevent a staph skin infection, persons should keep their hands clean by washing well with soap and water, or use an alcohol hand gel; keep cuts and scrapes clean and covered until healed; avoid contact with other people's wounds or bandages unless wearing disposable gloves; avoid sharing personal items such as towels or razors; and report suspicious skin inflammation to health care providers.

Persons who exercise in a public health club should also be cautious and practice good hygiene. Those individuals should shower after a workout, cover any open skin areas with a dry bandage, use a barrier such as clothing or towel between one's skin and the shared equipment, and wipe surfaces of equipment before and after use.

Most staph and MRSA infections are treatable with antibiotics. Some staph skin infections may be treated by draining the abscess and may not require antibiotics. Drainage of these abscesses should only be done by a health care provider.

"In hospitals, nursing homes, and physician offices, staff members are being trained to be vigilant about hand hygiene and the use of antibacterial cleaners," Hinebaugh said. Food service employees are also encouraged to remember to wash their hands and minimize flesh to food contact. Health facilities generally employ infection control nurses trained at monitoring staff compliance to infection standards. Hospital administrations also endeavor to minimize new cases of MRSA when possible.

"Garrett County is fortunate to a have a group of concerned medical practitioners who are constantly monitoring for MRSA," Hinebaugh said. These physicians, health practitioners, and nurses share information on the latest prevention techniques as well as treatment options available to compromised patients.

"While MRSA is a big problem in larger metropolitan areas, we remain vigilant to endeavor to keep it from becoming as big a problem in our community," said Linda Danjou, RN, BSN, infection control practitioner at GCMH. "We educate our patients who have MRSA on what they can do at home to prevent the spread to other family members."

For more information on MRSA, persons may go to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention web site at www.cdc.gov and search under "M" for methicillin resistant staphylococcus aureus.

Local Man Faces Jail Sentence On Assault Charge

Oakland resident Edward Scott Moats, 23, pleaded guilty to a charge of second degree assault in a criminal summons case in recent Garrett County District Court, and was sentenced to 30 days in jail, all of which were suspended except for two days. He was also fined $100.

Moats was arrested in September 2007 after a reported alleged assault of a 15-year old male linked him to the incident.

In other district court news, Chad Paul Klapper, 29, Terra Alta, W.Va., pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of more than $500 and received a one-year jail sentence, which was suspended in its entirety. Klapper was handed 24 months of supervised probation and a fine of $400. In addition, he was ordered to pay a restitution of $800 to Blue Ribbon Pallet and Lumber Company near Red House. Klapper was also ordered to refrain from entering the lumber company.

A September 2005 investigation at Blue Ribbon Pallet and Lumber Company revealed that 15 air nailers that were missing from company were stolen by Klapper, according to court documents. Reports note that the shop was entered through an unlocked, but closed, door, and the nailers were removed.

In an unrelated case, John Michael Dewitt, 23, Friendsville, received a 90-day jail term, all of which was suspended, after pleading guilty to a charge of theft of less than $100. He was handed 18 months of unsupervised probation and a fine of $300 in the criminal summons case.

Police officers investigated the incident, which led to Dewitt's October 2007 arrest, after employees at a McHenry business discovered that Dewitt had used a Beitzel Corporation company charge account without authorization. Dewitt had purchased $66.98 worth of hydraulic oil and signed the bill with the name of a Beitzel Corporation employee.

Christy Evers, 20, Landing, N.J., pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana and received a probation before judgment (PBJ), as well as 12 months of unsupervised probation and a fine of $200.

Garrett County Sheriff's deputies arrested Evers in July 2007 when, during a traffic stop, an exterior K-9 scan of the vehicle gave a positive alert for the presence of drugs. Evers, the driver of the vehicle, was found to be in possession of a marijuana.

Kendall Shane Lowers, 36, Oakland, was not prosecuted on charges of second degree assault, reckless endangerment, and theft of less than $500 after his November 2007 arrest by sheriff's deputies.

Robert James, 65, Frederick was not prosecuted on a charge of theft of less than $500. The charge was filed against him by Maryland State Police officers in March 2007.

Jamie Dee Stanton, 26, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a charge of violation of a protective order. He was arrested in November 2007.

Dannie Allen Stemple, 53, Grantsville, was not prosecuted on a charge of inhaling a harmful substance, stemming from his November 2007 arrest.

Roy Jason Devore, 25, Oakland, was not prosecuted on charges of possession of marijuana and resisting arrest. The charges were filed in June 2007.

Rodney Elia Iannelli, 47, Pittsburgh, Pa., was not prosecuted on a charge of possession of marijuana. He was arrested by members of the Natural Resources Police in August 2007.

Marty Lee Ritchie, 29, Md., pleaded guilty to a charge of DUI per se and was sentenced to 60 days of jail time, but the sentence was suspended. He received a fine of $250 as well as 12 months of unsupervised probation. Ritchie was not prosecuted on charges of DUI, DWI, and driver consuming an alcoholic beverage in the passenger area of a motor vehicle. The charges were filed in December 2007.

Benjamin Jon Licht, 25, Pa., pleaded not guilty to a charge of DUI per se, but received a PBJ, 18 months of unsupervised probation, and a $307 fine. Licht was not prosecuted on charges of DUI, DWI, and driver consuming an alcoholic beverage in the passenger area of a motor vehicle on a highway. His arrest was filed in August 2007.

Sarah Beth Morgan, 27, Md., received a stet ruling on a charge of DUI, which was filed in August 2007.

Robert Howard Brown, 24, S.C., was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on charges of DUI, DUI per se, DWI, and four other driving violations. He was arrested in March 2007.

Brian Keith Bane, 45, Md., was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DWI, which were filed against him in September 2007.

Correction Noted

It was stated in last week's edition of The Republican that Mathew Thomas Savage, 21, Md., faces charges of DUI, DUI per se, DWI, and one other driving offense, which stemmed from his January arrest, but it was not clearly stated that the charges were placed on the stet docket. The case was heard in recent Garrett County District Court.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

TIMING OF EASTER

Q. I thought Easter was always supposed to be associated with Passover. Why do they sometimes come weeks apart?

A. The differences are caused by a combination of factors involving astronomy, calculations, and ancient religious customs.

The simple way to memorize the formula for setting Easter is this: "the first Sunday after the first full moon after the spring (vernal) equinox." The only trouble is, that equinox is not the astronomical equinox (which in 2008 occurred early on March 20), but the ecclesiastical equinox, which is defined to be always March 21. The early Christians squabbled about all this until the fourth century, when the astronomers at Alexandria, Egypt, were assigned the duty of saying when Easter would be, because they had the best observatory.

Barely noticed in those days was that the Roman calendar (known as the Julian calendar) was drifting off by a little. The Julian calendar contained leap years every 4 years, but still there was an error of 11 minutes per year. In a century, that would build up to 1100 minutes (= 18 hours) and in 400 years the error accumulated to 3 days. To correct for this slow-drift nuisance, about the sixth century the rules were simplified by defining the ecclesiastical vernal equinox as March 21.

The calendar continued to drift for another 1000 years, until in 1582 the Gregorian calendar was introduced. Eleven days were taken out of the calendar, and to prevent further drifting, the leap-year rule was corrected so as to skip a leap year every 100 years, but put it back in every 400 years. (As a result, 2000 was a standard leap year, and nobody noticed anything unusual).

However, the removal of 11 days antagonized various blocks of people, most notably the entire Eastern Orthodox branch of Christianity. They wouldn't switch. For ecclesiastical purposes, they still reckon according to the Julian calendar, and by now that is off by 13 days from the astronomically corrected (Gregorian) calendar. With their definition of the ecclesiastical vernal equinox thus moving slowly into spring, the Eastern Orthodox churches frequently celebrate Easter a month later (April 27 in 2008).

Meanwhile, the Hebrew calendar goes back over 5,000 years to Moses and the Exodus from Egypt. It is a lunisolar calendar – counted in lunar months but adjusted to match the solar year. Back in the days without telescopes or other optical instruments, you would take note of the day when you could first see a tiny crescent moon (right after sunset) in order to define the "start" of a month. You could depend on the full moon occurring 14 days after that. The first month of the year is Nissan, and the 8 days of Passover starts on the evening of the 14th day of Nissan.

A series of 12 such (29½ day) months doesn't add up to 365 days, so to prevent major drifting of the Holy Days, the Hebrew calendar adds an extra month (known as Adar 1) every 2 or 3 years, so that in 7 out of 19 years, the Hebrew year is 13 months long. (The 19-year cycle contains 235 total lunar months, and that cycle repeats.) More than 800 years ago, Maimonides described the calendar rules, which haven't changed since. By now there are computer programs that will calculate dates with high precision.

At the present time (Hebrew year 5768), March 2008 is still in the month Adar 2, and Nissan hasn't begun yet. Passover this year spans April 20 through April 27, which includes the Eastern Orthodox Easter.

In 2009, Passover will run from April 9 to 16, our standard (western Christian) Easter is April 12, and the Eastern Orthodox Easter is April 19. In 2010, everything comes together, with Passover spanning March 30 to April 6, and Easter on April 4 for all Christians.

WASHINGTON – The next couple of weeks are likely to be wet and cool followed by a slightly warmer and rainier spring than normal, say area climate experts.

"Spring will come a little earlier this year than usual," said Heidi Stonehill, senior associate editor at the Old Farmer's Almanac, of a statewide trend of several decades.

This year she predicts slightly warmer temperatures in April, when the average temperature is 53, and May, when the average for the region is 62. And rainfall will be 1 to 2 inches above the region's normal rate of about 4 inches, although parts of Maryland could get below-average rainfall.

Allergy season, too, will be a bit earlier, with the combination of wet weather and warmer temperatures bringing out high levels of tree pollen.

"It seems every year is just a bit worse," said Mark Bruder, a nurse practitioner at the Maryland Asthma & Allergy Center's Baltimore office. The practice is extending hours starting next week as demand increases.

For the rising numbers of sufferers that some experts now estimate number one in five, Bruder advises a three-pronged – approach closing windows and possibly wearing goggles, taking allergy medication, and considering allergy shots.

The warming trend in the state is also affecting area fauna and flora.

"In Maryland, some flowers are coming out quite a bit earlier than 30 or 40 years ago," said Jake Weltzin of the USA National Phenology Network, an organization the U.S. Geological Survey started with the University of Arizona last August.

Honeybees are making honey earlier – about a half day per year since the 1970s – a phenomenon related to earlier plant bloom and mirrored by earlier green-up in satellite imagery of central Maryland.

The local trend may continue over the next 20 years or earlier budding could even accelerate.

"Leaves will be coming out about 10 days earlier, if the same trend follows, which is likely," said Weltzin. "Or it could even get worse because there [are] positive feedback effects on warming."

Farmers are expected to benefit from the weather trend also. Last year, drought caused corn production to drop by one-third from the previous year, but rain deficits of 6 to 8 inches in some parts of Maryland should shrink soon, according to Douglas LeComte, a senior meteorologist and drought specialist with the National Weather Service's Climate Prediction Center.

The wetter weather picture could extend into the summer, according to The Old Farmer's Almanac. A local weather forecaster seconds the outlook.

"Going forward, I certainly don't see anything that says we're going to get back into a drought pattern," said WRC-TV meteorologist Bob Ryan.

Gardeners are also reacting to the warm, wet season. A Baltimore Home Depot garden department supervisor Deborah O'May said people bought $25,000 in her department in one day, an unusually high figure before the normal peak sales season starts in late April.

"It's human nature when the weather is nice we want to get out and play," she said.

But she expects to sell more perennials and shrubs in the next several weeks as the threat of frost diminishes.

"I recommend the first, second week of April as the prime time to start," said O'May, "that's when the weather is more predictable."

All in the acting family for 'Knight' co-star

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: Will the new "Knight Rider" be made into a regular series? Also, has the actress who played the FBI agent done any roles before? –Sarah Branson, Corsicana, Texas

A: With the promising ratings last month's NBC movie update scored, there's little question the network is thinking about a weekly version. No official confirmation had been made at this writing, but especially with the networks' fall development season cut short by the writers strike, you'd have to figure "Knight Rider" is a real contender.

As for the actress in question, Sydney Tamiia Poitier is carrying on the family business, since her parents are Oscar-winning screen legend Sidney Poitier and fellow actress Joanna Shimkus. Her previous credits include the "Death Proof" portion of last year's movie "Grindhouse" and episodes of such series as "Grey's Anatomy," "Veronica Mars" and "Joan of Arcadia."

Sydney Tamiia Poitier

Q: There was a series, maybe two or three years ago, with David Paymer as a crime boss. What was its name? –Bruce McElhanon, Ardmore, Okla.

A: "Line of Fire," which ABC aired in 2003-04. Leslie Bibb ("Crossing Jordan") played an FBI agent whose story ran parallel to that of the mobster portrayed by Paymer; other cast members included Leslie Hope ("24") and Anson Mount ("Conviction").

Q: I have seen four different films of "South Pacific." Please tell me who played the nurse, the Frenchman and the Marine lieutenant in each. –Mary Nelson, Royal Palm Beach, Fla.

A: In strict movie terms, not including taped editions of stage productions of the Rodgers & Hammerstein musical classic, we come up with only two versions: the original 1958 filming, which starred Mitzi Gaynor as nurse Nellie Forbush, Rossano Brazzi as French expatriate Emile de Becque and John Kerr as Lt. Joseph Cable, and a 2001 television remake aired by ABC and featuring Glenn Close as Nellie, Rade Serbedzija as Emile and Harry Connick Jr. as Cable. A 1976 television special also had the title "South Pacific," but it was a documentary about the region.

How Much Reward for Good Behavior?

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I really appreciated your series on basic training for dogs, but I have a question. You recommend rewarding a dog with a food treat when it performs a task properly. Now, I recently read that the American Kennel Club no longer allows food treats in the show ring, and I wonder if that is because too many treats are not healthy? Should I just use lots of praise as a reward when training my dog? — Sara L., Pittsburgh

DEAR SARA: I'm not sure exactly why the AKC put a stop to treats in the show ring (apparently this ban applies to obedience and tracking events). Sure, too many treats may be detrimental to a dog's health. But an overreliance on rewards can also be a detriment.

Patricia Gail Burnham, in her new book "Treats, Play, Love: Make Dog Training Fun for You and Your Best Friend" (St. Martin's Griffin, $14.95), explains that dogs that expect a reward after obeying each command quickly become confused when they don't get it. They rely on the reward to tell them they're right. She recommends gradually spacing out the rewards, giving them after every second action, then after every third, and so on.

Does this method matter for pet owners who aren't going to show their dogs at an event? Maybe. What's important, no matter what the reward is or how often it is given, is that the training is consistent and positive. Certainly, spacing out treats in the home environment can help keep a dog at a healthy weight, and training it to obey commands without expecting food every time can be quite beneficial — as long as it sees some kind of reward at a regular point in the day.

Q. My dad remembers the old punchboards that were often found in neighborhood bars throughout the 1940s and '50s. For 25 cents, you punched out a paper cover of a small hole, and if it had a certain mark or color, you won $5. Other punchboards could be played for 5 cents per punch, and I've even heard some existed in larger cities that required a dollar to play. Dad has a birthday in August, and I would like nothing better than to give him a punchboard. Can you help me? — Roger, Dayton, Ohio

A. Contact Punchboards, 7610 S. Main St., Midvale, UT 84047; and (801) 255-4731. If you strike out, I recently saw several dozen vintage punchboards at Old Pueblo Coin Exchange, 4420 East Speedway, Tucson, AZ 85712; and (520) 881-7200.

Spring Cleaning

© istockphoto.com/jgroup

The arrival of spring seems to bring to mind freshness and order. It's traditionally a time for a thorough cleaning. Air out the house! Move all the furniture and clean every corner! Sort through the closets!

While we're cleaning house we can freshen up and sort out our spiritual life as well. Discard unwanted habits that clutter the soul. Begin a practice that will enrich life on a daily basis...start each day with a prayer, read from a devotional, relax with a quiet walk. The possibilities are endless!

How can we do these things? We can cleanse our souls and learn better practices at our house of worship. Our spirits will sparkle as we learn to trust in God's will for our lives.

Try Something New

Sometimes life seems tedious. Many of the things that used to make us happy may now leave us rather uninspired. If activities that usually give us pleasure now seem monotonous, we may be on what psychologists call the "hedonic treadmill." The hedonic treadmill is a fancy name for the fact that what delighted and inspired us when it was new, becomes over time, old and routine. The first bite of cheesecake is the best, but after eating it for four or five days in a row, we might even be happy to see it gone. Taking up chess or ballroom dancing may keep us excited for a few years, but eventually we may find ourselves needing something new. However, one of the reasons why certain activities, like playing chess or bridge, or learning ballroom dancing, tend to be things that people stay excited about is that there is always something new to learn. We will probably never play two chess games that are identical, and every dance is unique. So, if our world is growing wearisome, we should try something new. We can read a book about something that we wouldn't normally be interested in; take up a musical instrument, or pick up a new hobby. And perhaps, we should consider something out of the ordinary. Maybe we've always loved the sound of the bagpipes or thought about becoming part of a band. We have nothing to lose but our jaded outlook on life.

All things are full of weariness; a man cannot utter it; the eye is not satisfied with seeing nor the ear filled with hearing.

Vitamin E: An Important Antioxidant

Vitamin E is a fat-soluble vitamin. It has important antioxidant properties. There are several forms of vitamin E. Alpha-tocopherol is the most active form in humans. It protects the body's cells from the actions of free radicals (oxidants), which are the waste products of energy metabolism. Free radicals can damage body cells through oxidation and increase the risk of heart disease and cancer.

It has been theorized that vitamin E may reduce the incidence of heart disease and cancer through its antioxidant effects. Studies evaluating the effect of vitamin E supplementation have been contradictory. More studies are needed to fully evaluate the ability of vitamin E to reduce heart disease and cancer. Foods that contain vitamin E are nuts, oils, green leafy vegetables and fortified cereals. The recommended daily allowance (RDA) for vitamin E is 22.5 IU (international units) per day for men and women 14 years of age and older. Little information is known regarding excessive supplementation with vitamin E. However, due to the potential for blood thinning activity, following the RDA for vitamin E is recommended.

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

APRIL 2008 SUN – As April opens, the sun is in the star group Pisces, where it stays through April 17. Around midday on April 18, the sun moves into Aries, where it stays until May 13. (These dates are based on the actual star group boundaries and sun's position, not the 2,500-year-old dates used by Western astrologers.) The amount of daily sunlight in April grows by more than an hour; early April has 12.65 hours of daylight, while the end of April has 13.8 sunlit hours. Sunrises in Oakland in early April are about 7 a.m., dropping back to 6:20 a.m. at the end of April. Sunsets in Oakland in early April are about 7:40 p.m., shifting to about 8:05 p.m. in late April. During April the sun's peak height at midday increases from 55 degrees to 65 degrees. At dawn, the morning stars begin to fade away around 5:45 a.m., while evening stars first appear about 9 p.m.

APRIL 2008 MOON – At the beginning of April, the moon is a crescent in the morning sky. Low in the eastern predawn sky, a very slender crescent moon appears near the brilliant planet Venus on April 5. On April 8, a very slender crescent moon may be seen very low in the western dusk. On April 12, the evening moon is half full (like a "D"), offering the best views of its craters and mountains through binoculars. To the right of the moon on that evening, the planet Mars shines. On April 14 and 15, the evening moon appears nears the bright planet Saturn; to the right on the 14th and to the left on the 15th. The evening moon grows to full on April 19, rising as the sun sets and hanging in the sky all through the night. By April 27, the moon has shifted into the early morning sky, appearing near the bright planet Jupiter.

THE BRIGHT PLANETS IN APRIL 2008 – Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine steadily, unlike the bright night stars that twinkle. Both Venus and Mercury are at too low an angle to the sun and are lost in the sun's glare through most of April. The pre-dawn sky offers good views of the bright planet Jupiter in the Southeast. The planet Saturn is in the southern evening sky, appearing near the star Regulus of Leo. Above Orion (has three star belt) is the yellowish planet Mars.

THE EVENING STARS IN APRIL – The brightest night star, Sirius, is in the early evening southwestern sky. Orion's three star belt points to the left towards Sirius. The bright golden star Capella appears in the Northwest. The Big Dipper is upside down, high in the North. The handle of the Big Dipper can be extended outward to the bright golden star Arcturus, the first bright spring evening star to appear.

ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES IN APRIL – The April 2008 program at the Frostburg State Planetarium is "Animal Sky Stories," with free programs each April Sunday at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. The Tawes Building is in the middle of the FSU campus nearby FSU's clock tower, the Lane Student Center, and the Performing Arts Center. This program is at a beginner's level, inviting audience questions and lasts about 45 minutes. Following an intermission, visitors are invited to tour of the Compton Exploratorium and see the Cavallaro collection of preserved mammals from five continents. To get a free planetarium/exploratorium bookmark and a 2008 Celestial Highlights flyer, persons may telephone 301-687-7799 and leave name and mailing address.

Dr. Doyle writes this column for beginners who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask questions or get a free brochure or sky charts, persons may call the FSU Planetarium at 301-387-4270 and press 4. Doyle hosts "Sky Watch," a brief radio program that airs weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM at 91.9 FM and 96.3.

GCHD PRESENTS WORKSHOP TO NHS BEST BUDDIES – The Garrett County Health Department Community Outreach Team recently presented a "Building Assets" workshop to Northern High School students and members of the Best Buddies organization, pictured above. The team, consisting of Brenda Sisler, Sharon Custer, and Venessa Stacy, presented students with team-building activities, an assets assessment, and other character-building information in their 45-minute presentation. The program is part of a grant presented to the Best Buddies of Northern High School to promote drug-free, alcohol-free alternatives and education. The group was a first-time recipient of the grant this year. Following the presentation, NHS students and BB members traveled to "Moon Glo" Roller Skating Rink and CiCi's Pizza for a night of healthly activities. Comptroller Tells Last Minute Filers To "Remain Calm," Offers Tips For Filing

Comptroller Peter Franchot is reminding Maryland taxpayers about the approaching April 15 tax filing deadline and offers tips for last-minute filers.

"Although the deadline is less than a month away, taxpayers shouldn't panic," Franchot said. "The Comptroller's Office can help make tax filing quick, easy and painless."

Free, state tax assistance is available at all of the agency's 12 taxpayer service offices, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Additional hours of assistance will be offered on Saturday, April 12, from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m., and on Tuesday, April 15, from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. at all agency locations.

Taxpayers can also download state tax forms, find helpful information and check the status of their refund by visiting the comptroller's web site, marylandtaxes.com, or by calling 1-800-MD-TAXES for free state tax help Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m. through April 20.

The comptroller also offered tips to ensure taxpayers get their returns processed quickly.

"I encourage everyone to utilize iFile, the state's free internet filing system," he added. "It is safe, fast, and convenient. Simply click on the iFile icon at marylandtaxes.com to start."

Simple mistakes in filing can significantly slow down the processing of a return and refund. To ensure an accurate return, Franchot said, taxpayers should also remember to:

•Check, check, and recheck social security numbers, as well as bank account and routing numbers for direct deposit refunds and direct debit payments.

•Print clearly and do not use pencil on any paper return filed.

•Include all pertinent information including relevant forms and documents, such as the W-2 form.

•Sign the tax return.

Information on a number of changes for this year's tax season can also be found on the comptroller's web site including details on:

•Expanded military retirement tax breaks.

•Increased pension exclusions.

•Expanded earned income tax credits.

•Reduced local income tax rate for Prince George's County residents.

•New online payment options for existing personal liability.

As a result of the federal government's stimulus plan, Franchot reminds some qualifying Marylanders to file a federal return but not a state return to be eligible for the special payment.

"Citizens who don't have to file because they fail to meet the minimum income threshold should submit a federal return this year in order to receive their payment; however, these Marylanders should not file a state return," Franchot said.

Additionally, Franchot reminded taxpayers that the income tax changes enacted during the 2007 Special Session of the Maryland General Assembly has no effect on the 2007 Maryland income tax return.

Shepherd Of Hills To Offer Study Of Islam Series

Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church will sponsor a mid-week study on Islam for three consecutive Wednesdays, April 2, 9, and 16, beginning at 7 p.m. Rev. Donald R. Thomas will lead the study, which will be held in a classroom facility located in the office complex directly above and behind the Subway restaurant along Rt. 219 at Deep Creek Lake. The course is free and open to the community.

"Islam today is the second largest and fastest-growing world religion, with majority populations in 56 countries spanning from North Africa to Southeast Asia. It also has significant minorities in Europe and the United States," Pastor Thomas said. "Today it has 1.2 billion adherents; yet many in the West are familiar with only the actions of the radical extremists. Like Christianity and Judaism, it is one of the great monotheistic faiths with ancestry traced to Abraham."

The course will look at the "five pillars of faith" that form the foundation of Islam. The prophet Muhammad will also be discussed. "Muhammad was a messenger from God who called for major reforms in the polytheistic, tribal Arabian society and served as the living model for all Muslims," Thomas said.

Further discussion will cover the importance and controversial concept of Jihad, and the Quran.

Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church holds worship services Sundays at 9:30 a.m. at Garrett Eight Cinemas, located on Route 219 at Deep Creek Lake. For further information, persons may call the church office at 301-387-0400 or visit the church web site at www.shepherdofthehills-lutheran.org.

PROPERTY TAXES AND ASSESSMENTS

Being a property owner is rewarding in many ways, but along with this comes the yearly property tax bill. Fortunately, property tax is primarily a local government revenue. Therefore, when we cringe to pay our tax bill we can be assured that we will see this money being used throughout our county, making it a better place to live, year after year.

The amount of every property owner's tax bill is determined by two factors: (1) the assessment and (2) the property tax rate. The assessment is based on the fair market value of a property and is set by the Department of Assessments and Taxation, a state agency. The property tax rate is set by each unit of government: state, county, and city.

Properties are reassessed once every three years. If there is any change in the assessment of a property, the owner is always notified. Assessments are then certified by the Department of Assessments and Taxation and converted into a property tax bill by applying the appropriate property tax rates.

The assessment process begins with an appraisal to determine the fair market value of the property. The Department of Assessments and Taxation employs trained appraisers, also known as assessors, who are trained to use standard approaches and techniques to determine the estimate of assessed value.

If the new assessment comes in higher than the old assessment, state law requires that this increase will be "phased-in" over the next three years. For example: if the old assessment was $100,000 and the new assessment is $130,000, the $30,000 increase in value will be phased-in equally over the next three years: first year, $110,000; second year, $120,000; and third year, $130,000.

Upon receiving your assessment notice, the most important figure to look for is the total new fair market value. If you believe that this figure is not correct, you have the right to appeal the assessment within 45 days of the date of the notice. Contact the Garrett County Office of Assessments and Taxation with any further questions at 301-334-1950.

PREPARING HEALTH KITS – Members of the "Helping Hands" group at Cherry Glade Mennonite Church recently sponsored a work night to pack 1,000 health kits for the Mennonite Central Committee (MCC). The kits will be distributed to various countries, including Mozambique, Venezuela, Bosnia, Serbia, and Palestine. Pictured above are volunteers packing the kits. Photo by Phebe Bowser. See story for details.

"Helping Hands" Group Prepares 1,000 Health Kits

Members of the "Helping Hands" group of the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church recently sponsored a work night to pack 1,000 health kits for the Mennonite Central Committee (MCC).

Each kit included a hand towel, tooth brush, tooth paste, soap, and a nail clipper. The items were placed in a handmade drawstring bag, and will be sent to MCC for distribution.

According to group member Evie Maust, health kits are often presented to children in refugee camps who do not have access to hygiene supplies. Some are also give to women in rural education centers to encourage health care. Countries receiving shipments include Mozambique, Haiti, Nicaragua, Colombia, Venezuela, North Korea, Bosnia, Russia, Serbia, Ukraine, and Palestine.

Besides packing the kits, both children and adults knotted comforters to be sent to hospitals, refugee camps, and orphanages. Younger children also designed quilt patches with fabric markers.

Other kits made by the Helping Hands group throughout the year include school kits, relief kits, sewing kits, newborn kits, and AIDS care kits.

Anyone wishing to contribute fabric or funds to help make the various kits may call 301-756-8534.

The 10th annual Tri-State Relief Sale will be held at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry on July 18 and 19 to benefit MCC. The public is invited to attend.

MCC is the relief, service, community development, and peace agency of North American Mennonite and Brethren in Christ churches. Its mission statement notes, "MCC shares God's love through committed women and men who serve others suffering from poverty, conflict, oppression, and natural disaster. MCC strives for peace, justice, and dignity for all people by sharing our experience, resources, and faith in Jesus Christ."

Jennings Randolph WV Boat Launch To Open Tuesday

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will begin the 2008 recreation season at Jennings Randolph Lake on Tuesday, April 1, at 8 a.m., with the opening of the boat launch on the West Virginia shore. The launch is located alongside Howell Run, just off West Virginia State Route 46, three miles north of Elk Garden, W.Va.

The boat launch on the Maryland shore of Jennings Randolph is managed by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources and is presently open for use. The Maryland launch is located along Mt. Zion Road, off Route 135 near the salt shed on Backbone Mountain.

On the West Virginia side, there is a $3 fee for visitors to launch a boat from the area. An annual pass that allows an unlimited number of launches at all corps' parks is on sale for $30 at the corps park office, located on the West Virginia side of the lake.

Holders of Golden Age Passports (for senior citizens 62 and over), America the Beautiful Senior Passes, America the Beautiful Access Passes, and Golden Access Passports for the physically challenged may purchase an annual corps' boat launch pass at half price or pay $1.50 per launch.

The Maryland DNR service charge is $5 per launch. A 2008 Maryland State Forest and Park Service All Season Pass is available for purchase, $75 for Maryland residents and $100 for out-of-state visitors. It is available for purchase at all Maryland state parks. Pass-holders are entitled to free day use entry to Maryland state parks and Cedarville State Forest for up to nine people in a vehicle. Free boat launching is available at most facilities. Pass-holders also receive a 10 percent discount on state-operated concessions and boat rentals. For parks with honor box systems, the pass covers entry service charges.

Both the corps' annual pass and the Maryland All Season pass are valid at either boat launch on Jennings Randolph Lake.

For additional information, persons may call the corps park office at 301-359-3861 or 304-355-2346 Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. For information on the Maryland DNR boat launch, persons should call Deep Creek State Park at 301-387-5563, Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

CHECK MATE – Students at the Partners After School Program @ Loch Lynn recently completed an eight-week session of chess club. During the session, students learned the rules of chess and them competed against each other. The chess lessons were taught by Southern High School senior Michael Gibbons, who said, "This is the second year I have taught chess at the program, and the students really enjoy learning the game." The score keeper for the club was SHS senior Brittany Shannon. Prizes were awarded to the top three winners, and all players were provided pizza. Natural Beauty Of Area Barns To Be Enhanced With Painted Quilt Blocks

by Brenda Ruggiero

A drive through the Garrett County countryside is surely a pleasant one for those who enjoy natural beauty. Rolling hills, trees, and plenty of farmland combine to create a picturesque view of nature.

A group of local ladies is currently working on enhancing such a drive through the county. Their idea involves adding painted quilt designs to the sides of barns throughout the area.

Known as "barn quilts," the concept originally began when native Appalachian Donna Sue Groves purchased an old farm in Adams County, Ohio, that included an old tobacco barn. Her mother was an avid quilter, and Donna painted a quilt block on the barn in her honor. Since then, the idea has spread, and barn quilts can be found in at least 19 states.

One example is Grundy County, Iowa, where 25 barns and corncribs include painted quilt blocks. The buildings are spread over seven towns, and visitors are invited to drive the "Quilt Loop" to view the artwork. Maps are printed in a brochure to encourages self-guided tours. The brochure also includes information about other attractions in the area.

Local Barn Quilts

In Garrett County, the "barn quilt bug" was first caught by Karen Barnard Reckner, a lifelong resident of the county. She noted that she has always been interested in art, crafts, and particularly textiles.

"I thought I would take up quilting when I retired," she explained. "After seeing a girlfriend's love for the art of quilting, I was inspired to take it up. It quickly became a wonderful diversion from the routine of everyday chores."

Although she is not ready to call herself a quilter, she admits to being "quite the fabric collector." She also noted that there are "tons of designs playing around in my head that will be created some day."

Karen's introduction to barn quilts occurred about two years ago when she read a story in a quilting magazine about the quilts in Ohio, where numerous counties are involved in the project.

"I located the one that was closest to us and decided to take a road trip," Karen said. "I spent the afternoon driving through the Ohio countryside and seeing all the glorious, colorful patterns and scenic beauty."

A seed was planted for Karen on that journey, and it has continued to grow.

"The more I thought about it, the more I felt this would be a perfect project for Garrett County," she said. "I thought about the agricultural history of the area, the towns that are treasures yet not frequently visited by our county tourists, and about our Appalachian artistic heritage. Developing a driving tour with a focus on barn quilts would tie all these things together."

Karen contacted Donna, the founder of the project, and she was willing to share information with her.

Getting Others Involved

Although the idea often got buried under the regular work on Karen's desk, it was always in the back of her mind, and she wanted Garrett County to be the first county in the state of Maryland to start barn quilts.

She shared the idea with three ladies who she thought would share her enthusiasm: Beverley Williams, Joyce Bishoff, and Cheryl DeBerry.

Beverley noted that when Karen first shared the concept of barn quilts with her, they were both excited about bringing the project to Garrett County, but neither had time to concentrate on it then.

"I was traveling last fall with my husband and friends and saw quilt blocks on barns in Kentucky and Tennessee," she said. "It was really exciting to actually see some, and I talked with Karen when I returned about getting the project started here. She said she knew two others who were interested, and we decided to meet and brainstorm how to get the project started here in Garrett County."

Joyce's family owns and operates a dairy farm, and is involved in various community efforts.

"We are concerned about maintaining an agricultural presence here in Garrett County," she explained. "I feel it is a wonderful opportunity to do something that will support the agricultural community while providing something of interest for the visitors. I hope it will help provide a reason for the visitor to spread out from the Deep Creek Lake area."

Karen originally spoke to Cheryl about the project because she works with farmers in her position as agriculture marketing specialist for Garrett County Economic Development.

"I come from a long line of quilters, though I have only made a few small quilts and quilted wall hangings myself," Cheryl said. "But I have remained excited about this project because I can see lots of possibilities of tying together agriculture, history, heritage, quilting, and more."

Barn Quilt Association Of Garrett County

The ladies' first meeting lasted for nearly four hours in a local restaurant. Finally, their plans were set into motion, and the Barn Quilt Association of Garrett County was formed in COMING SOON TO GARRETT COUNTY – Thanks to the efforts of the recently-formed Barn Quilt Association of Garrett County, barns like those pictured will soon be a part of the local landscape. These photos were taken by Karen Barnard Reckner as she drove through Monroe County, Ohio, several years ago. The quilt block pictured above is the "mariner's compass" design. Below is the "carpenter's wheel." The drive inspired Karen to start a similar project in Garrett County. The public is invited to get involved in the project as well. A kick-off meeting is planned for Saturday, April 12, at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. See feature story for details.

4-H Club News

OAKLAND OAK LEAVES
by Jessica Cooper, reporter

The Oakland Oak Leaves monthly meeting was held on March 20 at the Garrett County Extension Office. The American pledge was led by Tiffany Keller, and the 4-H pledge was led by Caitlin Dumire.

Members answered roll call by naming a "favorite Easter thing."

There were four members and four adults present. The secretary's report was approved as read, and there was no treasurer's report.

Members were scheduled to meet on Saturday, March 22, at Winner's Circle at 9:30 a.m. for the Bethel Bread delivery community service project.

Members discussed having a bake sale at the Little Yough Music Festival again this year, and decided to have a food table to sell hot dogs, baked goods, and drinks on event nights, with the exception of the one held during fair week.

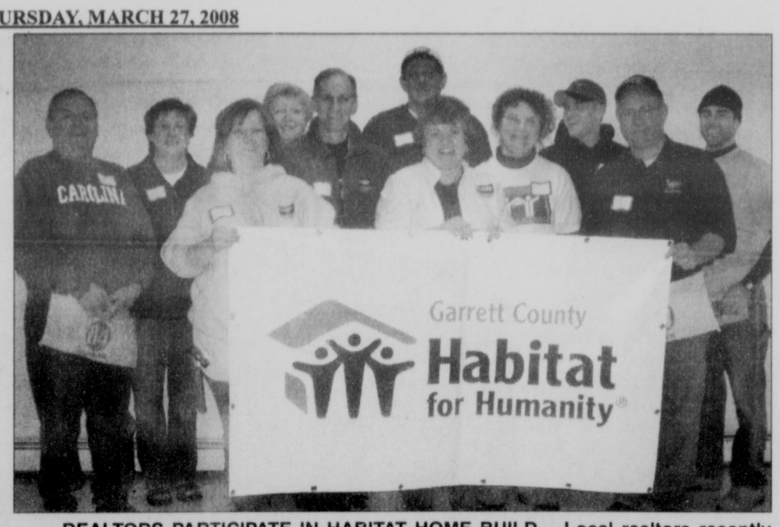
The April meeting will be held at Par-Matt Lanes. Pam Trickett will call Par-Matt to check for dates and times, and will make arrangements. After the meeting, the club will pay for members and one guest per member, to play two games, rent shoes, and have pizza and drinks.

The County 4-H Achievement Night is planned for Saturday, April 5, at 6:30 p.m. at Southern High School. The 4-H State Public Speaking Contest is scheduled for Friday, April 25, at College Park.

Catlin Carrico reported on the County Public Speaking Contest. She won first place and grand champion in the senior category for her prepared speech on "agro terrorism." She also got fourth place in the senior extemporaneous category.

Jessica Cooper did a demonstration on cross-contamination for her food and nutrition project.

Refreshments for the meeting were provided by the Cooper family.



REALTORS PARTICIPATE IN HABITAT HOME BUILD – Local realtors recently collaborated with the Maryland Association of Realtors® Partnership for Housing to contribute to Habitat for Humanity. The realtors not only made monetary donations but also volunteered to participate in a "home build" project. During this two-day, hands-on endeavor, walls were constructed for a new house that will be raised in the near future for a local family. Pictured above, left to right, are Pat Kane, Beverly Everett, Dawn Stubler, Linda Harr, Dale Carpenter, Don Nuce, Katherine Lee, Ruth Seib, David Lee, Rich Orr, and Brian Hurley. Below are Dakota Rodeheaver, Jamie Rodeheaver, Justin Scarpelli, Seib, Larry Nesline, and Larry Smith.

Area Barns

January 2008.

Beverley serves as president, Joyce as vice president, Karen as secretary, and Cheryl as treasurer.

The Association's mission statement reads:

"The mission of the Barn Quilt Association of Garrett County is to provide a sustainable heritage tourism attraction/activity while preserving and celebrating the unique agriculture, history, and arts culture of our area through visual combinations of barns and quilt designs, to educate the public and showcase our Appalachian tradition."

Currently, the group's goal is to have at least one quilt panel placed on a barn by the Autumn Glory Festival.

"We're conservatively shooting for one by Autumn Glory, but we all think we'll have more by then," Cheryl said. "We already have two donations and a couple farmers with barns ready to be decorated. We hope that in a few years we'll have barn quilts painted across the county, with multiple driving tours/loops."

Volunteers Invited To Help

However, before the project can get started, there are needs that must be met. These include more monetary donations (each barn quilt block is estimated to cost $300), materials, volunteers, and of course, barns.

To help move the project forward, the group plans to hold a kick-off meeting on Saturday, April 12, at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

At the meeting, information will be presented about the project; Donna Sue Groves will speak about successful barn quilt projects, how to get started, and key issues; committees will be created; committee leaders will be selected; and committees will begin their work on the project.

The public is invited to attend, but reservations must be made by Monday, April 7, in order to prepare for lunch. In addition, a small donation is requested to help cover the cost of lunch and snacks.

Reservations may be made online at garrettbarnquilts.org or by calling 301-616-4978.

Future Plans

Beverley noted that the group hopes to move quickly after the planning retreat to put all the aspects in place and move forward.

"I think I've heard that there are about 600 barns in Garrett County," she said. "I believe we will easily have 50 to 75 barns painted with quilt blocks within the next few years."

Members of the association noted that once the idea takes off locally, they believe it will continue to spread.

"I truly want Garrett County to be the first county in the state with barn quilts, and I know I'm being a little selfish in that respect," Karen said. "Maryland's agriculture is still one of the biggest industries in the state, and there are many areas where this project would be a good fit."

Cheryl described the project as "infectious," with the excitement growing with each person she talks to.

"I hope this project will just blossom and we get volunteers of every age helping with all the different aspects of Garrett Barn Quilts," she said. "I hope we can get lots of farmers interested in the project for their barns. As tourists drive through the less populated areas of Garrett County to see the barn quilts, I believe outlying businesses such as restaurants, agritourism sites, and stores will see an increase in their sales."

Free 2008 Md. Tourism Guide Now Available

The Maryland Office of Tourism Development has released its 2008 edition of Destination Maryland: The Official Guide to Maryland State Travel. This free full-color magazine contains a variety of features and itineraries; listings for more than 2,000 tourism attractions, state, and national parks, lodging, and tour and travel services; plus a "Maryland Welcome! Passport" good for up to $2,500 in savings at 250 participating attractions, restaurants, retailers, and accommodations.

To obtain a copy, the public is invited to call 800-719-5900 or visit Maryland's official web site at visitmaryland.org.

"Maryland is an exceptional year-round vacation destination for day trippers and overnight travelers alike," said Gov. Martin O'Malley. "The 2008 Destination Maryland guide showcases Maryland's wealth of historical, cultural, and tourist attractions."

Destination Maryland is specifically designed to assist prospective visitors in planning their trips to Maryland. The guide details information by region as well as by type of trip, such as family fun, romantic getaway, or golfing. Also included is a special section highlighting Maryland's outdoor offerings – from water sports to hiking and biking trails to state parks and forest amenities.

The guide, which is funded primarily through advertising by the state's counties and private-sector tourism industry, is available at Maryland's 13 Welcome Centers and distributed upon request to consumers within Maryland's primary travel market, determined as being within 400 miles of the state's borders.

Maryland's latest visitor data indicates that in 2006, Maryland welcomed more than 28 million visitors who generated more than $11.4 billion in visitor spending. That figure is up from $10.7 billion the previous calendar year, according to the Office of Tourism Development.

During 2006, the Maryland tourism industry generated more than $895 million in state and local taxes and provided more than 116,000 jobs to Maryland residents.

The Maryland Office of Tourism is an agency of the Division of Tourism, Film and the Arts within the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

I saw a spring cooking segment on the "Today Show" the other day. The salad included dandelion leaves. They haven't appeared here in Bittinger as yet this spring, but I remember gathering them for my grandmother Glotfelty who made a sweat/sour sauce for them with fried bacon, milk or cream, vinegar, and sugar. Believe it or not, it is delicious and nutritious.

We had more snow on the first day of spring than we did on the first day of winter. Our traditional Easter snow arrived about 4:30 p.m. on Saturday. By 7 p.m. we already had an inch. It was not just a light dusting. I guess the groundhog was right when he said six more weeks of winter. But happily Easter morning arrived with blue sky. The Easter spirit was somewhat dimmed with the sparkling snow on the ground and it was cold. There were more winter coats and jackets at church on Sunday morning than the usual Easter bonnets and light jackets.

The three white lilies on the altar at Emmanuel Lutheran Church were given to the glory of God by Ruth DiPaolo in memory of her youngest son and my youngest brother, Dr. Scott Glotfelty, who died in Togo, West Africa, 20 years ago on March 23. He was serving there as a member of the Peace Corps and was stung by over 1,000 bees. I will never forget the terrible day I heard the horrible news. I fainted in the hall of my family home probably because of the shock and my being pregnant with Caitlin. Of all my daughters, Caity is most like Scott, as she told me a while ago she wants to "change the world." As I tried to cope with the news of Scott's death, I did the only thing that might give me some comfort, and that was to go for a ride on Joey. I felt Scott's presence with me during that ride.

It was tragic that my father did not live to see how Scott turned out. He would have been so proud of his son becoming a veterinarian and going to Africa to help a Third-World country. I wish my dad and Scott could see the newest generation of our family. Eight of the new generation are in college and two more are juniors in high school. Dad was never able to go to college to pursue his hopes of also becoming a veterinarian, as he was needed at home to help run the farm. After serving in the Army he felt he was too old to pursue that dream.

I was glad we sang my favorite Easter hymn, "Christ is Risen, Alleluia" on Easter morning. I learned something new from the sermon – that water in the Old Testament means chaos. I already thought water was a most context symbol of life. In fact, water caused the dry wilderness of the Holy Land to bloom like a garden. Of course, in the New Testament water played a different role. John the Baptist and Christ baptized in water, and several miracles Christ performed involved water. He walked on the water and turned water into wine at the wedding in Canaan of Galilee. In modern Christianity, water symbolically washes away our sins.

Most holiday weekends feature a walk in the woods. It has gone way back when my aunts lived in more urban environments. They loved to go back in time and place. They roamed the woods like I did when I was young. This Easter weekend featured a walk, including the Bass children and my children. It is a shame that our favorite destination, the beaver dam has dried up and gone away. The nature walk that the kids took started in the hemlock woods above the creek below Rodney's house, along the creek to "Lady Bug" bridge, which we named because one spring we saw thousands of ladybugs on a bush, then it was on to the girls' "Wild Turkey Island."

Even at 17, 19, and 21, my girls are not too old to decorate Easter eggs.

Caity and Claire had to go to work before WVU finished off Duke in the second round of the NCAA tournament. Duke is always tough, but sometimes teams do beat them, as WVU did. My two big time hoop fans, Claire and Meredith, were intensively interested in the upset of U. of Conn. by San Diego State. Both of them like the underdogs, and Mere wanted to hug the San Diego players. The basketball sheet sponsored by the GCC basketball team is widely spread out in the county, but there have been so many upsets that a winner will be hard to come by.

While my daughters went for their walk with their cousins, I got a treat on Turner Classic Movies to watch The Wizard of Oz. I remember my brothers and sister and I were always excited when the annual rerun of it came on. I remember my youngest brother Scott got tears in his eyes when Dorothy sang, "Somewhere Over the Rainbow."

A major holiday means my family will have a big holiday dinner. Carol Bass put out a delicious spread, as usual. But the masterpiece was her homemade cheesecake. Possibly my favorite food, but I was able to control myself and only eat one piece. Only Rodney represented his family because Marci had to work and the kids had to go back to college, as Robbie had to play his role in Maryland's pep band. Pete Bulka, Columbia, was a guest of the Bass family for several days. His mother and sister visited with the Bass family also. They used to be residents of Garrett County.

Brother Barry didn't make it home for Easter, but did attend the Easter service on Sunday at a little Lutheran church not far down the road. They had a bonfire the night before and they lit the candles in the church from the bonfire. It was an interesting custom. Barry did have to work up here on Monday, so he visited me and took Mother out to dinner. He learned something new – that Easter falls on the first Sunday after the first full moon and after the spring equinox. The spring equinox was on Holy Thursday, and on Good Friday there was a full moon.

I always assumed Easter was scheduled around the Passover. According to Pastor Randy, it only happens when Passover and Easter come together. Passover follows the Jewish calendar which is lunar and based on the moon. The Western Christian's calendar is based on the sun. This Easter is almost the earliest possible date, which is a good reason for Bittinger to have snow. I talked to Pastor Pat Pittsnogle to get some answers, but already had them from Pastor Randy before she called back. We had a nice casual visit on the phone anyway. She said that she and Keith were pretty whipped from all their Holy Week services, and that they were going to rest on Monday.

This year is one of the few years that Easter falls this early. Leora Yaste said that Tip was born on the 23rd, which was Easter, and it only happened for the first time in 85 years and it will be over 200 years before it happens again.

The Bittinger Lutheran Parish Youth Group will meet on April 6 at the parsonage to finalize plans for the whitewater trip and the big work trip to Biloxi in early July.

A joint worship for the Bittinger Lutheran Parish will be held this Sunday, March 30, at 10 a.m. at Emmanuel and will feature a play about a trial for Judas. The service will be followed by a potluck dinner.

The widow of my uncle Wayne Buckle, Wilma, passed away last week. Her funeral was held Saturday at the Arlington Church of the Brethren and was attended by Carol Bass, Barry Glotfelty, and Ruth DiPaolo, her sister-in-law.

Shelia Southerly was delighted to report that her skunk cabbage around their pond is up and growing. When it is fully grown with big green leaves, the bears will wake up and have their skunk cabbage breakfasts.

I was among the lucky receivers of a prayer shawl. Several women of the Bittinger Lutheran Parish knitted or crocheted some lovely small blankets for people who need comfort and prayers. Cindy Richardson delivered the one she made for me. It is a beautiful purple. Although I love the shaw, I am even more appreciative of the prayers that go with it.

Since brother Barry has much milder weather in Thurmont than we do in Bittinger, he has planted peas, spinach, and lettuce in his garden. He previously planted broccoli and collard greens.

Ron Dundy of Baltimore died last week. Ron was a nephew of Lottie Brenneman and Audrey Brenneman.

Phyllis Love of Baltimore and daughter of Bob and the late Maxine Legeer visited her father over the Easter weekend.

Lottie Brenneman hosted a family dinner on Easter. Her daughters Lois, Linda, and Lana, plus Larry Roby and the next generation of Linda Buckel's daughters and families, were in attendance, plus Pastor Randy and Cindy Richardson.

Linda Buckel spent five days in Seattle at a meeting of an executive council of the Women of the National ELCA.

Sally and Lenny Poholsky were in Greensboro, N.C., and saw two baseball games. They went out for Easter dinner with other players on Torrey's team and their parents. Sally said it was "totally spring" in North Carolina.

Dorie Van Stone
Saturday, April 12, 9:00 - 3:00
Luncheon included.

Dorie Van Stone is a remarkable woman whose life can give hope to the hopeless. She was dropped off at an orphanage as a very young child. Her parents simply did not want her. Shunned by her mother, she had never been held, never been hugged, never been loved.

Growing up in an orphanage where she suffered much abuse, Dorie was continually rejected by those looking for a little girl to adopt. She was beaten every single night before going to bed, but it was at the orphanage that a visitor told Dorie that Jesus loved her.
—Dorie believed her and grabbed hold of that truth.

Dorie did not let her past rule her future. She is a wise gentle woman with great love, understanding, and integrity. She gives hope and inspiration as she speaks in churches, schools, colleges, prisons, and orphanages.

GARRETT COUNTY

GA1986G001/7 – The Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc., 2008 Maryland Highway, Suite 2, Mountain Lake Park, MD 21550, has applied for a Water Appropriation and Use Permit to withdraw ground water from two wells (1&5) in the Greenbrier Formation, for a municipal water supply for the McHenry Water Service Area. The Administration is considering an increase in an existing appropriation from an annual average of 93,400 gallons per day (gpd) and 150,000 gpd during the month of maximum use to an annual average of 165,000 gpd and 248,000 gpd during the month of maximum use. The wells are located on the west side of Marsh Hill Road, at the junction of Marsh Hill Road and Winding Way, McHenry, Garrett County, Maryland.

The existing production wells, installed in a leaky fractured rock aquifer, are 210 and 309 feet deep. Impacts to the resource and nearby users were evaluated using data from geological reports and investigations available to the Water Management Administration and two on-site aquifer-pumping tests. Pumping of the two wells during periods of maximum use may lower the water table more than 20 feet in the nearest other user's well. In making this evaluation, water withdrawals were modeled with the well pumping continuously for 90 days with no recharge to the aquifer.

3. Right to an attorney

(a) You have the right to consult an attorney and obtain independent legal advice.

(b) An attorney may already have been appointed for you based on statements in the petition. If an attorney has been appointed and has already contacted you, you should consult with that attorney.

(c) If an attorney has not already contacted you, you may be entitled to have the court appoint an attorney for you if:

(1) you are the person being adopted and:

(A) you are at least ten years old but are not yet 18; or

(B) you are at least ten years old and have a disability that makes you incapable of consenting to the adoption or of participating effectively in the proceeding.

(2) you are the person to be adopted or the person for whom a guardian is sought and the proceeding involves the involuntary termination of the parental rights of your parents.

(3) you are a parent of the person to be adopted or for whom a guardian is sought and:

(A) you are under 18 years of age; or

(B) because of a disability, you are incapable of consenting to the adoption or guardianship or of participating effectively in the proceeding; or

(C) you object to the adoption and cannot afford to hire an attorney because you are indigent.

IF YOU BELIEVE YOU ARE ENTITLED TO HAVE THE COURT APPOINT AN ATTORNEY FOR YOU AND YOU WANT AN ATTORNEY, YOU MUST NOTIFY THE COURT BEFORE THE TIME YOUR NOTICE OF OBJECTION MUST BE FILED. IF YOU DO NOT MAKE SURE THAT THE COURT RECEIVES YOUR NOTICE OF OBJECTION ON OR BEFORE THE DEADLINE STATED, YOU HAVE AGREED TO A TERMINATION OF YOUR PARENTAL RIGHTS.

For your convenience, a request for appointment of an attorney is printed on the notice of objection form attached to this Order.

(D) If you are a parent of the person to be adopted, you are entitled to consult an attorney chosen by you, even if you are not entitled to an attorney appointed by the court. If you employ an attorney, you may be responsible for any fees and costs charged by that attorney unless this is an adoption proceeding and the adoptive parents agree to pay, or the court orders them to pay all or part of those fees or expenses.

(E) If you wish further information concerning appointment of an attorney by the court or concerning adoption counseling and guidance, you may contact:

Clerk of the Circuit Court
E. Alder Street
Garrett County Courthouse
Oakland, Maryland 21550
301-334-1937

4. Option to Receive Adoption Counseling

If this is an adoption proceeding, you also may have the option to receive adoption counseling and guidance. You may have to pay for that service unless the adoptive parents agree to pay or the court orders them to pay all or part of those charges.

REAL ESTATE

FOR SALE – Current owner says, "Granddad's house must be sold!" If Granddad could see it, he would not believe the features that his grandson placed in his home, such as a modern, zoned hot water heat plant; new electric that has been upgraded & rewired, & has many automatic switches & features. You'll also find a large hot tub, plus cedar-lined closets that make this home truly one of a kind. You'll find the quality wood work & construction that Granddad left behind in this 3 BR, 2 new full BA Victorian home. IN PREPARATION FOR the "Food, Foolishness, and Fun" fundraiser for United Way of Garrett County, Brenda McDonnell, owner of Brenda's Pizzeria, and J.B. Murphy prepared a marinara sauce for the event, which is scheduled for Tuesday. See story for details.

Local Businesses Prepare For Food, Foolishness, Fun

Final preparations are being made for "Food, Foolishness, and Fun" scheduled for Tuesday from 5 to 8 p.m. Pasta, sauces, breads, salads, and desserts are being prepared by some of Garrett County's restaurants for the event, which will be held at St. Peter's Parish Hall in Oakland. The community-wide fundraiser will benefit the United Way of Garrett County and its affiliate partners.

"The food will be phenomenal," said Gloria McGowan, a United Way volunteer who has been collecting donated food, drinks, and restaurant supplies from community restaurants and grocers.

"We are really pleased with the donations we are receiving. The pasta is being prepared by Brenda McDonnell and her staff at Brenda's Pizzeria, and the sauces will come from various restaurants. We are also looking forward to having a selection of many of the specialty desserts from area restaurants," McGowan said.

Community members Elaine McDonald, realtor and former restaurant entrepreneur, and Wendy Friend of the Four Seasons at Will 'O the Wisp will be among the persons assisting with the event.

Several of the servers will be wearing costumes donated from Our Town Theatre. The costumed volunteers will be competing for tips for their chosen agency.

"The costumes are really an interesting range from geisha girls to mountain men and everything in between," said United Way volunteer Bob Stephens. "I think everyone who comes to the event will have fun seeing some of the community's most respected members costumed and hamming it up for tips."

Volunteer servers will be representing Big Brothers Big Sisters, Mountain Glade Adult Day Care, Boy Scouts (Potomac Council), Girl Scouts (Black Diamond Council), Garrett County Habitat for Humanity, Western Potomac Chapter of American Red Cross, Garrett County Community Action, Salem Children's Trust, Mountain Laurel Medical Center, and the Dove Center.

United Way agencies are selling tickets, courtesy of Sincell Publishing, which are available at the door and at Brenda's Pizzeria, Gregg's Pharmacy, Four Seasons at Will 'O the Wisp, and the Oakland Office of First United National Bank & Trust.

Ticket prices are $15 for adults and $7 for children. Preschool-age children may eat for free.

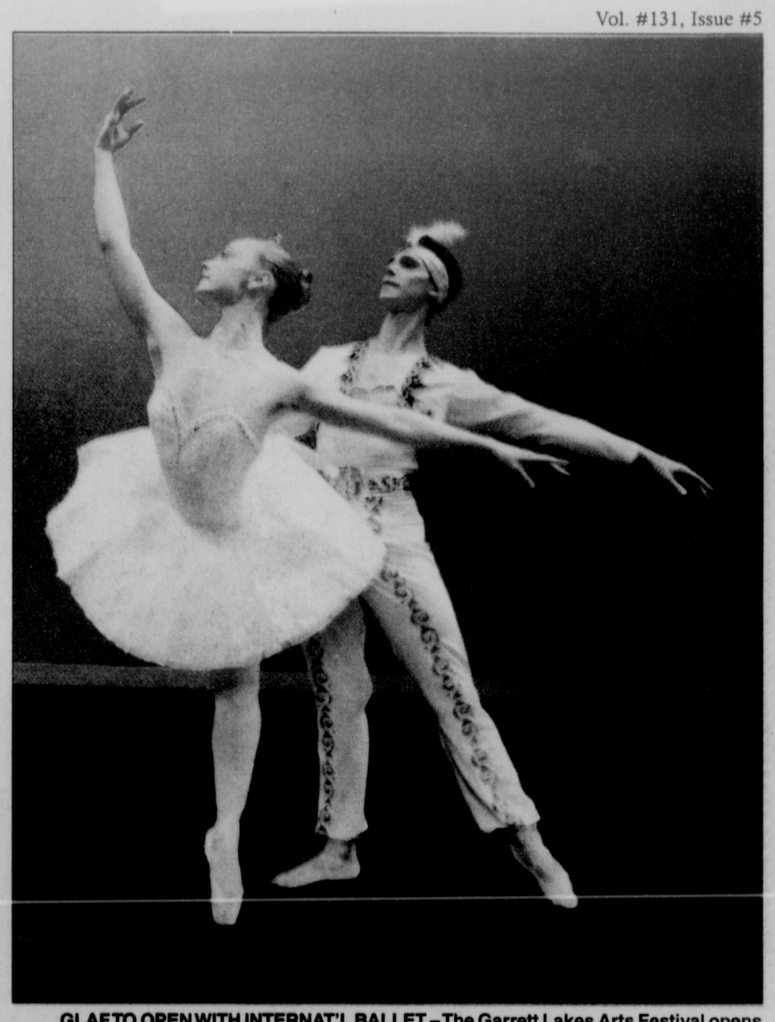
FLOWERS ARE A BLOOMIN' – Though we've awakened to a couple chilly mornings this week, spring is definitely here. The ski slopes have closed and the winter clothes stored away for another year. April has brought showers, and along with it flowers. The shot of these primroses was taken this morning by John McEwen. Also blooming on the mountaintop are crocuses, with daffodils ready to pop as well.



GLAF TO OPEN WITH INTERNAT'L BALLET – The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival opens its 2008 season tomorrow, April 4, with a performance by the International Ballet Theater, taking place at the Garrett College auditorium, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Tickets may still be available at the door. For the most likely success in reserving tickets, persons should call the GLAF office at 301-387-3082. A GLAF spokesperson said Alexander Boitsov, artistic director and ballet master of IBT, is recognized as a gifted and talented dancer for his excellence in training and his "exceptional understanding of the original intent of the choreographers." The IBT dancers follow the Vagnova technique, used by Mikhail Baryshnikov, Rudolph Nureyev, Natalia Makarova, Galina Ulanova, and other stars of Russian classical ballet. Tomorrow's 13 international performers are from Kiev, Moldova, St. Petersburg, Russia, Hungary, and the United States. For more information, persons may visit the GLAF web site at www.artsandentertainment.org.

Garrett Co. Awarded $1.6 Million In Rural Legacy Program Funding

Gov. Martin O'Malley yesterday announced Board of Public Works (BPW) approval of Rural Legacy grants totaling more than $21 million to 21 local governments and land trusts for preservation of forest and farmland across Maryland. Locally, Garrett County will receive $1.6 million to purchase easements in the Bear Creek Rural Legacy Area.

"I am personally honored and privileged to be a part of the effort to protect the magnificent lands that define the rural character of our state and support natural resource based livelihoods such as farming, forestry, tourism, and outdoor recreation," said O'Malley.

The BPW yesterday formally approved $21,022,365 in fiscal year 2008 funds as well as $928,404 in reallocated funding from expired grants. Additionally, the BPW approved designation of one new Rural Legacy Area, the 23,000-acre Dividing Creek Rural Legacy Area, Somerset County, as well as expansion of two existing Rural Legacy Areas located in Queen Anne's County – by a cumulative total of 7,079 acres.

Maryland's Rural Legacy Program provides funding to preserve large, contiguous tracts of land and to enhance natural resource, agricultural, forestry, and environmental protection, while supporting a sustainable land base for natural resource based industries.

"Our Rural Legacy Program is unique in that it encourages local governments and land trusts to work together and determine how best to protect their vital working landscapes," said John R. Griffin, Maryland Department of Natural Resources secretary and Rural Legacy board chair, who played a key role in establishing the program.

Enacted by the General Assembly in 1997, Maryland's Rural Legacy Program has to date provided over $163 million to preserve 58,217 acres of valuable farmland, forests, and natural areas. The 11-member Rural Legacy Advisory Committee and the Rural Legacy board, which is comprised of Maryland's Agriculture, Natural Resources and Planning Secretaries, reviews grant appli-

Grand Jury Indicts Garrett Co. Man With Homicide

Information concerning three of the five indictments issued by the March term of the Garrett County grand jury was released on Tuesday by the state's attorney.

Christopher Andrew Thompson, 22, Lonaconing (Garrett County), was charged by indictment with first-degree homicide and with felony animal cruelty. Thompson has remained incarcerated since his arrest on Feb. 1.

On that date, Thompson was arrested and charged by Maryland State Police for the death of his adoptive father, Dr. Andrew R. Clever, 49.

On two previous dates, Thompson's preliminary hearing in Garrett County District Court was postponed, after his attorney filed for him to be evaluated.

Having been indicted, Thompson will not have the preliminary hearing and the case file has been transferred to the Garrett County

Assault, Burglary Charges Incurred By Addison Man

A Friendsville man was arrested and charged with assault following an altercation that occurred in a Friendsville area apartment on Tuesday, according to Tfc. V.W. Upole of the Maryland State Police McHenry Barrack.

Shortly before 3 p.m., MSP troopers from the McHenry Barrack responded to an apartment on Old River Road for a reported assault in progress. Upon arrival, troopers found the victim, Richard Condon Browning Jr., 59, Friendsville, lying on the floor covered in blood, but conscious.

Upole said Browning was the victim of a robbery, which allegedly occurred when Shawn Robert Long, 26, Addison, Pa., tried to get money from Browning's wallet.

Witness provided suspect information that led Upole to Long, who was located outside the apart-

Officials Approve Deep Creek Hotel Zoning Regulation

After much debate and numerous draft changes over a period of several months, there is a new amendment to the Deep Creek Watershed Zoning Ordinance that defines hotels and motels. The Garrett County commissioners unanimously approved the regulation on Tuesday.

A public hearing on the issue was held three weeks ago, with the record held open for further comment until March 25.

"From the comments we received," said Director John Nelson, Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development, "there's been a compromise reached on how to approach the definition of hotel, and more particular, how to include kitchens or kitchenettes."

Business owners, the Planning Commission, county commissioners, and others had differing opinions on such issues as the size of hotel guest rooms, whether to allow full-size kitchens in those rooms, and if individual utility meters for each room should be permitted.

"It took a good while for us to get to this point," said Denny Glotfelty, Board of Garrett County Commissioners chair, about reaching the final draft stage.

The new amendment helps distinguish between hotels/motels, which are for transient guests, and such places as condominiums for long-term guests. Transient guests are defined as those who rent rooms or suites on a daily basis for not more than 30 consecutive days.

To be considered a hotel/motel, establishments must be open to the public, contain a public lobby and registration office, and provide daily on-site management, guest registration personnel, daily maid service, and maintenance to all rooms and suites. Additionally, rooms and suites may not have individual water and sewer connections metered separately.

Generally, hotel sleeping

McHenry Business Park To Receive $300K From ARC

Senators Barbara A. Mikulski and Benjamin L. Cardin (both D-Md.) announced on Monday that the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) has awarded a total of $546,000 in three grants for western Maryland projects, including one in Garrett County.

The Garrett County Board of Commissioners will receive $300,000 to make infrastructure improvements to the proposed 150-acre McHenry Business Park to accommodate new and expanding businesses in the area. This project will support the creation of 100 new jobs, according to Mikulski.

Specifically, the ARC funding will be used to de-

SHS Emergency Services Club Learning About Volunteerism

A Southern High School group is learning about public safety and the importance of volunteering for fire and rescue units, the Garrett County commissioners found out on Tuesday during an update report from Director Brad Frantz, Department of Public Safety and Emergency Management.

Frantz said about 20 students are members of the Emergency Services Club, which was established by Southern High science teacher Todd Dyche. He is also president of the Garrett County Fire and Rescue Association and a member of the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department.

The purpose of the club is to involve high school age students in public safety issues and generate interest in volunteering for local fire and rescue units.

"We're pretty excited about what this will do," Frantz said about the volunteerism aspect.

The club could be a conduit for attracting new volunteer firefighters and rescue squad members, the director said.

"One of the things we stressed that we wanted to do was to keep the volunteer system afloat," Frantz said. "I think this will help."

He added that his department, therefore, is going do whatever it can to assist the club. During the next seven weeks, for example, Emergency Management has planned several exercises for the club.

The members will receive Community Emergency Response training, which is a Homeland Security sponsored course. Frantz said the course is set up to help people be self-sufficient and to help them assist their neighbors during disasters.

"[This] is especially helpful in situations like ours where we have so few resources," Frantz said. "So, basically, we see the schools as being communities of their own."

He noted that the club members' training will be modified to fit their environment. So, if there is a disaster in the school, Frantz said, the members will be a helpful resource and will have basic skills to deal with

The Grantsville Senior Center has been named a recipient of the CVS Pharmacy and the National Council on Aging (NCOA) Prescription for Better Health and Wellness Award. It was announced at the Aging in America Conference in Washington, D.C. last Friday.

The center was part of a nationwide competition of programs that provide seniors in their communities with exceptional access to activities and education that promote healthy lifestyles. Grantsville Senior Center's "Standing Strong: Evidence Based Falls Prevention Program" was named as an honorable mention and will be recognized during an NCOA monthly aging series webinar on Thursday, May 22, at 1:30 p.m. Those interested should visit www.ncoa.org for more information.

"Standing Strong: Evidence Based Falls Prevention Program" is a six-week health education program aimed at preventing adults aged 60 and over from falls. The program is comprised of five components: orientation, balance screenings, home modification for safety and falls prevention, medication management, and balance exercises.

Unclaimed Prop. Supplement In Today's Paper

Comptroller Peter Franchot announced that his office has issued an 80-page advertising supplement, which is contained in this issue of The Republican, to locate 66,387 recently identified owners of more than $46 million in unclaimed funds.

"Our number one job at the comptroller's office is to serve the people," said Comptroller Franchot. "Part of that service is to connect people with unclaimed funds so they get what they are owed."

Financial institutions, utilities, insurance companies, and other corporations are required to report to the comptroller any bank accounts, security deposits, wages, insurances benefits, and contents of safe deposit

A GIFT FROM GLAF TO THE KIDS – The volunteers who operate the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) are known for bringing quality arts performances to the area for all to experience. What may not be as well known about the organization is its dedication to the youth of Garrett County. A large part of GLAF's mission is to expose area children to a wide range of performing arts. As an example of this mission, all the fourth graders in the county will be treated to a performance of the International Ballet Theatre at Garrett College tomorrow, courtesy of GLAF, with transportation provided by the Garrett County Board of Education. GLAF works in collaboration with the education board to augment the students' arts experiences, and relates these experiences to the curriculum as much as possible. GLAF has provided an arts event for young Garrett Countians for several years now, as shown above in a photo taken in 2006. These fourth-graders were transported to Frostburg State University to see a stage performance by BodyVox. "We think it's extremely important that all children have the experience of going to a real theatre, of learning the decorum expected in that kind of venue, and of seeing quality performing arts," said Moe Turrentine, chairman of GLAF. He is shown at right. See feature story on today's arts pages.

Accident To Receive $4K In POS Funds

Gov. Martin O'Malley yesterday announced Board of Public Works (BPW) approval of Program Open Space (POS) funds for improvements at park and recreation facilities across Maryland, including Garrett County.

Accident will receive $4,127 to install a scoreboard at the Little League field at Town Park East.

Also receiving POS funding approval were Allegany, Caroline, Cecil, Frederick, Howard, and Wicomico counties.

"Local governments and working families rely on local-side Program Open Space to expand and improve outdoor recreation opportunities in their communities," O'Malley said. "I remain committed to continuing to fulfill my promise to support state investment in community parks across Maryland, and I am happy to see these local projects moving forward."

Since 1969, Program Open Space has provided funding for acquisition of 322,729 acres for open space and recreation areas, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

Gear Violation Charges Incurred By Two Fishermen

The Maryland Natural Resources Police charged Kevin L. Dunn, 18, Cumberland, and John D. Blank, 28, Mount Savage, on March 23 with possessing illegal gear in a delayed harvest trout fishing area during prohibited times on the Casselman River. While checking the individuals, NRP discovered the two were fishing with artificial scented worms.

NRP reminds fisherman of the special requirements in effect for delayed harvest trout fishing areas. From Oct. 1 through June 15, a person may not keep or have any trout in his or her possession while fishing in these areas. Except for artificial lures, a person may not possess or use any natural bait, baitfish, fishbait, scents, or natural or synthetic devices capable of catching fish.

Traffic Stop Results In Two CDS Arrests

A traffic stop was conducted on Maryland Highway Sunday morning that resulted in the arrest of two teenagers.

A Garrett County sheriff's deputy stopped the vehicle at the Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department after witnessing the vehicle cross the center line and noticed that it displayed expired Maryland tags.

After contact with the driver, Eric Joseph Shields, 19, Accident, the deputy detected the odor of an alcoholic beverage coming from inside the vehicle. Shields was asked to perform sobriety tests, which were not done to the satisfaction of the deputy.

The deputy made contact with the passenger, Zak Jordan Brosnihan, 18, McHenry, and also detected the odor of alcohol about his breath. He exited the vehicle, and the vehicle was searched. The search revealed beer and a metal smoking device that contained suspected marijuana residue. A search of Shields' person revealed two plastic bags containing suspected marijuana. Both Shields and Brosnihan were placed under arrest.

Shields was charged with driving under the influence, driving while impaired, failure to drive right of center, negligent driving, violation of a license restriction, violation of a provisional license, displaying expired registration, controlled dangerous substance possession of marijuana, possession of CDS paraphernalia, and underage possession of alcohol.

Brosnihan was charged with CDS possession of marijuana, possession of CDS paraphernalia, and underage possession of alcohol.

Tire Recycling Event Slated In McHenry

Garrett County Solid Waste and Recycling Division, General Services Department, will conduct a Citizen Scrap Tire Drop-Off Day on Saturday, April 19, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. in McHenry.

During this one-day event, the division encourages Garrett County residents to bring up to 10 passenger vehicle tires, free-of-charge, to the Garrett County Fairgrounds for recycling. No commercial, truck or equipment tires will be accepted Approximately 5.6 million scrap tires are generated in Maryland every year, according to Kimberly Madigan, Garrett County's recycling coordinator.

"Scrap tires, because of their size and shape and associated environmental hazards caused by improper management practices, present both difficult and costly disposal and recycling challenges for the entities responsible for overseeing their management," Madigan said. "Maryland's response to the management of scrap tires is a nationally recognized success story."

Residents can help reduce scrap tire problems by purchasing retreaded tires, the coordinator added.

"Approximately 400 million gallons of oil are saved each year due to the use of retreaded tires," she said.

Properly maintained tires extend the wear, increasing the chance they can be retreaded. Additional helpful hints include keeping tires inflated at recommended inflation levels – under inflation can waste up to 5 percent of a car's fuel. Also, repair punctures, maintain alignment, and rotate tires every 6,000 to 8,000 miles, the coordinator said.

To avoid mosquitoes, prevent water accumulation in tires.

"If you have a tire swing or tire dock bumpers, puncture holes in the tires so they won't hold water," Madigan said. "You can also purchase environmentally friendly repellents."

Information can be obtained from the Maryland Department of the Environment web site. To learn more about scrap tires in Maryland, persons can visit mde.state.md.us.

To obtain information on tire recycling or any recycling program in Garrett County, one may call Madigan at 301-387-0322 or visit garrettcounty.org.

For more information on retreaded tires, residents may call the Tire Retreaded Information Bureau at 408-372-1917.

MSP Investigates Dest. Of Property

The McHenry State Police Barrack is currently investigating a destruction of property case that occurred on March 31 sometime between 10:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. in the parking lot of the hotel at Wisp Resort.

According to investigating officer Tfc. Seth Huber, unknown person(s) damaged a red Ford Ranger belonging to Amiee Custer, 20, Deer Park, which was parked in parking lot. The vehicle was scratched with a key-like object on the front driver's side fender, Huber said.

Persons with information about this case are asked to contact Huber at the McHenry State Police Barrack at 301-387-1101.

Woman Injured In Single-Car Crash On I-68

An Elkton couple were involved in a traffic accident on Wednesday at 12:32 p.m. when their vehicle overturned on I-68, east of Blooming Rose Road.

James Keith Clark, 62, was driving eastbound when he lost control of his 2003 Mercury Grand Marquis and drove into the center median, police said. The car then entered the westbound lane and overturned, coming to rest on the right shoulder of the road.

A passenger in the car, Drema N. Clark, 58, was transported by Northern Garrett Rescue Squad to Cumberland Memorial Hospital.

Woman Driver Is Arrested For CDS Possession

A Keyser, W.Va., woman was arrested after Garrett County sheriff's deputies stopped her for tailing the vehicle in front of her.

A deputy conducted a traffic stop on a 2002 Chevy Cavalier on Garrett Highway just north of Oakland at approximately 1:30 a.m. Saturday. He observed her following the vehicle in front of her too closely and considered it to be unsafe.

He made contact with the driver, Julie Marie Meyer, 22, and did a record check. It revealed that Meyer's license was currently suspended in the state of West Virginia. The deputy placed her under arrest and secured her in his patrol car before performing a search of the vehicle. The search revealed a plastic bag containing suspected marijuana, another bag containing suspected cocaine, and paraphernalia related to both items.

She was charged with driving on a suspended out of state license, possessing a suspended license, following vehicles too closely, possession of marijuana, possession of cocaine, and two counts of possession of CDS paraphernalia.

She was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to await a bond hearing.

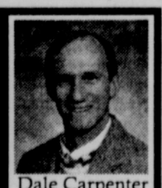
Real Estate Facts by...



Dale Carpenter

KNOWLEDGE IS POWER!

You know that real estate agents help you to move. Did you know that agents can also help you stay where you are? This has become quite an issue in light of the recent rise in loan defaults. Real estate agents provide critical information and a link between lenders and buyers.

Subprime loans, in and of themselves, are not bad. They provide financing for substantial numbers of people who cannot otherwise qualify under standard lending practices. However, buyers must be informed and realistic about what terms they can actually afford to accept.

No one - not banks, not agents, not homeowners - sees foreclosure as an acceptable option. It hurts everyone, including the communities where vacancies lead to declining prices. This is where a trusted local real estate professional can provide assistance.

Real estate agents are advocates for smart lending practices, and they stay in touch with local lenders. Agents also work with state and local governments, as well as local non-profit organizations that can help homeowners facing trouble meeting their mortgage payments.

Perhaps most importantly, realty professionals work closely with buyers to educate them about resources and options. This helps homeowners and prospective buyers keep their homes and build their equity. The key to it all is education and reason, and a strong desire to preserve the quality of our lives and our communities. If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call at the office or on my cell at 301-501-DALE

Oakland Main Street To Host Author Fest

Oakland Main Street will be hosting a new event named the Oakland Main Street Author Fest on Saturday, May 10, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The fest will be held downtown on Liberty and Second Streets.

Author Fest will feature area literary authors from the Tri-State area who have had books or poetry published. Each author will have his/her books on hand for signing, and some will be doing readings from their work as well. There will be a reading at least every hour, depending on the number of participating authors.

"This is a rare opportunity for people to meet and acquire signed copies of books from area authors either as collectors or avid readers," said Main Street Manager Jack L. Cougle. "We are bringing writers from West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and western Maryland."

Those planning the event are still contacting writers as they hear about them. Those who have written a book that has been produced are encouraged to participate in the fest. They are looking for authors of all types of books including fiction, non-fiction, poetry, "how-to" books, children's books, or history books.

Persons interested should contact Cougle at 301-334-5095 or Jack L. Cougle, 117 E. Liberty St., Oakland, MD 21550. This event is made possible by Oakland Main Street and the Mountain Top Writers Club.

CIVIC CLUB TAKES REQUESTS – The GFWC Civic Club of Oakland recently reconvened at the Will O' the Wisp after the organization's winter break. One of the club's significant outreach projects is the annual support of several local organizations, and each year representatives of the organizations come to the March meeting and make requests for funding. This year, the club hosted 20 speakers from local non-profit organizations who spoke on behalf of their programs. Varying levels of funding will be provided to the organizations represented at the meeting. If any member of the community is interested in working with the club to assist these organizations, membership in the Civic Club is open to any person, provided she/he agrees with the organization's objectives. Interested persons may contact Betty Ellington, membership chairman, at 301-387-9232 for information. The presenters at the March meeting are pictured. In the front row, from left, are Beverly Helbig and Sherry Jordan, Lighthouse; Willie Rissell, Garrett Concert Band; Beverly Beard, Hospice; Bonnie Winters, Ruth Enlow Library; and Marilyn Moors, AAUW. Second row, same order: Heather Hanline, the Dove Center; Lyz Biser, Garrett College; Kathy Greaser, Garrett County Memorial Hospital; Bill Riley, Garrett County Habitat for Humanity; and Tiddle Wheeler, Our Town Theater. Third row: Cynthia Witte, Southern High School After-Prom; Anne Sherrard, 4-H/Extension; Elizabeth Huxford, Girl Scouts Black Diamond Council; Diana Morgan, Head Start/RIF; and Sue Arnson, Garrett County Arts Council. Absent from photograph were presenters David Moon, Southern Rescue Squad, and Patty Wells, the House of Hope and Garrett Organization for the Handicapped.

PKU: New Treatment Option Approved

Phenylketonuria (PKU) is a rare condition which involves a gene mutation at birth, leading to an insufficient amount of the enzyme required to break down the amino acid phenylalanine. Amino acids are needed to build protein. Therefore, phenylalanine is contained in foods high in protein. Persons with PKU may develop serious complications if foods high in protein are consumed. Symptoms range from mild to severe, including skin rashes, hyperactivity, stunted growth, and mental retardation.

The main treatment for PKU is a diet consisting of minimal amounts of phenylalanine. Persons with PKU should avoid all high-protein foods, such as eggs and meat, as well as products that contain aspartame. Aspartame, found in many diet sodas, releases phenylalanine when digested. Other foods that may need to be limited include bread, cookies, and certain fruits and vegetables. Recently, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has approved sapropterin dihydrochloride for the treatment of certain persons with PKU. This medication works by decreasing levels of phenylalanine in persons with a specific type of PKU. This medication is the first medication approved for this condition, and should be used in conjunction with a diet limited in phenylalanine content.

Oakland Main Street Attains Accreditation

Oakland Main Street has been accredited as a 2008 National Main Street Program after meeting the commercial district revitalization performance standards set by the National Trust Main Street Center, a program of the National Trust for Historic Preservation. Oakland Main Street joins over 675 other Main Street revitalization programs being recognized.

Each year, the National Trust Main Street Center and its coordinating program partners announce the list of accredited National Main Street Programs around the country that have demonstrated their abilities to follow the Main Street methodology.

"We congratulate this year's accredited National Main Street Programs for meeting our established performance standards," said Doug Loescher, director of the National Trust Main Street Center. "Rebuilding a district's economic health and maintaining that success requires broad-based community involvment and support, in addition to establishing a solid organization with sound management that is committed to long-term success."

The center works in partnership with coordinating Main Street programs throughout the nation to identify the local programs that meet the center's ten performance standards. These standards set the benchmarks for measuring an individual Main Street program's application of the Main Street "Four-Point Approach" to commercial district revitalization.

Evaluation criteria determines the communities that are building comprehensive and sustainable revitalization efforts and includes standards such as developing a mission, fostering stong public-private partnerships, securing an operating budget, tracking economic progress, and preserving historic buildings. For more information about the National Main Street Program accreditation, persons may visit www.mainstreet.org/nationalprograms.

The organization's performance was evaluated by Main Street Maryland which is the coordinating organization for Main Street programs in Maryland.

Oakland Main Street was once of the first three of 18 Main Street communities in the state, and was estabilshed in 1998.

"Oakland Main Street has made great strides in the past year," said Jack L. Cougle, Oakland Main Street manager. "People are beginning to come downtown again to enjoy the various events we've had in the past year.

"We've completed another section of downtown streetscapes and a couple of improvements through the façade program," he continued. "Revitalization is a slow process, but as the area businesses and citizens get invloved with its progress, nothing but good things will begin to happen. The old-town charm will always be there as we stabalize the economic base for the future."

Since 1980, the National Trust Main Street Center has helped hundreds of downtowns and neighborhood commercial districts across the nation reclaim the original charms of the areas, and has forged a nationwide movement for the revival of America's historic and traditional commercial districts. The center provides a nationwide membership network, comprehensive on-site consulting services, seminars and conferences, technical publications and training materials, and national advocacy for commercial districts.

The National Trust for Historic Preservation is a non-profit membership organization that works to protect and enhance downtowns and neighborhood business districts. For more information about the organization, persons may visit the web site at www.preservationnation.org.

No Port in This Storm...

Despite some lapses in emergency rescue and assistance on the Gulf of Mexico coast following Hurricane Katrina a few years ago, in general the various levels of government respond pretty well when natural disasters strike in our country. Agencies such as FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Administration), as well as the American Red Cross, Salvation Army, and several others leap into action when the storms hit. We (the U.S.) are also generally among the first on the scene in other nations when there are earthquakes, landslides, and tsunamis.

Yet there is another kind of "storm" under way in our nation today that is taking a toll on the entire population, and so far our government has done little or nothing to help. The rapidly increasing cost of fuel is now doing serious financial harm to millions of U.S. citizens and businesses. The proverbial domino effect is in full swing, as fuel prices are pushing up the cost of just about everything else.

Particularly strapped right now are those whose livelihoods depend directly on the use of motor fuel, such as truckers, who are having to pay well over $4 per gallon for diesel fuel. Some of these men and women are on the verge of bankruptcy, and will probably be forced to abandon the business unless they get relief soon. Since 70% percent of the nation's products are delivered by truck, all of us – not just truckers – could soon have a real disaster on our hands.

Then there are millions of others who must travel long distances to and from work, or in their work, and many who are struggling to pay their home energy bills, some of whom must choose between paying for heat or for food or needed medications.

Something is radically wrong with this picture. While laissez-faire between government and business is usually the best policy, it is different when the product being sold is essential for survival. The gas and electric companies in Maryland, for example, must gain approval from the Public Service Commission in order to raise rates. Why are oil companies completely exempt, and permitted to charge whatever they want? A free market functions well when there is competition, but there is really no competition among the oil companies. They are obviously united, because when the price goes up by 10 cents per gallon at one station, it does the same at all of them.

The CEOs of several major oil companies were grilled by members of Congress this week, and their responses to the questions were lame at best, while the response to at least one question was complete silence. They said things like, "The high cost of a barrel of oil in the Middle East is the problem." And, "Our citizens have to learn to use less oil." And, "It costs us a lot of money to find new sources of oil." And, "Our profits are in line with other major corporations." Really? These companies posted profits of about $140 billion dollars last year. What other industry has profits that even come close to that figure?

Maybe this writer is just ignorant, but is there anyone out there who can provide clear reasoning that justifies this outrageous gouging of the American public by the oil industry? And can someone tell us why our elected officials are seemingly powerless to do anything about this greed that is seriously hurting hundreds of millions of their constituents?

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

According to a recent AP article, Maryland state wildlife regulators are poised to adopt a regulation that would outlaw feeding of black bears, even if you don't mean to. I wonder if they are poised to enforce this in the state parks, where people camp near public dumpsters that are frequented day and night by gluttonous black bears. Are they ready to enforce this at Northeastern Elementary school in Cumberland where black bears frequent those dumpsters? How about restaurants, where are they supposed to put garbage until pick-up day? What about compost piles that many have established for organic home gardening? What about the bears that are a nuisance any time of day? Will we be forced to not have any bird feeders at all?

I think it's outrageous that DNR wants to dictate to taxpaying citizens, and property/home owners how and when to feed the birds or have an outside garbage can! What is next? Will they tell us when our pets can go outside to go to the bathroom? Another scenario is our children having a picnic in the afternoon under the shady oak at the end of the yard. Will picnics be outlawed so as not to attract our neighbors – the black bears?

When is our DNR Black Bear Management Force going to do more to keep the bears from intruding and endangering citizens all around instead of placing blame on the citizens?

To the Editor:

Thank you! Thank you! Thank you to the Good Samaritan who found my handbag at the Grantsville Burger King in the ladies room about 11:30 a.m. on Wednesday, March 26, and turned it in to the office.

I didn't realize I had lost it until 4:30 p.m. when I looked for it to pay the serviceman who fixed our hot water heater at our lake cabin.

I can't thank you in person since you didn't leave your name, but I'm hoping you are from Garrett County and read The Republican.

I consider myself extremely lucky, and I hope God will bless you for your act of kindness.

I will certainly "pay it forward" and make a donation to my church's special collection for the poor.

To the Editor:

A recent letter to the editor addressed the misfortune that struck the historic building at the corner of Liberty and First streets in downtown Oakland. A small portion of its brick façade unexpectedly fell to the ground. The writer of the letter expressed no sympathy for the unfortunate owner who must muddle through having it examined by structural engineers, satisfy safety concerns of the town, meet insurance company requirements, and otherwise be responsible. If all that weren't enough, he has had to relocate his business until the repair work is completed.

My sincere and warmest thanks go to the building owner as well as to Mayor Asa McCain and town council members Jay Moyer, Peggy Jamison, and Sherwin Teagarden. Thanks to their progressive thinking, the owner of this historic building will be allowed to restore it to its pre-accident condition, preserving it for generations to come.

After the bricks fell, the owner immediately took steps to prevent further damage, as well as protect the public, should a few more bricks depart the roofline. A sturdy plywood barrier to keep folks from accidentally getting too close to the building was quickly erected. A dumpster was brought in and placed close to the side of the building to contain debris. And road stanchions were installed to keep cars from getting too close, yet allow workers room to maneuver. Traffic can easily get by on Liberty Street. Pedestrians can easily walk the street on the opposite side.

Thank heavens the town didn't do anything rash, such as pre-empt the owner's rights by demolishing this fine historic building and then foolishly trying to bill him for the work. Such folly could open the town up to a huge lawsuit and deprive us all of yet another architectural treasure.

We are reminded, once again, of just how ably Oakland's mayor Asa McCain and council members Jamison, Moyer, and Teagarden shepherd us through various unexpected difficulties.

To the Editor:

Regarding the letter appearing in the 3-13-08 Republican by Bill Thomas, I am pleased you are like millions of Americans, inspired by the very eloquent Barack Obama. I, too, was inspired and willing to climb aboard the bandwagon of hope until it became evident we know little or nothing about this public servant form Illinois.

Imagine how more than half of America feels knowing he chose to wait 20 years for his anti-American pastor to retire as his reason for staying in his pew with his wife and children present. Some of our least experienced presidents have elevated us as a nation of decency and generosity, and most of all, hope. Some other inspirational speakers were Jerry Falwell, Billy Graham, and Adolph what's-his-name from Berlin.

It seems early during this campaign that the imbedded press who shared Obama's airplane did everything but wash his feet before the boxed lunches were passed out.

Recently our elections are becoming more problematic than before as spin and familiarity have replaced off-the-cuff honesty. Reading from a teleprompter may be a safe way to go, but, unlike George Bush, whose rallies were held in airplane hangars, invitation-only attendees – we sometimes got a glimpse of his real character. Some of us wanted to buy a beer with him.

Obama's friend, Oprah Winfrey, left Trinity Church in 1986 – her career was budding, but perhaps she grew tired of the anti-American rhetoric by Rev. Wright also. I hope so.

Mr. Thomas, we all want to be inspired, particularly when so many are losing their homes, their jobs, their retirement funds, and yes, soldiers in Iraq and Afghanistan. I am hoping there will be a brokered convention in Denver, because out of that Democratic action may arise yet another inspirational speaker whom we can mutually endorse. What inspired me most is that you took the time to exercise your right to express yourself in a public way – and that is so good for our Republic. God bless America.

To the Editor:

The subject of this letter could have easily been "Thanksgiving comes to Garrett County in April." Tuesday evening the board and 10 of the affiliated agencies of the United Way of Garrett County held their fundraising Food, Foolishness & Fun pasta dinner, and it was a fantastic success! Because of the more than 45 restaurants and food and beverage services of Garrett County that contributed food, beverages and other services, the United Way of Garrett County took a big leap towards meeting its goal of $110,000. These funds will go towards personally touching the lives of approximately 11,000 citizens of Garrett County through the hard work of those affiliated agencies. (For more information on the agencies, please log on to www.garrettunitedway.org)

Thanks go out to all of you who joined in Tuesday's fun through ticket purchases and giving generously and graciously to the entertaining, costumed agency volunteers. This night personified the warmth and caring of the Garrett County community. Those who came and joined in the fun were treated to a spectacular meal. Brenda McDonnell and staff from her Pizzeria and Wendy Friend and staff of the Four Seasons Restaurant cooked many dishes for this dinner while heating, arranging, and serving delicious specialty sauces of their own and those donated by Cornish Manor, Silver Tree, and Uno's. We owe, in significant measure, the success of the event to them.

There were scores of others who contributed everything from the essentials to set the tables, to salad makings, breads, and condiments. (Dare I slip in major contributors like Little Sandy's at Sandflat Road, Perkins, and Savage River Lodge among those who provided luscious desserts?) Also contributing were the board members of Our Town Theatre who generously made themselves available for assisting in selection of the donated colorful costumes worn by the "waitstaff." Simon Pearce provided a beautiful bowl for our raffle, and this newspaper, The Republican, publicized the event. We owe a great deal to these businesses and we should support them.

We are all extremely fortunate to be living in Garrett County where the spirit of the community is so well founded, and we can enjoy together the benefits for which we give thanks in April.

boxes that have been unclaimed after three years. Funds remain the property of the owners or their legitimate heirs and can be claimed anytime. There is no statue of limitations.

Comptroller Franchot urges anyone who finds his/her name in the supplement to telephone his office toll-free at 1-800-782-7383 to find out how to make a claim. He also noted that anyone can check the agency's complete unclaimed property records for free, online, at either www.marylandtaxes.com or www.missingmoney-.com. The agency has records on approximately 758,000 accounts worth more than $708 million.

In addition, numerous property items held by the agency that remain unclaimed are now eligible for auction on eBay. Since this program began in July 2006, nearly 2,800 items have been sold, totaling more than $301,000. These items can be viewed and bid on by clicking the eBay icon at www.marylandtaxes-.com.

Along with newspaper advertising, the comptroller's office also searches for owners of unclaimed funds by matching files with Internal Revenue Service and state Motor Vehicle Administration records, and setting up computers at the Maryland State Fair and other events to allow people to check the agency's files of unclaimed funds.

In fiscal year 2007, which ended June 30, 2007, the comptroller's office honored nearly 40,000 claims totaling more than $46 million.

Club Learning

the situation.

During their training, the students will learn such things as how to determine if a building is safe to enter, how to use a fire extinguisher, and how to locate electrical boxes. They will also receive first aid and cardio pulmonary resuscitation instruction.

Frantz said the club members also want to conduct a mock disaster exercise as a culmination of their school year. A car accident scenario may be held on the football field, with local fire and rescue personnel participating in the activity.

"The whole school will be able to see that in an assembly type of setting to see how the volunteer public safety system works," Frantz said about the scenario.

The mock disaster will be held prior to Emergency Medical Services Week in May. Frantz said his department wants to videotape the accident scenario and give a presentation on it during EMS week to recognize the students' accomplishments. That presentation may take place at the Country Club Mall in LaVale.

Frantz also noted that he has been asked to be a presenter at a state conference in Ocean City in late May on the Emergency Services Club program as a "local best" practice.

Frantz described the Emergency Services Club as a very worthwhile program and noted that Dyche hopes to conduct it each semester.

"I want to acknowledge the work that Todd has done to get the club up and running," he told the commissioners.

The current club members will conclude their training in May. Frantz asked the commissioners to formally present the certifications to the students.

Jury Indicts

Circuit Court. He is scheduled to appear in court for an arraignment/initial appearance on May 6.

In an unrelated case, two co-defendants from Salisbury, Pa., were also indicted by the March term of the grand jury. Brian Keith Brown, 44, and Nancy Louise Reed, 44, are both charged with possession with intent to distribute cocaine, conspiracy to possess with intent to distribute cocaine, possession of cocaine, possession of marijuana, and three counts of possession of controlled dangerous substance (CDS) paraphernalia.

Brown and Reed were charged by officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force, who executed a search and seizure warrant and seized quantities of drugs, paraphernalia, money, and a vehicle at a Grantsville-area hotel in February.

Brown and Reed were both released from the Garrett County Jail after posting $50,000 bonds. A summons has been issued for each to appear in the Circuit Court on May 6 for an arraignment/initial appearance.

Information concerning the remaining two indictments, which were issued with arrest warrants, will not be released until the person charged is arrested. State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch indicated it may be some time before this will occur because this defendant is currently incarcerated in another state, pending trial. He cannot be brought to Maryland until the Pennsylvania cases are completed, Thayer Welch said.

sign and construct public water and sewer lines, a natural gas line, a conduit for electric, fiber, and broadband, and the installation of a fire suppression system.

This will help the county balance growth and development while minimizing the impacts on schools, highways, utilities, and environmental areas, Mikulski noted.

In addition to ARC funds, the Economic Development Administration is providing $2.2 million, the state is providing $1.4 million, and Garrett County is providing $ 458,036 for the McHenry Business Park, for a total project cost of nearly $4.86 million, according to Mikulski.

The ARC also awarded the city of Frostburg $150,000 to eliminate combined sewer overflow events that pollute local streams, and Frostburg State University will receive $96,000 for a Nanotechnology Laboratory.

"This is a federal investment in infrastructure and education to support jobs today and jobs tomorrow in western Maryland," Mikulski said about the ARC funding to western Maryland. "I'm so proud that these recipients will be able to use this funding to continue to develop and grow by attracting new businesses and economic development."

Mikulski is a senior member of the Appropriations Committee, and Cardin is a member of the Banking Committee.

"The Appalachian Regional Commission is a great example of federal investment that works on a state and local level for the people of Maryland," Cardin said. "These much-needed funds will create jobs, improve our health, and keep our students on the cutting edge of science and technology."

The ARC is a federal-state partnership that works with the people of Appalachia to create opportunities for self-sustaining economic development and improved quality of life.

Long was taken into custody and charged with first and second degree assault and attempted robbery. He was being held as of late Tuesday at the barrack in McHenry, awaiting a bond hearing before a district court commissioner.

Upole said Browning's injuries were not life-threatening, but he would probably require stitches. He was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for medical treatment.

Understanding
Home Health Care
by Kristine Graber, RN
CARE FOR CANCER PATIENTS AT HOME

People with cancer often feel more comfortable receiving medical care at home instead of in a hospital or nursing home. They can be with family members and in comfortable surroundings. Home care agencies offer several services that can help the patient while offering freedom and peace of mind to a caretaker. Agency services can include nurses' visits, medical equipment availability, and social workers. Patients and their caregivers may also be pleased to learn that home care agencies offer help with meal preparation, personal hygiene, and medication delivery. Medicare, Medicaid, and other public funding sources are available for people who qualify. Some private health insurance companies also cover home care service for cancer patients.

Special help may be needed for cancer patients to accomplish the many tasks of daily living. TENDER LOVING HOME CARE, INC., can provide a full range of home care and adult personal care tailored to a client's specific needs. Call us for more information and a free consultation. Our caring, professional staff is available for 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Long- or short-term care is available, whenever it's needed. All our carefully screened home care providers are licensed, bonded and insured. Our nurses are available to employees for consultation around the clock.

P.S. Some cancer patients may be able to receive chemotherapy treatments at home.

Lawmakers Could Face Longer Session Because Of St. Budget

by Kelly Wilson
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – With only a week remaining in the Maryland General Assembly's regular legislative session lawmakers still have not reached an agreement on the state budget, forcing Gov. Martin O'Malley to issue a constitutional order Tuesday extending the session by 10 days.

The move has become a common occurrence, legislators and State House staffers said.

Lawmakers usually get through the necessary budget reconciliations before the regularly scheduled end of the session, which falls on April 7 this year. They must stay for the extra time only if the budget is not passed by both chambers before that day.

Since last week, a bicameral conference committee has been working toward a consensus between the House and Senate on issues including funding for stem cell research and restricting the comptroller's allotment in the budget.

Legislators are also considering ways to repeal a computer services tax passed in November's special session to help fill a $1.7 billion budget gap.

The tax is highly unpopular, but losing that revenue would mean more trouble for the state's budget, which must be balanced each year under Maryland's constitution.

The stem cell program was one of those hit hardest in the Senate's budget cuts as March brought the general assembly news of a $333 million revenue shortfall. The House budgeted $15 million, while the Senate allotted $5 million.

Delegate Norman Conway, D-Wicomico, a member of the conference committee, spoke in support of the House's high level of funding for the program at a committee meeting Friday.

He said medical institutions in other states along the East Coast are already taking advantage of the technology, which he said has the potential to improve the quality of life for many.

Another source of friction is a provision in the budget that would require Comptroller Peter Franchot to use the money provided for his office only for work associated with his official duties.

Lawmakers said last week that they were not aware of any specific incident that had prompted the provision.

Some committee members said the prohibitory language was unnecessary because there was no clear situation that the addition would address and it is not used in all department allotments.

However, the provision is similar to one included annually in the state's transportation budget, said Warren Deschenaux, director of policy analysis for the Department of Legislative Services.

Sen. James DeGrange, D-Anne Arundel, also a member of the conference committee, said the disagreements were minor and mostly centered around questions of specific funding figures.

House members also had a few concerns about the capital budget, he said, but repeated that those issues were also relatively minor.

DeGrange said the differences were likely to be resolved within the next day or two.

Fellow committee member Delegate John Bohanan, D-St. Mary's, also said the negotiations were largely finished.

The final touches could have been taken care of already, he said, but it would be easier for members to work through the details if they knew the fate of the computer services tax.

The 10-day extension is required by the Maryland constitution in any year in which the General Assembly has not reached a consensus on the budget by the 83rd day of the session, which passed Monday.

Ask Sheila
Decorating Dilemma?
Sheila offers helpful advice.

Dear Sheila:
We just purchased a cabin at DCL. It is one of the older ones and we have the strangest problem. I have a window in my tub in the basement. It allows cold air, goes nowhere and I want to replace the old tub with a jetted tub and shower. I would also like tile as this is a nasty bathroom now.
SICK OF SLIMY TUBS

Dear Sick:
Why not have the window framed in and covered over when the old tub is taken out and take the tile around the tub to the ceiling? There are some great looking tiles available at the local flooring stores and of course we are always happy to make the project happen for you!

DMITRY OSTROGORSKY

Russian College Student To Give Musical Program

Russian guitarist and Garrett College student Dmitry Ostrogorsky will present a musical program on Thursday, April 10, in the Garrett College auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Screen cameras and projectors will be used to enhance the performance.

"I want to show people that guitar [played] in a way they have never heard it before," Ostrogorsky said. "People will be able to see music played right in front of them. With the special equipment, I can bring the music close."

The guitarist will show through this enhanced performance how the quality of the sound is complemented. His music will vary from the Spanish romance "Greensleeves" and Sabicas melodies by artists such as Paco Pena, Manolo Sanlucar, Paco de Lucia, and Juan Martin. Ostrogorsky said he plans to show the guitar's "personality" and will explain techniques between performances.

Ostrogorsky started playing the guitar when he was 16 years old and has been playing for the past 14 years. Trained by the master Dmitry Goryachev, he creates his music on a handmade Russian guitar, crafted by Gorge K. Babichev.

Ostrogorsky began teaching when he was 18, giving private lessons in Russia.

"All of my students were successful in different ways, some publicly," he said.

He played at the St. Petersburg Conservatory and festivals before coming to America in 2002. He said eventually he would like to teach, but first wants to get his degree and improve his language skills. He said he enjoys living in Garrett County, which he describes as "slightly softer" than St. Petersburg, and enjoys being a student at Garrett College.

Proceeds from the evening will benefit the Garrett College World View International Club. Tickets will be available at the door for $8. Admission is free for Garret College students who present their student IDs.

For more information, persons may call Judy Carbone at 301-387-3046.

The group also plans to create committees, select committee leaders, and begin their work on the project.

Those interested in the project are invited to attend the presentation and planning session. However, reservations must be made by Monday, April 7, in order to prepare for lunch. In addition, a small donation is requested to help cover the cost of lunch and snacks.

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival Turns Spotlight Onto Garrett Co. Youth

by Mary Sincell McEwen

The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) has been in existence in Garrett County for 22 years, beginning as a classical music festival in 1986, and expanding over the years to offer a wide range of artistic performances involving stage, music, and dance.

Throughout the two-decade history, the non-profit organization has kept in its mission a concentration on arts education, especially for the area's young people. In recent years, members of the board of directors have put that concentration into a much sharper focus.

"Bringing the arts to Garrett County youth is a high priority for the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival," said Moe Turrentine, chairman of the board of directors.

Just this week, GLAF will provide a unique experience to every fourth grade student in the county. Tomorrow, the children will be bused to Garrett College to see a performance by the International Ballet Theater. The children pay nothing for the show. This offering is not without a purpose.

"Dance is part of the fourth grade curriculum," explained Beth Johnson, former executive director of GLAF and current board member. "We work closely with the Garrett County Board of Education to dovetail our offerings with the students' areas of study. We try very hard to augment their studies by providing relevant experiences."

The curriculum for fifth and sixth graders in the county involves music, so GLAF is working now to provide a relevant experience for these ages groups in 2009.

The GLAF season, which officially begins tomorrow evening with a public performance of the International Ballet, is full of opportunities for the youth of the county. In addition to happenings geared directly toward young people, the ticket prices for youth are low throughout the year. Most events are a mere $7 for students, and children 5 and younger are admitted free of charge.

"When have you ever heard of being able to see the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra for seven dollars?" Johnson asked. Skip Case, executive director of the organization, said the ticket prices are made low intentionally to attract young people to see events to which they might not otherwise be exposed.

"Ticket prices like that are definitely in line with our mission to offer arts education to the kids," Case said.

GLAF works closely with Garrett College to present its season each year, and most of the events are held at the local college. The relationship with Garrett is a positive one, and has worked well since the very beginning. The GLAF members spoke of the importance of local children being made aware of the excellent facility available to them upon high school graduation.

However, in addition to taking part in performances locally, Turrentine spoke of the value in transporting children to larger theatres, such as the performing arts center at Frostburg State University, where the county's fourth-graders were taken in 2006 to see a BodyVox performance.

"We want the kids to set foot on a college campus outside of Garrett County," the chairman said. "There is great merit in entering a more urban setting, going into a large theatre, and learning how to behave in such a place. It's not just about the actual performance. It's the entire experience of traveling, of seeing new places, and of trying new things."

The board of education does work to provide a variety of arts to the community's young people, but is often limited by budget issues and other obstacles.

"We are happy to be able to provide expanded arts opportunities for our county's children," Case said. "It is more important than many people might realize."

GLAF is non-profit, and operates solely on the donations and grants it receives. Much of the board members' efforts are on fundraising and grant-writing. The trip tomorrow to see the ballet was made possible through a generous donation from Audrey and Howard Naylor, Johnson said.

"We exhaust every grant opportunity that comes our way," Johnson said. "We receive funding from the National Endowment for the Arts, the Mid Atlantic Arts Foundation, the Pennsylvania Performing Arts Tour, and other avenues."

The organization is also supported by season sponsors and event sponsors, mostly local businesses and individuals.

The GLAF season is punctuated throughout with opportunities for young people. Last month, GLAF sponsored its annual teen talent show, which it holds every March.

The annual student pi-

Yoga And Poetry Workshop Slated At Ruth Enlow

The first of two free poetry workshops will be held at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland on Monday, April 21, from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

Yael Flusberg, poet and yoga instructor from the Washington, D.C., area, will present a program titled "Yoga and Poetry."

"Participants can expect to stretch both body and mind with a combination of yoga and writing exercises," said a program organizer. Novices are welcome, as well as those with experience in yoga and poetry. Those attending are advised to wear comfortable clothes and bring a mat and favorite notebook and pen.

TAKE HOME NUMEROUS TROPHIES IN FIRST COMPETITION – Participants at Jessica's Dance Creations, Oakland's new dance and gymnastics studio, went to their first competition in Cumberland on Saturday and Sunday. The group took home five first-place trophies, one second-place award, and two third-place trophies. Jessica's girls competed in gymnastics, jazz dance, hip-hop, tap, and lyrical/ballet. They will compete again in the Tri-State Competition in Cumberland on April 26. Pictured are Jessica's first-place winners. Above, left to right, are hip-hop team members Lauren Keefer, Jennifer King, Chelsea Crosco, Regina Crosco, Brooke Sisler, Kendra Hardesty, and Sara Estill. Below are Mikala Spiker, solo and duet winner, Anna Laymen, Sabryn Schoolcraft, and Olivia Crosco. Jessica's Dance Creations opened last May.

"Yoga is about movement, mindfulness, and breath," said Flusberg. "Both poetry and yoga teach us to be more present and open to the moment, and yoga can teach us how to appreciate the intentionality that goes into creating poetry.

"I came to poetry and yoga at about the same time as a way of healing, both emotionally and physically," she explained.

Flusberg's memoir essays, poetry, and reviews have been published in anthologies and journals including Just Like a Girl: An Anthology; Only the Sea Keeps: Poetry of the Tsunami; America: What's My Name?; DC Poets Against the War: An Anthology; Lilith; and Travelers' Tales, among others. She recently completed her first poetry collection, Stones Left on Graves.

She has twice been awarded grants from the D.C. Commission on Arts & Humanities, was writer in residence at St. Mary's College of Maryland during March and April of 2007 and will be again during April 2008, and is a member of the Macondo Writers Workshop and the International Women's Writers Guild. She is a co-founder of Sol & Soul, a non-profit which nurtures and promotes emerging and seasoned artists of conscience.

This program is part of Poetry's Here @ Your Maryland Library, a Maryland Center for the Book program that brings poets and poetry to Maryland public libraries.

Persons may telephone the Oakland Library at 301-334-3996, ext. 117, to register or to request more information. Registration is not mandatory, but will give the library an idea of how many participants to expect. Sign-language interpretation is available upon request, with advance notice (by April 7).

The second poetry workshop will be held Wednesday, May 7, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. also at the Oakland Library, with poet Mary Azrael. This program will focus on the works of Langston Hughes, and details will be published in April.

ano recital, featuring all local musicians, is held each May, this year slated for the 18th. GLAF collaborates with the area's many piano teachers to select qualified performers, and the young pianists then present their talent at Will O' the Wisp in a traditional, formal setting. This year, each participant will be given a free ticket to the Kotaro Fukuma classical piano recital on June 14.

The Morgan State University Choir will be performing in late May, and high school choral students will be bused to a daytime master class, courtesy of GLAF.

The summertime arts offerings are wide-ranging, with clinics offered in voice, drawing, and dance. These week-long workshops have been offered to the area's youth for years by GLAF. Hundreds of local young people, as well as visiting youngsters, have taken part in these events. Information about all of the student classes can by obtained by calling the GLAF office (301-387-3082) or going online at www.artsandentertainment.org.

Other offerings over the years have included plays, such as Call of the Wild in October of 2007. More than 600 middle and high school students were bused to Garrett College to see the performance.

The GLAF board hopes to dispel any misconception that GLAF is only for the elite, which is sometimes the notion held.

"We work for the people of Garrett County, and we are focusing much of our energy on the youth of the area," Turrentine said. "We are Garrett Countians, after all, and love our community. What we offer is professional arts entertainment. Whether it be high-brow or low-brow, it's always of high quality. We work very hard to offer a season with 'something for everyone.' And we certainly aim much of our planning and funding toward our very important youth population."

accommodations cannot be more than 1,500 square feet and contain no more than two bathrooms. The accommodations may contain kitchenettes consisting of a single bowl sink, refrigerator, up to an 18-inch dishwasher, countertop and cabinetry. The rooms may contain a microwave oven, but no other cooking facilities.

Property owners wanting to build establishments with larger suites containing full kitchens may do so if they follow certain permitting and density regulations. Developers must comply with a minimum lot of land area requirement of 4,800 square feet per room or suite if a complete kitchen is provided. The number of rooms or suites allowed in a hotel or motel with a complete kitchen will be calculated by dividing the total land area of the lot by 4,800 square feet.

Off-road parking standards for hotels and motels are also addressed in the new zoning amendment. One parking space is required for each room or suite having one bedroom. Additionally, one ½ space is required for each additional bedroom and for each full-time employee on the establishment's largest shift.

Garrett Lakers Pick Up Four Wins In Three Doubleheaders

The Garrett College baseball team followed a pattern of winning the first game and giving up the second in both doubleheaders played against Catonsville and Lackawana over the weekend in the Lakers' home debut of the season. The Lakers crushed Montgomery Rockville in both games played at home on Tuesday to boost their record to 13-11 on the season and 3-2 in the Maryland JUCO. Results from the Lakers' contest at Potomac State last night were not received.

Saturday's JUCO showdown opened with a 2-1 nail-biter over Catonsville when Northern alumnus sophomore Greg Beachy fired a two-hitter.

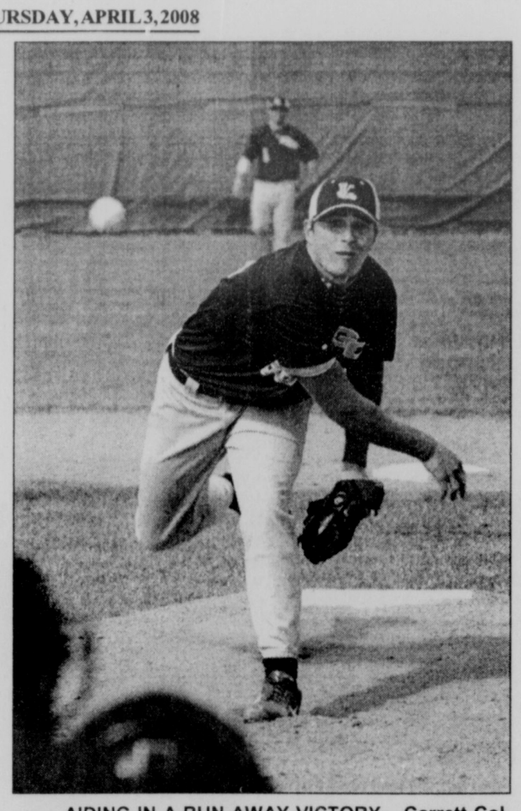
Beachy's five-strikeout complete-game effort yielded just two hits and one first-inning run. After that, he finished with six scoreless innings.

Freshman Alex Anderson and Northern graduate freshman Corey Carr each smacked RBI singles to get the win.

Catonsville pitcher Jordan Wiley nearly nabbed it for the Cardinals in a pitchers dual by allowing six hits. Three of the hits came in the third inning when the Lakers scored both of their runs.

Jeremy Shackelford drew a one-out walk, stole second, and scored on a two-out single by Anderson. Following a Zach Nair single, Carr singled and gave Anderson the go-ahead run to win it.

In the second game, the Cardinals swooped in for an 11-3 win, which featured a three-run home run, two



AIDING IN A RUN-AWAY VICTORY – Garrett College's starting pitcher Alex Barth was one of three Lakers to toss in the second game of a doubleheader against Montgomery Rockville on Tuesday. singles, and five RBI from Rob Bigelow. Juan Carlos Sanchez drove in three runs on a double in a four-run second, which gave Catonsville a 5-0 advantage.

Dustin Adams, Kris Torrance, and Tony Russo each had a pair of singles for Garrett.

Garrett struck a hit first in Sunday's twinbill with Lackawana, then added six more in the first two innings to secure the 8-1 win.

Anderson had two hits and David Angle had an RBI double to account for Garrett's three-run first.

Winning pitcher Brandon Piper teamed up with reliever Reed Alfieri, who entered in the seventh, for to strike out three batters while allowing just one run. Piper kept Lackawana in check with six strike-outs.

Lackawana strode out early in the second game with four runs in the first inning, and Garrett responded with runs in the first and third innings, but the Lakers failed to turn out any game-saving runs. The victory went in Lackawana's favor, 8-2.

Norton and Rossi each had six hits of Lackawana's 13, and Todd Graig got the win from the pitcher's mound with eight strike-outs.

The Lakers were held to five hits, two of which were Carr doubles.

Garrett scattered 20 hits in each game of Tuesday's doubleheader with Montgomery Rockville and captured 22-8 and 16-9 runaway victories.

In the first game, Garrett sealed the deal early by scoring 13 runs in the first inning. Joe Wilt drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a double, while Zach Nair had four RBI with three singles.

Torrance and Garrett Rogers each added a double and two singles to the Lakers' 20-hit attack. Rogers drove in three runs and Torrance drove in a pair of runs.

Cody Loomis got the win in the five-inning contest and yielded six hits.

Nair was the leading hitter for Garrett in the second game. He used a two-run home run to pull in four runners and added a double and a single.

Montgomery Rockville held a tight grip on an 8-6 third-inning lead, but Garrett had a four-run fifth and broke away with six more runs in the sixth.

Ricardo Cordido doubled, scattered three singles, and scored four runs, and Tony Russo stroked a key hit with a base-clearing double in the six-run sixth, as well as a run-scoring single.

Next up for the Lakers is a doubleheader at Salem C.C. on Friday and two games at Cecil C.C. on Saturday before they host Chesapeake C.C. on Sunday. Garrett will slide in a game at Hagerstown C.C. on Tuesday before hosting Allegany College of Maryland for a twinbill next Thursday.

Southern Baseball Squad Falls To 1-2 With Loss To Fort Hill

The margin was close in a recent outing at Fort Hill, but the Southern High School varsity baseball players saw a 6-3 Sentinel victory fly by them as five rival runners crossed the plate in the fourth inning. The Rams were slated to play at Petersburg last night, but results were not submitted.

The Rams (1-2 overall and in the Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference) scored two runs in the second and rode the 2-0 lead into the fourth inning until the Sentinels came up to bat.

Fort Hill's fourth started with a single by Jesse Robinson followed by two more singles by Forhest Crass and Louis Berrios that loaded the bases. Jerritt Bean grounded into a fielder's choice that scored one run, and an overthrow led to another. One of Billy Weisenmiller's singles drove in a run, while Kody Boyer doubled in two for Fort Hill (2-2 overall, 2-1 AMAC).

Berrios tossed his way through the first six innings before Boyer entered, and together they yielded three run-producing hits.

Seth Hinebaugh delivered two singles for Southern and made it home once.

Jason Ashby whiffed eight Seninels in six innings, but was tagged with the loss.

The Southern jayvees recorded a recent 15-6 win over Fort Hill, as winning pitcher Jeremy Sharpless fanned seven batters and aided his cause with three singles.

Ryan Bennet finished with a double and two singles, Sean Roland had three singles, and Tyler Sweitzer smacked two singles in the win.

Dakota Welsh hit two doubles and a single, and Jeremy Kunis rapped two singles for the Sentinels.

Last week it was stated that Cody Parsons pitched in the game against Hampshire, when, in fact, it was Derek Taylor. Taylor Pitched the first four innings, and it was Parsons who had a double and a single.

SEASON PREVIEW

Shane Weaver was the only player lost to graduation, and with last season's 14-5 record, the Ram varsity baseball team can confidently anticipate another commanding season.

Under the direction of head coach Dan Holler and assistant coaches Greg Tressler and Bryson Meyers, this year's starting line-up consists of first basemen Derek Taylor and Seth Hinebaugh, second baseman Reece Duncan, shortstop Jason Ashby, third basemen Jake Briley and Cody Parsons, catcher Nick Tressler, and outfielders Jordan Pacella, Ryan Sweitzer, Kody Lewis, and Josh Noble. Parsons will also serve as the designated hitter.

Holler has quite a selection of pitchers to pull from with seniors Ashby, Briley, and Pacella, juniors Taylor, Sweitzer, and Parsons, and sophomore Nathan King.

Holler says the team's strength lies in its players.

"Our returning players show strong defensive skills," he said. "The wet weather just needs to dry up so we can get outside to practice."

Northern and Mountain Ridge will prove to be formidable foes for the Rams, according to Holler.

The Rams are on the road tomorrow at Frankfort and will host county rival Northern on Monday at 4:30 p.m. Southern will host Allegany on Wednesday with the same starting time.

Rams Get Win At Hampshire, But Get Dumped At Frankfort

Senior Melodie Stolbom took the upper hand in a classic pitchers' duel Saturday as the Southern High School softball squad opened its week with a 6-3 win over Hampshire, but trouble on the plate in Wednesday's contest at Frankfort resulted in a 16-5 dumping of the Rams.

Southern scored six runs in a complete game victory and beat Hampshire by half as many points in Saturday's contest at Hampshire High School.

Junior Shayna Sweitzer slammed a home run in the fifth inning and added a triple to drive in two runs in helping Southern get the defeat, while Brittany Boyce recorded two hits and had two runs.

Cheyenne Corbin and Brittany Moreland led the Trojans with two base hits each. Moreland also had two RBI.

Stolbom tossed the entire game for Southern, and Alyssa Hixenbaugh took the loss for Hampshire. Stolbom allowed three runs on nine hits, while the Rams got six runs on 10 hits past Hixenbaugh.

After two scoreless innings, Southern led 2-1 after the third and was up 4-1 after four innings. Hampshire (2-4) left the bases loaded in the bottom of the seventh inning trailing 6-3.

The junior varsity game ended tied at 15-15. No further information was received.

Stolbom worked all five innings in Wednesday's condensed game at Frankfort, but managed to allow 16 runs on just four hits. The Falcons got the 16-5 win despite being called on seven errors.

Falcon hurler Kristi Salonish whirled a one-hitter, while striking out four and walking two.

Sweitzer fired Southern's only hit, a single in the third inning.

The Falcons got two singles and three runs off Natasha Holtstine.

The Frankfort jayvees swooped in for a 9-3 win to remain unbeaten.

Jen Pyles whacked a two-run home run and got the win by striking out six in the one-hitter. Aubrey Evans hit a double and a single and Kayla Tansil doubled for the Falcons (4-0).

Southern (2-1) is slated to host Petersburg on Monday and will travel to Mountain Ridge on Tuesday, and Fort Hill next Thursday.

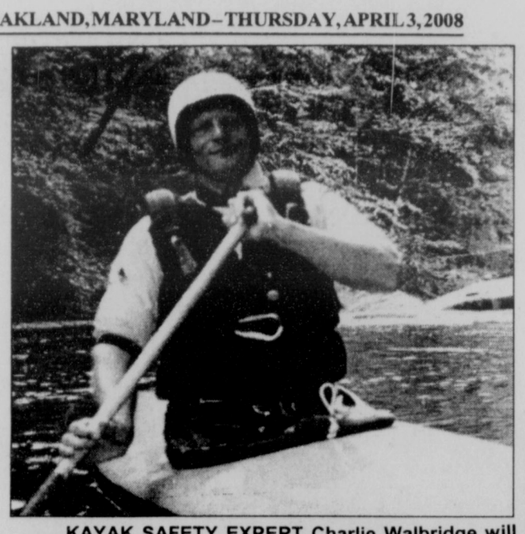
Whitewater Safety Expert To Speak At Garrett College

The Adventuresports Institute (ASI) of Garrett College will host Charlie Walbridge, an internationally-known whitewater kayak safety expert, who will present a program on the modern history of whitewater and whitewater safety issues. The program will be held at Garrett College in Room 224 on Tuesday, April 8, at 7 p.m. A reception for the speaker will begin at 6:30 p.m. The event is free and open to the public.



KAYAK SAFETY EXPERT Charlie Walbridge will give a speech at Garrett College on Tuesday.

Walbridge began his 40-year career canoeing at summer camp in the early 1960s. He began paddling whitewater seriously while attending college in 1976, which allowed him to paddle rivers throughout the U.S. and Canada, including several first descents.

He said his passion for whitewater grew as he became a nationally top-ranked C-1 (one-man canoe) slalom and whitewater racer in the mid-1970s. He worked part-time as a river guide until the mid-80s.

Walbridge may be most noted for collecting and publishing reports of U.S. whitewater fatalities for over 30 years, and has been a witness of several wrongful death cases on the water. When he's not on the water, he writes about whitewater safety issues, and has written several books and magazine articles on the subject.

Having been active in both the American Canoe Association (ACA) and American Whitewater (AW), Walbridge held the position of safety chairman for both organizations, and now serves on the AW board of directors. As a member of the ACA instruction committee, he helped develop programs in whitewater canoeing and swiftwater rescue. He is a swiftwater rescue instructor, trainer, and educator, and trains students and instructors. For the past 11 years, Walbridge has been an ASI associate faculty member.

Walbridge owned and operated the mail order company Wildwater Designs for 22 years, during which time he developed the HiFloat life vest and adapted the throw-line rescue bag for whitewater use. Having closed this business, he works as an indpendant sales representative and consultant to outfitters, schools, organizations, government agencies, and attorneys on whitewater safety issues. He is also locally active in river conservation issues.

For more information about Walbridge, persons may visit his web site at www.charliewalbridge.com. For more information about the presentation, persons may call Garrett College at 301-387-3330 or e-mail adventuresports@garrettcollege.edu.

ASCI Announces Upcoming Trail Running Series

Adventure Sports Center International (ASCI) has announced it will host the 2008 Teva Trail Running Series, which includes three scenic trail running events around ASCI's whitewater course on Marsh Mountain, as well as on ski trails at Wisp Resort. These events are part of Teva's national trail running circuit.

The first of these races, the Teva Tax Day 5K, kicks off at 9 a.m. on Saturday, April 19, which is also ASCI's opening day for the 2008 season. The race will take place on ASCI's scenic whitewater course trails and Wisp Resort's ski trails. Concurrent with the trail race, ASCI will host a 5K non-competitive walk. After the event, ASCI officially opens for whitewater rafting, kayaking, and rock climbing.

The second race of the series is a Teva Memorial Day 10K, which starts at 9 a.m. on Sunday, May 25. This race will happen on the back side of Marsh Mountain in ASCI's Fork Run Recreation Area. Runners will traverse through recovering woodlands on old logging roads, past towering rock cliffs. It ends with a mountain top finish. For non-racers, ASCI will host a non-competitive two-mile trail walk through Fork Run.

The third and final event of the races is the Teva Adventure 10K. This is a showcase event amidst the inaugural "Adventure Games at Deep Creek Lake." This race will start at 9 a.m. on Saturday, July 26. The race course will be the same as the Memorial Day 10K, and will offer the opportunity for racers to challenge their times from the previous event. The Adventure Games will also include competitions in whitewater kayaking, mountain biking, wakeboarding, and rock climbing, and will offer music and family activities.

The Teva Trail Running Series prizes include high-performance shoes and other offerings from Teva, as well as gift packages from local vendors.

Registration is available online at www.active.com, as well as on-site on race-day. Proceeds from the races will support ASCI's scholarship program.

ASCI also hosts top-level competitions in various adventure sports, including the 2008 U.S. National Whitewater Slalom Championships and the 2008 Canoe and Kayak World Series.

ASCI offers world-class adventures in whitewater rafting, kayaking and canoeing, rock climbing, rappelling, mountain biking, trail running, orienteering, and more. Programs are designed for groups and individuals of all skill levels and backgrounds. Huskies Remain Unspoiled At 4-0 On High School Diamonds

The Northern High School varsity baseball team bombarded the Hampshire Trojans with 11 runs in the final two innings of a Saturday game after leading by just 2-1 throughout the first five, and the Huskies added a 13-3 victory to their unspoiled 4-0 season record.

Trey Beasom got the win from the mound and struck out 14 batters and allowed two walks in doing so. He collected three strikeouts in each of the second, fifth, and sixth innings.

Matt Sisler fanned the side in the seventh, giving Northern pitchers 17 strikeouts on the day.

Patrick Brady doubled in two runners for the winning team and Jared Rodeheaver had a two-run single in the seven-run sixth. Kyle Gillum belted a two-run homer in the seventh, adding to his sixth-inning single and three RBI. Justin Rosenberger singled twice.

Nathan Wells doubled and J.R. Shuck and Nathan Whitacre had RBI singles for Hampshire (07, 03 AMAC).

Northern won the junior varsity game, 21-1. Smith hit two doubles, Justin Shaw doubled and singled, and Miller singled twice for Northern.

Blake Saville tripled for Hampshire.

The Northern junior varsity team blanked Bishop Walsh in a recent contest to remain unbeaten at 3-0.

Husky pitcher Steven Holtschneider one-hit the Spartans and picked up his second win of the season. Holtschneider fanned three and walked none in his complete game six-inning effort.

Andrew Sisler got an RBI double in the win and Andrew Umbel hit a double. Mike Burns drove in a run on a single.

Dylan Dunn and Ian Welch had singles to account for BW's hits.

Northern will play again this evening at 4:15 at Allegany and will host Hampshire in a doubleheader on Saturday at noon. The Huskies will take on the Rams at Southern High School on Monday at 4:30 p.m.

Lakers Get Pummeled In Two-Game Rout By Catamounts

The rain held off long enough on Tuesday for the Garrett College softball team to trudge through two games against Potomac State, which ended in a 17-0 and 16-1 Catamount pouncing.

Winning pitcher and Southern High School alumna Ashley Metcalfe twirled through three-innings and rang up six strike-outs in the 17-0 opener. On offense, she pounded a home run in Potomac's seven-run third, and added a single.

Ashly Sites rapped a double and two singles, while Sam Patton and Jen Shuke each belted a double and a single.

Two of Garrett's three hits came off Mindy Sharp singles.

Sites took the pitching win in the 16-1 nightcap, which ended prematurely after the fifth inning. She stifled five Lakers and issued two walks.

Sites made herself known in offense, as well, by knocking four singles. Metcalfe tripled twice and Morgan Mitchell recorded a double and two singles. Morgan Shockey added three singles in the 22-hit Catamount effort.

Former Northern High School standout Emily Sisler had two of Garrett's nine hits, including a double.

Garrett will go up against host Westmoreland C.C. in a doubleheader this evening, and will travel to the Community College of Beaver County on Sunday before returning the hosting favor to Beaver on Wednesday.

Huskies Downed By Keyser Then Get Wiped Clean By Frankfort

The Northern High School softball team recorded two significant losses this week, one to Keyser and one to Frankfort.

The Golden Tornados broke out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning, and scored five more runs in the third as it rolled past the Huskies 13-3 on Saturday.

Carley Burns recorded three singles and an RBI to lead the 14-hit attack for host Keyser. Kayla Aldridge tripled in two runs, while teammates Brooke Mangold and Alicia Cuthbertson had two singles and an RBI each.

Golden Tornado pitchers Kaitlyn Ray and Brandi Braithwaite combined to three-hit the Huskies to lead Keyser to its first win of the season.

Kasie Fratz accounted for all three of Northern's hits with a double, two singles, and an RBI.

It took five innings before the mercy rule was called as host Frankfort wiped Northern clean in a 14-0 Monday evening contest.

Natasha Holstine let loose on the Huskies, belting a grand slam and a base hit, as well as recording four RBI and scoring three times, and the Falcons used a nine-run second inning to blow the game open.

Allie Lantz and Kristi Salonish combined to one-hit the Huskies. Lantz struck out four in three innings of work, and didn't allow a single hit, run, or walk. Salonish struck out one and gave up a double to Northern's Carrie Fike.

Frankfort (4-3) stole eight bases and used nine walks.

Northern (0-3 overall, 0-3 AMAC) was scheduled to host Mountain Ridge last night, but the game was cancelled for unknown reasons.

Southern Track Teams Open With Good Showing At Preston

The track teams of Southern High School opened their season Friday by participating in the highly competitive Border Clash Relay Meet at Preston High School, Kingwood.

The Southern girls' squad placed third among 10 teams, while the SHS boys finished fourth.

The girls, coached by Steve Cosner, recorded five first places, while the Southern boys won one relay.

The following SHS girls' relay teams were victorious:

Shuttle hurdle – Lauren Neville, Erin King, Paula Renteria, and Sam Taylor.

1,200 hurdle – Renteria, King, Torie Bosley, and Taylor.

Pole vault hurdle – Rachel Weeks, Rachel Flinn, and Taylor.

Long jump hurdle – Neville, Jennifer Cosner, and Chanda Remley.

Thrower hurdle – Marcella Martinez, Cathy Hughes, Kaytie Riley, and Alayna Raynovich.

The Southern boys' pole vault hurdle team, consisting of Bryan Hutton, Vince Harman, and Caiden Shaffer, placed first.

Coach Cosner said that, despite the fact that the Southern girls' team is young and inexperienced, he believes it will be his strongest team in several years.

Lost to graduation last spring were standouts Meghan Flinn, Sara Harvey, Melinda Smith, and Sarah Stephens. Top performers back this year are Lauren Neville, Chanda Remley, and Hannah Davis.

"There are also many underclassmen who should provide some very good showings," Cosner said.

"We should be very strong in the hurdle and field events, plus we have a good sprint team and a strong distance team as well," he said.

Cosner said he has also noticed the benefit of having an indoor season during the winter months.

"The girls who were on our indoor team bring immediate experience to us, which should help tremendously," he said. "That could be seen during the first day of practice, as well as at our first meet last week."

Cosner anticipates that the most talented teams on the Rams' schedule will be Frankfort, Hampshire, Allegany, Mountain Ridge, and Fort Hill.

"But the really tough competition begins when we start seeing the Washington County teams," said Cosner. "Our region is usually one of the best at the state meet, and that will likely prove to be true again this year.

"Our goals are to improve throughout the season and send as many girls as possible to the state meet," he concluded.

The Rams will be back in action this afternoon when they host county rival Northern and Frankfort. That contest will get under way at 4 p.m.

They will travel to Preston next Tuesday, and compete in another relay meet next Thursday at Frankfort.

Northern Netters Make Season Debut With Miners And Campers

The Northern High School tennis team began a fresh season on Monday in a split with Mountain Ridge on the Frostburg State University courts before sweeping visiting Allegany the next day. The Northern girls made their season debut as they defeated Mountain Ridge, 5-2, while the Northern boys wound up on the wrong side of a 7-0 whipping. The Huskies dominated singles play in both matches to get a 4-3 edge in the girls' match and a 4-2 victory by the boys.

Northern senior Amy Lander won her singles match at FSU, then teamed up with Hanna Winter for a win in the doubles competition. Also nabbing wins in singles were Lacey Swauger, Jordyn Milton, and Jenny Shaffer.

Amanda Alberts won the Miners' lone singles match. Shaleena Troutman and Nicole Nightengale won their doubles match, 9-8 and 8-6, in the tiebreaker.

The Northern boys failed to produce any wins. Austin Weimer, Dan Striplin, Eric Williams, Ricky Weimer, and Keinen Harper all earned victories in the singles matches. Striplin and Williams and Joe Bohrer and Wade Robinson took their doubles matches.

Northern won four of the five singles flights in each match in its win over Allegany.

In the girls' single play, Lander, Winter, Swauger, and Milton mopped up their Alco counterparts by at least three-point margins. The No. 5 match went to Camper Amber Beckman.

The Campers took both doubles contests with Julia Roberts and Beckman pairing for a 5-4 win in the No. 1, and Jenna Snyder and Crystal Heavner winning 8-5 in the No. 2.

The boys blew through the top four singles matches, with Trautwein, Chris Wood, Eric Espada, and Trevor Devore lifting Northern to a victory. The No. 5 singles Camper win went to Garrett Loar, while Casey Delong and Devin McGregor combined for a doubles win.

The other doubles match, played between Huskies Cory Stout and Blake Harman and Campers Ryan Marchini and Jeremy Knipple, was suspended by rain tied at 6-6.

SEASON PREVIEW

The Husky girls lost three of the top five seeds to graduation – Nicole Espada, Erin Brenneman, and Baylee Martin-Selders, but have the strength in No. 1 seed senior Amy Lander to off-set the losses.

With a young team and one injured player, Northern has forces working against it, but the players will get some extra playing time this year as they face a more extensive schedule. Games against Keyser and Hampshire were added to the scheduled line-up.

Hoping to better last season's 3-8 mark, the Huskies' boys' team has the detriment of their small team size working against it.

The top players lost to graduation were Lucas Mazer, Darrel Glotfelty, and Elliot Glotfelty, but head coach George Lander and assistant coach Rick Kenny return top players Zach Trautwein, Chris Wood, and Eric Espada, who bring experience to the modest team.

Besides the three aforementioned returning players, Coach Lander will use Trevor Devore and Ian Aiken in the starting line-up.

Tennis Season Begins With Losses For Southern High Boys And Girls

The Southern High School tennis team traveled to Fort Hill High School for an early-season contest on Tuesday, but was sent home with losses in both the boys' and girls' matches.

Julie Swerbinsky recorded a 9-7 win for the girls in the No. 2 singles match, while Brittney Scheffel and Swerbinsky teamed up for a 7-6 edge in the No. 1 doubles.

Jessica Currence took the No. 1 singles match with an 8-6 win for the Sentinels, as did teammate Tasha Dunlap, who won the No. 3 singles. Kathleen Wilt (8-2) and Rebecca Price (8-5) also won singles matches for Fort Hill. The No. 2 doubles was won behind an 8-1 performance by Allie Stevens and Isabell Blakey.

In the boys' match, Blake Willard (8-1) and Brad Tyler (8-2) won the No. 1 and No. 2 singles matches, respectively. Nathan King won, 8-4, in the third singles match, Derek DeShaies won, 8-6, in the fourth, and Rock Evans picked up an 8-2 win in the No. 5 singles.

DeShaies and Brenden Harness won the No. 1 doubles by a 7-6 tally, and Jeff Cessna teamed with Canaan Wolf for an 8-5 win in the No. 2 doubles.

Southern falls to 1-0 in both boys' and girls'.

Rev. Sutton Is New Bishop For Maryland Diocese

The Episcopal Diocese of Maryland elected the Rev. Canon Eugene T. Sutton as its 14th bishop in a special convention of 500 clergy and lay delegates held at St. James Church, Lafayette Square, Baltimore, on Saturday. Sutton was elected on the first ballot, a first in the over 200-year history of the Diocese of Maryland, and a rarity in the Episcopal Church nationwide.

The Diocese of Maryland, one of the nine original dioceses of the Episcopal Church in the United States, consists of over 44,000 members in 117 churches, including those in Garrett County.

Sutton is currently Canon pastor at the Washington National Cathedral in Washington, D.C. He is the director of the Center for Prayer and Pilgrimage at the National Cathedral and is a frequent leader of ecumenical retreats and conferences throughout the nation. Throughout his ministry in parishes and academia, he has held teaching posts in homiletics and liturgics at Vanderbilt University Divinity School in Nashville, New Brunswick Theological Seminary in New Jersey, and General Theological Seminary in New York.

Bishop-elect Sutton has led national conferences and seminars on preaching, prayer, and personal spirituality and worship. He has also served as assistant to the bishop and chaplain of the Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey.

In 1997, Sutton co-founded Contemplative Outreach of Metropolitan Washington (COMW), an ecumenical network of churches and individuals in the Washington area committed to centering prayer and renewing the contemplative dimension of the gospel for daily living. He continues to serve on the Advisory Council of COMW.

A graduate of Hope College in Holland, Mich., he earned the master of divinity degree there as well, and has done graduate studies at Princeton Theological Seminary in theology and communications in preaching.

Sutton will assume his duties as bishop of Maryland on June 15 and will be consecrated on June 28 by the presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church, Rev. Katharine Jefferts Schori.

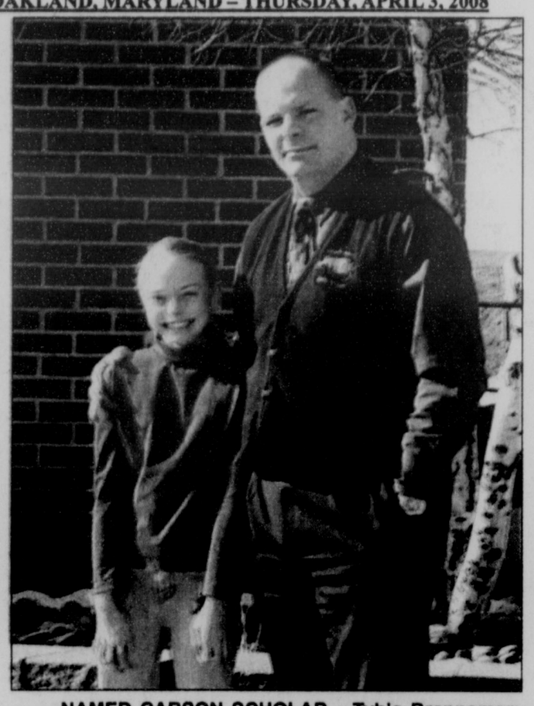
Garrett County Daffodil Days Deemed Success

Garrett County raised more than $9,250 during the American Cancer Society's Daffodil Days Campaign, which took place the week of March 10. Proceeds will help support the society's mission to eliminate cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives, and diminishing suffering from cancer, through research, education, advocacy, and service.

"The support from the community was overwhelming this year, and that helped us to achieve our best year yet," said Sue Evans, coordinator for this year's Garrett County Daffodil Days Campaign. "Our survivors are the reason we are out there year after year raising money to help find a cure but also to show them we care by displaying daffodils, which are the first flower of spring and the symbol of hope to cancer patients everywhere."

"The money raised will help the American Cancer Society to continue funding valuable research to find a cure so that our next generation never has to hear the words, 'You have cancer,'" said Tenna Taylor, community manager for the American Cancer Society.

She added that the money will support such programs as Road to Recovery, which allowed ACS to help 47 patients in Garrett County get to lifesaving treatments they otherwise would not have been able to access.



NAMED CARSON SCHOLAR – Tybie Brenneman, daughter of Christine and James Brenneman, Grantsville, has been selected to be a Carson Scholar for 2008. The Carson Scholar Fund was founded by Dr. Benjamin Carson, a Johns Hopkins pediatric neurosurgeon, to award scholarships. To receive scholarships, students must be in grades four to 11 and achieve a grade point average of 3.75 or higher and demonstrate a strong commitment to their community. Tybie and her parents will be honored during the Carson School Fund's twelfth annual awards banquet at Martin's West, Baltimore, later this month. Tybie, a fifth grade student at Grantsville Elementary School, is pictured above with Matt Eggleston, principal.

Additionally, campaign proceeds will help provide wigs and turbans to patients free of charge in Garrett County and services in the form of support for breast cancer patients through the Reach to Recovery Program.

"We were also able to provide women diagnosed with cancer a way to feel better about themselves through our Look Good Feel Better Program," Taylor said. "The American Cancer Society was also able to educate 1,400 Garrett County residents on prevention and detection methods in the battle against cancer."

Taylor said these were just a few ways in which the dollars raised from programs like Daffodil Days help not only the community but also the progress toward a cure for cancer.

She noted that the following individuals, businesses, and organizations supported the campaign: Sue Evans, Jan Florist, St. Peter's Catholic Church in Oakland, Elaine Hoye, Pat Bowser, Gwen Evans, WKHJ Radio, The Republican, The Garrett County Weekender, and First United Bank and Trust Midtown office.

"We hope to see you all next year for another successful event," Taylor said.

For more information on services or how to become involved with the American Cancer Society, persons may contact Taylor at 301-722-2145 or tennat@cancer.org.

Goodfellow Real Estate Services LLC

Mike and Lisa Goodfellow, Deep Creek Lake, announce the founding of Goodfellow Real Estate Services, LLC, the offices of which are located at Dry Dock Plaza along U.S. Rt. 219 at the Glendale Road intersection.

The business provides real estate brokerage (Md., W.Va., and Pa.), new construction, and appraisals. It offers dual licensure for agents to be with Goodfellow Real Estate Services, LLC and the Goodfellow Agency, LLP.

"Our business is unique in that we are taking our business model 'back to the basics,' with our real estate professionals emphasizing quality over quantity," said Lisa Goodfellow. "Our marketing plans for 2008 are focused on services for sellers and buyers that provide a variety of new approaches in doing business during challenging times."

Mike Goodfellow, broker, is a graduate of Potomac State College and the University of Arizona with a bachelor's degree in business administration with a focus on real estate. He served as a captain in the U.S. Army, and upon discharge joined the family real estate and insurance business in Allegany County. He has developed properties in LaVale, Bedford, and Fulton counties, Pa., and continues to develop in the Deep Creek Lake area. His focus is commercial appraisals, and he is currently working with the Maryland State Highway Administration on the Oakland bypass project.

Mike has been in new-construction home building

at Deep Creek Lake since 1989, offering innovative floor plans that range from custom log homes to traditional year-round styles from contemporary to rustic, incorporating a client's needs and lifestyle. He has built in various areas of Deep Creek Lake, from waterfront to lake access, and at the ski communities of the Wisp Resort. He works closely with his construction office administrator, Trudy Savage, who joined the company in 1996

The Goodfellow Agency was founded in 1937 by Mike Goodfellow's father, D.C. Goodfellow, who had purchased the business from Mike's grandfather, D.P. Miller. The agency, which has offices in Grantsville and Frostburg, is a full-service real estate brokerage that also offers residential and commercial appraisals.

Goodfellow has served as a commissioner for the

LISA GOODFELLOW

Maryland Real Estate Commission in Baltimore for 12 years, including two terms as chairman. In 2005, he was awarded the Realtor Emeritus designation by the National Association of Realtors at its mid-year meeting in Washington.

Lynn Fike, office manager for the agency, is a graduate of the University of Maryland, College Park. A resident of Frostburg, she was first licensed in real estate in Montgomery and Prince George's counties, and Washington, D.C. She joined the Goodfellow Agency in 1982 and has been the office manager since 1992.

Fike serves as the chairperson of the Real Estate Committee for Frostburg State University, is a member of the FSU Foundation, and was recently appointed to the executive committee for FSU. She is vice president of Frostburg First/A Main Street Community, and a member of Soroptimist International's Frostburg Club. She also serves on the Historic Highlands Board of Realtors Professional Standards and Forms committee.

Lisa Goodfellow holds a bachelor of science degree in nursing from Angeles University, Philippines. After working as an operating room nurse in San Bernardino County, Calif., she moved to western Maryland in 1985. While working at Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland, she developed an interest in real estate and came to work at Deep Creek Lake.

Mike and Lisa, who were married in 1989, continued to develop vacation home properties, subdivisions, and new construction. Lisa was on the staff of A&A Realty Better Homes & Gardens for 10 years, Railey Realty for two years, and has served Long & Foster Real Estate Inc. for the past 10 years. She has been the company's Top Producer on several award levels throughout her career. With Long & Foster, she maintained six years under the Master's Club Division (the highest award category), and two years in the Founder's Club. She was named to the Master's Club Hall of Fame in 2006 for maintaining this highest award level for a five-year period.

For 2007, under the most challenging real estate market conditions, Lisa received three regional awards; third place for Top Team of the Year; fifth place for Top Team by Settled Units; and Top Team of the Deep Creek Lake Office.

A team is defined as two agents working together. Lisa's team member is her transaction coordinator, Heather Christner, who has been Lisa's associate for 10 years.

"Heather's skills and her dedication to quality and service for our clients is an integral part of our company," Lisa said. "Her husband Russell and son Rusty are supportive as she works very hard for our clients."

Lisa was also a recipient of the Realty Alliance Award for 2007, recognizing exceptional performance and ranking her in the top 5% of all residential real estate professionals in North America. She has received this annual award over the past eight years, ranking her several times in the top 1% with Realty Alliance.

The Goodfellows sponsor the Goodfellow-Santiago Scholarship Foundation for Garrett County high school seniors, presented to deserving students who plan to pursue a career in medical-related professions. It was established in memory and honor of Lisa's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Carlos Santiago Jr., who were advocates of education. Two of Lisa's siblings also have had careers in medical fields.

"Our education allowed us to immigrate to the United States from a third-world country," said Lisa. "This is a value we would like to share with today's youth in Garrett County – the place we choose to call 'home.'"

Mike and Lisa are the parents of two sons. Mike Jr. is a graduate of Frostburg State University and works in beverage and microbrewery production in Indiana. Karlo Gesner is a graduate of Virginia Tech and is a conference services manager for the Wisp Resort in McHenry.

Ted Uy-Tioco, a nephew of Lisa, is also a realtor with the firm.

Mike Goodfellow noted that the most successful businesses are generally those that are owner-operated.

"Through our combined experiences, contacts, and client and customer base, we will continue to maximize on the networking we have developed over a lifetime," he said. "For our agents, we offer a positive atmosphere in which to work and will maximize the opportunities for working with both sellers and buyers."

Persons may telephone the office at 301-387-5472 or 1-888-387-5472.

GARRETT COUNTY NOTICE OF A PROPOSED REAL PROPERTY TAX INCREASE

The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, proposes to increase real property taxes.

1. For the tax year beginning July 1, 2008, the estimated real property assessable base will increase by 8.9% (a) from $3,463,335,562 (b) to $3,772,384,331 (c).

2. If Garrett County maintains the current tax rate of $1.000 (d) per $100 of assessment, real property tax revenues will increase by 8.9% (e) resulting in $3,090,488 (f) of new real property tax revenues.

3. In order to fully offset the effect of increasing assessments, the real property tax rate should be reduced to $.918 (g), the constant yield tax rate.

4. The County is considering not reducing its real property tax rate enough to fully offset increasing assessments. The County proposes to adopt a real property tax rate of $1.000 (h) per $100 of assessment. This tax rate is 8.9% (i) higher than the constant yield tax rate and will generate $3,090,488 (j) in additional property tax revenues.

A public hearing on the proposed real property tax rate increase will be held at 10:00 a.m. on April 15, 2008, in the County Commissioners Public Meeting Room, County Courthouse, Oakland, Maryland. The hearing is open to the public, and public testimony is encouraged. Persons with questions regarding this hearing may call 301-334-8970 for further information.

There are certain municipalities within the County which have different county tax rates. The above revenues and tax rates are county wide, excluding municipalities with different county tax rates. The following chart provides the corresponding information and tax rates for those municipalities.

"We are able to offer uniforms, apparel, and equipment to schools, sports organizations, businesses, etc., as well as the individual customer," Otto said.

"If the time is right and we think that there is a need for us to open up a store front, then we will look at opening up a store. But for right now, we will continue to work out of our home. We invite everybody to give us a call and let us give you a price quote."

"An Enchanted Evening" Planned At Annual Father/Daughter Gala

The Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center will hold its fourth annual Father/Daughter Gala on Saturday, April 26, from 6 until 9 p.m. in the Faith Evangelical Free Church Fellowship Hall, Mtn. Lake Park. This year's theme is "An Enchanted Evening."

"We encourage not only dads but also uncles, grandfathers, brothers, or cousins to escort that special young lady 9 years of age and up to a very exciting evening of music, skits, a wonderful buffet, and a great amount of laughter and tears," said a gala spokesperson.

The event is semi-formal. Daughters are asked to wear gowns or nice dresses and fathers suits and ties.

Jim Pierson from Lancaster, Pa., is the guest speaker. He and his wife Anne began a maternity home and aftercare ministry in 1973.

In 1984, the couple founded Loving and Caring Inc., an international ministry that addresses issues of the fatherless. Jim has been a father to more than 200 foster teenage girls, as well as his own two daughters.

He and Anne travel around the country speaking at banquets, retreats, seminars, and conferences. Anne is also on the board of Focus on the Family.

"The purpose of the gala is because it's Mtn. Top's desire to help 'restore the hearts of the fathers to their children, and the hearts of the children to their fathers' (Malachi 4:6)," the spokesperson said.

She added that research has shown that teen girls' identities and their choice of future mates are strongly influenced by their relationship with or lack of relationship with their fathers.

"Many young ladies grow up feeling unprotected, unloved, and have no identity," said the spokesperson. "Our goal is to reach out to fathers and daughters, Christian or non-Christian, to share the message that we all need to live a life seeking purity in every aspect of our lives and to live our lives with integrity so that these young ladies will settle for nothing less when seeking their future mates."

The cost to attend the gala is $50 per couple and $20 for each additional daughter. The deadline to make a reservation is Monday, April 21.

Reservations can be made by calling Mtn. Top Crisis Pregnancy Center at 301-334-1058 Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Interested persons can also mail checks to the Mtn. Top Crisis Pregnancy Center, P.O. Box 2441, Mtn. Lake Park, MD 21550. Checks should be made payable to the center.

Accident Man Gets Six-Month Jail Sentence

Visiting judges Paul J. Stakem, Edward A. Malloy Jr., and H. Jack Price Jr. heard several criminal cases in recent Garrett County District Court.

Among the cases was that of Thomas Michael Fink, 29, Accident, who was sentenced to one year in jail, six months of which was suspended, after pleading guilty to a charge of second degree assault. In addition to the jail sentence, Fink received three years of unsupervised probation and a court fee of $57.

Maryland State Police officers were called to an Accident residence in December 2007 for a reported assault. According to reports, officers made contact with the male victim, who advised the defendant physically attacked him after being questioned about alleged inappropriate behavior with the victim's 16-year-old step-daughter.

Fink was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on two additional charges of second degree assault, as well as charges of trespassing on private property and disturbing the peace.

In an unrelated case, Tammie Doreen Gonzalez, 36, Gormania, W.Va., pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) other than marijuana and received a one-year jail term, 11 months and 16 days of which was suspended. She was also handed three years of supervised probation and $57 in court fees.

According to court reports, Garrett County Sheriff's officers arrested Gonzalez with a warrant in October 2007 and took her to the Garrett County Detention Center for processing. During a search of Gonzalez's purse, officers recovered eight syringes filled with a red liquid substance, 13 pieces of notebook paper made into pharmacy folds, and two rubber tourniquets. Lab results of the pieces of notebook paper tested positive for traces of methylphenidate, a schedule II CDS.

Gonzalez was not prosecuted on a charge of CDS possession of paraphernalia.

In another District Court case, Jarrod Bryant Gough, 35, Keyser, W.Va., was handed a six-month jail sentence, five months and 20 days of which was suspended, after pleading guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana. Gough also received 18 months of unsupervised probation and a fine of $100.

Maryland State Police officers arrested Gough in October 2007 when a traffic stop led to the search of his vehicle. Confiscated from the vehicle was a marijuana smoking device and two plastic bags containing marijuana. He was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on a charge of possession of paraphernalia.

Douglas Ray Ferguson, 25, Oakland, pleaded guilty to a charge of second degree assault and was handed a one-year jail sentence, all of which was suspended except for one month, as well as 18 months of supervised probation and a court fee of $57.

Ferguson was arrested by sheriff's officers in December 2007 after he allegedly inappropriately touched a 14-year-old female. He was not prosecuted on a charge of fourth degree sex offense.

Bruce Garrett VanWagner, 38, Grantsville, pleaded guilty to a charge of malicious destruction of property valued at $500 in a criminal summons case and received a 10-day jail sentence, all of which was suspended, as well as one year of unsupervised probation and a $100 fine.

Maryland State Police reports indicate that VanWagner confessed to puncturing the tires of the victim's vehicle in a parking area on Deep Creek Drive in December 2007. Surveillance cameras from a nearby business recorded footage of VanWagner parking his vehicle next to the victim's vehicle.

Brenda Kay McGuire, 42, Oakland, received a probation before judgment (PBJ) after pleading guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana. She was handed 18 months of unsupervised probation and a fine of $407.

McGuire was the passenger in a vehicle that was stopped by sheriff's officers in November 2007. A search of the vehicle revealed a plastic bag containing marijuana, a marijuana smoking device, and a pill bottle containing marijuana. Inside McGuire's purse, deputies found a plastic bag containing marijuana and a marijuana smoking device.

NEWS from THE MARYLAND FOREST, PARK & WILDLIFE SERVICE

SAFE DEBRIS BURNING

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest Service, in cooperation with the Garrett County Health Department and the Garrett County Emergency Management Office remind people that spring is traditionally a time of high forest fire danger in Maryland. In 2007 there were 622 wildfires in the state that burned 5,102 acres. Garrett County Emergency Management received 27 wildfire calls in 2007.

Typically, spring is the time of the year when many property owners are burning leaves and other debris. Unfortunately, many people do not burn safely, resulting in wildfires. Sixty percent of the wildfires in Garrett County in 2007 were caused by unsafe debris burning.

In order to prevent wildfires from occurring and causing destruction to private homes and woodlands, the state has established open-air burning regulations. These regulations apply to activities in woodlands and within 200 feet of woodlands, or activities adjacent to or within an area where flammable materials could ignite and carry fire to woodlands.

These regulations are:

- A natural or constructed fire break at least 10 feet wide must completely surround the material to be burned.
- Adequate personnel and equipment must be present to prevent the fire from escaping.
- At least one responsible person must remain at the burning location until the last spark is out.
- Permissible burning hours are between 5 p.m. and 1 a.m. Daylight Saving Time (DST).
- All open-air burning requires a permit from the county health department. Open-air burning prior to 5 p.m. DST also requires a burning permit from DNR.

Open-air burning of any type not in accordance with these regulations is subject to citations and fines ranging from $70 to $260.

Landowners interested in conducting open air burning are encouraged to burn after 5 p.m. when a burning permit from the DNR Forest Service is not required, and the air is generally more moist and calmer, reducing the chances of the fire escaping.

Prior to doing any open air burning, the landowner should contact Garrett County Emergency Management at 301-334-1929, to let the staff know about the controlled burning. This reduces the chances of the local volunteer fire departments being dispatched on false alarms.

When conducting open air burning, it is the landowner's responsibility to make sure the fire doesn't escape, and to make sure the fire is out cold before leaving it.

Brosnan wasn't the first to be 'Crown'-ed

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: I saw Pierce Brosnan in "The Thomas Crown Affair" on television recently, and someone told me that wasn't the first version of the movie. Was there another? –Richard Connors, Wichita, Kan.

A: Indeed there was. In the 1968 original, directed by Norman Jewison and featuring the Oscar-winning song "The Windmills of Your Mind" (sung by Noel Harrison), Steve McQueen originated Brosnan's later role as a wealthy businessman who liked engineering robberies just for kicks. Faye Dunaway played the insurance investigator who was determined to catch him, then eventually fell for him; though Rene Russo had that part in the 1999 remake, the later version featured a cameo by Dunaway as Crown's psychiatrist.

Pierce Brosnan

Q: Is William Mapother, who plays Ethan on "Lost," any relation to Tom Cruise? I think I see a slight resemblance. –Emily Nafziger, Delta, Ohio

A: He's a first cousin of Cruise; their fathers were brothers. Mapother also has appeared in several Cruise movies including "Born on the Fourth of July," "Magnolia," "Mission: Impossible II," "Vanilla Sky" and "Minority Report."

Q: Which person or group sings "Hold on tight to your dreams" on the car commercials? –Alice Wilson, Baton Rouge, La.

A: It's Electric Light Orchestra, or ELO, which had one of its biggest hits with the tune – officially titled "Hold on Tight" – in the early 1980s. It was included on the album "Time."

Q: Where is the program "Friday Night Lights"? Is it coming back, maybe delayed due to the writers strike? –Jake Rogers, Lakeland, Fla.

A: The NBC series aired all the episodes it had produced for this season. At this writing, there was no confirmation of a third season for the critically acclaimed high-school football drama, but one possibility making the rounds was that NBC would share the cost of picking up the series for another year with DirecTV – along the lines of the arrangement NBC has with USA Network for continuing production of "Law & Order: Criminal Intent."

HOW PLANTS PROTECT THEMSELVES

Q: In the spring many low-growing plants fairly leap out of the ground and bloom in a few months. Some of them seem to survive without getting eaten by deer and rabbits. How do they do it?

A: Some wag once said that the first rule of survival is "Don't get noticed!" It's clear that crocus, daffodils, and rhododendrons weren't listening. The leaves look delicious to me, so why don't the deer eat them up?

All too often the answer is: They do! I have given up on tulips, and the deer overpopulation has also wiped out the mayapples, trillium, and orchids from the woods out back. Yet other plants go almost untouched. What is their secret?

Sometimes the protection is obvious. Smilax (greenbrier) has thorns, and skunk cabbage smells repulsive. The leaves of the poppy are horribly bitter. Mature leaves of dandelion are also very bitter.

The right place to grow can also be a plus. The Shasta lily of California survives only when it springs up under cover of a large deciduous bush. It grows quickly and does its thing before it gets shaded out. Some Calochortus lilies grow in soil that is so rocky that moles can't get to the bulbs. Many plants, such as the saxifrages, grow in rocky places where grazing animals are unlikely to go.

But a surprising number of our "ordinary garden plants" are poisonous! Here are some examples:

Many plants of the arumid family – philodendron, skunk cabbage, jack in the pulpit, and even the Polynesian staple crop taro, contain microscopic, needlelike crystals, of oxalic acid. If you eat one of these plants raw, the needles lodge in the lining of your mouth and gut, causing at least pain, and sometimes death. Cooking dissolves the crystals and converts poisonous taro to edible poi.

Daffodils are wonderfully deer-proof. No wonder; the daffodil contains lycorine or narcissine, a toxin that acts as an emetic in small amounts and can cause collapse and death by paralysis of the central nervous system in larger doseages. People who mistake daffodil bulbs for onions sometimes don't live to regret their mistakes.

Iris are famous for surviving in overgrazed pastures. Iris toxins seem to affect the entire body, but especially the gut. The toxin in iris species has not been confirmed, but a glycoside, iridin (or irisin), has been implicated. The molecule is related to ricin, the extremely toxic component of castor beans. The symptoms are particularly gruesome, so I recommend this to anyone who wants to get rid of an enemy.

Daylily bulbs are mentioned as a delicacy by the natural-foods advocate Euell Gibbons. Deer don't eat them, and I found out why. I chewed a leaf. (Don't try this at home, folks!) It tasted OK, just "kinda green." To be safe, I spat it all out. Then, a few minutes later, my tongue and the inside of my mouth started to sting in a very unpleasant way! The toxin is colchicine and it causes extreme gastric upset if swallowed. Very careful processing will remove most of the toxin, but I recommend you eat spinach instead.

The pepper family makes capsaicin, a toxin that inflames mammalian tissue and stimulates the heat-sensing receptors of the skin. Birds are immune. Mammals avoid the fruit while birds eat them with gusto. The birds don't digest the seeds, but spread them far and wide.

Those early spring fern fiddleheads sure look tempting. The toxin in bracken fern is thiaminase, an enzyme that destroys thiamine (vitamin B1). The animal then essentially suffers from a vitamin deficiency of thiamine. Sneaky!

My favorite, though, is the onion's defense. Onions invented the binary chemical weapon long before the military introduced them into human warfare. When we munch an onion, lachrymatory-factor synthase is released from sacs that hold it separate in the onion's tissue. The synthase enzyme then converts the sulfoxides (amino acids) of the onion into sulfenic acid, which is itself unstable, and rearranges itself into syn-ropanethial-S-oxide, which makes you cry. Got that?

Many plant toxins are used as medicine in controlled amounts. Foxglove produces digitalis. At precisely the right dosage, digitalis toxin can cause the heart to beat more strongly. The solanid belladonna, an extract of the poison nightshade, is used to dilate the pupil of the eye during examinations.

People have asked about the poison in poison ivy. Technically, the chemical in poison ivy is not a poison at all. People react to poison ivy only on repeated exposure, showing that it's really just an extreme allergen. Goats and deer do not seem to have such a violent reaction, and they like the flavor. The allergen comes through in goats' milk. One folk remedy to desensitize you to poison ivy, is to drink the milk of a goat that has eaten poison ivy.

I could go on and on. Put it this way: If the deer don't eat it, there is probably a darned good reason why you shouldn't eat it either.

Have You HEARD?

Cathy Arnold, HIS
GO CONFIGURE!
The configuration of a person's hearing loss refers to the extent of hearing loss at each frequency, which leads to an overall picture. For instance, the configuration of a high-frequency loss would show poor hearing in the high frequencies and good hearing in the low frequencies. Hearing-loss configurations that are flat would show the same degree of hearing loss for both high and low tones. Hearing losses may also be described as "unilateral" (in one ear) or "bilateral" (in both ears). In addition, hearing loss may be "symmetrical" (meaning that the degree and configuration of hearing loss are the same in each ear) or "asymmetrical" (the degree and/or configuration of the loss is different for each ear).
Proper hearing promotes better communication. When an uncorrected hearing impairment causes the loss of special moments in your life, it's time to rediscover the benefits of healthy hearing and learn about the marvelous wonders now available in hearing instruments. Come see us at AUDIBEL, and discover how today's hearing instruments are virtually disappearing from sight.
P.S. Hearing loss can be "progressive" (becoming worse over time) or "sudden" (acute or rapid in its onset).

"The wind blows wherever it pleases. You hear its sound, but you cannot tell where it comes from or where it is going." John 3:8

The Unseen Hand

A sailboat can't sail by itself; it needs the wind in its sails to keep it moving. A gust of wind is like an unseen hand; invisible, it comes along and moves the sailboat through the waves. It's the power the sailboat relies on.

Like the wind, God is invisible, and like the wind He is a mighty force. He can be your power if you let him. He can move you in the right direction; He can give you the strength to do what you cannot do alone.

Look for God in your house of worship this week and discover His almighty power. Learn how He can guide your life.

Use Your Wealth Wisely

Many in this country have been blessed with incredible wealth. And although we may not feel "rich" if we compare ourselves to millionaires (or billionaires!), despite an ever growing disparity between rich and poor, even the poorest of the poor in our country live better than most of the poor living in third world countries. Worldwide, there are over a billion people who survive on less than a dollar a day, and over two billion people (a third of the world's population) who subsist on less than two dollars a day. When Jesus advised the rich young man, who wished to be saved, to sell everything he had, give the money to the poor, and then follow Him, he told the young man that his treasure would then be in heaven. This is a wonderful lesson on wealth, because it suggests that in using our wealth to help others, and in being detached enough from our wealth that we could give it all away, we are gaining a spiritual treasure far more valuable than our money or physical possessions. A wealthy person who uses his money wisely to help others is spiritually superior to a poor person who covets wealth and dreams of nothing but being rich. Since none of us will live forever, and we will eventually give it all away, why not start using our wealth to help others while we are still alive and can see the benefits of our generosity?

You lack one thing: go, sell what you have, and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven: and come, follow me.

R.S.V. Mark 10:21

Stinging Nettle: Uses and Cautions

Stinging nettle is also known as dwarf nettle and nettle wort. It comes from the roots and leaves of the stinging nettle plant. It has been used traditionally to treat diabetes, arthritis, and kidney disease. Currently, it is used to treat allergies, inflammation, and benign prostatic hyperplasia (enlarged prostate gland). Stinging nettle exhibits anti-inflammatory activity. This exact mechanism is unknown, however.

Stinging nettle is sometimes combined with the herb saw palmetto to treat enlarged prostate. Stinging nettle may prove to be effective in the treatment of arthritis; however, more information is needed to fully evaluate its effects on this disorder. The dose of stinging nettle root capsules is 250 mg twice daily. The dose of freeze-dried leaf capsules is 600 mg 2 to 4 times daily. Side effects may include stomach upset, swelling, and hives. Those diagnosed with heart failure or kidney disease should not take stinging nettle due to risk of fluid retention. People with gout should not use stinging nettle, as it may worsen their condition. Women who are pregnant or breastfeeding should not take this herb.

Dogs and Diet

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: Can dogs eat the same food as humans? If so, why does my veterinarian tell me not to feed table scraps to my dog Jared? — Confused in Houston

DEAR CONFUSED: Dogs, although classified as carnivores, can eat many of the same vegetables and fruits as humans — making them somewhat omnivorous. Considering that man and dog have been companions for millennia, it's not surprising that our canine friends are able to eat most of the same foods as us.

However, a dog's digestive system is not exactly the same as a human's. Jared's ancestors were hunters, eating mostly meat and whatever scraps they could scrounge from the fireside of a human camp. Their diet (as well as their human companions' diet) was fairly lean, with little sugar or exotic spices.

Today's food is often loaded with fats and sugars, as well as lots of spices. Too much of these can cause immediate complications for dogs, from indigestion and gas (very stinky gas) to pancreatitis, a life-threatening illness. Other foods should never be touched by dogs, such as chocolate, which is poisonous to them.

Fresh food can be a real treat and add variety and nutrients to a dog's diet, but should be planned as carefully as your own diet. Lean cuts of meat — unseasoned and cooked rare to medium-rare — are good, as is a mixture of chopped liver steamed with rice, carrots and peas. These can occasionally replace the usual dry kibble.

At Jared's next checkup, talk with your vet about other dietary options. And keep the table scraps — unless they're lean and unspiced — away from his bowl.

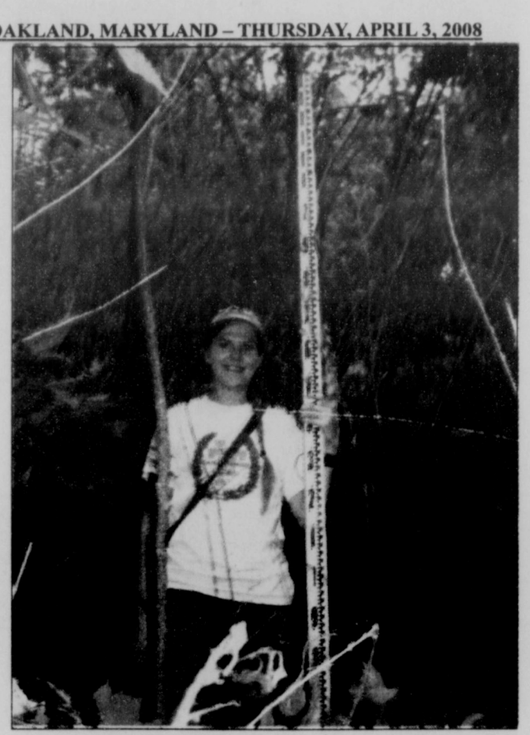
Plant Society To Meet, Brosi Will Be Guest Speaker

The Western Mountains Chapter of Maryland Native Plant Society will hold its regular meeting at New Germany State Park on Tuesday, April 15, at 7 p.m. The guest speaker will be Sunshine L. Brosi, who will give a presentation called "Integrating Ecological and Ethnobotanical Approaches to American Chestnut and Butternut Restoration."

Ms. Brosi coordinates Frostburg State University's new ethnobotany major, an integrated program that began last fall. She is also actively involved in the Appalachian Center for Ethnobotanical Studies (ACES), a collaborative, inter-institutional effort devoted to multidisciplinary study and conservation of native plants. Her program will begin immediately following a brief business meeting. The public is welcome to attend.



GUEST SPEAKER at the next meeting of the Western Mountains Chapter of the Maryland Native Plant Society will be Sunshine L. Brosi, who will give a presentation called "Integrating Ecological and Ethnobotanical Approaches to American Chestnut and Butternut Restoration." Brosi coordinates Frostburg State University's new ethnobotany major, an integrated program that began last fall. See story.

According to Brosi, natural resource management is able to achieve ecological restoration and promote healthy diverse forests, which also produce products, such as edible nuts, to revitalize rural economies. The loss of the American chestnut is one of the great environmental tragedies to have occurred in eastern forests of North America which had significant impacts on local economies, she said. Many other tree species face similar attacks by invasive, exotic pests, including the native butternut or white walnut. She said that restoration success will be aided by an approach which integrates ecological, historical, and cultural knowledge.

Brosi will discuss silvicultural, biological, and social aspects of chestnut and butternut restoration. She will present results from seven year old chestnut plantings in Pennsylvania and Kentucky on surface mines, clear-cuts, log landings, and natural gap openings.

She will also share research data on preserving and restoring butternut trees while maintaining a supply of material for traditional Cherokee Indian artisans in western North Carolina. She will explain how these integrated approaches can also be applied to other threatened species in Maryland.

The meeting will be held in the lakehouse of the park. Parking is available in lots 4 and 5, and there is handicap accessible parking spaces at the lakehouse.

The Maryland Native Plant Society uses education, research, and community service to increase awareness and appreciation of native plants and their habitats, leading to their conservation and restoration. Membership is open to all who are interested in Maryland's native plants and their habitats. MNPS sponsors monthly meetings, workshops, field trips, and an annual fall conference. RETIRED BVFD FIRE CHIEF HONORED – Leon Marple, Luke mill employee and former fire chief of the Bloomington Volunteer Fire Department, was honored for his community service at a luncheon recently hosted by NewPage. Marple has given a total of 50 years of volunteer service to two local fire companies. His first 10 years were with the Beryl Fire Company, having joined when he was 16 years old, and the remaining 40 years were with the Bloomington VFD, where he served as chief for 32 of those years. In 2007, BVFD members named Marple their Firefighter of the Year and the Firefighter of the Years. He is the first Bloomington firefighter to receive both prestigious awards in the same year. The membership also honored Marple by placing a brick at the Fire Fighter Memorial in Ocean City that bears his name and years of service as chief. "The Luke mill and the community have benefited greatly from Leon's dedication, his leadership, and his community spirit," said Gary Curtis, vice president, Luke operations. "We are also grateful for the very active role that he is playing as a Luke mill employee in promoting our safety program with employees. He is truly an asset to the community and to the Luke mill." Curtis presented Marple with a plaque and NewPage jacket as expressions of the company's appreciation for his leadership and community service. Lee Ann Abernathy, a firefighter with the U.S. Army stationed in Iraq, also recently presented Marple with a flag that had flown over the headquarters of the Multi-National Corps in Iraq, an Operation Iraqi Freedom coin, and a certificate from the Baghdad Fire Department in recognition of his 50 years' of firefighter service. Pictured, left to right, are Marple and Curtis and Abernathy and Marple.

NHS Partners With Garrett College's International Students In Book Project

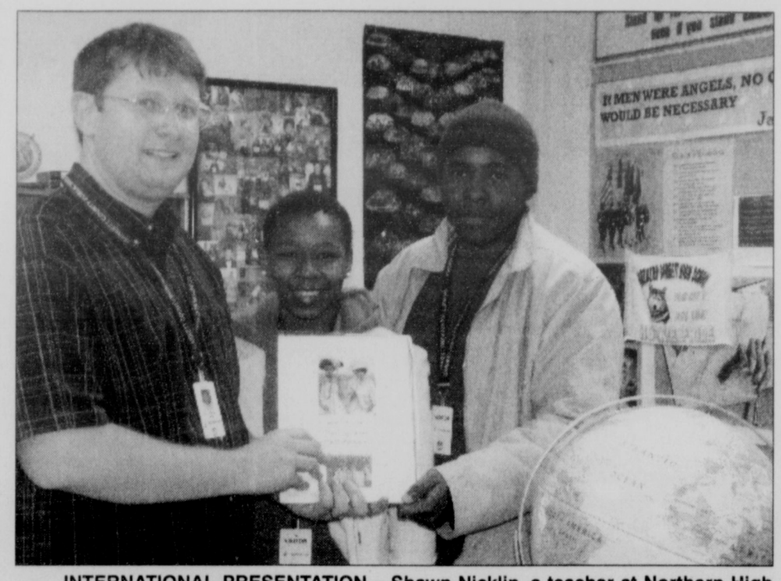
by Addie Glotfelty

The Young Author's Program at Northern High School might be in its final round because of grant money depletion, but it has added an interesting chapter in its closing days and possibly opened the door for a sequel to the project involving the international students at Garrett College. With its first international installment complete, possibilities of launching book exchanges with other countries are on the horizon.

Shawn Nicklin is a world history, government, and Maryland Tomorrow teacher at Northern High School. He created a unique program in which students research, write, and illustrate books about events in history based on an "A,B,C" format. The students were provided with blank books which were obtained by Mr. Nicklin through grant money that is since no longer available.

After completion, the students take their books to several elementary schools to share and to spend a day teaching the younger students how to make their own "A,B,C" books. The high school students' books are then donated to the elementary schools' libraries, where the younger students will have access to them.

"The Manekin Grant, which has provided over $5,000 toward the project, is sadly coming to an end, and with it, the project itself," Nicklin said. "I wanted to take the time to thank all of the teachers and schools who hosted us, the students who created the books, and parents, administrators, and teachers who supported the project over the past seven years."



INTERNATIONAL PRESENTATION – Shawn Nicklin, a teacher at Northern High School, is pictured at left as he accepts the gift of a book titled "Xhosa Culture," given to him by Andisiwe Sicwebu and Bongani Dlamini, also pictured. The book exchanged is part of a unique program spearheaded by Nicklin and now joined by the international students at Garrett College. See story.

Over the past year, this idea was shared with the Community Advocates Committee and members of the World View International Club of Garrett College as a possibility of exchanging books on the different cultures of some of the enrolled international students. Bongani Dlamini, a former Garrett College student from South Africa, liked the idea and, along with his local mentors Mike and Vianne Bell, took a blank book that had been donated by Nicklin home to Butterworth, South Africa, so that those students could compile a similar book on the Xhosa culture.

One of the participants in putting this book together is now a student at Garrett College. Andisiwe Sicwebu not only helped in the typing of the material, but also modeled for a picture of a typical Xhosa girl. Recently that book returned to Garrett County and was presented to Nicklin by Bongani and Andisiwe, completed and ready to share with Nicklin's Northern High School classes.

The book tells about some of the important cultural milestones and ceremonies of the Xhosa culture. With topics such as "Imbeleko" (when a child is born), "Intonjane" (the time of becoming a woman), and "Umtshato" (the Xhosa wedding), this book allows local students a glimpse into a culture a world away. With further interest expressed by some of the other international students at Garrett College, the prospect of international book exchanges seems likely.

"Garrett College is committed to helping the citizens of Garrett County learn from our international students about the rich cultures, histories, and customs of their countries," said Judy Carbone, coordinator of career services and global education. "We have benefited greatly from having an international community on campus, and believe that the local community has as well, through activities such as International Movie Nights, the annual International Dinner, presentations in the primary and secondary schools, and daily interaction with the international students. Presently, 20 different countries are represented at Garrett College."

Carbone and her husband Ken and former Garrett College international student Zumra Balihodzic traveled to Bosnia during the intercession in January. While the schools there were closed for a holiday, they were able to leave a blank book with one of the teachers in hopes that it will be completed and returned to Garrett County at a later date. Dr. Gail Herman distributed blank books while on her recent trip to Kerala, India, and plans on taking some with her on a future trip to Ghana.

With these potential books about the different cultures in the making, Garrett County's students have the opportunity to get to know some global neighbors from the convenience of their own classrooms.

For students as well as those in the community who would like a bit of the international experience in person, there are several events slated at Garrett College sponsored by the World View International Club:

April 17 – a panel presentation, "Focus on International Women" (7 p.m. Garrett auditorium); and the annual International Dinner on April 19 at 4 p.m. at the Lakers' Café on the Garrett College campus.

For more information on any of these events, persons may contact Carbone at 301387-3046 or go to www.garrettcollege.edu.

CARFAX VEHICLE HISTORY REPORTS

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

One of the most dreaded times for me is now when my income tax appointment with the accountant comes due. The dread of the missed paperwork or questions that I do not know the answer to seem to always occur.

However, the 28th of March was different. My accountant is Harold Fike in Accident who also has an office in Cumberland. The parking spots by his building were all full and I had to wait for someone to move out of one of them. I did finally get a good spot. His secretary came out to my car and took all my paperwork inside for me. He did my taxes while I waited so I will not have to go back again to sign my return. The best thing is that I should get a bigger refund than I have gotten in the past years.

Plus it was a beautiful day that was pretty warm, with blue sky and sun. Coming home I saw a pair of hawks drifting in curvy patterns. Also, I saw on the Accident-Bittinger Road a happy herd of Hereford cattle lying around and basking in the sun. Our two elderly equines, Gatsby and Gamekeeper, were enjoying walking on in their grassy pasture.

Claire and Caitlin headed to Frostburg to visit their friend who lives there and attends Frostburg State University. I hate to see them go, but when I was a student at the University of Maryland I used to visit overnight with my friend, Penny Friend, who was a student at Frostburg. Also when home for a break I remember an evening when I was riding around with Marla Frickey. Luckily she was a good driver because we traveled on an old part of Rt. 40 in a blizzard. It was lucky my parents didn't know the conditions were so bad.

The only thing that keeps today from being a perfect early spring day is, of course, in Bittinger the wind is so strong. If the sunshine warms the ground enough and with the rain we should see some daffodils sprouting soon. I can't believe my eyes that my thermometer registers 60 degrees at five p.m. That is a sure sign of spring. I should not have to run my furnace until next fall, but then it is possible if we have another sudden cold snap. Like Pastor Pat used to say about the coming of spring, "Glory, Halleluiah." The birds are increasing their singing every day.

I happened to see a short movie titled Parade of Champions. It was a parade of the most beautiful horseflesh to be seen. The most awesome of the half-dozen draft stallions were Shire, Percheron, and Clydesdale. What a work of art! I wish I had a good photograph of a good draft stallion because I would love to paint it. They are simply magnificent horses.

Last Thursday evening the second round games between my girls' West Virginia and Xavier was on. It was a very close match of teams. After trailing in the first half, WVU finally tied it and the game went into overtime. Unfortunately, Xavier was ahead by two points at the end of overtime. It is too bad WVU is out of the tournament. I talked to Sheila Southerly about the game and she said she almost had heart failure.

The downside of not quitting smoking for me is that I have many more panic attacks. My panic attacks are not the usual thing with pounding heartbeats. I feel like I may pass out. I think maybe my blood pressure is low and sometimes goes too low.

When I worked on the costume crew in New York, one of my co-workers wondered if my childhood in Garrett County was like "The Coalminers Daughter." We were not dirt poor or any kind of hillbillies – more middleclass, but sure not high society.

Rodney and Marci Glotfelty hit the road last Saturday to watch "Lake Effect" open a national band performance. They don't mind traveling the open road, which is something I hate.

It will not be too long until green grass will be showing everywhere, especially from our farm to Mosser Road with all the farms that used to be Glotfelty farms. The name Glotfelty comes from Gladdfeldens in Switzerland, which was their hometown. Gladdenfelden means great green fields. Sheila Southerly saw signs of the greening of the grass, but it is still pretty beige around my house.

It took some pressure to get my girls to pick up the sticks and branches that winter deposited on my lawn, but they did it. They found a hummingbird nest made of horsehair. Their spring break was the fastest week I ever experienced, and it now is time for them to go back to school. I guess Morgantown is kind of sad after their team lost in round three. Of course, our Terps had worse luck, as they lost in the first round of the NIT Tournament. Brother Barry is a big fan of the University of Maryland's women's basketball team. Being a past winner of the NCAA women's tournament, this year they were in the final eight, but to our sorrow they lost last night to a classy Stanford team.

It is amazing how far women's basketball has come. Now the women's games are exciting and the players just as skilled as their male counterparts. In the late 60s my group of friends tried to get Northern High to field a girls' basketball team, but they told us it was illegal. In those days girls played half-court basketball.

Steve Schlosnagle paid a call on me the other day. He and his wife Eileen are in the process of buying a house down in North Carolina. They can't take our winters anymore. I don't know what I will do without Steve around. We have been friends since the first grade. In our high school days at Northern High School we were on the staff of The Viking, our school's newspaper. We were together during our college days at the University of Maryland. After we graduated we decided to take up an invitation to stay at a villa along the coast of Spain and traveled throughout Europe during one summer. We were able to do Europe on 10 dollars a day. Of course, we were very lucky to meet people from all places and got invited to visit and stay with them. Then Steve moved to San Francisco and met Eileen. When they decided to move back to Garrett County and to get married, I threw a small wedding for them on my farm. It will be sad for me when they move.

I don't know of any Bittinger social news. Residents of the Bittinger area, please call me if you have some kind of celebration, visitors, trips, or just general information that my readers would like to hear about.

My Meredith had a bad bug, and I seem to have caught it from her. Although I got an antibiotic from the doctor, I am still very tired and feel pretty bad.

Growth In Hagerstown Area Leads State, Despite Economic Slowdown

by Ben Meyerson
Capital News Service

The Hagerstown metropolitan area is Maryland's fastest growing, according to new data from the U.S. Census Bureau, despite a slowdown prompted in part by the sputtering national economy.

The Hagerstown-Martinsburg, W.Va., metro area, which includes Washington County in Maryland, as well as Morgan and Berkeley counties in West Virginia, grew 1.9 percent from July 2006 through July 2007. Washington County is the larger than the others combined, with a population of 145,113 as of July 2007.

However, Washington County planning director Michael Thompson said development has declined since the census analysis.

Development peaked in Washington County between 2004 and 2006, by Thompson's estimation. Census data supports him – from July 2005 to July 2006, the metro area's growth rate was 2.7 percent.

The county and state tried to limit growth and spur more responsible development by enacting taxes on new homes and requiring adequate public facilities such as schools and plumbing.

"Now, we have a lot of areas in the county that are basically shut down to residential development until we get some more schools built," Thompson said.

But one of the major reasons for Washington County's shrinking housing market is the economy – particularly the high price of gas. Much of the county's growth came from workers in the Washington and Baltimore areas moving farther out to take advantage of inexpensive housing.

"For a while there, we were seeing a lot of people coming up from the metro areas, and they were willing to drive another 40 minutes," Thompson said. "I think (the high price of gas is) going to have an impact, I know people who commute and they're trying to start a carpool now if they can."

A big portion of Washington County's influx came from Frederick County, according to Mark Goldstein, an economist at the Maryland Department of Planning.

"If you look at migration trends over several decades, the trend is to move out – a longstanding trend probably in earnest since the 1970s," he said.

The majority of people coming into Washington County come from Frederick County, with a fair portion coming from Montgomery County, according to data Goldstein compiled from 2006 tax returns.

But people are moving even farther than Washington County, according to Goldstein's data, with a large numbers moving to Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

"Berkeley County is on the very cusp of where people are willing to move out to commute from," said Matthew Mullenax, geographic information systems coordinator at the Berkeley County Planning Commission.

And while Mullenax said they've had a "tremendous boom," there's still been a slight slowdown.

"You'll see a 100-acre subdivision that has only one or two houses built, and all the infrastructure is there – roads, sewer and water, things like that," he said. "They're just lying there and waiting for somebody to come by and build a lot or order a house."

Better land and housing values often prompt the move to more bucolic areas like Washington County, Goldstein said.

"The rise in housing cost and prices probably pushed out stronger migration from counties with more expensive housing," he said.

Thompson agreed.

"They came primarily because the cost of housing was so cheap here, and of course the cost of gas wasn't so high here either at that time," he said. "People used to say the mountain was the barrier between us and the metro area; well, all of a sudden that mountain seemed to get flat for a while there."

BATTLING BOTANICAL BULLIES – The Savage River Watershed Association (SRWA) is looking for adult volunteers to continue control efforts of Japanese spiraea in the Bear Pen Run area of Savage River State Forest. Bear Pen is designated as a Type 1 Wildland, and like other natural areas around the state, is threatened by a variety of exotic invasive species, according to a SRWA spokesperson. SRWA will be working on Friday, April 18 and Friday, June 20, from 9 a.m. until noon to continue efforts to reduce the infestation using both mechanical and chemical control methods. Kerrie Kyde, invasive plant specialist with the Maryland Wildlife and Heritage Service, will be onsite providing technical support, and Larry Maxim, Savage River State Forest manager, will provide work tools. Mike Gregory, Big Run and New Germany State Park manager, will provide free camping the night before for any out-of-town volunteers. Elk Ridge NatureWorks is coordinating the project and providing snacks and drinks for volunteers, with assistance from SRWA. Pictured above, from left, are SRWA coordinator Jackie Long, SRWA intern Dana Leeper, and local residents Grover Martin, Mary Fletcher, Paul Fletcher, and Ron Boyer. For more information or to register, persons may contact Ron Boyer at 301-895-3686 or info@elkridgenatureworks.com.

Wycliffe Assoc. Plans Banquet

Wycliffe Associates will hold a banquet on Thursday, April 17, beginning at 7 p.m. at the Salisbury fire hall in Salisbury, Pa. For complimentary tickets to the event, persons may call 800-475-1062.

The featured speaker will be Bruce McFarland. According to a spokesperson, he will share how people of all backgrounds and talents are working together to advance Bible translation for the millions of people still waiting to read it in their heart language.

Bruce and his wife Paula first began to serve with Wycliffe in the 1980s in Papua New Guinea, where they originally served a two-year mission.

The couple returned in 1998, and have served at the Ukarumpa International School since then. Bruce is a band director and instrumental lesson teacher, and Paula teaches piano.

Organized in 1967, Wycliff Associates is a ministry supporting the work of Bible translation around the world. Volunteers serve by building and renovating facilities, teaching in vacation Bible schools, praying daily, constructing roads and airstrips, doing office work, using computer skills, telling others how they can help, and overseeing various projects.

In 2007, Wycliffe sent over 1,300 volunteers to 35 different countries, according to the organization.

Prayer, Meditation Workshop Series Being Offered

A six-week series of workshops on prayer and meditation will be presented on the second and fourth Fridays in April, May, and June at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland. The workshops, hosted by Jerry Knutson, will be held from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

"The purpose of the workshops is to help participants from various religious backgrounds explore and experience several methods that may enhance their experience of God," said Knutson.

Knutson, a meditator since 1971 and a Garrett County resident, has been studying and meditating with others interested in Edgar Cayce's meditation disciplines since 1983. He has been studying and worshiping with the Quakers since 1993. Knutson is presenting these workshops to complete a certificate in spiritual formation from the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary.

Each workshop will have 30 minutes of stillness in the middle to practice the particular method learned that week.

The workshop schedule is as follows:

April 11: Centering Prayer. "Centering prayer is a very old technique that was practiced in monasteries and has been revived in the Roman Catholic Church by Thomas Merton, Thomas Keating, and Basil Pennington," Knutson said.

April 25: Meditation as taught by Edgar Cayce. Cayce was a "psychic diagnostician" who lived in the first half of the 20th century. Knutson said Cayce read the entire Bible every year of his life and taught a form of Christian meditation. This workshop will be co-taught with Al Mann from Pittsburgh, Pa.

May 9: Buddhist Practice. This workshop will be taught by Rev. Kyoki Roberts, head priest of the Zen Center of Pittsburgh.

May 23: Quaker Worship. Since 1654, Quakers have been worshiping in stillness, Knutson noted.

June 13: Scientific Meditation. This workshop will teach meditation that is based in science rather than religion.

June 27: Worship Sharing and Conclusion. "The Quaker method of discussion that allows space for the 'Divine will' to be taught," Knutson said. "We will use this method to discern if there is enough interest to continue a silent worship group in the future."

The public is invited to any or all of the workshops. For more information, persons may contact Jerry Knutson at 301-387-6636 or almostluddite@yahoo.com.

Biblical Drama To Be Presented At Maple Glen

The public is invited to attend. The church is located one mile north of Grantsville along Dorsey Hotel Road.

Conservation Funds Available For Md. Farmers

Jon Hall, state conservationist for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) in Maryland, announced that Maryland is accepting applications for consideration for financial assistance for applying conservation practices through the FY08 USDA Agricultural Management Assistance (AMA) Program. AMA helps producers adopt conservation practices and investment strategies that will reduce or mitigate risks to their agricultural enterprises.

All applications received by April 15, 2008, will receive consideration for AMA funds. On that date, applications received in NRCS offices will be evaluated and ranked according to levels of environmental benefits and available funds. After that date, if additional AMA funds remain, NRCS will evaluate and rank applications on May 15, 2008.

Maryland farmers interested in receiving financial assistance through AMA should immediately contact their local NRCS or Soil Conservation District office, located at USDA Service Centers, for more information on eligible conservation practices, the application process, and receiving conservation assistance through the AMA Program. NRCS has leadership responsibility for implementing AMA.

Information on these programs is available at USDA service centers and at www.md.nrcs.usda.gov.

"The Agricultural Management Assistance Program is a voluntary conservation program for agricultural farmers and producers that provides cost share payments for selected conservation practices," said Hall.

In 2006, NRCS used AMA funds to provide $450,611 in cost share assistance on 1,184 acres on 20 Maryland farms. AMA cost-share assistance was used to assist Maryland producers interested in the transition to organic production.

In Maryland, some of the conservation practices eligible for AMA Program funding are:

Irrigation – Micro-irrigation and irrigation water management;

Tail water recovery – storage facility;

Windbreak/shelterbelt establishment;

Prescribed grazing and associated practices

Transition to Organic and associated practices; and Soil quality enhancement practices, including conservation crop rotation, residue management no-till and mulch till.

AMA is available in only 15 states, as designated by the Secretary of Agriculture, where participation in the Federal Crop Insurance Program is historically low. Maryland, along with most of the Northeastern and Mid-Atlantic states, was selected to participate in the AMA Program. AMA affords an opportunity for traditional and nontraditional program participants, such as limited resource, beginning farmers, and small farms, to apply for conservation financial assistance.

NRCS is the agency designated by the Secretary of Agriculture as being responsible for program management and leadership for the conservation provisions of AMA. The USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) will complete the "person" determinations and disburse the cost share payments to the participants.

In order to be eligible for AMA Program participation, applicants are required to: own or control the land, implement specific eligible conservation practices, meet the Food Security Act "person" definition, and maintain the cost-share practices for the life of the practice.

AMA strengthens NRCS's efforts to help Maryland's farmers comply with environmental standards and encourages sound conservation on agricultural land," said Mark Rose, NRCS Maryland assistant state conservationist for programs and AMA program manager.

AMA Program participants enter into a 1- to 10-year contract period. The federal cost-share assistance can be up to 75 percent of the cost of an eligible practice.

NRCS is USDA's lead conservation agency and has worked hand-in-hand with farmers, producers, and landowners for more than 70 years to conserve natural resources on private lands. Maryland's landowners can learn more about AMA and other Farm Bill programs by contacting NRCS Maryland offices or by visiting the NRCS Maryland homepage at www.md.nrcs.usda.gov.

In Memory of my husband,
Bob Lucas
on our 45th Anniversary, April 4.
He left this world and went to Heaven on Aug. 14, 2007.
Right now you're in a different place,
And though we seem apart,
You're closer than you ever were...
You're here inside my heart.
You're with me when I greet each day
And while the sun shines bright,
You're here to share the sunsets too...
You're with me every night.
You're with me when the times are good,
To share a laugh or two,
And if a tear should start to fall...
You're right here for me, too.
And when that day arrives
That we no longer are apart,
I'll smile and hold you close to me...
Forever in my heart.
Sadly missed, Milly

No charges were preferred, and officers are not releasing more information about the victims because they are juveniles.

Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene of the accident.

GA1996G003/2 – The Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc., 2008 Maryland Highway, Suite 2, Mountain Lake Park, MD 21550, has applied for a Water Appropriation and Use Permit to withdraw ground water from two wells in the Greenbrier and Mauch Chunk Formations, for a community water supply for the Towns of Gorman and Table Rock. The Administration is considering an increase in an existing appropriation from an annual average of 18,000 gallons per day (gpd) and 27,000 gpd during the month of maximum use to an annual average of 40,500 gpd and 60,800 gpd during the month of maximum use. The wells are located on the west side of Mountain Road, 0.5 mile north of U.S. Route 50, Table Rock, Garrett County, Maryland.

The existing production wells, installed in a leaky fractured rock aquifer, are 205 feet deep. Impacts to the resource and nearby users were evaluated using data from geological reports and investigations available to the Water Management Administration and an on-site aquifer-pumping test. Pumping of the two wells during periods of maximum use may lower the water table about 5 feet in the nearest other user's well. In making this evaluation, water withdrawals were modeled with the well pumping continuously for 90 days with no recharge to the aquifer.

ROACH TO COMPETE IN WORLD AEROBIC CHAMPIONSHIPS – Marlana Beitzel Roach, the 2007 United States sportaerobics champion, will be competing at the World Aerobic Championships in Stuttgart, Germany, April 25 to 27. This event is the "Olympics" of the sport and is held every two years. Athletes from over 45 countries will participate, and Roach will be competing in the adult women's category against 65 competitors. She began her aerobic career at the age of 15 when she was introduced to the sport at Brenda's Body Shop in Oakland. Roach said her sport has increased in difficulty since her start. "Every year the sport becomes more challenging. It has been adopted as the fifth discipline of gymnastics," she said. "Although it is not as well known in the US, aerobic gymnastics is very popular in other countries, even as much so as figure skating or soccer." Roach, who is a native of Garrett County and the daughter of Robert and Rayetta Beitzel, now lives in Martinsburg, W.Va. She has continued to compete in her sport, traveling to Mexico last December, and heading this weekend to Woodbridge, Va., for another event. "My trip to Germany this month is by far the biggest competition in the sport," she said. As the reigning two-time US national champ, Roach will be representing the USA. Only the top two ranked athletes in each country are invited to participate. Roach noted that her sport has been accepted by the International Olympic Committee and may be an official Olympic sport by the year 2012. Roach trains at least five days a week in Martinsburg, where she lives with her husband. She also travels to Atlanta, Ga., every four to six weeks to train with her coach. This July she will defend her national title at the US National Aerobic Championships in Las Vegas, where she will be going for a "three-peat" as national champion. "I would like to thank everyone in my hometown for their support of my aerobic endeavors, and for the continued support of the local athletes from Brenda's Body Shop," the athlete said.

"AN AMERICAN TAPESTRY" is the title of the Garrett Choral Society's concert this weekend, slated for Saturday, April 12, at 8 p.m., and Sunday, April 13, at 2 p.m. at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland. The music is somewhat of a departure from recent GCS productions, with all pieces written by American composers, and in genres such as gospel, folk, patriotic, and spiritual. Selections will include pieces such as "Peace Like a River," "Johnny, I Hardly Knew Ye," "Deep River," "Sometimes I Feel Like A Motherless Child," and "Amazing Grace," among several others. The men will sing an arrangement of "Who Are The Brave" and the women will sing "He's Gone Away." The chorus is under the direction of Julie Turrentine, pictured at right, and is made up of singers from all parts of Garrett County. Tickets to the show are $10 for adults and $5 for youth 18 and younger, and are available from any GCS member or at the door. Photo by John McEwen.

Gov. O'Malley To Visit County This Saturday

Maryland governor Martin O'Malley will be in Garrett County this Saturday to announce whether his administration will allow wind turbines on state forest land. He is scheduled to be at the Monroe Run Overlook along New Germany Road at 9:30 a.m.

There has been no indication as to his decision on the matter, but because he is making a personal appearance to make the announcement, many of those who opposed to the proposal are hopeful that he, too, has decided to oppose it.

The announcement will cap four months of heated debate over a company's proposal to lease and clear hundreds of acres in the county to erect about 100 turbines for electricity generation.

Nearly 500 people attended a public meeting at Garrett College, hosted by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, earlier this year, and the overwhelming majority of those in attendance spoke against the proposal.

A similar meeting held in Annapolis the same week also drew a large number of people, the majority of whom were also strongly opposed.

W.Va. Man Arrested For Forgery, Felony Theft; Accomplice Wanted

A West Virginia man was arrested in Florida on charges that were filed by detectives with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office stemming from a fraud investigation in Garrett County that began in October 2007.

Allison Edward Phillips III, 25, London, W.Va., was arrested by the Marion County Sheriff's Office, Fla., on a warrant obtained by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

Browning's Foodland, Oakland, and Foodland Fresh, McHenry, were both victims of a check fraud scam that was conducted by Phillips and an accomplice in late September. Phillips passed counterfeit West Virginia Department of Corrections checks at both locations totaling over $1,400. He also displayed fake identification at the time he cashed the counterfeit checks.

Detectives with the GBI Unit were able to work with the W.Va. Dept. of Corrections and the Kanawha County Sheriff's Office in southern West Virginia, and were able to identify both suspects involved. An arrest warrant was obtained for Phillips charging him with three counts of forgery, two counts of felony theft, two counts of issuing false documents, and one count of theft under $500.

Phillips was arrested in mid-March by Marion County sheriff's deputies and held on the GC warrant. The GC Sheriff's Office then extradited him back to the area from Florida. On April 1, he was arrested and served the arrest warrant. Phillips later confessed to detectives to participating in the scam at both GC locations.

The second suspect, iden-

2008-09 School Calendar To Begin Before Labor Day

The Garrett County Board of Education made the decision to approve a school calendar that would put students in school before Labor Day. This was discussed and voted on at the April monthly meeting on Tuesday, with board president Jim Raley breaking the tie between the board members.

Because of the way days fall on the 2008-09 calendar, if students were to begin school after Labor Day, they would not begin until Sept. 2. This would take students and teachers halfway through June at the end of the year in order to meet the 180-day policy and compensate for any school cancellations.

Superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets stated that data proves that instruction is less productive in the summer months than that done earlier in the year. "Our first obligation is to do what's best for instruction and do what's best for our kids," stated Teets. Another comment made involved the idea that the later calen-

Toddler Is Found Unresponsive, Dies Three Days Later

The Garrett County Bureau of Investigation is collecting information on the suspicious death of 15-month-old Cheyenne Eileen Michelle Frazee.

The events leading up to the investigation began March 28, when at approximately 10:31 p.m. the child was found to be unresponsive at her Mtn. Lake Park home by a family member. The toddler was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland, and then taken to Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., on March 29. She died on April 1.

GBI investigators and child protection services personnel from the Department of Social Services have been in contact with attending physicians from the beginning of this case. Investigation is continuing with further details to be released as they become available.

The toddler's obituary appears on Page A-6 of this issue.

General Assembly Approves Several Garrett Co. Bills

The 425th session of the Maryland General Assembly concluded in Annapolis on Tuesday. Several bills introduced by Del. Wendell Beitzel and Sen. George Edwards were approved by the House and Senate and now await Gov. Martin O'Malley's signature.

Those bills include the following:

•HB 148: "Tobacco Products – Distribution to Minors" would establish a civil infraction and penalties for those who sell tobacco products to minors in Garrett County.

•HB 276/SB 292: "Alcoholic Beverages – Referendum on Sunday Sales in Garrett County Districts" would enable Sunday sales of certain alcoholic beverages in districts in which a majority of voters approve. Should the governor sign this bill, the issue will be on the general election ballot in November.

•HB 314/SB 260: "Agricultural Districts" would enable the Garrett County commissioners to establish agricultural districts and adopt specified WIC Prog. Caseload Increasing In Garrett County, Across Md.

The Garrett County Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) Nutrition Program caseload is at an all-time high, local coordinator Carol Bass reported to the county commissioners last Tuesday. She and health officer Rodney Glotfelty reviewed the program for the officials during a departmental update report.

"Traditionally, you would expect the caseload to decrease as births decrease, but ours continues to grow," Bass said.

In calendar year 2003 there were 340 births in the county, compared to 297 in 2006. However, in fiscal year 2003, an average of 936 residents participated in the local program, compared to 1,016 so far this year.

State caseload averages are up by 10,000 participants, compared to this time last year. Bass, however, did not speculate on the possible causes for this increase.

WIC, a USDA food assistance program, began nationwide in 1974. Garrett County was one of the first WIC sites in the country and first received funding in 1975. Bass has overseen the program at the Garrett County Health Department since 1979.

WIC provides health screening, nutrition education, community referrals, and food assistance to pregnant, postpartum, and breastfeeding women, and infants and children under age 5. Participants must be local residents, meet income guidelines, and have nutritional needs.

Bass said the program, traditionally, has served 75 to 80 percent of the pregnant women and infants in Garrett County. WIC serves about half of the babies in the United States, she added.

Food benefits are issued to participants in the form of checks that are redeemed at local grocers. WIC participants may receive at no cost milk, eggs, cheese, peanut butter, beans, cereal, juice, infant formula, tuna

The purpose of the Hall of Fame is to recognize and honor Garrett County women who have participated in "shaping the county." "Climate Change: Our Health In The Balance" Theme For Week

by Diane Lee
Public Information Officer,
Garrett Co. Health Dept.

National Public Health Week is currently being observed (April 7-13) throughout the United States. The theme this year is "Climate Change: Our Health in the Balance."

"Climate change has a direct connection to all of us, in the most personal way," reported Garrett County health officer Rodney Glotfelty. "It has, and will have, real consequences for the health of our communities and our families."

In recent years, the list of health issues that are growing more problematic as a result of increased climate change is long – heat stroke and hypothermia, asthma, cardiovascular and pulmonary illness, gastrointestinal illnesses because of water contamination, ... the list goes on. The most vulnerable members of the population – the poor, the chronically ill, the elderly, the disabled, and the uninsured – are most affected by the health impacts of climate change.

There are, however, actions that individuals, organizations, and businesses can take to reduce the impact of climate change over time. The following are a few recommended by the earthdaynetwork (www.earthday.net):

Change your light bulbs. As old light bulbs burn out, replace them with the Energy Star label bulbs. Five Energy Star light bulbs will save your household at least $150 over their lifetime.

Drive your car differently or drive a different car. An average SUV emits as much CO_2 as some homes. Buying a fuel-efficient car isn't something that everyone can do, so try to drive less. Combine errands into one trip. Walk when you can. Get your car tuned up regularly. Slow down. Don't race your car's engine.

Start at home, as 42% of household energy costs go toward heating and cooling. Have your heating and cooling system serviced annually. Clean vents, close unused vents, and change filters in the vents. Add 2° to the AC thermostat in the summer and take 2° away in the winter. Make sure windows and doors are sealed.

Tame the refrigerator monster! It is the biggest consumer of electricity among household appliances and is responsible for 10-15% of the electricity used each year. Older refrigerators are as much as 50% less efficient. If buying a new refrigerator isn't in the cards for you, lower the temperature by 1°. Clean the condenser coil. This simple measure can reduce your annual energy costs by $20.

Be more efficient with other household appliances. The other big users of energy in your household are your hot-water heater, your washer and dryer, and your dishwasher. Turn the hot water heater down to 120°. Wash some dishes by hand. Don't pre-rinse dishes. Detergents are powerful enough to do the job. Wait until you have a full load to run the dishwasher. Wash clothes in warm water, not hot, as 90% of the energy used in operating a washing machine goes toward heating the water. Don't overdry your clothes, and hang them to dry when possible.

Go organic. Buy organic. Eat locally grown food. (The food doesn't have to travel far so there's less CO_2 emitted from the trucks that ship it). Eat fruits and vegetables in season. Again, that saves the enormous transportation costs. Plant your own vegetable garden.

Buy recycled and recycle what you can.

Be a minimalist. Buy in bulk (less packaging). Try not to buy what you don't need. (Do you really need 57 pairs of shoes?) Buy quality products that will last longer. Go through your closet and donate or recycle what you don't need.

Individuals can make a difference in their climate through the choices they make and by leading lifestyles that are healthy for them, their communities, and the climate. For more information about climate change or Public Health Week, persons are invited to contact the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7730 or 301-895-3111.

RECYCLING BY THE TRUCKLOAD – Pictured are AmeriCorps members Hana Smith and Heather Lander seated atop a truckload of paper that is headed to the recycling bins at the Garrett County landfill. The Garrett County Health Department has recycled over 4 tons of office paper this fiscal year as staff members have converted from paper charts to electronic charts. "We're really proud that we have recycled so much paper this year," said Hana Smith, "but we know that the more environmentally friendly thing to do is to use less paper. That's one of the goals of converting to electronic charts." In observance of National Public Health Week (April 7-13), health department staff members are promoting the theme "Climate Change: Our Health in the Balance" through a variety of activities both within the agency and in the community. See story for more information.

G'Ville Woman Sentenced For Burglary Charge

An 18-year-old Grantsville woman pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court this week to first-degree burglary. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Samantha Lynn Guthrie to three years in the Division of Corrections and suspended two of those years.

Guthrie will be on supervised probation after she serves one year in the Garrett County Jail. Conditions of her probation include substance abuse evaluation and treatment and payment of restitution.

She was arrested and charged by Maryland State Police in September after a Grantsville resident reported her apartment had been entered and property removed while she was at the laundry facility in her complex.

The victim implicated Guthrie, and witnesses at a neighboring apartment provided statements that Guthrie had been seen entering the apartment. Troopers recovered some of the stolen property from Guthrie, noted the state's attorney.

In other Circuit Court proceedings this week, Robert Glenn Nazelrod, 40, Accident, pleaded guilty to first-degree burglary. Sherbin sentenced him to four years in the Division of Corrections.

Three years of the sentence were suspended, and Nazelrod will be on probation for two years after he is released. Conditions of probation include paying restitution of almost $700 to the victim.

Nazelrod was arrested and charged by Maryland State Police who were investigating the burglary and theft at a residence in the Sang Run area. After being developed as a suspect in the case, Nazelrod admitted to officers that he had entered the residence and stolen two guns. The state's attorney said the guns were recovered from a pawn shop in Pennsylvania.

In an unrelated case, Michael Sean Roy, 27, Oakland, was sentenced in Circuit Court to three years in the Division of Corrections for possession of heroin. A six-month concurrent sentence was also imposed against Roy for a driving while suspended violation.

Eighteen months of the sentence were suspended, and Roy will serve the remaining 18 months in the Garrett County Jail. Following his release from jail, Roy will be on supervised probation for two years.

He had pleaded guilty to both crimes in March, but sentencing had been postponed until this week.

Roy was arrested and charged in September after he was seen driving by a sheriff's deputy who knew his privilege to drive had been suspended. After stopping Roy and arresting him for the traffic violation, two heroin capsules were found on his person and a third was found in the vehicle, according to the state's attorney.

In other Circuit Court proceedings this week, Ronald John Marc, 63, Oakland, was sentenced to 18 months in the Garrett County Jail for a DUI offense. One month of the sentence was suspended, and Marc will be on supervised probation when he is released. A fine of $500 was also imposed.

Marc had entered his plea in March, and sentencing was postponed until this week.

Last May, a sheriff's deputy stopped Marc in the Mtn. Lake Park area after observing that the vehicle he was driving had no registration plates. Marc was arrested for DUI and related charges after the officer made observations of Marc's condition and his performance on field sobriety tests.

In other Circuit Court news, Michael Ray Schmidl, 21, Oakland, admitted in court to violating his probation. He had been placed on probation in 2005 after being convicted of four charges and serving a jail sentence.

While on probation, Schmidl tested positive for the use of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) and had not made regular restitution payments toward the balance, according to the state's attorney.

Sherbin reimposed Schmidl's entire outstanding sentence of five years in the Division of Corrections, then suspended all but two weekends to be served in jail. Schmidl was placed back on probation, with all general and special conditions as previously ordered.

Todd Allen Tasker, 26, Swanton, also admitted in Circuit Court this week to violating his probation. Sherbin then reimposed a one year suspended sentence.

Tasker was originally convicted of a third-degree sex offense in September 2006 and was sentenced to two years in the Division of Corrections, with one year suspended.

Tasker had violated his probation by leaving the state without permission, changing his address without permission, violating the law by being convicted of driving while suspended in West Virginia, and having positive drug tests while on probation, the state's attorney said.

In other court proceedings, Benjamin John Shaffer, 34, Oakland, pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana. The judge sentenced him to 14 days in the Garrett County Jail.

In September, Shaffer was charged with the offense after a sheriff's deputy located 1.2 grams of marijuana in Shaffer's pocket when he was arrested on an outstanding warrant for violating his probation in a DUI case.

The violation of probation hearing remains pending in the District Court.

Also in Circuit Court this week, State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch dismissed charges pending against Jason William Hebb, 27, Randolph County, W.Va.

"The evidence available to the state at this time is insufficient to prove the charges," the state's attorney said.

Hebb was charged by officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation who determined he was one of three persons who entered a Loch Lynn residence in January 2007 and demanded money the male occupant allegedly owed to one of them.

Charges against Hebb included first- and second-degree assault, fourth-degree burglary, and two weapons violations.

Maryland Man Receives Drug, Fishing Charges

Maryland Natural Resources Police officers charged an Eldersburg man with drug and fishing violations in the delayed harvest trout fishing area of the Casselman River on Friday, March 28.

John P. Bicking, 22, was charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS), possession of marijuana, possession of CDS paraphernalia, and possession of illegal gear in a delayed harvest trout fishing area during prohibited times.

According to reports, officers were conducting foot patrols along the river checking fisherman when they discovered Bicking to be in possession marijuana and a jar of Power Bait.

NR? seized as evidence a small quantity of marijuana and a glass smoking pipe.

Bicking was transported to the Garrett County Detention Center, where he was held until he was brought before a District Court commissioner.

First United Bank Pledges $10,000 To G'ville VFD

First United Bank & Trust recently announced a pledge to donate $10,000 over the next five years to the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department to build the new Grantsville fire station.

"First United is glad to lend its support to this worthy project," stated community office manager Allen Shapiro, Grantsville First United. "We have a great volunteer fire department in Grantsville, and appreciate their strong commitment to our community."

Grantsville's current VFD station is located on Miller Street. The new station will be located on Route 669 at the corner of Springs Road and Locker Lane in Grantsville. A committee from the GVFD sent fundraising letters to community businesses to help raise money for the campaign. It is a $2.6 million campaign that will establish a permanent location for the fire department.

MY BANK DONATES TO GVFD NEW BUILDING – First United Bank & Trust recently announced its donation of $10,000 over the next five years to the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department. The pledge is to fund the building of the GVFD's new fire station. From left are Renee Bittinger, GVFD Ladies Auxillary; Fred Holliday, Garrett County commissioner; Allen Sharpiro, Community Office Manager of First United Grantsville; Gerry Beachy, GVFD fund raising committee; and Adam Rounds, GVFD. See story for details.

Construction of the new fire station started in August, and the campaign has reached $75,000 in its first phase.

"First United's pledge is a significant boost to the campaign," commented Gerry Beachy, owner of Beachy's Pharmacy and a member of the fundraising committee. "We appreciate First United's involvement in the local community, and we encourage other businesses to follow First United's lead."

O'Malley Ends Second Legislative Session With Only Half-Victories

by Kelly Wilson
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – State Circle jumped with the feel of a carnival late into Monday night as legislators, staffers, lobbyists, and reporters streamed from one celebration to the next.

But when the last echoes faded from the streets and the traditional confetti settled in the House and Senate, the final legislative tally was a far less exciting set of half-victories for Gov. Martin O'Malley.

O'Malley met with success when legislators passed his package of bills to help homeowners facing foreclosure. At the end of the session the governor also worked out a deal with Constellation Energy to provide rate relief to state residents. He won other legislative battles, too.

But some priorities did not fare as well. The O'Malley-supported Global Warming Solutions Act to limit carbon emissions died in committee in the closing hours of the 2008 session because of fears the move would cost jobs.

Some of the governor's crime-fighting initiatives also were weakened in the face of determined opposition.

"The legislative process is a process of consensus," O'Malley said. "Seeking consensus involves necessarily being able to make compromises in order to advance the points."

The trouble facing O'Malley and the General Assembly was largely the result of an economic downturn that has hit states across the country, including Maryland.

In November legislators began work on closing a $1.7 billion budget gap, and in March the Board of Revenue Estimates announced an expected $333 million revenue shortfall.

In the fall, legislators ramped up taxes in the state to alleviate shortcomings in the budget. But a new tax on computer services proved to be extremely unpopular with voters.

Legislators were also concerned that the tax would drive technical businesses, which can operate in any area, to move to neighboring states that don't have such fees.

With time running out in the session and the state's fiscal troubles still looming, lawmakers repealed the measure, which was expected to raise $200 million annually.

The money will now be made up through further budget cuts, a temporary tax increase for people with incomes over $1 million, and money from the transportation trust fund.

The fallout from the tax increases also contributed to a significant drop in the governor's popularity. Voters' approval of O'Malley dropped to 37 percent in March, down from 52 percent a year earlier, according to Gonzales Research & Marketing Strategies.

In order to improve his favorability ratings, O'Malley needed to move some of his priority legislation through the General Assembly. Although much of it passed, success was sometimes only possible through widespread amendments that limited the scope of the bills.

O'Malley's bill to expand the state's database of DNA information passed only after an amendment providing for the samples' expungement from the system, and another changing the time of data entry to after indictment.

The adjustments were a conciliatory effort by the governor to gain support for the bill from members of the Legislative Black Caucus, who said the bill was discriminatory and violated Marylanders' Fourth Amendment rights.

The governor's environmental priorities were also hit in the budget reconciliation work.

Despite firm support in both chambers of the legislature, the Chesapeake Bay 2010 Trust Fund was cut in half in a budget-balancing effort. Also, one of O'Malley's efforts to ease residents' energy costs – the Regional Greenhouse Gas Emission bill – was defeated when it first came to the Senate.

In the final days, however, the bill was amended and passed through the Senate.

The success with rate relief and the creation of the trust fund, even at a reduced level, are moves in the right direction, O'Malley said.

Despite the stresses of the state's finances, the governor was upbeat about the outcome of the session.

The changes made in the legislature are all part of that branch's role in government, said Roy Meyers, professor of political science at the University of Maryland, Baltimore County.

He said O'Malley first proposed the extra tax on high-income residents during the special session. The new plan also gives O'Malley the freedom to decide what further cuts to make to the budget.

"The governor did quite well in proposing legislation and having a good deal of it enacted, with only minor changes," Meyers said.

Oakland Police Make Several Unrelated Arrests

A traffic stop made by Oakland Police led to the arrest of an Oakland woman for driving under the influence of a controlled dangerous substance.

Christina Veronica Bauer, 25, was stopped after police witnessed several traffic violations, including her vehicle crossing the center line.

Further investigation led to her arrest with charges of DWI by CDS and failure to drive right of center. She was later released.

In a separate incident, police were called to an Oakland residence for a reported domestic assault. Police charged John Mark Finch Jr., 40, with second degree assault. He was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to await a bond hearing.

A three-vehicle accident brought police to the intersection of Oak and 9th streets, Oakland, last Thursday.

One driver, Adam Sanders, 24, Oakland, was charged with failure to yield to oncoming traffic when making a left turn. Sanders' vehicle struck a vehicle driven by Dale Freeman, 47, Flemington, W.Va., which then struck another car, driven by Nina Tate-Elliott, 33, Edgewater.

One person was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern Rescue Squad, who assisted at the scene. Oakland Police were also assisted by the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department.

It Should Have Been 4-0...

The elected members of the Garrett County Board of Education voted at their regular meeting Tuesday to continue to start the school year prior to Labor Day, rather than on the Tuesday immediately following the holiday. A vote that should have been 4-0 ended up 3-2, with board president Jim Raley having to break a 2-2 tie.

Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent of schools, was absolutely correct when he said that, while the board needs to be sensitive to the business community, its first obligation is to do what's best for instruction and for our students. In fact, this should be a no-brainer.

The only reason a change in the calendar was even being considered was because a handful of local business owners, particularly those with establishments at Deep Creek Lake, do not like losing their high school employees prior to Labor Day since the throngs of tourists are still in county until that particular Monday.

There are a number of problems with changing the schedule in this way. Even though the board incorporates five snow days into the school-year calendar each year, it is rare that five are enough, so the school year is usually extended farther into June as it is. Starting later would mean that the school year would likely go at least halfway through the month of June. This would also conflict with summer jobs, camps, and family vacations, but more importantly, most teachers will affirm that once June 1 arrives students just naturally become less receptive to instruction and learning.

Charlie Ross, president of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, supported the calendar change, stating at Tuesday's meeting that businesses and educators need to work together for the benefit of both. It is agreed that cooperation is important. Programs such as school-to-work, career days, and the like are valuable, as are monetary donations to our schools by business owners and the jobs provided for our students, particularly for those who are trying to save money for post-high school educations.

However, as Dr. Teets stated, the absolute bottom line when it comes to educating our children is, first and foremost, and always, always to do what is in the best interest of the children – not the business owners, not the parents, not the teachers – but the children.

Let's hope that this idea does not make a return to the board of education next year, and if it does, may it be promptly tossed out.

To the Editor:

When my fellow Americans go to the polls to vote for a president, I hope they will keep in mind two remarks.

Mr. Wright, the preacher, said many bad things about America, and shouted, "God damn America." Mr. Wright is Obama's best friend. Obama said, "Mr. Wright will always be a good friend of mine."

Obama's wife Michelle said, "This is the first time in my life I am proud to be an American."

Is this what we want to run our country for four years? We need a president and first lady to lead us who are proud and happy to be in America.

John Williams III
Springfield, Pa.

To the Editor:

Commissioners, listen; note what is happening!

Our "leaders" – from the Atlantic to the Pacific – are immune, or oblivious, to the plight of the American people. Locally, the commissioners should be well aware of the layoffs, the high gas prices, the higher cost of living; but will they respond? Yes, with higher taxes, so they can recklessly and irresponsibly continue to spend without regard to us, the poor helpless taxpayers.

Our commissioners should take the lead in reducing our burden, instead of continuing to tax and spend. They have a chance to hold taxes in the coming budget. Will they? No, they are already advising you that they will not only keep spending, but increase it.

They have given you notice of a hearing on the 15th. Regardless of the attendance, they should, as our elected trustees, handle our money as if it were their own.

Please, take notice of our entire local situation, and respond by reducing the spending instead of adding to our burdens.

Thomas E. Doyle

To the Editor:

Having been born and raised in Garrett County, I find great joy in returning home periodically throughout the year. Unfortunately, I am only in and out now and then, and generally only get to read about the happenings in our community in the The Republican. Although I will not be around for the actual concert this weekend, I was lucky enough to have had the privilege to sit in on a rehearsal of the Garrett County Choral Society last weekend.

This weekend, April 12 and 13, the local chorus will present its spring concert, "An American Tapestry." Just as the title suggests, the music is celebratory of our heritage. As Julie Turrentine, the choir's director, stated, the music is about passion; passion for God, country, family, and friends. I share with great pride that the music I enjoyed last Sunday was full of passion!

Consisting of 40-some people, the Garrett Choral Society exists through your support, and the volunteered efforts of its members. Choir members gather weekly throughout the year to provide this community with fabulous music. With the exceptional leadership of Turrentine, the spirited accompaniment of pianist Lynn Grimm and organist Muriel Franc, and the talent, commitment, and hard work of the entire choir, I assure you that this will be an afternoon or evening not to be missed.

We who are fortunate enough to live in Garrett County should embrace the culture, talent, and opportunities that make our small community such a special place. I attribute much of my life to the experiences and exposure to the arts that I grew up with as a kid, right here in the mountains of western Maryland. I urge any and all of you who find some free time this weekend – either Saturday, April 12, at 8 p.m., or Sunday, April 13, at 2 p.m., to join in musical fellowship. "An American Tapestry" will be presented at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland. (It's going to rain anyway!)

Support all of our cherished organizations that make us who we are!

Sincerely,
Sara Sincell

To the Editor:

I was trying to fix a misapplied payment with the Maryland comptroller's office the other day. If you are a businessperson, you already feel my pain. And this is only one of many pains.

This inspired me to muse over the question: Whose fault is this?

I concluded that this ridiculous tangle of bureaucratic nonsense came from the mistaken notion that the government exists to do things for us that we really should do for ourselves. It follows that the blame for this mess lies with us, as voters, when we get seduced by a politician's promise to "help us." Somewhere in time lots of people voted for a politician who said, "It is the government's responsibility to make sure everyone has a job." "That will be 5% of your paycheck, thank you."

It is also the government's job to grant everyone a retirement income. "That'll be 12.4%, thank you. (Oh, we're sorry. We spent all the money that you contributed for that. We'll announce a new price shortly.)"

How about medical care for retirees? "2.9%."

Oh, please give us an income while laid off. ".6%."

And what if I can't or won't work? "OK, welfare should take care of that."

How about our property values, can you protect them? "Sure, we'll create "zoning" so you can own the property, but we will protect you with a perpetual game of 'mother may I?' before you use it. And since we have gotten to know you so well, our utilities commission will protect you from an increase in electric costs even before you ask. We'll simply charge you an additional fee to prepare you for the double price you'll pay next year. Don't worry. We have gotten the message. We know how much you want to be helped."

Most voters believe they can pick and choose how they want the government to help them. History shows we can't. Once you get on that boat, you don't get off until you arrive at port. If we vote for the boat, it is ultimately partly our fault for where the boat ends up.

I make it a point now to vote against the boat. I'll write in Ron Paul. He wants to limit the government to the things the constitution says the government is for. He is against "whatever floats your boat."

To the Editor:

We have had a request from our son, Sgt. Craig Conroy, USMC, and his fellow Marines who are stationed in Afghanistan for golf balls. They are looking for some things they can do when they are back at their base, and they would like to set up their own driving range.

Many of these golf balls may only get to be used once. When they are just putting or chipping they can recover the balls. However, when they are driving they may put the balls into areas that are truly "out of bounds."

So if you are cleaning out your bag this spring and find some old golf balls you do not want anymore, I am sure the Marines would love to have them for their "Desert Country Club." If you can, drop them off at either Susquehanna Bank office in McHenry or Oakland. If that doesn't work, please call me at 301-387-5062, and I will make arrangements to pick them up. Either way we will package them up and ship them to Afghanistan.

Thank you in advance,
Pat & Kim Conroy
Lake Shore Drive

To the Editor:

There seems to be an issue that has obviously not been discussed for far too long. I feel in my heart that once attention has been brought forth, many parents will realize that we need to work together to make safe school zones for all children.

I have personally witnessed inconsiderate and unsafe driving within the Broad Ford Elementary/Southern Middle School back parking and drop-off areas. Many drivers understand that this is not a place for road rage and speed. Needless to say, a few situations prove that some people have forgotten the precious individuals that these facilities are designed for. Can you believe that drivers have demonstrated the following behaviors?

• Accelerate not only on the road leading to the drop-off areas, but also within the drop-off areas.

• Rushing to gain another 20 feet instead of allowing a parent and child to cross the road...even in cold, wintry, or rainy weather.

• Darting around stopped cars without acknowledgment of children or their parents who are walking to class.

If you are reading this and wondering how I dare question an adult's ability to maneuver a vehicle, then you are part of the problem. If you argue that people should not be walking in these areas, then you don't understand the needs of others. If you feel that your time and schedule are more important than lives, then try to think of your child in such an above-referenced condition.

Please take a moment to think of the people your inconsideration is putting at risk. On days that Garrett County schools execute a two-hour delay, Head Start students do not have morning transportation. Every parent must drop off his/her child and must physically accompany that child to class and sign him/her into the program. Now, if there is a two-hour delay, then there is inclement weather. So, a 4-year-old and parent are exposed to accelerated driving, darting traffic, and people who force them to wait in unfavorable conditions longer than need be. I honestly don't think the time it would take to allow a child to cross the street as soon as possible would ruin anyone's day.

I know people "pop up" quickly. Maybe you really did not see them. Accidents happen, so why should anyone act in such a way to further invite disaster?

Please, as a parent and another human being sharing this world, slow down, calm down, and be thoughtful. Though such actions should be a part of everyday life, I beg that we all consciously try to work toward a wonderful common goal: the safety and well-being of children.

Oakland Main Street Celebrates 10th Anniversary

Oakland Main Street will celebrate its 10-year anniversary this year with several new events and a different logo and color scheme of black, white, and burgundy.

Oakland Main Street, established in 1998, was among the first three of the now 18 Maryland Main Street communities recognized in the state. The Main Street programs are an extension of the National Main Street Program from the National Historic Trust.

Jack Cougle, the Oakland Main Street manager, said the goal of the program is to give local residents, as well as tourists, the chance to rekindle their interest in an area that "feels like home-town charm."

"We look forward to the upcoming year, where we hope to take the Main Street program here in Oakland to the next level," said Cougle. "We have some old and many new events planned for this upcoming year, and hope to get people used to coming back downtown to enjoy that old town charm they once knew."

Events planned for the 10-year mark include a free bi-monthly movie night, a "Wild Women's Weekend," a bike safety rodeo, a "Classic Car Cruisin'," and a literary author fest.

"We expanded the Little Yough Summer Concert Series to 10 Friday performances from June 20 through August 29 (except July 4)," Cougle said. "There will also be old favorites such as Wonderful Wednesdays and the annual Sidewalk Sale."

Cougle said he plans to market the essence of Oakland throughout the state of Maryland, the surrounding states of Pennsylvania and West Virginia, as well as throughout the country.

For more information about these or other events of Oakland Main Street, persons may call Cougle at 301-334-5095.

STACY, John M., 60, Bittinger.

SHARP-SULLIVAN, Tracy M., 47, Friendsville.

WAHL, Charlotte A., 90, Cohasset, Minn., formerly of McHenry.

JOHN M. STACY

John Myrick Stacy, 60, Bittinger, lived a life full of adventure, beginning with his childhood in Silver Spring, and an enlistment in the United States Marine Corps. He served two tours of duty in Vietnam that began on the first day of the Tet Offensive in 1968. His second tour, which began in the spring of 1969, saw his unit capturing Russian Howitzers and exposing Russian involvement in arming the Viet Cong.

Following his honorable military service to his country, John returned to the family's plumbing and heating business, A.A. Stacy & Son, founded in 1907 by his great uncle. John later relocated it, along with his family, to Garrett County and led the family business through its 100th year of operation in 2007.

On April 6, 2008, with his daughters by his side, John passed into his next great adventure with the faith that those he lost before would be waiting to greet him, including his parents Erle M. Stacy and Virginia Kate (Myrick) Stacy Beitzel, stepfather Gorman D. Beitzel, son-at-heart Dale Leatherwood, cousin Billy Stacy, one aunt, and one stepsister.

He is celebrated and greatly missed by daughters Venessa Stacy, Mtn. Lake Park, and Crystal Craver, Salem, Va.; son-in-law Andy Craver; grandchildren Isaac Timber and Samuel Myrick Craver; brother Marshall Stacy and wife Cindy; nephew Chester Stacy; niece Krysta Huxford and husband Dane; former wife Vivian Padgett and family; one uncle, two aunts, and their families; and an extended and cherished family gifted through his mother's second marriage.

At John's request, his ashes will be interred on a date to be determined this summer at the Rocky Gap Veterans Cemetery, Cumberland, followed by a "no ties allowed" outdoor celebration of his life at his farm in Bittinger. The family invites those wishing to join in the celebration to contact them for more information.

Much of his early adulthood was spent riding his Triumph and Harley-Davidson motorcycles. In recent years he found joy in watching the wildlife on his farm, tending to Scottish Highland Cattle with Dan and Becky Yoder, strumming his guitar, and fishing and hiking with family on his property.

"I was lucky enough to do anything I wanted throughout my life and to live in a time when cars were big and fast, and gas was cheap. I've had a great life."

John asked that expressions of sympathy be put to good use through the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund, Attn. Development Office, 1023 15th St., NW, Suite 200, Washington, DC 20005; or The Salvation Army National Headquarters, PO Box 269, Alexandria, VA 22313.

Yough Glades DAR Chapter Attends Conf.

The Maryland State Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution (MSSDAR) held its 103rd state conference in Ellicott City at the Turf Valley Resort from March 27 to 30. The purpose of the convention was to recognize the efforts of all of Maryland's "daughters" throughout the year, and the local Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the DAR attended.

The society's state regent is Barbara Carpenter. Guest speakers for opening night were author Dr. Edward Lengel, who spoke on George Washington, and honorary senior national president of the Children of the American Revolution, Jane Keegan.

Speaking the next evening and representing two of the DAR schools were Scott Breithaupt of Berry College and Phyllis Cram of Crossnore School. Other guests in attendance were state regents from Connecticut, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Michigan, North Carolina, and South Carolina.

The Saturday night banquet guest and speaker was Pamela Wright, national chairman of the Community Service Award Committee. This committee was established in 1995 with the purpose of recognizing members of the community for voluntary achievements in cultural, educational, humanitarian, patriotic, historical, and citizenship endeavors. Wright, along with state chairman Dorothy Cathell, presented a certificate and pin to one of the recipients of this award. A memorial service was held on Sunday morning for all members statewide who died during 2007. Each deceased member's name was read, along with brief comments.

Chapter regent Aletta Martz, pianist Lillian Reckner, special delegate Ellen Doctor, and Cathell represented the local chapter. Martz gained recognition and a seat at the state regent's head table for the local chapter's gain of 10 new members in 2007. She also received other certificates on behalf of the chapter.

The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution was founded in 1890 to promote patriotism, preserve American history, and support better education for the nation's children, a spokesperson said. Its members are descended from the patriots who fought in the Revolutionary War. With more than 168,000 members in approximately 3,000 chapters worldwide, DAR is one of the world's largest and most active service organizations, and is the publisher of the American Spirit magazine.

To learn more about the DAR or how to become a member, persons may visit or contact Martz at 301-387-5274 or Martha Kahl, registrar, at 301-334-8603.

Message from the President's Desk — Garrett College

by Dr. Paul Dauphinais

Garrett College is currently engaged in the process of reviewing and revising its mission and goals. The college's fundamental mission to provide quality education, workforce development, and community service is essentially unchanged. However, the expression of that mission and the institutional goals that flow from it need to be rewritten to enable the college to better evaluate its effectiveness, and to better serve as the basis for institutional planning and decision-making.

It is important that all of Garrett College's constituencies have an opportunity to participate in this process. Therefore, all members of the community are invited to attend a focus group meeting to be held at the college on Monday, April 21, from 11:45 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. in the Continuing Education Building, Room 202. We value your perspectives and input in reviewing and revising the mission and goals of Garrett College. If you are able to attend, please RSVP to Ms. Marcia Knepp by next Tuesday, April 15.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Crop-Killing Drought Last Year Gave Critters Less to Chew On

by Ben Meyerson
Capital News Service

Crop damage from animals dropped $1.4 million in Maryland between 2007 and 2006, a new survey said, likely because of a smaller, drought-stricken crop last summer.

The survey, done annually by the Department of Agriculture's National Agriculture Statistics Service field office in Maryland, showed a decline in damage from $10.4 million in 2006 to $9 million in 2007. The same survey in 2005 reported $10.5 million in wildlife-related damage.

While most experts were hesitant to name any one reason for the drop, most thought particularly dry conditions in Maryland last year led farmers to worry less about the damage caused by animals and instead focus on salvaging what little crop they had.

"It's hard to make those calculations when the damage is so bad that people are getting just a few bushels a yield," said Herb Reed, educator at the University of Maryland's Agricultural Extension in Calvert County.

Statistics seem to bear that out. Farmers spent just over half as much on preventing wildlife damage in 2007 as in 2006, shelling out $639,200 and $1.19 million, respectively.

"There was less spent on everything, because it's pouring good money after bad," he said. "People gave up crops, which they should have -- water can be such an overriding issue."

There could have been just as much animal damage as 2006, but more of it was likely passed off as lost to the drought, Reed said.

"In Southern Maryland, at least, the deer damage wasn't as much of an issue because so many crops were just a total loss anyway," Reed said.

Kurt Fuchs, assistant director of the Maryland Farm Bureau – the primary users of the USDA's survey – agreed.

"I would assume that with the drought foremost in folks' mind, they would be hesitant to contribute it to wildlife," Fuchs said. "Rather than a precipitous drop in damage, there was simply less of a crop out there to be damaged."

But Robert Beyer, associate director of the Wildlife and Heritage Service at the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, didn't buy the argument that the drought's smaller crop would mean less varmint damage.

"Animals will seek the easiest source of food they can find," Beyer said. "There could be 10 percent wildlife damage on a very, very good year, but if you have a bad year, (animals) can literally wipe out a crop" by eating the same amount of food.

Deer are the biggest source of crop damage in Maryland, accounting for 84 percent of estimated damage in 2007, according to the survey. Groundhogs accounted for 7 percent, geese accounted for 6 percent, bears accounted for 1 percent, and other species collectively destroyed 2 percent.

But last year's drought is likely history. Dry weather caused corn production to drop by one-third from 2006, but rain deficits of 6 to 12 inches in some parts of Maryland should shrink soon, according to Douglas LeComte, a senior meteorologist and drought specialist with the National Weather Service's Climate Prediction Center. The past few weeks of rains have already knocked an inch off the deficit, he said.

The Old Farmer's Almanac predicts rainfall will be 1 to 2 inches above the region's normal rate of about 4 inches for April, and WRC-TV meteorologist Bob Ryan said he doesn't see any evidence of a drought returning this year.

North Central Maryland (Baltimore, Carroll, Frederick, Harford, Howard, Montgomery, and Washington counties) reported the most wildlife-related damage, with $2.6 million. The southern Eastern Shore (Dorchester, Somerset, Wicomico, and Worcester counties) reported $2.2 million in damages, Southern Maryland (Anne Arundel, Calvert, Charles, Prince George's, and St. Mary's counties) reported $2.1 million, the northern Eastern Shore (Cecil, Caroline, Kent, Queen Anne's, and Talbot counties) reported $1.8 million, and Western Maryland (Allegany and Garrett counties) reported $338,000 in damages.

Beef Producers Invited To Local Workshop Series

The Cooperative Extension Services in Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania have teamed up to bring local beef producers a series of management workshops. The first will be held on Thursday, April 17, at the Garrett County Extension Office beginning at 7 p.m.

The topic for the workshop will be reproductive management and calving. The guest speaker will be Dr. Scott Updike.

Updike is the newly hired beef cattle extension specialist with the University of Maryland. He is a native of Virginia, and grew up on a cow/calf farm. His research interest has been in meat and carcass quality. In addition to his teaching and extension appointment, he does research and assists with management of the Wye Angus herd at the University of Maryland.

The fee for the workshop is $5. To register, persons may call the extension office at 301-334-6960.

Preston County Farm Service Agency Reports

Eric M. McCartney, County Executive Director
Preston County FSA Office
425 E. Main St., Suite 420, Kingwood, WV 26537-1793

CROP ACREAGE REPORTING DEADLINES ANNOUNCED

Eric McCartney, executive director of USDA's Farm Service Agency in Preston County, reminds farmers of the importance of filing timely crop acreage reports. Reports of crop acreage are required for participation in many USDA-FSA farm programs.

Many of FSA's programs require participants to annually file crop acreage reports. Some of those programs include the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP/CREP), Loan Deficiency Payments (LDPs), Marketing Assistance Loans (MALs), the Farm Storage Facility Loan Program, and the Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP).

Acreage reporting deadlines for the 2008 crop year for West Virginia producers are as follows: June 2, oats, wheat, and barley; July 15, corn, alfalfa, clover, grass, legumes, lespedeza, lettuce, mixed hay, peas, commercial produce, strawberries, timothy, and vetch; Sept. 30, aquaculture, ornamental horticulture, ginseng, turfgrass sod, mushrooms, Christmas trees, and floriculture; and Jan. 2, 2009, honey and maple sap.

Failed acreage must be reported within 15 days of the disaster event and before disposition of the crop. Prevented planting must be reported no later than 15 days after the final planting date.

Acreage reports on crops for which Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) assistance may be paid are due in the county office by the earlier of June 2 for non-insurable small grains (wheat, barley) and July 15 for all other crops, or 15 calendar days before the onset of harvest or grazing of the specific crop acreage being reported.

For further information regarding crop acreage reports, producers may visit the Farm Service Agency, located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, or telephone 304-329-1923.

SIGN-UP CONTINUES LIVESTOCK COMPENSATION PROGRAM

McCartney reminds livestock producers that the sign-up in the Livestock Compensation Program for years 2005 and 2007 continues. LCP compensates livestock producers for grazing losses occurring between Jan. 1, 2005, and Dec. 31, 2007, because of natural disaster.

For 2005, eligible livestock must have been owned or cash-leased and present on the farm as of March 1, 2005. For 2007, eligible livestock must have been owned or cash-leased and present on the farm as of May 15, 2007. Eligible producers will be compensated for the year they suffered the greatest loss, either 2005 or 2007.

Livestock producers applying for LCP must submit a complete application in their administrative county FSA office; adequate proof as determined by FSA, that the feed loss or incurred additional feed costs were claimed for eligible livestock, AND occurred as a direct result of the 2005 or 2007 droughts; and any other supporting documentation determined to be necessary.

Producers who received payment under the 2005 LCP prior to the Dec. 26, 2007, extension to include 2007 grazing losses and who wish to learn if they are eligible for an additional payment will need to apply at the FSA office.

Although an ending enrollment date has not yet been established, it is important for producers to get their applications in the FSA office as soon as possible. Timely applications will ensure producers receive timely payments.

For further information regarding the Livestock Compensation Program or to enroll, persons may visit the agency in Kingwood or telephone 304-329-1923. Program information is also available online at www.fsa.usda.gov.

Info Workshop For Arts Planners Offered By MCAC

The Maryland State Arts Council, through its Organizational Development Assistance Program, will offer a free workshop titled "Strategic Planning: Practical Implementation for Arts-Focused Boards" at the art gallery of Garrett College. It will take place on April 22 from 5 to 7:30 p.m. The presentation is being hosted by the Garrett County Arts Council.

Designed to benefit nonprofit organizations that produce or present arts activities, the strategic planning workshop "will ease participants through the tools and practical implementation of planning: setting goals, objectives, and strategies; learning the discipline of prioritizing; getting consensus and ownership of planning outcomes; and instituting follow-through," a spokesperson said.

Participants are advised that the workshop will be most beneficial if both board and staff members attend. The workshop facilitator, Linda S. Sullivan, holds a master of fine arts in arts administration from Columbia University. She has had a 20-year career in the arts and offers senior level experience in institutional planning, management, and resource development for non-profit cultural organizations.

Prior registration is required. Registration forms and additional information are available by contacting the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-334-6580 or garrettarts@earthlink.net. Information is also available online through the web site of the Maryland State Arts Council at www.msac.org.

This performance is made possible by special arrangement with Tams-Witmark Inc.

Shepherd Of Hills To Offer Facing Giants Movie

Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church, Deep Creek Lake, will host a community showing of the film Facing the Giants on Saturday, April 19, at 2 p.m. in the Discovery Center of Deep Creek Lake State Park. Light refreshments will be served. The public is invited to attend.

The theme of the film is to "never give up. Never back down. Never lose faith," a spokesperson said. "After six consecutive losing seasons, high school football coach Grant Taylor believes things can't get any worse. He's wrong. With fear and failure defeating him in football and in life, the downtrodden coach and husband turns to God in desperation."

For further information, persons may contact the church office at 301-387-0400 or see the church website at www.shepherdofthehillslutheran.org.

dar would interfere with family summer vacations, with the counter concern being that it would interfere with the Labor Day events conducted by local businesses.

Board member Thomas Carr commented that the schools are focusing too much on testing, with tests to study for the tests. He felt that "learning should not just end at the beginning of June."

However, high school assessment tests will be required for Garrett County's graduating seniors next year, making the time spent in the classroom more crucial, stated Teets. He also added, "While its possible there will come a time when no school system in Maryland is making adequate yearly progress, but as Garrett County is currently one of three counties achieving the goal, the county must continue to strive for it."

It was agreed that the board will go ahead with the earlier calendar, putting students in the classroom by Tuesday, Aug. 24, with the belief that students will benefit more and be better prepared for the mandatory passing of assessment tests this year.

WHERE ARE YOU NOW?
by Mary Higgins Clark
c. 2008, Simon & Schuster, $25.99, 289 pages
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

Did you ever have one of those days where you just want to step away from the world and maybe disappear for a minute? We all go through times when we're just better off left alone. Some people, though, take that to an extreme.

When Carolyn MacKenzie's brother disappeared 10 years ago, the family was frantic. It wasn't like Mack to do something like that. In the new novel, Where Are You Now? by Mary Higgins Clark, Carolyn fears that something bad happened to Mack. But then the calls arrive ...

Every Mother's Day, Charles "Mack" MacKenzie Jr., the only son of wealthy New Yorkers, makes his annual call to his mother, who hasn't seen Mack since he walked out of his apartment 10 years ago and vanished. The phone might ring at 3 a.m. A few years ago, he called a little after midnight. He doesn't say much; one or two sentences, and the line goes dead.

Carolyn, Mack's sister, was 16 when her brother disappeared, and his furtiveness has marked her entire adult existence. She's spent 10 years wondering if Mack is sick or in trouble. She's put her life on hold, unable to move forward.

So when he last called, something snapped. Carolyn screamed at Mack, telling him that she would find him, but Mack doesn't want to be found. He left Carolyn a note, warning her to stop her search. Ignoring the note, the demands of her mother and the pleas of her late father's lawyer (who has fallen in love with Carolyn's mother), Carolyn decides to find Mack. She needs closure. Her mother needs to put everything to rest. Life need to go on, whether Mack wants to be a part of it or not.

Then another person disappears, and it doesn't seem to be voluntarily. Coed Leesey Andrews was out with friends at a local nightclub, coincidentally owned by Mack's former roommate, Nick. When her friends left early, Leesey stayed to party and never returned home. The police are looking for her, but the search becomes more frantic when the phone call arrives.

"Please, Daddy, he says he's going to kill me."

Suddenly, knowing where Mack is now is a matter of life or death.

In every mystery, there comes an "Aha" moment: "Aha! The brother is the killer!" or "Aha! It's the sister!" or "Aha! The butler did it!" You'll have a few dozen "Aha" moments when you read this latest from mystery maven Mary Higgins Clark.

Where Are You Now? is a surprisingly fast read, with just enough characters to throw you off the trail and just enough action to keep you turning the pages. It's the kind of mystery that you can give to anyone who loves sleuthfests because the heroine is smart, the bad guys are completely without merit, the ending isn't frustrating, and there are no lovingly gruesome scenes or four-letter words.

Where are you now? If you're smart, you'll be standing in the mystery section of your local bookstore or library, looking for this great novel.

POET, YOGA TEACHER TO BE AT REL – Yael Flusberg, poet and yoga instructor from the Washington, D.C., area, will present a program titled "Yoga and Poetry" at the Ruth Enlow Library on Monday, April 21, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. "Participants can expect to stretch both body and mind with a combination of yoga and writing exercises," a spokesperson said. Flusberg's writings have been published in several anthologies and journals, and she recently completed her first collection of poetry, titled Stones Left on Graves. She is a writer-in-residence at St. Mary's College and is a member of the International Women's Writers Guild. The public is invited to attend the workshop. Persons are encouraged to register by calling the library at 301-334-3996, ext. 117. (Registration is not mandatory, but will help in the planning of the event.)

fish, carrots, and dried peas, beans, and lentils. Participants and vendors are given a list of authorized WIC food items.

"We currently have five county vendors," Bass said. "The approximate average food package cost per participant this fiscal year is $63 per month, with a projected $768,000 being spent in local grocery stores."

WIC participants may also use their checks to support local produce growers at farmers' markets. A client can buy about $18 worth of fresh fruits and vegetables at the markets during the summer, according to Bass.

The WIC coordinator presented each of the commissioners with a bag of items from this month's nutritional plan. The topic is "Why Beans Are Good For You."

"We've found that people weren't eating beans," Bass said. "And what they told us was that they either didn't have measuring cups, they didn't know how to cook them, or they didn't know how to use them."

So the WIC staff put together a packet of items that included information on the nutritional benefits of beans, measuring cups and spoons, a cookbook and numerous recipe cards, and general information about buying, purchasing, storing, and cooking beans.

Next month's WIC topic will be folic acid, which helps prevent birth defects, Bass said.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg noted that WIC's authorized foods list did not include organic products.

"WIC is not an entitlement program," Bass explained. "We take off some of the more expensive products. Had we left more expensive items on, we could serve fewer people. We're leaving good food on, just not expensive foods."

Bass said WIC has dealt with the same food items for about 35 years. She added, however, that some major changes were in store for the foods list, beginning in October. Income guidelines for the program will also be enacted, perhaps as early as this week.

"The next year and a half are going to be a challenge," Bass said.

The emphasis will be on incorporating more fruits, vegetables, soy milk, and wholes grains into diets.

Currently, Bass noted, WIC provides general nutritional counseling for all participants, as well those who have such at-risk problems as diabetes.

"We spend a lot of time trying to prevent obesity in our population," the coordinator added. "We've actually been pretty good in the preschool population for the last three years."

She said statistics indicate that local preschoolers are not having as much of a problem with obesity as are other populations.

"We are also really strong breastfeeding supporters," Bass said. Garrett County has the highest breastfeeding rate among all the state WIC programs,

Husky Baseball Team Remains Unbeaten With Three Victories

The Northern High School varsity baseball squad ran its record to a superb 6-0 (4-0 AMAC) this week by cruising past Allegany last Thursday, Southern on Monday, and Fort Hill on Wednesday. Saturday's home doubleheader against Hampshire was called off because of the weather conditions.

The Huskies broke free from a 3-3 tie last Thursday when, in the seventh inning, Ben Diehl knocked in two runs and Kyle Gillum, one. The Huskies used the surge to fend off the Campers for good in the 7-3 win.

Jeff Smith tapped a bloop single to begin Northern's four-run seventh, and winning pitcher Matt Sisler bunted a single. After a strikeout, Patrick Brady loaded the bases with a walk.

The winning run was scored on an infield error, and Gillum's sacrifice fly made it 5-3. Diehl capped off the win with a two-run single.

Sisler turned in a solid complete-game performance on the mound, fanning eight batters while allowing five hits and only one walk. Cody Ellsworth sent nine Huskies packing in a six-plus inning effort for Allegany.

The first inning went scoreless, and Allegany recorded the first run in the second. Northern tied it with a run in the fourth inning before the Campers got a pair of runs to take back the lead at 3-1. The Huskies brought it to 3-3 with runs in the fifth and six, and used their big fourth to push the score to winning figures.

Brandon Beachy batted in a run on a double for Northern, which had seven hits.

Cody Jefferys and Derek Barb fired triples, with Jefferys getting two RBI. John Carpenter recorded a double, a single, and one RBI.

Northern's Sisler and Southern's Jason Ashby went head to head in a classic pitcher's duel Monday evening in Accident as the Huskies barreled to a near blanking of the Rams. It was a sixth inning Ram run that prevented the shutout and forced a 3-1 edge.

Sisler four-hit the Rams in a complete-game offense that saw 14 strike-outs and one allowed walk to get the win. Ashby fanned seven Huskies and walked five, but allowed only two hits.

Northern struck first when Gillum drew a second-inning two-out walk, which set him up for the scoring run on an overthrow at first base. The overthrow occurred when Ashby attempted to get Diehl out at first base.

Northern made it 3-0 in the fifth inning when Justin Rosenberger singled and scored on a Jeff Stem single. Stem would later score on a wild pitch.

Southern (2-4, 1-4 AMAC) scored its lone run in the sixth, when Ryan Sweitzer drove in a run with no outs but with runners on second and third. Sisler struck out the next three overthrows to avoid the big inning.

Sisler also got out of a jam by striking out two batters after Southern had runners on first and second with one out.

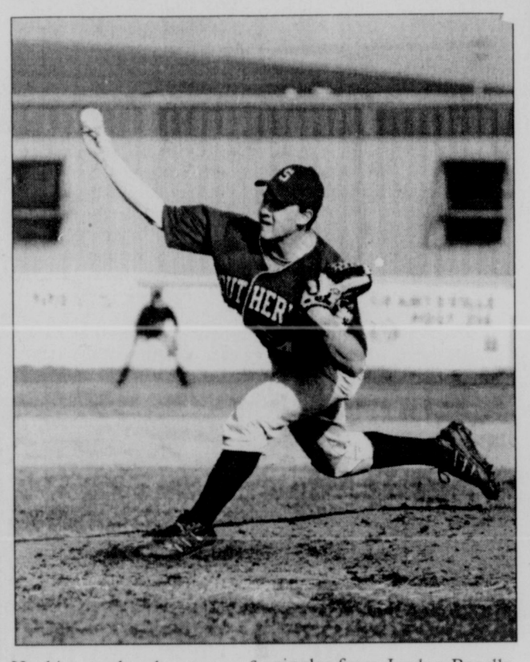
See the Southern baseball story in this section for the results on the outcomes of recent Ram games.

Northern scored four runs in the top of the seventh inning to distance itself from host Fort Hill as the Huskies stretched for a 7-2 AMAC win on Wednesday at Legion Field.

Brady put on a big show as he homered, doubled, scored two runs, and knocked in a run for the undefeated Huskies. Gillum slugged a two-run double and an RBI single, and Dan Warnick hit two doubles, a single, and scored a run.

Neither team was able to score a run throughout the first three innings, with Northern's Trey Beasom and Fort Hill's Scott Rice commanding as starting pitchers. The Huskies got three runners on board to make it a 3-0 fourth.

Kody Boyer nabbed a two-run double in the sixth innings to bring Fort Hill (4-3, 3-2 AMAC) within 3-2, but Gillum's two-run double in the seventh gave Northern breathing room. The Huskies took advantage of four walks and a Warnick double.



Northern will go up against the Elks at Salisbury tomorrow at 7:30 p.m., and will then host Keyser on Monday and Frankfort on Tuesday in 3:30 p.m. contests.

Rams Lose Steam After Walloping Of Vikings; Fall To Huskies, Campers

Southern High School's varsity baseball team went for a 2-4 overall and 1-4 Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference season record this week with one win and two losses. The win came off an 18-5 walloping of Petersburg last Wednesday, and the losses came in a 3-1 edge to rival Northern on Monday and a 5-3 defeat to Allegany on Wednesday. See the Northern baseball story for results from Monday's contest in Accident.

Last Wednesday's 13-run win over Petersburg featured back-to-back home runs from Southern senior Jason Ashby and junior Ryan Sweitzer, with Ashby's three-run homer coming first. The round trips came in a four-run second inning that put the Rams up 6-0.

Petersburg got to within 10-5 after five innings, but the Rams erupted for eight runs in the sixth. The game was shortened to six innings by the 10-run rule.

Junior Ram Derek Taylor struck out seven over the first four innings and Sweitzer came on to earn the save. Together, they combined for a three-hitter with nine strikeouts and no earned runs allowed.

The Rams' 16-hit offence included a triple and two singles from Jordan Pacella. Sweitzer added a triple to his home run, and Ashby, a single to his. Taylor rapped a double and a single, and Nick Tressler and Reece Duncan had two singles apiece.

Southern won the junior varsity game, 9-4, which was shortened to four innings by a time limit.

Nathan King led Southern in the win with two singles and three RBI, while Corey Helbig hit two doubles and drove in three runs. Tyler Sweitzer, who threw four innings, got the win by allowing two hits while striking out four.

Southern's second loss of the week came in a 5-3 AMAC defeat to Allegany Wednesday evening as Alco pitcher Cody Ellsworth allowed three earned runs and fanned five, while yielding five hits.

The Campers led by one in the first inning with a Sean Collette solo homer, then scored four runs in the third to hold a 5-0 advantage over the Rams. Southern scored twice in the fifth inning and once more in the seventh to make it a 5-3 tally. Southern had a runner on second base when the final out was recorded.

On the plate, Ellsworth slugged a run-scoring double for Allegany (4-3 overall, 4-1 AMAC).

Ashby paced Southern with a two-run home run in the fifth and a double.

As pitcher, King allowed four hits and one earned run, and issued no walks in the loss.

Looking forward, the Rams will host Mountain Ridge on Monday and Petersburg on Wednesday, with both games beginning at 5 p.m.

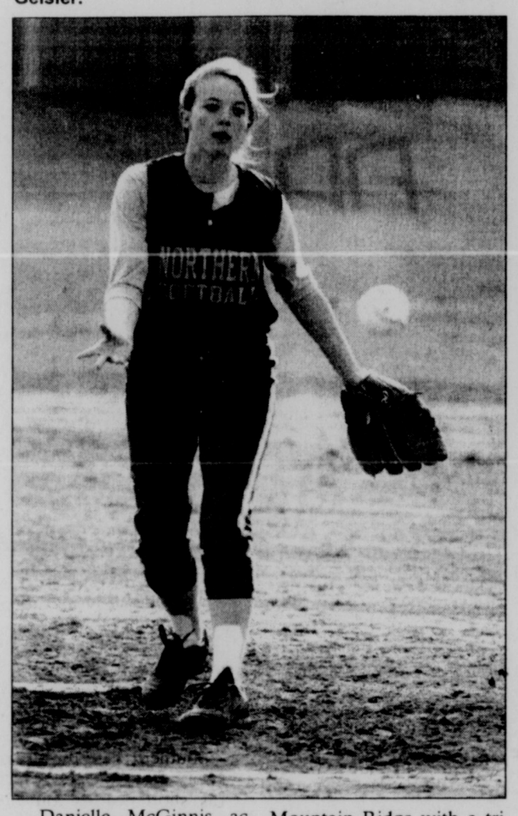
TORNADOS TAKE HUSKIES FOR A SPIN – The Northern High School softball team encountered a run-in with the visiting Keyser Golden Tornados Monday evening, in what ended in a 17-5 whipping of the Huskies. Pictured above, Northern's Kasie Fratz stirs up a blue and gold cloud of dust for a Keyser Golden Tornado while sliding into home plate. Leah Frazee is pictured below winding up and releasing one of her early-game tosses. See story. Photos by Mandy Geisler.



Husky Softball Thus Far Unsuccessful In Producing Wins; Sit At 0-6 Overall

The Huskies let a total of 30 runs get past them in two high school varsity softball games this week. The Keyser Golden Tornados pushed a 17-5 victory on Northern on Monday, and the Mountain Ridge Miners blanked the Huskies with a 13-0 tally on Wednesday.

Northern was within just one point of Keyser's 5-4 third-inning lead in Monday's contest, but the Golden Tornados kicked out 12 runs in the sixth inning to secure a 10-run Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference victory as the visiting team.

Brooke Mangold and Brittani Riley led the Keyser offense with three singles each as the Golden Tornados finished with 12 hits.

Northern got three runs off Mandi Fazenbaker's third inning homer. She also belted a single. Danielle Brenneman went 3-for-3, all three hits being singles.

Miners Kelsey Robertson and Keri Bean teamed up to one-hit Northern in the Huskies' 13-0 loss on Wednesday. Robertson collected six strikeouts and walked none, while Bean fanned two and walked two.

HR - Mandi Fazenbaker (Northern).

Danielle McGinnis accounted for two of Mountain Ridge's six hits, which included a home run and a double. The junior outfielder also drove in six runs.

Brenneman, who threw all five innings of the abbreviated game for Northern, yielded 10 walks and six hits.

The Northern junior varsity team also lost its game against Mountain Ridge, 17-2. The Miners scored early and often in a four-inning win over the visiting Huskies.

Chelsea Bender led Mountain Ridge with a triple, single, and three RBI, followed by Heather Shipe with two singles and three runs scored. Victoria Emerick tossed a complete game to earn the victory, finishing with eight strikeouts.

Information about the Northern players was not received.

The Huskies said goodbye to top players Kerri Harding and Emily Sisler this year, but return Kasie Fratz, Brenneman, and Fazenbaker to replace the loss.

Although the Northern team has thus far failed to produce any wins in its six-game 2008 season, it could just be early-season fumbles.

"We have a talented team if they work together and keep their heads in the game," said head coach Carol Humberson. "The goal is to improve as a team."

The Husky softball team has a predominant senior core consisting of girls who have played together for three years. Its weaknesses, however, are having a lack of cohesiveness coupled with not working together consistently, according to Humberson.

Two of Northern's most difficult opponents, Frankfort and Fort Hill, will be making stops on the Husky diamonds in the few days. Northern will host Frankfort this evening at 4 p.m., Hampshire on Monday, and Fort Hill next Thursday.

Annual Fishing Rodeo Canceled

Patricia Manown Mash of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources has announced the New Germany State Park's annual Fishing Rodeo, scheduled for June 11, has been canceled this year.

The Friends of New Germany State Park had to cancel the event because of scheduled repairs on the dam at New Germany Lake. Mash advises interested persons to "stay tuned for next year."

Huskies, Rams Slated To Rally For Fundraiser

The Northern High School baseball team will host Southern on April 21, during which time the two teams will be collecting donations to raise money to help fund programs that assist local people who have been diagnosed with cancer.

The event will commemorate Donna Carr and David K. Martin, as well as honor cancer survivors Jim Bosley and John Houser.

The game begins at 4:45 p.m., and donations will be taken at the gate. Checks should be made payable to the American Cancer Society.

The Southern High School softball team paired a win with a loss in this week's varsity action. The Rams secured a 7-5 win over Petersburg on Monday, but then dropped a 13-1 decision to Mountain Ridge on Tuesday.

Senior Alyssa Dick whacked a grand slam in the fifth inning that lifted the trailing Rams to a 7-5 victory over visiting Petersburg Monday evening at Southern High School.

Southern, which scored a run in both the second and third innings, was down by three in the third until Dick belted her homer, which happened to be her only hit of the evening.

Lyndsey Glotfelty sent a ball over the fence with a solo homer that gave the Rams their first run and a 1-0 lead, but the Vikings answered back with three runs in the third and made it 5-2 in the fourth. Dick's hit came as part of a five-run inning that put Southern back on top.

Freshman Ram Ayla Fulmer also stood out on offense with two singles.

Melodie Stolbom whirled her way through all seven innings and collected seven strike-outs for Southern.

The Vikings were led by Kayla Watts and her first-inning double.

The jayvee Rams dropped a 5-3 decision.

The Rams were backed into the corner on Tuesday when a skilled Mountain Ridge squad dug out a 13-1 win at Glendening Park.

Keri Bean of Mountain Ridge no-hit Southern in the five-inning contest. Bean put on a complete game performance and fanned four while allowing two walks. At the plate, she hit two singles.

Miranda Nicol led the Miner offense with a triple to keep up the Miners' fashion of scoring in every inning.

Mountain Ridge used six runs in the first and five in the third inning to stay ahead of the competition.

Miner Danielle McGinnis caught a Ram fly ball from her right field post and threw out a tagging baserunner at third base for a fourth-inning double play.

Sarah Brenneman reached base on the Miners' only error and scored in the first inning for Southern.

The Ram junior varsity team also lost, with a staggering 18-8 tally.

Rachel Shockey led the Miners with a home run, a triple, and three RBI, and Tina Wilt followed suit with three singles and four RBI. Heather Shipe smacked two singles, and Amber Catala recorded two singles and two RBI.

Wilt tossed the first four innings as starting pitcher for the winning team.

Recent JUCO Contests Put Garrett Squad At 13-14-1

The Garrett College baseball squad sandwiched its first tie of the season between two losses in recent games played on JUCO diamonds. The Lakers started the week with a loss to Cecil Community College in the first game of a Saturday twinbill, then managed a tie in the second contest. Tuesday's competition at Hagerstown added another loss to Garrett's 13-14-1 mark. The Lakers' Sunday home game against Chesapeake was called off.

Cecil's Jay McLaughlin no-hit the Lakers in Saturday's 8-1 opener, and Garrett's attempt to avenge the loss in the second game was sabotaged by darkness. The two teams left the field knotted at 5-5.

In the first game, McLaughlin fanned only two in his no-hitter, while walking one.

Matt Craig led Cecil's 10-hit attack with a three run home run in the Seahawks' six-run third inning. Tony Muse contributed a solo homer in the fourth to score the final run of the contest.

Garrett recorded an unearned run in the sixth when sophomore Chris Palmer got on base with an error. He eventually scored when freshman Ricky Cordido hit a sacrifice fly ball.

In game two, the Lakers trailed 5-2 through four innings, and scored three times in the fifth to tie it. Neither team scored again in the seven-inning contest, which was suspended when the sun set.

The Lakers out-hit the Seahawks 11-7. David Angle stroked a double and two singles and had an RBI for Garrett, while Kris Torrance provided a double and a single.

Travis Lee drove in two runs with a homer for Cecil.

An eighth inning single sent Hagerstown Community College over the Lakers in a single game played on Tuesday as the homestanding Hawks collected a 3-2 edge.

Kyle Chronister singled and hit a sacrifice fly to knock in two runs for Hagerstown, which had 10 hits.

Hagerstown scored first with an unearned run in the first inning, and went scoreless until Chronister knocked in his runs in the third to make it 3-0.

Garrett went five innings before scoring when K.J. Ventry hit two singles and Justin Quinn slapped an RBI double to give the Lakers their first run in the sixth.

Garrett added another run in the eighth to bring the tally within 3-2, and had runners on first and second in the ninth when Hagerstown reliever Jason Sutherland forced a pop out on Ventry.

Greg Beachy worked through six innings on the mound for Garrett before reliever Brandon Piper stepped in. Spencer Cromer started for the Hawks and earned the win in his eight innings of pitching.

Garrett hosts Allegany in a twinbill today. The Lakers' field will be busy with doubleheaders against Frederick CC, Prince George's CC, Hagerstown, Potomac State, Anne Arundel, and Montgomery Germantown in doubleheaders every day from Friday until Wednesday.

Stoner Promoted To High A For Port St. Lucie Mets

Tobi Stoner, former Southern High School and Garrett College standout, is preparing to start his season this week for the Minor League Port St. Lucie Mets after being promoted to High A.

Stoner, son of Neal and Linda Stoner of Mountain Lake Park, was set back a few weeks from a strained tendon in his pitching arm, but has undergone rehabilitation and will be back in the pitching order as soon as Saturday.

Stoner was the 16th draft pick for the New York Mets in 2006. After playing for Garrett College, he played from where he was drafted at Davis & Elkins College. Stoner started for the Brooklyn Cyclones in New York for the 2006 short season, and then did two months for the Savannah Sand Gnats, Low A, in Georgia in 2007 before being promoted to High A for the Port St. Lucie Mets.

As Florida State League Pitcher of the Week for the week of Aug. 27, 2007, Stoner currently carries a 4.37 ERA. He has thrown 140 innings while giving up 149 hits, has allowed 89 runs with 68 of them earned, has collected 107 strike-outs, and has walked 42.

According to Neal Stoner, Tobi is ready to get his season started and feels confident about the upcoming season.

"Although Tobi will be the first to say there is still a lot of work to be done, he is very satisfied with where he is at this point," Stoner said.

Southern Girls Place Fourth At Preston Event; SHS Boys Seventh

Led by Samantha Taylor, who won the 100 high hurdles in 17.31 seconds, and Paula Renteria, who placed first in the high jump with a leap of 4 feet, 10 inches, the Southern High girls' track and field team placed fourth among eight teams in a meet hosted Tuesday by Preston High School in Kingwood, W.Va.

The Southern girls finished with 74 points, while the SHS boys squad earned 22 points and placed seventh as a team.

Health officer Glotfelty noted that WIC offices in some areas of the state are isolated from other programs and agencies. He said having WIC located within the Health Department provides participants handy access to other helpful programs, including dental, smoking cessation, substance abuse counseling, and family planning. Glotfelty called it "one-stop shopping."

"We are very lucky to have a very integrated program here," Bass said.

The Health Department offers WIC participants two clinic sites, Oakland and Grantsville, to visit. For more information about WIC, persons may call the Health Department at 301-334-7710 or 301-895-3311 (Grantsville area).

FINANCING NUCLEAR POWER

Q. Nuclear power is back in the news, with some articles saying it's the best way to obtain power in the future. But they haven't built a nuclear plant in 30 years. What has changed? Why the new interest in nukes?

A. What's changed, more than anything else, is the financial situation regarding nuclear power. It's surprising to realize how crucial economic factors can be.

It is certainly true that nuclear power was out of favor in the public eye for several decades, during which it became virtually impossible for a reactor to obtain all the permits required to actually start up operations. As a result, no bank would lend money for construction to the nuclear industry, and no new plants were built.

However, people all across America have been gradually changing their minds in recent years. A new law passed by Congress in 2005 has leveled the playing field and made nuclear plants possible once more. For the first time since the 1970s, utilities can borrow the money to build nuclear reactors once again. And without borrowing the construction funds, big projects like this simply don't get done.

There really hasn't been anything wrong with nuclear power plants all along. Nukes run with over 90% "uptime," they don't make noise or belch smoke, and we know how to take care of every technical issue (such as how to store the waste). A lot of negative myths about nuclear power have come and gone, and all the while the plants just keep on generating electricity.

One thing a nuke does not produce is carbon dioxide (CO_2), and many people have begun to notice that. A couple years ago, James Lovelock, a founder of "Greenpeace," stunned all his colleagues by coming out in favor of nuclear power. Although many voices have called for more solar or wind power nationwide, finally enough people have run the numbers and realized that only coal or nuclear power can supply the electricity the country needs. Renewables are nice, but numerically are simply not enough. They will never provide a large fraction of America's power.

Meanwhile, the American "fleet" of 104 nuclear reactors, all carbon-free, avoid the need to burn coal that would produce 680,000,000 metric tons of CO_2 per year. How much is that? Well, all the cars in America produce 709,000,000 metric tons of CO_2, so the savings attributable to nuclear reactors is equivalent to 96% of what automobiles produce. That's a number that really gets people's attention.

Recent public opinion polls in communities near a reactor are showing numbers like 80% of respondents favoring nuclear power. Among people who think carefully about the trade-offs that must be made to generate electricity, nuclear wins every time.

The new law of 2005 introduced loan guarantees by the federal government for builders of new nuclear power plants. That's not a federal giveaway; remember, a loan guarantee doesn't cost the taxpayers a penny if the project is successful. But it gives assurance to banks who lend money that they will get their money back eventually – and that assurance has been missing from the nuclear business for the last three decades.

Another feature of the new law is the reform of licensing procedures. It used to be the case that a utility would need one license to build a power plant and a second license to operate that plant. Opponents might block the second license application (this actually happened at Shoreham, Long Island) and thus leave the utility with a sunk cost of billions of dollars. The new law provides "one-stop shopping" for obtaining a license. This way, the utility can have all the permits in place before asking the bank for a multi-billion dollar construction loan.

By now, there are 30 new applications being prepared for nuclear power plant licenses. Having learned from their predecessors, these new plants will be substantial improvements upon the existing types of nuclear reactors. The industry expects to see four to six plants actually built by 2016. After that, another 20 plants will be right behind. Typically, about 1,000 megawatts each, that seems like a lot of power, but it will all be needed in the decades ahead.

Meanwhile, in the R&D stage are a next generation of nuclear reactors that will have even higher efficiency and other features. Reprocessing of nuclear fuel rods is not economically cost-effective in America today, but it will be eventually. Already other nations (Japan, France, Russia) have begun recycling fuel.

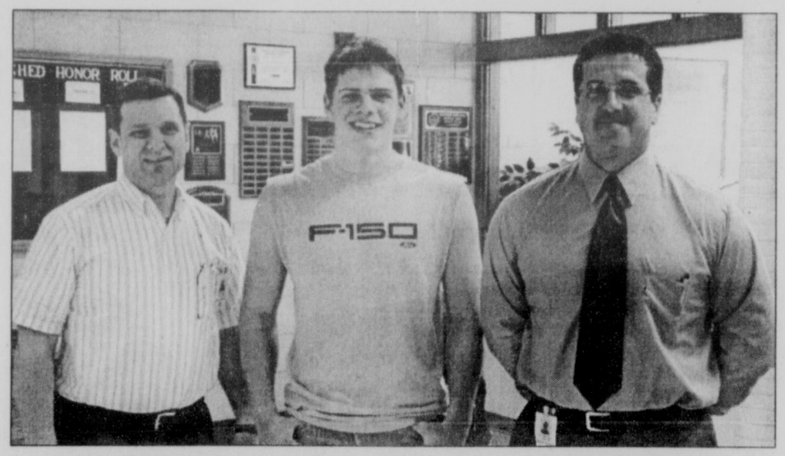
What To Do About A Stye

A stye is a painful red bump that appears on the eyelid. This bump is typically filled with pus and will eventually rupture. The rupture and release of pus usually lead to alleviation of associated pain. A stye is often caused by a type of bacteria called staphylococcus. Signs and symptoms include eyelid swelling, sensitivity to light, and tearing. Typically a stye will not affect vision. However, as the stye swells it may affect the ability to see clearly. It is possible for more than one stye to develop at the same time. Blepharitis, or inflammation of the eyelid, may occur as a result of multiple sties occurring at the same time.

Although a stye usually will disappear on its own in a few days, medications are available to treat this condition. A topical antibiotic, such as sulfacetamide, may be prescribed to treat the bacterial infection. In addition, a warm compress may be applied to the affected area for 10 minutes at a time, four times a day. This may help to alleviate the associated pain, as well as to cause the stye to rupture and drain sooner. Although a stye is not very contagious, good hand-washing techniques and avoiding touching the affected area are recommended. Children should be encouraged to follow these recommendations, as this age group may be more likely to develop a stye.



RAM STUDENT OF THE MONTH NAMED – The March Perkins Random Acts of Maturity (RAM) Student of the Month for Southern Garrett High School is senior Steve Bennett. Bennett lives in Oakland with his father and mother, Steven and Tammie Bennett. He was nominated by both teacher Wendy Shoemaker and media specialist John Coffman for this award. Bennett works with a group of young men in the alternative learning outcomes program. Steve is described as one to speak up for his work crew if they are dealing with certain situations, and he helps to problem solve issues. "He is a true friend to these guys. He is the first to ask his friends how their weekend went, and he shows true interest in each of the student's lives," said Shoemaker. "Steve Bennett is a young man who possesses personal characteristics that make the staff at Southern High School proud. He has made such a huge impact on my group of students that I am confident he will continue to make us proud as he enters life after Southern High School." From left are assistant principal Ed Wildesen, Bennett, and RAM coordinator Robert Bonser.

Oakland Man Is Charged With 2nd Degree Assault

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to the Bloomington Apartments on Maryland Highway for a reported disturbance which led to the arrest of an Oakland man this morning.

Investigation into the incident revealed Charles Burton, 21, as the cause for the call. Burton was charged with two counts of second degree assault, with additional charges pending regarding two others involved. They were both transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries sustained during the incident.

Tri-Towns and Bloomington EMS personnel also responded to the early morning incident.

Felony Warrants Revealed During Tues. Traffic Stop

A New Jersey man was arrested without incident on Tuesday when Maryland State Police officers discovered he had three felony arrest warrants out in his name and was driving on a suspended driver's license.

Joseph Michael Chirico III, 20, Park Ridge, was traveling eastbound on I-68 west of Old Frostburg Road around 3 p.m. in a black 2001 Honda Civic when Tfc. LeMay clocked this vehicle traveling at 102 miles per hour.

A traffic stop was initiated, and a driver's license check revealed that Chirico's New Jersey license was suspended. In addition, he had three felony arrest warrants from Bergen County, N.J.

Chirico was charged with a speeding violation, possession of a suspended driver's license, and driving on a suspended out-of-state license. As of Wednesday, he was being held in the Garrett County Detention facility awaiting extradition back to New Jersey.

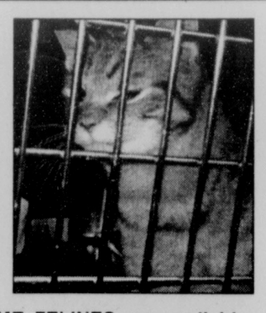
Adorable Adoptables



A TRIO OF HANDSOME FELINES are available for adoption this week at the Garrett County Animal Shelter: a lovable grey/light orange tortoise shell that was given up by her owner, a male orange tabby that was picked up in McHenry, and a gray male that was found in Crellin. A chocolate Lab mix is also at the shelter. He was picked up along Rt. 560 without a collar or identification. "The recently featured large black Lab/hound mix and chow/shepherd mix were never reclaimed or adopted, so HART for Animals has taken them to rescues out of town, where they will be adopted into nice homes," said a Humane Society spokesperson. "Kitten season is approaching. Please have your cats spayed or neutered to prevent hundreds of homeless kittens from being brought into the shelter, as occurred this past summer." For information about adopting these or other pets housed at the animal shelter, persons may call 301-334-3553, or visit the facility, located along Oakland Sang Run Road.

Decorating Dilemma?
Sheila offers helpful advice.

Dear Sheila:

I always go on vacation to a warm climate. I love the colors that I see there. I was in Miami and visited the Art Deco area for the first time. I LOVED the feel of the area. How can I achieve that in my home here?

Trying to convert

Dear Trying,

I know what you are saying. The colors all seem more vibrant in the South. Because of the climate here we tend to use deeper, more sedate colors. Start with a plan for one room. Have a budget. Come see us, because we have all the fabrics and window coverings and ideas to help you achieve the LOOK! Good changing!

St. Ann Catholic Church Continues Process Of Fundraising, Rebuilding

by Brenda Ruggiero

Just over a year after it was severely damaged by a fire, progress is being made toward the rebuilding of the St. Ann Catholic Church in Grantsville at the intersection of U.S. Route 40 and New Germany Road.

The fire occurred on Dec. 23, 2006, and reportedly began in the former rectory of the church. The entire rectory and office were destroyed, and the rest of the church was heavily damaged by smoke.

However, the congregation did not have to miss out on Christmas services, which were held at Grantsville Elementary School.

Since then, the group has been meeting at the Newman Funeral Home in Grantsville.

"When the Newmans heard of the fire, they offered their facilities to us as a temporary home for as long as we needed," said Steve Adams, church pastoral council chairman. "We are all very grateful to them, as they gave us the means to stay together as a faith community during this trying time."

The decision to rebuild rather than repair the building was based on several factors, according to Adams.

"The smoke damage in the church was very extensive, and we felt that it might never be returned to normal," he said. "There were other deficiencies with the church that we had been trying to rectify for years. This included a poorly insulated roof that leaked on occasion and needed repairs several times. We also wanted to make the church handicapped accessible.

"The church was also quite dark inside because of a lack of windows. We also felt that the church was growing and that we needed additional space both in the church and in fellowship space.

"When we took all these things into account as well as cumulating the views of our parishioners on a parish survey, we felt that the best course was to build a new building."

Progress is currently being made toward a new building. The old building was recently removed, and fundraising efforts are in place.

"Our building budget is $1.6 million, which includes money from the insurance settlement as well as money we hope to raise through an assortment of fundraisers."

Plans are for the church to be completed within a year. Preliminary design was done by DCMM Architects, Gaithersburg, and Eads of Cumberland is currently working on the project. Daystar Builders of Grantsville was selected as the builder.

According to Adams, the new building will face north, and will be made of wood and brick. Windows along the side and behind the altar will offer views of the scenery. A gathering area will be included at the church entrance, and the basement will feature a social hall and a walk-out into a courtyard.

Adams noted that interior design is just beginning, and the group is working with Gardiner Hall International of Chevy Chase to complete the design.

Adams noted that the new building will seat approximately 225, which is an increase of about 20 percent. Currently, about 100 families attend services at the funeral home.

St. Ann's pastor is Rev. Jim Hannon, who serves as the pastor for the seven churches of western Allegany and northern Garrett counties. Besides St. Ann, the churches involved are St. Patrick in Mount Savage, St. Michael in Frostburg, St. Joseph in Midland, St. Mary in Lonaconing, St. Gabriel in Barton, and St. Peter in Westernport.

Rev. Hannon is assisted by Rev. Ty Hullinger (who also is the chair of St. Ann's building committee), Rev. Patrick Besel, and Deacon Fred Passauer.

The first fundraiser for the church building is a Cash Bash, which has been planned for Saturday, July 19, at the Avilton Community Center in Avilton. Donations are currently being sought for cash or prizes.

The group is also putting together a cookbook containing recipes submitted by parishioners and friends of St. Ann. They are also working on organizing a fundraiser for Grantsville Days, as well.

"In its present location, St. Ann is a result of combining the faith communities of St. Ann, Avilton, and St. Stephen, Grantsville, in 1977," Adams explained. "As a fundraiser, we are trying to locate vintage photos of those early churches that we could reproduce, mat, frame, and sell. Any help in locating photos of these two churches would be greatly appreciated."

For more information or to make a donation, persons may contact Adams at 301-687-0233.

A BRAND NEW BUILDING is on the way for St. Ann Catholic Church in Grantsville. The original building was badly damaged in a fire on Dec. 23, 2006, and fundraising is currently under way to help fund the new structure, a rendering of which is pictured above, completed by DCMM Architects of Gaithersburg. The rebuild is a $1.6 million project. As the burned building is removed by Nathan Walker Excavating and the new one is constructed, about 100 families from the church currently meet for services at Newman Funeral Home in Grantsville. 2008 Legislative Session Produces Mixed Bag For Environmentalists

by Kate E. Queram
Capital News Service

The 2008 Maryland legislative session kicked off with optimistic rallies and press conferences to support a slew of bills designed to help the state's environment, including addressing climate change and allocating money to clean up the Chesapeake Bay, among other things.

Though some of the bills passed, the session ended up being a mixed bag for environmentalists, who saw the climate change legislation die in committee on the last day and the language of other bills weakened in the face of tough economic times and concerns from businesses and citizens alike.

The Global Warming Solutions Act would have taken one of the nation's most aggressive stances on climate change, requiring Maryland to cut 2006 levels of carbon emissions by 25 percent by 2020. But lobbyists and industrial workers argued that high-emission steel mills and power plants would be targeted for closure as a result – concerns that activists failed to assuage in the final hours of the session.

"It just ticks me off," said Brad Heavner, state director of Environment Maryland. "The global warming bill was a very reasonable thing. It was made into a lot of stuff that it wasn't. The bottom line is that the lobbyists pounced on that bill like an infestation of rats."

In spite of such setbacks, activists said this session might be the best on record for the environment. Previously, 2007's session was heralded as the "year of the environment," because of the passage of the Clean Cars Act, Program Open Space, and stormwater management legislation.

But more bills succeeded this year than in 2007, including a measure requiring certain public school and state-funded buildings to be constructed using environmentally friendly practices, one that increases critical area buffer zones, and a piece of legislation that allocates a $25 million Chesapeake Bay Trust Fund.

Though supporters lauded the passage of the bills, the majority of the legislation changed shape during the session as a result of amendments and cuts to the budget.

The bay trust fund, for example, was established during November's special session as a $50 million annual payout to help reduce non-point source pollution in the bay – that is, the type of runoff that can't be traced to one source, like a drain or power plant.

But mid-session, the state's projected revenue dropped by $333 million and the budget suffered severe cuts, including halving the annual trust fund for its first two years.

Still, political analysts said that passing any environmental legislation in times of financial strife is an accomplishment.

"I think it was a good session for the environment, considering the fact that the revenue projections were about $333 million too high, and especially considering the fact that we're in a period of financial stringency where environmental issues don't typically flourish," said Matthew Crenson, professor emeritus of political science at Johns Hopkins University.

Environmental activists agreed, saying that legislation always changes throughout the course of the session and such shifts should not be interpreted as hits against the environment.

"I think it's pretty normal in a legislative session to start off with a bill you think is perfect and, you know, the art of compromise is coming out with a strong bill," said Cindy Schwartz, executive director of the Maryland League of Conservation Voters. "If the bills were not strong we would not be supporting them."

A spokesman for Gov. Martin O'Malley concurred.

"What's important to remember is, whatever dollars are allocated to the Chesapeake Bay Trust Fund are dollars that were not there last year," said Rick Abbruzzese. "We're making progress."

Other bills underwent cuts that fell outside the reach of budgetary concerns, including a measure that increased the amount of undeveloped space necessary between construction projects and Chesapeake Bay waters. The bill had little or no fiscal impact and instead changed after debate between legislators, activists and citizens.

"On one hand, it's the first update of the critical areas law in 25 years," said Delegate Tom Hucker, D-Montgomery, who expressed frustration about the tendency for lawmakers to want to please everyone before going forward with legislation. "But the culture on things like the global warming bill and the critical areas bill is that everybody has to be at the table or we can't pass the bill," he said.

The critical areas bill originally tripled the current 100-foot buffer, which is designed to drain pollution runoff from construction sites before it hits the water, but sponsors and supporters eventually settled for a 200-foot buffer after protests from area homeowners.

"We believe in things like property rights on the Eastern Shore," said Sen. Richard F. Colburn, R-Dorchester, who opposed the bill in its original form. "We believe that they're guaranteed in the U.S. Constitution, so when you increase the buffer zone from 100 to 300 feet, you're taking people's lands away."

Despite the changes made to their bills, the environmental community maintained that for them, the session could be the most successful in Maryland's history. This is partly attributed to O'Malley's reputation as a green politician.

"He's proving himself to be an environmental activist," said Crenson. "What he's doing in the process is sort of shifting attention from budget and expenditure reductions, which are never popular, to environmental issues, which are more popular. And I think he was successful in doing so."

Recruitment, Training Slated For Dove Center

The Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic violence and sexual assault resource center, will hold a volunteer recruitment and training session from May 5 through 9 from 6 until 9 p.m. at Garrett College.

"We have received so much positive interest in our agency from the community," said executive director Heather Hanline. "We feel it is time to put the talent and expertise of these interested prospective volunteers to work.

"Our current volunteer base consists of eight individuals. We are hoping to triple this number through this recruitment," Hanline said.

The agency serves an average of 350 to 400 clients per year and offers services 24 hours a day, generating the need for volunteers.

The training objectives include increasing participants' awareness and understanding in the following areas: domestic violence and sexual assault as widespread social problems, the dynamics of domestic violence and sexual assault, and the ability to feel empathy toward victims and relate to the victims in a supportive way.

The training session will also include discussion of options for improving the safety of victims, available legal and medical options for victims, and community resources available to victims.

Persons interested in working at the shelter facility, answering hotline calls, providing specialized instruction to victims, assisting with the Court Watch Program, or any other type of volunteer opportunities are encouraged to attend.

The training is free of charge, but pre-registration by April 25 is required. Registration brochures may be picked up at the Dove Center office or from Curves. Individuals may also register over the phone by calling 301-334-6255 Monday through Friday between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Persons interested in Dove Center services may contact the 24-hour helpline at 301-334-9000.

BPW PREPARING FOR BENEFIT FASHION SHOW – Studio 24E's Greg Elliott, right, shows Business and Professional Women's Club members Joanne Harsh and Suzanne Nicolas some new fashions for the group's upcoming Spring Fashion Show on Saturday, April 19. The event will be held at Curves in Oakland beginning at 2 p.m. and will feature clothing from Studio 24E, Bear Creek Traders, Cato, Wardrobes by Design, and others. There will be light refreshments, a silent auction, and door prizes available at the show. Tickets are $15 and may be purchased in Oakland at Studio 24E and Curves and in McHenry at Bear Creek Traders. All proceeds will benefit the Dove Center.

A MAJOR PLEDGE to the Dove Center's Capital Campaign was made this past week by the Garrett Cooperative Ministry Inc., a non-profit, all-volunteer organization that operates the Christian Crossing Thrift Shop in Loch Lynn. The organization pledged $10,000 to the campaign, the purpose of which is to purchase or construct a new domestic abuse shelter for Garrett County. Pictured from left are: Dorothy Tuel, Dove Center Capital Campaign representative; Marcene Huebner, operations manager of Christian Crossing; Betty Preston, Garrett Cooperative Ministry board member; and Paul Shogren, president of Garrett Cooperative Ministry Inc. GCM Inc. has provided over $235,000 in monetary assistance to persons in need since its founding in 1998, and also donates or provides at low cost literally tons of pre-owned clothing, furniture, appliances, housewares, toys, books, and other items to families in need, both locally and abroad. The organization is planning a 10th anniversary celebration for Aug. 2, the details of which will be announced later. Other individuals, businesses, and organizations that wish to make a pledge/donation to the Dove Center Capital Campaign are invited to telephone campaign chair Edna Forsythe at 301-387-9193 for more information.

Volunteers Sought To Help Plan "Flag On Mountain Md."

The fourth annual "Flag on Mountain Maryland" ceremony is scheduled for Saturday evening, June 14, at Wisp Resort. Details of the event are still being finalized, and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce is seeking volunteers to help plan activities.

A planning meeting will be held at the chamber office, McHenry, on Friday, April 18, beginning at 3:30 p.m. Members of local organizations and individuals are asked to attend to assist in the flag celebration.

"This is a chance to take part in a very meaningful community celebration and pay tribute to the flag and our country," said Karen Reckner, director of business services and training, who is coordinating the event for the chamber. "Area youth groups and individuals are encouraged to take part and show their patriotism."

Any group can volunteer to help form a "living American flag" on the side of Marsh Hill during the ceremony. Support is also being sought to enhance the youth activities.

"Sponsorships of any size will be appreciated," said Reckner. "We want to instill patriotism in the minds of children. Please contact me if you are interested in any sponsorship opportunities. All sponsors will be recognized in the program and with media coverage of the event."

Flag Day is an annual observance in the United States to celebrate the national flag. June 14 is the anniversary of the official adoption of the American flag by the Continental Congress in 1777.

The local celebration of the American flag, the country, and the men and women who served and are serving under that flag will include patriotic music, a parade of state flags, a keynote speech, and a flag retirement ceremony. A flyover is planned for 6 p.m., with the program slated for 6:30 p.m.

"This is a great opportunity to showcase Garrett County and let the world know how much our citizens care about their country and their flag," said Chamber president Charlie Ross. "We look forward to showing our love of flag and country and hope many in our community will become involved in the Flag on Mountain Maryland celebration."

Anyone interested in becoming involved is asked to contact Karen Reckner at 301-387-4386, ext. 12, or karen@garrettchamber.com.

International Club To Host Women's Panel Discussion

"Focus on International Women: Aspirations and Conditions," a panel presentation on international women's experience of life in their home countries and here in the United States, will be presented in the Garrett College auditorium on Thursday, April 17, at 7 p.m. The free event is open to the public and is co-sponsored by the World View International Club (WVIC) of Garrett College and the American Association of University Women (AAUW).

The discussion will focus on the roles of women, family, and personal relationships, education, career, challenges, and dreams. Seven countries will be represented: Ecuador, Ethiopia, Lithuania, Papua New Guinea, Turkmenistan, South Africa, and the United States. Marilyn Moors, president of AAUW and a retired anthropologist and professor of women's studies, will facilitate the panel conversation.

A cake-and-coffee reception will follow for those interested in meeting the women panelists and other members of the WVIC, which consists of male and female foreign and American students.

"This is a chance to learn about the lives of women in other countries," said Judy Carbone, coordinator of global education at Garrett College. "We will be exploring some of the issues these amazing young women face and the opportunities available to them in their home countries. We will also examine their perceptions about women in other countries, including the United States, and if this has changed while studying here at Garrett College."

While the event is free to the public, donations will be requested to help cover the cost of the reception and to help support the activities of the World View International Club. The club will also be selling 50/50 raffle tickets, the winner of which will be drawn on April 19 at Garrett College's annual international dinner.

For additional information, persons may contact Carbone at 301-387-3046 or via e-mail at: judy.carbone@garrettcollege.edu.

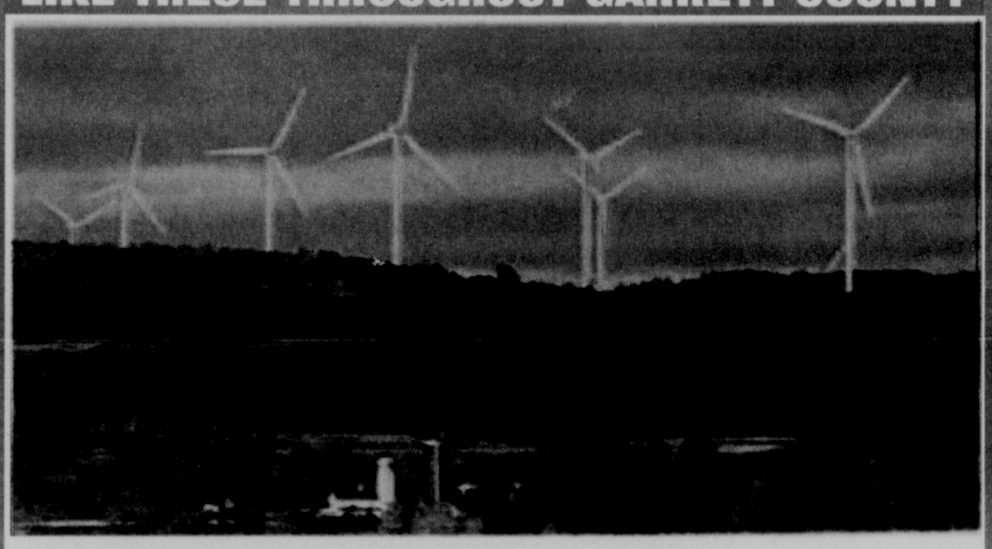
LIMITED LIABILITY COMPANIES WANT TO PUT UP TO 500 INDUSTRIAL WIND TURBINES LIKE THESE THROUGHOUT GARRETT COUNTY



A recent state law permits wind development companies to exploit Western Maryland without meaningful review or oversight by the Department of Natural Resources or the Public Service Commission. Massive wind facilities, with 430-foot tall machines,

- diminish hunting grounds
- create unlawful noise, and other nuisances
- reduce property values and devalue nearby properties
- destroy natural heritage views
- kill vulnerable wildlife species
- generate expensive but insignificant power and won't reduce greenhouse gases
- provide few local jobs and little revenues
- jeopardize tourism and recreation revenues

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners has stated it can do nothing about this issue to protect the heritage, environment, health, or safety of Garrett County citizens.

The law allows us to protect ourselves from this kind of destructive development. Garrett County government can prohibit industrial wind development without comprehensive countywide zoning. But time is very short. On April 16, the County Planning Commission will consider recommending this action for the approval of the county commissioners. Please plan to attend this important meeting at 1:30 PM at the Commissioners' Hearing Room in the Garrett County Courthouse.

If you own county property, consider joining over 250 others who already support our petition. Send your names and local addresses to savegc@stopillwind.org. Please consider a contribution to a legal fund to stop this development by sending a check to:

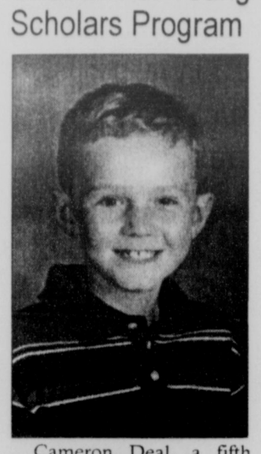
Local Fifth Grader Chosen For Young Scholars Program



Cameron Deal, a fifth grade student at Accident Elementary School, has been selected to participate in the National Young Scholars Program (NYSP) at the National 4-H Youth Conference Center in Chevy Chase this summer, July 19-24. He is the son of David Deal, Accident, and Donna Wiley, Baltimore.

Cameron was nominated by his teacher, Tracie Miller, in honor of his "maturity, academic excellence, and outstanding leadership potential."

The NYSP provides activities, projects, and events to challenge and motivate young scholars "to lead, to achieve, and to excel." Nominees may choose one of four "discovery strands" – forensics, weather, architecture, or medicine – to explore during the program.

Cameron has chosen "Crime Scene Investigation: The Amazing Science of Detection." He will learn about forensic science by attempting to crack a theft case through handwriting and tool mark analysis, deductive reasoning, and case development. As the case progresses, Cameron will analyze DNA samples, test glass density, and examine microscopic pieces of evidence.

The fifth grader will take this component concurrently with the program's "leadership strand," which is designed to help develop skills in five key areas: communication, teamwork, problem solving, character development, and self-awareness.

Through participation in leadership group activities, Cameron will brainstorm with his peers to think through real-life problems and find solutions to help him gain insight into how to set smart, specific, and attainable goals.

Upon successful completion of the National Young Scholars Program, Cameron will receive a certificate of achievement.

Persons who would like to help sponsor his participation in the program may call Diana Deal at 301-746-7222.

The NYSP was created to identify young students with a history of academic achievement and leadership potential.

JRL Property Damaged; Corps Asking For Info

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers at Jennings Randolph Lake is seeking the public's assistance in identifying persons who destroyed property at the Howell Run Boat Launch last week.

The area was intentionally damaged by unknown individuals who drove a vehicle through the launch's grassy areas, tearing up the turf, according to a spokesperson.

The crime, which resulted in approximately $500 in damages, occurred sometime between the evening of Wednesday, April 2, and the morning of Thursday, April 3. The facility had just been opened to the public for the 2008 recreation season.

"Each year, millions of dollars in property are lost due to vandalism, larceny, arson, and environmental and cultural degradation," the spokesperson said. "As stewards of the public lands, the Army Corps of Engineers is responsible for managing public lands in the most beneficial manner possible, and to provide safe access and facilities for public use. Current funding levels to operate and maintain our facilities are limited. The increased cost of repairing damaged facilities can potentially result in reduced services, including partial or total closure of recreation areas."

The corps is asking for the public's assistance in reporting any information concerning theft, vandalism, or any other threats or suspicious activity on corps property. Callers may remain anonymous.

To report information, persons should call corps park rangers at 301-359-3861 or 304-355-2346 Monday through Friday between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

James Tong To Be Speaker At MLGC Meeting

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club will meet Tuesday, April 15, at the Pleasant Valley Community Center, located at 975 Joni Miller Road, Oakland. The meeting will begin at 10:30 a.m.

After the business meeting, James Tong, guest speaker, will present a program titled "Simple Flower Arrangement." The public is invited.

Tong has been the owner of Jan Florist in downtown Oakland since mid-2007, turning what has always been a favorite hobby into his own business, a club spokesperson said. His other hobbies include interior decorating, traveling, cooking, and music. He currently sings with the choir of St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland, and is a member of the Garrett Choral Society.

Tong has owned a business in the Los Angeles suburbs for 20 years, specializing in parent/child playmovement, music, and art classes. For 19 of those years, he taught the classes, earning the honor of "Teacher of the Year" twice.

Born in Decatur, Ill., his family moved to the West Coast when he was in high school. A music major in college, he went on to become choir director of three churches in southern California, where he developed a concert series featuring sacred music for the congregations where he conducted.

He is also a past winner of the Golden Arrow Award of the Pasadena Beautiful Foundation, which is given for excellence in the beautification of the city of Pasadena, Calif., home of the Tournament of Roses. Recipients of this award are judged in secret and are honored for their distinctive homes and gardens in a city hall ceremony, the spokesperson said.

Garden Club members will be contacted for lunch reservations. Non-members interested in attending the meeting, making a lunch reservation, or receiving further information about the Mountain Laurel Garden Club may contact Ginni Neff at 301-387-7387 or Helga Williamson at 301-387-8069.

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club is a member of the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Inc., the Central Atlantic, and the National Garden Clubs Inc. Affiliated clubs provide education, resources, and national networking opportunities for members as well as promote gardening, floral design, and civic and environmental responsibility.

THE Garden Patch by Master Gardener Suzanne Carol

WHEN GOOD SEEDS GO BAD

Starting seeds indoors is a great way to get a jump of 4 to 8 weeks on the growing season. No matter how experienced a gardener you are, it is always a thrill to see the first little plants pop up.

It's not much of a thrill to see those same little plants keel over and die. So, today, we will talk about some of the basic reasons your seedlings don't make it or are not healthy and how to correct the problem.

If your seedlings wilt and die and you see little insects around the soil:

This condition is usually caused by fungus gnat larvae that feed on the roots of the seedlings. Adult fungus gnats are those nasty little flying critters that hover around the potting soil. These bugs are attracted to moist potting soils that have a high organic content. You can correct this situation by using a well draining potting soil. Cut back on water, allowing the soil to dry out between waterings. This will discourage the adult female. You can put a potato slice on top of the soil to attract the gnat larvae. Once they get on the slice to feed, throw it out.

If you discover decay or rotting of the seedling stems near the surface of the soil:

This condition is called damping-off and is caused by organisms attacking your germinating seeds and seedlings. Correct this situation by using a sterile soil mix especially tailored for seed starting. When you plant your seeds make certain the soil is flush with the edge of the pot you are using. This allows air to flow across the soil.

If your seedlings are spindly or leggy:

This can be caused by low light, using too much water, over fertilizing, temperatures that are too warm, and overcrowding. You can correct this situation by increasing the light. Seedlings need a lot of bright light. You can use a grow light. The light should be 4 inches above the seedling tray and moved up as the seedlings grow.

The air temperature should be 70 to 75 degrees during the day and 60 to 65 degrees at night.

Keep the soil moist, but not soggy. Use a mister.

Don't fertilize the seedlings until they have produced their first set of leaves. Feed them once a week with liquid fertilizer diluted by 50%.

Keep your seedlings thinned out according to the directions on the seed packet. This is done to prevent overcrowding.

If your seedlings are too small (dwarfed):

This condition occurs when there is too little nutrient in the soil. Use a liquid fertilizer diluted to 50% once a week. Use a soil mixture especially designed for seed starting. Don't use the fertilizer until the seedlings have produce their first set of leaves.

Just a little bit of extra TLC on your part will have those seedlings strong and healthy and beautiful and ready to go into the garden when the weather warms up.

Suzanne Carol graduated from the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service Master Gardener Program in 2003. She was instrumental in forming the Appalachian Master Gardeners Reaching Out (AMGRO) Master Gardener Association. She developed and maintained the AMGRO web site. She is an avid gardener and holds a master's degree in psychology/human sciences from Hood College in Frederick. Magnesium and the Risk of Stroke

Magnesium is found in bones, body tissues, organs, and our blood. This important mineral is essential for many body processes such as maintaining muscle, nerve, and immune system functions, bone strength, proper heart rhythm, regulating blood sugar and blood pressure, metabolizing glucose for energy, and building proteins. Magnesium consumption has been associated with lower blood pressure in some studies, but not in others.

Since high blood pressure and smoking are risk factors for the development of stroke, magnesium consumption was recently evaluated for its effect on lowering the risk of stroke among men from Finland who smoke. Over an average of 13 years, the men who consumed more magnesium had a significantly lower risk of developing a stroke compared to men who consumed less. Consumption was based on dietary intake from food sources. It is unclear if magnesium intake from dietary supplements lowers the risk of stroke. Future studies are needed to address this issue. Magnesium can be found in foods such as green vegetables, beans, peas, nuts, seeds, and whole grains.

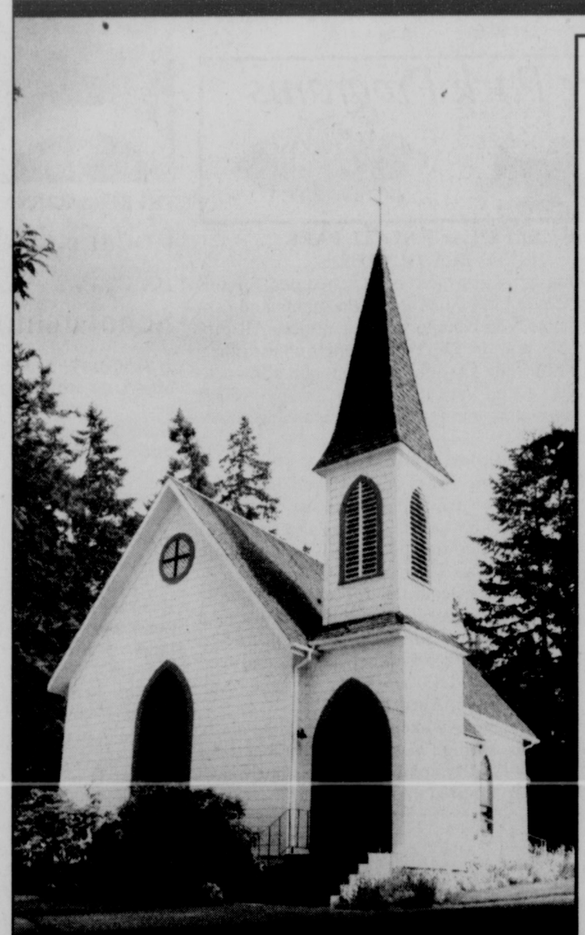
The Simple Truth



Today's world is confusing; our moral standards are more elastic than a rubber band. Concepts of right and wrong are stretched in convenient directions until they snap and we are lost to the insensitivity of indifference. How can we survive confusing trends and conflicting philosophies as our culture spins us in a glamorized circle of revolving door values? What is the simple truth for today?

The simple truth for today is God's truth! His Word is unchanging and can guide us through today and a maze of tomorrows. At our house of worship we can study God's Word and learn how to apply it to our lives. "Continue in what you have learned...the holy Scriptures which are able to make you wise" (2 Timothy 3:14-15). Remember the simple truth!

The Middle Way

All of the world's great religions have had to deal, at some point in their history, with the issue of asceticism and the proper modes of diet, dress, and worship. Early on in their history, most religions opted for strict adherence to the rules of governing diet, dress, and worship. Witness the strict rules laid out in Leviticus and Deuteronomy governing every aspect of life. Later on, prophets like Isaiah, Jeremiah, and Hosea pointed out that God did not want strict adherence to the specific rules governing sacrifices so much as He desired a proper and loving heart. In the early years of Christianity there was a similar debate over whether Christians should be bound by the well-established Jewish laws governing diet and worship. It appears that Peter initially argued for strict adherence, while Paul thought that the Jewish laws should not govern Gentile Christians. Ultimately, these laws were loosened for all Christians. Likewise, when the Buddha began his spiritual journey, he fasted abstemiously and wore only rags. Somewhat later in his ministry, the Buddha proposed the middle way between severe fasting with strict adherence to the rules of life and leniency concerning these things. The "Middle Way" advised that you should eat whatever is set before you, and at one's discretion, you may wear either rags or a religious robe. What is actually more important is not so much following the letter of the law, but whether the spirit of the law is written on our heart. Love and compassion, not mindless sacrifice, are what God wants of us.

For I desire mercy and not sacrifice, and the knowledge of God more than burnt offerings.
K.J.V. Hosea 6.6

TV Pipeline

Almost out of 'Order': Martin leaves 'Law'

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: Is it true that Jesse L. Martin is leaving "Law & Order"? –Erin Binford, Denver

A: It is. The actor announced in February that he'll depart the long-running NBC series after this season, having played New York police detective Ed Green for nine years. Reportedly, he'll be replaced by Anthony Anderson, who also began the current television season as a cop on the Fox show "K-Ville."

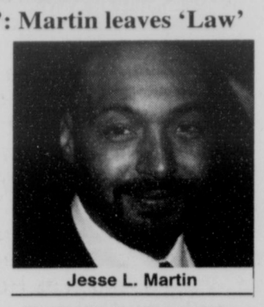
Q: What was the last series Dana Delany was on before she joined "Desperate Housewives"? –Peter Hopper, Chicago

A: The show was "Kidnapped," the serialized 2006-07 NBC drama that got compressed when low ratings prompted the network to let producers know the show's cancellation was imminent. Delany played the mother of the abducted boy (portrayed by Will Denton) at the heart of the saga.

Interestingly, Delany auditioned to be part of the original cast of "Desperate Housewives." She tested for the role of Bree, then turned it down when it was offered. (It later went, of course, to Marcia Cross.)

Q: On the CBS show "Big Brother," exactly what is "slop" made out of? The contestants all seem to hate it. Is it nutritious? They used to go on peanut butter and jelly for a week; now, this stuff. –Dorothy Trendel, Madison Heights, Mich.

A: From what we are able to determine, the charmingly named "slop" is a cross between porridge and oatmeal, with "essential nutrients." Not that anyone asked, but we'd stick with the peanut butter and jelly, thank you very much.



Jesse L. Martin

Q: What is the name of the movie about an elderly man who rode across a state on a lawn mower to see his sick brother, and what is the name of the actor who played the main part? –John Erwin, Paris, Texas

A: It was the 1999 drama "The Straight Story," directed by "Twin Peaks" mentor David Lynch. The late Richard Farnsworth, who was Oscar-nominated for the performance, had the lead role.

Q: I'm a big fan of the CW series "Gossip Girl." Are there plans to release a first-season DVD set? –Donisha Anderson, Oklahoma City

A: Nothing official had been announced at this writing, but we'd bet on such a set forthcoming, for a number of reasons. The show has been renewed by The CW for a second year, so our wager is on the DVD set arriving just before the next season begins; it's made by Warner Bros., which has been one of the most proactive studios in releasing its series on DVD, and the "Gossip Girl" books (on which the series is based) are so popular, there's already a built-in market for the discs.

Paw's corner

Potty-Mouth Dog

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: My dog "Chip" doesn't just like eating his own stools. He'll eat any stool from any animal, it seems. Whenever we're walking in the woods near my house, he will dash away to sniff at and try to eat the droppings of any animal. How do I get him to stop? — Chester P., Nashua, N.H.

DEAR CHESTER: Stool-eating (copraphagia) is a very common activity for dogs (and other animals), though not much is known as to why they engage in it. Certainly, an animal's droppings are a smorgasbord of odors for dogs, who rely on their nose as much, as if not more, than their eyes to give them all the juicy details of their furry neighbors.

Most dogs seem split into two groups — those that eat the stools of other animals, and those that eat only their own stools. Chip is one of those rare varieties that do both.

In the backyard, preventing Chip from eating his own stools is somewhat easier — pick up his droppings as soon as he leaves them. Or, spray his droppings with a product like Forbid, available at pet stores, which makes stools taste rank to dogs.

You also can be more strict about Chip's "go" times, keeping him on a leash while he eliminates and having a small training session afterward where, when he goes for the stool, you yank the leash back while saying "no." You also should do this on your forest walks, at least for a while, until Chip can be called back with a verbal command.

Some veterinarians think a nutritional deficiency may cause or exacerbate copraphagia. If Chip only eats dry food, consider replacing some of his daily intake with fresh, high-protein food. His veterinarian can recommend additional diet changes that could help curb Chip's cravings.

Depression Glass

Q. I have service for six in Madrid, including cups, saucers, berry bowls, tumblers, salad and soup bowls, pitcher, salt-and-pepper set, gravy boat and sherbets. The set was originally given to my parents as a wedding present in 1938 and is crystal in color. I have been offered $300 for the collection by a neighbor, but that sounds a little low to me. — Betty, Stone Mountain, Ga.

A. I did a little research, and according to Warman's Depression Glass: Identification and Price Guide by Ellen T. Schroy, your pattern was manufactured by the Federal Glass Company between 1932 and 1939. Pieces were made in amber, blue, crystal, green, iridescent and pink. Iridized pieces were limited to a console set consisting of a low bowl and a pair of candlesticks.

Typical prices for some of the crystal pieces you have include $150 for a 60 oz. pitcher; dinner plates, $24 each; salt-and-pepper set, $95; and gravy boat, $900. As you clearly can see, your collection is worth much more than $300.

Q. My son has collected beer bottles for several decades. He was especially interested in companies that are no longer in existence. Do you think his collection is worth keeping? He is considering a move from Tennessee to California. — Frank, Nashville, Tenn.

A. Only an expert can tell your son if his collection is worth keeping. I recommend you contact one of the better clubs, the Brewery Collectibles Club of America (BCCA), 747 Menus Court, Fenton, MO 63026; bcca@bcca.com; and www.bcca.com.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was noted wit Oscar Wilde who made the following sage observation: "Biography lends to death a new terror."

• You may not realize it, but you have almost certainly engaged in sternutation at some point in your life — and if you're like me, you do it regularly every spring when the pollen count is high. Sternutation is simply the act of sneezing.

• Iconic fashion designer Ralph Lauren started out his career as a glove salesman.

• I wouldn't be surprised if you've never heard of Dion McGregor, who, as a songwriter, achieved only very modest success — most notably as the co-writer of the Barbra Streisand song "Where Is the Wonder." He did achieve notoriety in some circles, however, for a very strange characteristic: He talked in his sleep. Somniloquy is not rare, but McGregor took it to new levels. He spoke very clearly, essentially narrating his bizarre dreams, such as flying to the moon with a group of children on a hot-air balloon. You might wonder how I know what his dreams were like, and that's where his notoriety comes into play: In 1964, Decca Records released the album "The Dream World of Dion McGregor (He Talks in His Sleep)," perhaps the only commercial recording during which the performer is not conscious at all.

• As spring progresses, those of us in the southern latitudes of the United States are preparing for another long, hot summer. We should count our blessings, though, and keep in mind that it could be worse: The lowest temperature ever recorded in the tiny Southeast Asia nation of Singapore is 66 degrees Fahrenheit — and that was during a particularly chilly winter.

"Conversational German" Slated In Grantsville

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development will offer a "Conversational German" course at the Northern Outreach Center in Grantsville. This course is slated for Mondays from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., beginning on April 7 and continuing for a total of six sessions.

This course will concentrate on "High German" or Hochdeutsch, which is the official language of Germany.

The instructor is Elke Cosner, who was born in Gersbach, Germany. Cosner has studied Hebrew and is currently teaching German at Allegany College of Maryland.

"Students will be introduced to the beauty and precision of the language and culture, in situations that make it easy to travel or communicate with friends or relatives," said a college spokesperson. "The grammar is made easy through activities that are enjoyable and easy to do."

The course is designed to enable students to conduct a dialogue employing elements of German learned through oral drills, vocabulary study, and grammar. Pronunciation, development of vocabulary, and utilization of sentence structure will be emphasized.

For additional information, persons may contact Terry Beachy, Northern Outreach Center coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or tbeachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register, one may contact Kista Wilt, Continuing Education and Workforce Development, at 301-387-3069 or kwilt@garrettcollege.edu.

Nancy E. Schmitt, creator and director of Aviana® Inc., will present a three-day seminar titled "Mindful Touch Therapy" for massage therapists and nurses June 20-22. The seminar will consist of lecture, demonstration, and guided hands-on practice, and provides 25 contact hours of continuing education.

Mindful Touch Therapy, according to Schmitt, is "a unique blend of mindfulness meditation, energy bodywork, touch-point therapy, and massage."

Students will explore that "blend," the intuitive awareness to respond to client needs, the use of intention in the mind/body/spirit connections, and issues impacting people living with "disease and disease," including cancer. Upon completion of the seminar, students will be prepared to use the modality with appropriate clients, according to Schmitt.

The course will begin Friday, June 20, and run from 1 to 8 p.m. in the Continuing Education Building (Room CE-205) at the GC Campus. Saturday's session will meet from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sunday's will be from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Students should wear comfortable clothing, and bring sheets and a blanket for comfort.

Jail Sentence Incurred By Pennsylvanian

A one-year jail sentence, 11 months and four days of which were suspended, was handed to a Pennsylvania man after he pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless endangerment in a recent Garrett County District Court case.

Maryland State Police officers responded to a Grantsville area apartment in reference to an assault complaint in February. Officers obtained a statement from a female victim who advised that Joshua Lee Miller, 24, Meyersdale, had threatened her with a knife. Reports indicate that Miller allegedly "grabbed the victim by the neck and lifted her off the floor." Miller fled the scene before officers arrived.

In addition to his jail sentence, Miller received 36 months of supervised probation and a fine of $57. He was not prosecuted on charges of first degree assault, second degree assault, trespassing on private property, malicious destruction of property valued at $500, and disturbing the peace.

Keith Randall Kyle, 22, Meyersdale, was the defendant of two separate cases heard in recent district court. In the first hearing, Kyle pleaded guilty to a charge of theft valued at over $500 and received a jail sentence of nine months. Eight months and 28 days of the sentence were suspended.

A video surveillance recording at a Grantsville area liquor store showed Kyle removing a total of 10 hunting knives from the store without paying for them on April 28 and May 1, 2007. The approximate total loss to the victim was $1,070.

In addition to the jail time, Kyle received 24 months of supervised probation and $57 in court fees.

In the second case, Kyle received stet rulings on five charges of unlawfully obtaining prescription drugs and a charge of theft valued at less than $500. He was ordered to complete 30 hours of community service as a result of the June 2007 incident.

Brenda Dawn Shiflett, 27, Terra Alta, W.Va., was handed a two-day jail term after pleading guilty to a charge of theft valued at less than $100 in a criminal summons case.

Police officers were called to an Oakland store in October 2007 when a clerk reported that Shiflett had proceeded through the check-out counter without paying for a few items.

Shiflett was handed 28 days of unsupervised probation and a fine of $100.

Joseph Daniel Stottlemeyer, 35, Terra Alta, W.Va., pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana and was sentenced to six months in jail, five months and 28 days of which were suspended. He also received 18 months of unsupervised probation and $57 in court fees.

Stottlemeyer was the driver of a vehicle that was stopped for a speeding violation by MSP officers in November 2007. According to reports, the arresting officer noticed the smell of burnt marijuana emitting from the vehicle. Stottlemeyer handed over a marijuana smoking device containing burnt marijuana residue, as well as a plastic bag and a plastic bottle containing marijuana.

He was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on a charge of possession of paraphernalia.

Daniel Joseph Flynn, 21, Morgantown, W.Va., pleaded guilty to a charge of second degree assault and received a 60-day jail sentence, which was suspended in its entirety, as well as 18 months of unsupervised probation and a fine of $300.

MSP officers found Flynn being restrained by security personnel at Wisp Resort in December 2007 after Flynn allegedly punched a male victim. According to police reports, Flynn was screaming obscenities, and he resisted officers' attempts to handcuff him.

Court documents state that Flynn was allegedly intoxicated and that he spit in both the officers' and security guard's faces. In addition, sometime during altercation, Flynn destroyed a phone at the hotel front desk and threw a wooden sign at the female clerk.

Flynn was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on three charges of second degree assault, resisting arrest, disturbing the peace, and failure to obey a reasonable law.

Stanley William Platter, 29, Grantsville, pleaded guilty to a charge of violation of a protection order and was handed a jail sentence of 90 days, all of which was suspended.

State police officers were dispatched to a Grantsville area apartment building in October 2007 for a complaint of an allegedly intoxicated man in the parking lot who had shattered two light posts with his hand. A witness said it was Platter, and when officers found him, he was with a female with whom he has an active restraining order.

Platter was not prosecuted on a charge of malicious destruction of property with damage valued at $500.

Christopher Michael Smith, 35, Keyser, W.Va., pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of paraphernalia in a criminal summons case, and received $240 in fines and court fees.

Smith was the driver of a vehicle that was stopped on Glendale Road in October 2007. State police officers noticed an odor of burnt marijuana coming from inside the vehicle, and a search revealed a plastic bag containing marijuana and a smoking device with burnt marijuana residue inside it.

Smith was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on a charge of possession of marijuana.

Scott Dale Alexander, 30, Oakland, received a $100 fine after pleading guilty to a charge of having an animal at large in a criminal summons case.

A witness came into contact with Alexander's unleashed dog while driving, and reported that the dog had previously killed another neighborhood dog, according to court documents.

David Christopher Spriggs, 40, Cumberland, received a stet ruling on a charge of second degree assault. The charge stems from a December 2007 incident.

Martin Scott Finch, 38, Oakland, faces charges of possession of marijuana and possession of paraphernalia, which were placed on the stet docket. Garrett County sheriff's deputies filed the charges in November 2007.

DUI/DWI CASES

One driving while under the influence (DUI)/driving while impaired (DWI) case was heard in recent Garrett County District Court.

Allen Scott Sweitzer, 25, Md., received a probation before judgment after pleading guilty to a charge of DUI per se. He was handed 18 months of supervised probation and a $407 fine. He was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on charges of DUI, DWI, and one other driving-related offense from the October 2007 incident.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

April 1 was spring-like until late afternoon when the temperature dropped, the wind started roaring, and the rain arrived–April Fool for people who thought they were going to enjoy a spring day. The winds blew so hard in the night that I had trouble going to sleep.

On Tuesday afternoon Meredith saw a big beautiful rainbow over the Wisp. I wish I had seen it, because I could use some hope. The snowflakes on April 3 made spring seem very far to me. I did see some green pasture grass in the Casselman Valley, but not in Bittinger. We do have some daffodil sprouts at least at the Bass residence and at my mother's house which will soon be blooming.

Spring was still not around Bittinger on April 3. It was so cold and the winds were icy cold. It felt like real winter again. The wind blew my outdoor thermometer away, so I am not sure what the temperature was, but it felt like in the 30s.

I am tired of painting winter paintings. I sure could use some spring inspiration. I am so tired of gray landscapes. I can't wait for spring's colorful flowers.

I am thinking way into the future to May, as I am working on a painting called "Blossom Time." It is of the beautiful blossoming in the big old pear tree at the home of the Katherine Bowser property, and a young apple tree, along with many hawthorn bushes. The young tree is one appearing along our horse pasture fence. The hawthorns are from our back pasture where in May the landscape is filled with fluffy white bushes. The advantage of a painting over a photograph is that an artist can put together things that are in separate places in one scene. I could put things not blossoming at the same time, but the pear, apple, and hawthorns all bloom in May. I can hardly wait for May and June, as they are my favorite months of the year. It used to be when I put in my garden, but of course it is wonderful to see flowers, green grass, and the newborn baby farm animals.

This season so far has been one of the worst for wasps. It seems every day a new wasp is in my living room. I don't know where they come from, but I know why they prefer to be inside to the cold outside. You can tell how warm it is outside by the number of bird songs you hear.

Recently I talked to many people about their quitting smoking. Some said it was very easy. Another said it was easy if you just quit. Others said it was just hopeless for them, as it was part of their lives for so long. Others do not want to quit because they enjoy it so much. Another one said that it was very hard and she still has the urge to smoke sometimes, but she said it is just something we can't do. Last night I couldn't sleep and I really wished I could go into the living room and have a cigarette. I fought hard and I didn't get up. This is one of the hardest things I have ever done other than facing the half-dozen heartbreaks, college, and algebra. I could just barely make it through algebra and my final grade was a "D," which satisfied me because I didn't have to take it again. I certainly will not start smoking again because I would have to go through the quitting process again.

I am tired of being without my car when my daughters are around because they take it and use it. If any of my readers have a cheap decent compact that I could make payments on, please let me know. I will always be grateful for it.

I can't believe it has been 40 years since the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, especially after the violent deaths of John F. Kennedy and Robert Kennedy.

Although I didn't watch the NCAA semi-final game, I heard it was bad news for my mother, as UNC lost. It seemed that they were almost unbeatable, but they couldn't beat Kansas. The lesson in this is that any team can win or lose on a particular day. If UNC and Memphis played in the final game, mother would have been a winner. Oh well, such is life!

I am sitting on the fence between the two Democratic candidates. But today Obama said he plans to look into the treatment of the Native Americans. That issue is past due as far as I am concerned.

Lenny and Sally Poholsky took a trip south to attend Senior Weekend at Greensboro College. Two games were scheduled, but one had to be canceled because of rain. That region has been extremely dry, so the rain was welcome.

Sue and Walter Haydel shared with me their slide collection on Saturday evening. I saw several great pictures of me jumping Little Joe. There were lots of pictures of cute new babies, including my Claire and Caitlin and their Jamie, and several pictures of my brother Scott interacting with members of our long-standing friends. There was lots of beautiful scenery, of which I need some prints made because I want to paint them. Overall, it was a wonderful show. One amusing picture of me was when I was pregnant, climbing a mountain to witness their mountaintop wedding. The downside of the evening was that it kept me up way past my bedtime. Sunday morning I was too tired and didn't feel good enough to go to church.

Beulah Moon and her daughter-in-law Ellen Moon recently returned from a trip to San Francisco and Berkeley, Calif., where they visited Ellen's son John, who is a library-media specialist in a school near Berkeley. They enjoyed visiting many of the special landmarks, including Alcatraz Island, and a special Easter service at the famous Grace Cathedral on Nob Hill in San Francisco.

My Caitlin took a trip over the weekend to the home of her college friend, Christina, in Middletown. But I was lucky because Claire came home. Meredith had to attend a county student council meeting.

Pastor Randy and Cindy Richardson took several trips to Wheeling, W.Va., where his father had heart surgery and was in ICU.

Ruth DiPaolo recently attended the breakfast for the Women's Hall of Fame at the Wisp.

James Cagney was a star on an old movie I viewed today. It reminded me of something very funny. I recently read in a book by Robert Benchley called Aches and Pain about his experiences at a country place. One day his neighbor saw a visitor of Benchley. He was sure he was a wanted man and he was sure he saw his picture in the post office. Benchley told him, "That is James Cagney, who in movies often plays the gangsters."

Carol Bass attended the 4-H Achievement Awards program at Southern High School on Saturday evening and presented the Dr. Scott Glotfelty Humanitarian Award to Abby Sherrard of Accident.

Town Hall

LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS

Note: Last week's Loch Lynn Town Hall News contained incorrect information regarding the need for zoning permits. Below is a clarification of what specifically calls for a zoning or building permit. The error is regretted.

Zoning Permit Clarification: Zoning permits are not required for landscaping projects. Zoning permits are required for any new structures, additions, outbuildings, and/or fences. The county determines whether building permits are necessary for any zoning permit.

Those in need of determining whether a project requires a zoning permit may call the town hall at 301-334-8339.

FRIENDSVILLE

Citizen Scrap Tire Drop-off Day is slated for Saturday, April 19, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. In conjunction with the event, the mayor and town council will be collecting unwanted tires from all Friendsville residents and taking them to the site as a service to the residents.

Those interested are asked to contact Town Hall at 301-746-5919 no later than Thursday, April 17, to scheduled pick-up times between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. No commercial tires will be accepted, only car and truck tires. Tires must also be off the rims.

ACCIDENT

The town held its regular monthly meeting on Thursday, April 3, at the town hall. Deputy Wilson was present to address and discuss any problems the town may be having.

Clay Riley of Thrasher Engineering was in attendance to update the council on the water tank and Phase 1-B projects. Bids were opened for the tank on March 11. The paperwork has been submitted to USDA, and Thrasher is waiting for that agency's concurrence with the submitted bid by Mid-Atlantic Storage Systems. The plans for Phase 1-B have also been submitted to MDE and USDA. MDE has replied, but Thrasher is still waiting on word from USDA.

Other items discussed were the 2008-09 budget items and a project for the 2009 Program Open Space application. The personal property tax rate will remain at $0.56 per $100 assessed personal property.

The next scheduled meeting will be held on Thursday, May 1, at the town hall.

SATISFIED CONSUMERS

At least one national consumer survey of hearing loss patients by an internationally recognized hearing instrument manufacturer shows that people are largely satisfied with the service they receive from hearing care professionals. The review indicates that two-thirds of the consumers surveyed say that the recommendations they get from hearing care professionals are important in their hearing instrument selections. Fully 85 percent of those surveyed said the treatment they received from dispensing professionals was satisfactory. These findings may help change the minds of the four out of five people with hearing loss who could benefit from hearing instruments but choose not to. If you're considering the purchase of a hearing instrument, you have good reason to have confidence in the process.

Once you have made the significant investment in better hearing, it's important that you are comfortable wearing your hearing instrument and that it fits and is operating at maximum performance. That is not something you'll find via the Internet or mail order, and that's why AUDIBEL has made the commitment to provide you with personal attention from highly trained, skilled professionals, as well as carefully chosen, custom-fitted quality products.

P.S. The second most common reason for people getting a hearing instrument is that their family and friends say they could benefit from one.

Real Estate Facts by...
Jeff Hovis

GET SERIOUS!

Familiar with the law of supply and demand? In real estate right now, it may seem like the supply of homes for sale is much greater than the numbers of buyers demanding those homes, forcing prices down and decreasing activity. But what's really in shortage may be serious, legitimate sellers.

A committed seller is willing and able to accept the best offer in the current market, and be motivated to do so. Receiving a fair offer is inextricably connected to pricing your home fairly. The best way to arrive at an attractive price is to aggressively challenge the competition. Using past prices, your investment in the home, or even appraisals may not produce the ideal value factor for your home.

If you're serious about selling, let an agent describe to you how an appropriately priced and aggressively marketed home will always generate interest and offers, and will ultimately sell for exactly what it's worth in the current market. All other factors being equal, a home that languishes on the market is simply overpriced, and a seller willing to wait for more than fair price would be better served by waiting until the market catches up before entering the fray.

Remember this Golden Rule: There is a buyer for everything. Any home can be sold in any market when proper pricing is combined with effective marketing. If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

Understanding Home Health Care

by Kristine Graber, RN
HOME HEALTHCARE – MORE THAN NURSES

People often associate home healthcare services with nurses who come to help with wound dressing after surgery. Although agencies are very good at delivering high-quality care, they provide much more. Today's home care agencies can serve in virtually any capacity that a client requires. Some clients may simply want someone to check on an elderly relative twice a week just to sit and chat, while someone else may need 24-hour care that involves medical treatments. Home care services also include activities that will alleviate the clients' general burdens such as meal preparation, bill paying, and bathing. For clients who need to make it to medical appointments but cannot get there themselves, home care services can provide transportation.

When home and personal care is needed, the friendly and knowledgeable staff at TENDER LOVING HOME CARE, INC., looks forward to meeting your complete home care requirements. Whether it's companionship or light housekeeping, our staff is there to help. Call us for more information. Our caring, professional staff is available for 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Long- or short-term care is available, whenever it's needed. Since 1987, Tender Loving Home Care has provided in-home personal care services to adults throughout Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties. We are family owned, licensed, bonded, and insured.

STUDENTS HONORED IN LOCH LYNN – Katie Shreve was named Student of the Month for March by Partners After School @ Loch Lynn. "Katie is always prepared and offers to help others if needed," said a group spokesperson. Five students, including Katie, were also recognized for having perfect attendance in March. Pictured in the front is Jordan Sweitzer. In the back, left to right, are Nick Schrier, Katie, Gina Roberts, and Hollie Deem. The Partners After School @ Loch Lynn is a collaborative effort between Garrett County Community Action, Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families, and the Maryland State Department of Education. Anyone wanting more information about the program may call Elizabeth Gibbons at 301-334-0723.

Team Effort Turns Dennett Road Walking Trail Idea Into A Reality

Dennett Road Elementary School students and staff are using their new walking trail as a result of a team effort involving the Go Green Team from Dennett Road, the Board of Education maintenance staff, and the Dennett Road Wellness Committee.

"I am very pleased with the final result," said Dennett Road principal Gary Galloway. "The walking trail is an asset to our school and the community, and we have lots of plans for it."

The idea for the walking trail developed a few years ago when the school's Go Green coordinator, Darlene Taylor, first introduced the idea, but did not have the resources to see it through at that time. Last fall, the idea was resurrected by physical education teacher Beth Shaffer after she returned from a state wellness conference.

She discussed the trail project with the Wellness Committee at Dennett Road. Committee members Amy Ritchie and Kendra Todd from the Garrett County Health Department then put together a grant proposal that would fund the project and turn the idea into a reality.

"We couldn't have done it without the great crew from the Board of Education Maintenance Department – Mike Green, Delmar Rodeheaver, and Jim Bittinger – and their supervisor, Jim Thomas," said school guidance counselor and Wellness Committee member Tim Watson. "These guys brought their equipment and expertise, and suddenly a muddy field started looking like a walking trail."

The walking trail was intentionally designed to blend in with the existing environment. Recycled cinders are being used to fill in low spots on the trail, and there is no pavement involved. In addition to being environmentally friendly, the trail was also designed to promote lifelong fitness among students.

Shaffer and staff from the Health Department began a Walking Wednesdays program on April 2 in which students are encouraged to walk and record their miles during recess. After achieving five miles, the students will receive a small incentive and recognition on the morning news at Dennett Road.

The walking trail is open to the public, and four laps around is the equivalent of one mile.

Those participating on the Wellness Committee include Watson, Shaffer, Gloria Miller, Galloway, and Eugenia Cassidy from Dennett Road; Ritchie, Todd, Kristen Walker, and Hana Smith from the Health Department; and Scott Germain from the Board of Education's food services division.

Questions about the walking trail, wellness efforts, or Go Green initiatives can be directed to Dennett Road Elementary School at 301-334-3452.

Home-Improvement Projects Can Increase Value Of One's Property

Homeowners often decide to do projects in the home based on personal style or design trends. However, according to industry experts, you should look at your home as an investment, and seek out "projects with payback" that can offer long-term benefits.

"Personal taste is important, but you should always think how any changes you make on your home today will impact its resale value tomorrow," said home improvement expert Don Zeman, host of the nationally syndicated radio show, Homefront with Don Zeman. "Whether consciously or unconsciously, consumers are constantly making investments in their home. Something as simple as adding landscaping or painting a room is an investment."

According to Zeman, a former contractor with 28 years of experience, the bigger the ticket item, the more thought people usually put into the project. "Every time you spend money on your home, no matter how small or large the project, you should consider how this affects the future resale of your house," said Zeman.

"Most importantly, homeowners should plan for the replacement of key elements of their home during the time they live there. Don't wait for the roof to leak or the dishwasher to conk out. Smart homeowners make educated replacement decisions that can save them money now, while they're living in the home, and also in the long run when they go to sell the home."

Based on his experience in the home improvement industry, Zeman recommends these top ten projects that have maximum return on investment for homeowners.

Project #1 - Give the outside of your home a critical look. Do you have trim or shutters that have faded or peeling paint? If so, now's the time to improve the curb appeal of your home by replacing these eyesore items with low-maintenance exterior trim and shutters. Fypon makes products that resist fading, rot and all forms of weather. There are hundreds of synthetic pieces to complement any home style while eliminating on-going maintenance chores.

Project #2 - Tired of see-

New Germany State Park Slates Clean-Up Day

New Germany State Park will be conducting its annual park clean-up on Saturday from 9 a.m. until noon. There will be no service charge for park admission for those volunteering in the clean-up. Popular for picnicking and camping, New Germany State Park lies within the boundaries of Savage River State Forest.

New Germany State Park is located at 403 McAndrews Hill Road in Grantsville. The 13-acre lake in the park was formed when Poplar Lick Run was dammed for mill operation. This impoundment, known as Swauger's Mill Dam, was named for mid-nineteenth century sawmill and gristmill builder, John Swauger.

"Join community volunteers and Scout groups from the local area to help spruce up the park for the summer season," said a spokesperson for the park.

Interested persons can meet at the Lakehouse, and the Friends of New Germany will provide lunch for volunteers.

Featured at the park are boat rentals, cabins, cross country skiing trails, campfire programs, camp sites, a snack bar, a dump station, fishing, flat water canoeing, hiking trails, historic interests, picnic tables and grills, shelters, swimming areas, a nature center, and a boat launch.

For day use, there is a $2 per person service charge from Memorial Day through Labor Day on weekends and holidays. During ski season, the charge is $3 per person. For out-of-state visitors, add $1 per person.

For further information about the clean-up or to register, persons may call the park office at 301-895-5453.

ing your energy bills skyrocket every month? Then look at your windows. It's possible you're spending way too much money to heat or cool air that is escaping through old, inefficient windows. Energy-efficient glass packages with Energy Star ratings can help reduce those bills. And, windows with vinyl frames are not only easy to maintain, but also serve as good insulators to help save on energy bills.

Project #3 - Every product in the home has a life span. Evaluate your major home components, such as roofing and siding, on a yearly basis. While it may be tempting to wait until these features wear out completely, it's smarter and more cost-effective to replace aging items before they break down. When it's time to replace your roof, deck, siding or driveway, get competitive prices and try to have the work done during "off seasons" to save costs.

Project #4 - Add a touch of elegance to your home by replacing key windows in hallways, entryways and bathrooms with decorative glass windows. Available in both functional and non-functional versions, the windows come in a variety of styles that allow sunlight into the home while protecting your privacy. Often called "jewelry for the home," triple-glazed decorative glass windows feature combinations of bevel, glue chip and other decorative glasses pieces to create stunning designs.

Delano's has been in operation since 1971 and offers professional installation of quality name-brand flooring – carpet, hardwoods, ceramic tile, etc. – for homes and offices. "We will always meet or beat any competitor's price," said a company spokesperson. Delano's is located at 403 S. Main Street in Accident, along Rt. 219 north of Oakland near Deep Creek Lake, and along Rt. 7 near Hopemont, W.Va. For more information, call 301-746-8770, 301-387-0398, or 304-789-6966.

Project #5 - Special nooks and crannies. That's what everyone wants in a home. A quiet area to enjoy at the end of the day or a special spot for a morning cup of coffee. Add a small breakfast room or sunroom to your home for years of enjoyment. You'll also find the same special place you create will call out to potential homebuyers in the future.

Project #6—Install a garden window. Add space and character to your home by installing a garden window. This unique window literally sticks out of the house creating the ideal spot to grow herbs, serve as a sunny spot for a cat and to bring more light into the home.

"welcome to my home" more than a front porch? According to many home-buyers, a front porch is one of the most important curb appeal elements of the home. If your porch needs a facelift, consider using synthetic products that are structurally-reinforced. These pieces can save endless time on maintenance and provide a fresh, clean look to the front of your home.

Project #8 - Replace the shower. If your home has a cramped, old shower stall that's out-of-date and hard to clean, consider replacing it with a contemporary acrylic

Available from Hy-Lite in flat wall panels and in radius walls, these walk-in shower surrounds are made of sturdy acrylic blocks that provide privacy while allowing light into the shower. The no-threshold shower eliminates trip hazards and shower access easy. And, a specially-developed caulk between the blocks resists mold and mildew, making the new shower a low-maintenance product in the home.

Project #9 - Replace toilets. Save on water bills while helping the environment by replacing old toilets in the home with high-efficiency toilets. Nature's Workforce

CLEANING OUT AND INSPECTING the gutters, and checking the roof in the process, are among the more important activities following the harsh winter months.

Homeowners Advised To Inspect Homes Following Winter

Once the spring season arrives, homeowners know it's time for some cleaning. Veteran homeowners know spring is also a great time to give homes a check-up.

Giving a home a check-up doesn't involve sitting in a doctor's office lobby and waiting for your name to be called. Instead, it involves a few relatively easy tasks meant to ensure your home made it through the winter unscathed.

Inspect the roof. The roof tends to bear the brunt of winter weather. Heavy snow regions can prove harmful to a roof, underlining the importance of a spring inspection. If it's possible to get onto your roof, check for any worn, misshapen or even missing shingles. If getting onto the roof is problematic, a roof inspection can be conducted from the attic if you have one. If you have an attic, check the ceiling for moisture or discoloration. This should be done every time you go into the attic, regardless of the season, as it's best to keep a close eye on a roof to avoid paying a big price down the road.

Inspect the gutters. Few people enjoy cleaning the gutters, but for homeowners, it's a springtime rite of passage. Clean gutters will ensure proper drainage once the notorious April showers hit full swing. Part of inspecting the gutters is making sure the downspouts are properly positioned as well. Make sure downspouts are sloping away from the house and carrying water away from the home's foundation.

Inspect the windows. It's always a good bet to seal windows before the winter season hits. This helps keep a house warm by not allowing cold winter air in. However, winter can take its toll on window seals. When spring hits, these windows might need to be resealed and caulked.

Check sprinkler heads in the yard. Before the time comes to turn the lawn sprinklers back on and give the grass its green life back, check to make sure the sprinkler heads haven't moved over the winter. Make sure no sprinklers are spraying the walls of the house. Such a problem can go unnoticed if your sprinklers run while you're asleep or during early morning hours when you've already left for work. However, if not inspected, you'll notice wall damage and unwanted growth soon enough.

within the home. Privacy is critical in this area of the home, so make sure to invest in an acrylic block fixed window for over the bathtub. Surround the obscure block window with water-resistant decorative urethane trim and you've transformed the bathroom into a low-maintenance oasis in the home.

Creeping Perennials Are Low Maintenance Substitutes For Traditional Turf Lawns

A welcoming, lush and green lawn is something to be proud of, but the challenges of maintaining such a lawn can be tough for the greenest thumb. Where traditional turf fails in the landscape, using creeping perennials is an alternative that is both ornamental and functional.

"Almost every homeowner has an area in the landscape where grass just won't grow," says Frances Hopkins, founder and CEO of Under A Foot Plant Company. "Creeping perennials provide the solution for these problem areas."

Creeping perennials should not be likened to common groundcovers, though it is easy to confuse the two.

"The difference is definitive," Hopkins says. "Groundcovers grow much larger at 12 to 24 inches and do not make for a pleasant walking surface. Creepers will grow only about 2 to 4 inches creating a pleasant, low visual plane typically associated with a lawn, plus they are sturdy enough to handle foot traffic."

Stepables, Hopkins' line of more than 140 creeping perennial varieties, provide solutions for troublesome landscapes.

"Creeping perennials have thousands of tiny, compact root nodes that firmly grasp the soil," Hopkins says. "As often as you step on them with the soles of your feet, they will vigorously take root; the more they are walked on, the faster they will creep across the landscape space."

Plant Selection

First, it's important to decide how much you are going to use the planted area.

"Foot traffic and function are among the most important considerations when selecting lawn replacement alternatives," Hopkins says.

This is why she has categorized Stepables into three usage groups – for light, moderate and heavy foot traffic areas. Light foot traffic means someone will be walking on the creeping perennials one to two times per week; moderate is one to two times per day, and heavy is three or more times per day. When choosing plants, the denser a plant, the more traffic it will take.

Therefore, a list of specific areas including expected levels of walking and strolling is a good, initial means to a successful change from grass to this type of planting.

Curb appeal is another important consideration related to improving a home's landscape and overall appearance.

"Think about the elements of decor – brick, slate, concrete, paint color, and color schemes," Hopkins says. "Make plant choices that work well with the surroundings."

With these considerations in mind, the next step is choosing the right plants for the area's environmental conditions. Hopkins says the number one thing to look for is sun to shade ratio and where the light hits.

Next, homeowners are able to find out their soil quality by taking a sample to a local garden center for analysis. Based on the results, garden center employees can help choose a soil amendment, which ideally should be something with excellent drainage.

Correct drainage is described as allowing an appropriate amount of water absorption by the plant's roots, while also permitting excess water to be drained away

Selecting The Proper Brush/Roller For Home Paint Projects Important

If you have visited a paint retailer, the choices of brushes, roller covers, faux products and other painting applicators can seem overwhelming. The good news is that paint applicators are designed to specifically match the surfaces you are covering and the materials you are using, so that you can achieve optimum results. Following are some tips to help you match the right tools to your project.

1. What type of painting material will you be using? Will you be using oil-based materials or water-based materials?

If you are using an oil-based paint, natural bristle brushes work best and lay down a smooth coating of paint. Stains, lacquer and varnish also tend to be oil-based products. Check the label of the product you are using to be sure it is oil-based so you choose the right applicator.

If you are using water-based products, brushes with synthetic filaments provide the best results because they will not soak up excess moisture like natural bristles will.

The same concept applies to roller covers. If you are using oil-based products, a natural lambskin cover will work. However, if you are using water-based products, polyester or synthetic blends will work best.

You also need to consider the sheen of the paint. A dull finish will hide surface imperfections, while a satin or eggshell finish may show those from the plant.

The Turf Transition

Making the transition from a conventional grass lawn to one with creeping perennials takes planning. Be sure you choose the proper plant for the area and function, and one that has plenty of availability from the local garden center.

Next, determine the density of the plants. Spacing them 12 inches apart, for example will require fewer plants, but they will take a year or more to fill in and need a bit of maintenance. Spacing plants just 2 inches apart will require more plants, costing more.

Deciding how dense to plant creeping perennials depends on how much money is in the budget and if instant gratification is a priority.

The next step is removing the sod, and tilling and amending the soil with high-drainage components. Once the bed is ready, consider placing a slow-release fertilizer at root level.

"Do not place fertilizer directly on the plant because this will burn the foliage," Hopkins says.

To avoid hand weeding, homeowners may opt to apply a ground cloth or pre-emergent herbicide, though creeping perennials naturally inhibit weeds.

For best results, plant creeping perennials even or just above the soil line, but never below. Planting below the soil line will cause water to collect and, ultimately, drown the plants, Hopkins says.

Step On It

The final step is just that — gently step on each plant to set it in place and get it started growing.

"Believe it or not, gently stepping on each new plant actually attaches the roots to the soil line. In about three days, little roots will emerge from the nodes," Hopkins says.

As with traditional lawns, the more thought, planning, effort and care that homeowners put into installing a bed of creeping perennials, the more it will pay off in the end with the long-term benefit of a beautiful, functional landscape with far less maintenance and more time to simply enjoy it.

imperfections. Use a more substantial brush with the satin or eggshell finish to help smooth over the imperfections.

2. Are you painting interior or exterior surfaces?

"Brushes and roller covers for exterior and interior painting vary greatly," according to Bruce Schneider, the Paint Doctor for Purdy, a manufacturer of professional painting tools.

For interior surfaces, use 100 percent Nylon brushes as you will likely be using latex paint. Consider Purdy Nylox (TM) brushes for maximum paint distribution and a smooth release.

"For exterior surfaces, you want the bristles to remain stiff so they can withstand the humidity and high temperatures normally associated with painting outside," he notes. In this case, synthetic brushes made with a combination of nylon and polyester bristles, such as Purdy XL (TM) brushes, are the ideal choice."

When selecting a roller cover for interior jobs, woven fabrics work best. They are less likely to shed into the paint and leave a smooth finish. For kitchens and baths use a low nap roller cover like White Dove roller covers with a 1/4" or 3/8" nap. For flat wall work, use a 1/2" or 3/4" nap.

If you are painting an exterior surface, look for a mixture of lambswool and polyester, which can be found in Purdy Roadrunner(TM) roller covers.

3. What material is the surface made out of?

Are you painting drywall, plaster or wood? For plaster and drywall, many tools will work, you will just need to choose the brush and/or roller cover that matches the texture of the surface.

For highly textured walls or drywall, use a stiff synthetic brush or a roller cover with a large nap (3/4" or more) to work the paint into the surface

For bare wood, you'll want a smooth and exquisite finish. A Purdy Syntox(TM) brush is ideal for all clear topcoat finishes.

If you are still confused about which brush or roller cover to select, Purdy can help. Visit the Web site, www.purdycorp.com and click on the tool selector. Answer a few questions and you will be given a choice of two or three brushes and/or roller covers that will meet your specific needs. If you'd like a Free Painting Tips DVD from Purdy, just go to the Contact Us section and click on the link.

This Spring Take A Walk On The "Wildflower" Side

Springtime. Time to start thinking about your flower beds and curb appeal. If you're tired of the same old annuals, or too many choices leave you bewildered about where to begin, this spring consider thinking outside the planting box. Plant wildflowers. Lots of them.

In a world dominated by red geraniums, pink begonias, and yellow marigolds, wildflowers possess a simple grace and elegance that will enhance any garden or landscape. Wildflowers can magically transform a bare patch of soil into a glorious garden. They constantly color your landscape all season long. No matter your soil or sunshine, wildflowers are the answer to beautiful, bountiful blooms that keep the garden alive with a continual dazzling display of color.

Wildflower gardens are gaining popularity for a variety of reasons:

*Wildflowers offer a diversity of unusual foliage shapes and sizes and colorful blooms.

*They can be grown in hard-to-maintain areas – corners, along fences, slopes that are difficult to mow or water.

*Wildflowers attract a number of garden-friendly visitors, such as birds and butterflies.

Wherever you live, choose a location that gets six to eight hours of full sun and has good drainage. Most wildflowers can grow in heavy clay or less than fertile soils. The key to growing a hearty wildflower patch is to start with a good seedbed.

*Remove any existing weeds or grasses.

*Till the top 1 to 2 inches of soil. Tilling deeper than that will stir up thousands of dormant weed seeds and the wildflowers will struggle to get established.

*When planting wildflower seeds in a new garden area, don't fertilize unless your soil is extremely sandy; wildflowers don't need fertilizer. They are used to growing in average soils.

If you'd like to try your hand at growing wildflowers, you need to start with good seeds and the right mix for your geographical location. Outsidepride.com has done all the work for you offering a wide variety of wildflower seed mixes created specifically for your geographical region: Remember, a good wildflower mix contains both annuals and perennials. This gives the garden a wider variety of colors, heights and season-long blooms.

The Gulf Coast areas have special environmental conditions that makes this blend especially well suited for its conditions. This mix consists of perennials and annuals that adapt to moist conditions and tolerate rainfall as well as sunny conditions and extreme temperatures.

Midwestern Wildflower Mix is made up of 26 species chosen for their lasting blooms as well as their rugged ability to withstand the extreme temperatures of the Midwestern climates. The mix is approximately 50 percent annual and 50 percent perennial wildflowers.

Northeastern Wildflower Mix is designed specifically for the special needs of the Northeast. This attractive wildflower mix is made up of 19 species of which one third are annuals and the remaining are biennials or perennials.

Southwest Wildflower Mix is specifically designed for areas which have special needs, such as long, hot, dry summers or other similar conditions. This mix will do very well if planted in early to late spring, or as a dormant seeding in fall. The mix consists of annual and perennials.

Most people know a gardening guru-type, but the majority of gardeners are admittedly shy to try new plants, or blame themselves for less than stellar results. Wildflowers will change that and give gardeners fabulous flowers that get great results with minimum maintenance or fuss. This spring is the time to go "wild" right in your own back yard.

For additional information on OutsidePride's unique wild flower mixtures that are specially formulated on the basis of climatic conditions (rainfall, temperature range, humidity) and elevation; blended to give the widest possible range of colors and periods of bloom, visit www.OutsidePride.com.

Scrub Away The Stress, Toil This Spring Cleaning Season

Many of us continually seek ways to make house cleaning easier and less time-consuming. This spring cleaning season, the secret is revealed. Determine the level of cleanliness (or chaos) you can live with and then establish cleaning routines throughout the year to help achieve and maintain that level.

"I understand the importance of a clean home, but like most women, I'm not willing to invest too much precious time or back-breaking effort in housework," says Kelly Semrau, SC Johnson vice president of global public affairs and communication. "That's why we continually create new products that provide innovative cleaning solutions, and help achieve top results with minimal energy."

Building a cleaning schedule can be confusing if one doesn't know how often chores should be completed. Scrub away some of the stress and toil this spring cleaning season by following a few simple timing guidelines year-round.

The Daily Dose

Daily tasks vary from family to family, but it's easy to determine what needs to be done each day. Look for the chores that are repeated, including the following:

*Nearly everyone deals with dishes every day, whether washing them by hand or loading them into the dishwasher.

*Large families – or those with small wardrobes – may need to do laundry every day. For tough stains, be sure to use a stain remover right away so they don't settle into the fabric.

*Some loathe the smell or sight of garbage and so choose to take it out on a daily basis.

Weekly To-Dos

Weekly chores can be the most time-consuming, so look to employ shortcuts, like engaging the entire family in the household chores or using products that minimize the need for excessive elbow grease. Below are some top weekly chores.

*Vacuuming and dusting on a weekly basis prevents buildup of dust that can trigger allergies.

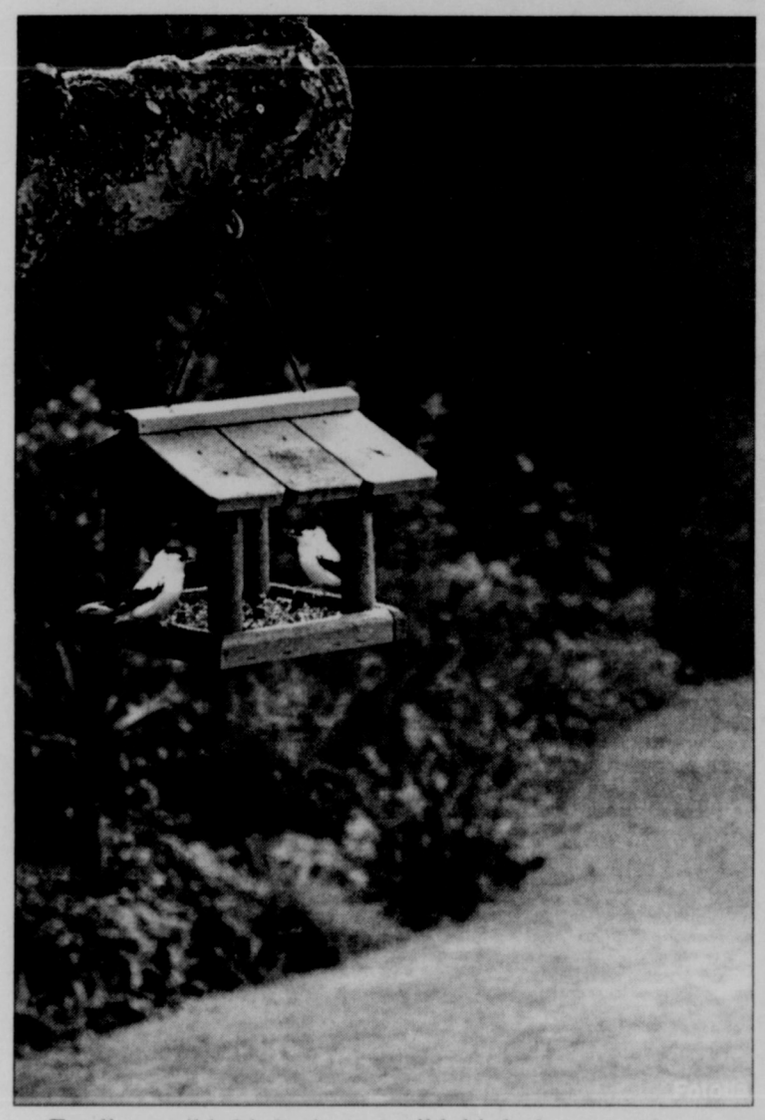
When it Comes to Feeding Wild Birds, Less is More



Feeding wild birds is a popular interest of many Americans. In fact, according to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, around one third of Americans feed wild birds. Whether it's the enjoyment of viewing wildlife up close and personal or listening to the pleasant chirps and trills of the birds' songs, more and more Americans are being inspired to put up feeders, buy outdoor pet food and turn wild birds into lovable outdoor pets.

On the other hand, some people are hesitant to dive into the hobby of feeding wild birds because they are discouraged by the shells (and subsequent weeds) that can accumulate around a feeding station.

According to research done by the Wild Bird Feeding Industry (WBFI), the number two reason why people don't feed birds is because of the mess left under their feeders. Innovative wild bird food manufacturers have taken notice of this concern, which has resulted in the creation of "waste-free" and "less mess" mixes. These formulations allow bird lovers to enjoy the best of both worlds: a yard full of colorful outdoor pets and a lawn that is neat and tidy.

Less mess products are designed to keep outdoor living areas clean because they are made without the shells of seeds. Without the shells, there is less leftover debris scattered around the feeding station. Better yet, premium mixes like Wild Delight's Less Mess line of products are specially formulated to quick cleaning each week.

*Guests and household members appreciate a clean bathroom, which means there needs to be a weekly wipe-down of the counters, toilet and soap-scummed tub. Products like new SC Johnson Scrubbing Bubbles Action Scrubber, which combines the cleaning power of Scrubbing Bubbles with an easy-to-use handle – tears through soap scum and grime easier and quicker.

Calendar of Chores

Handling a few chores monthly will erase some of the stress that comes with spring cleaning. It will prevent scrubbing a year's worth of gunk in each room of the house.

*Some items with limited hands-on use, like ceiling fans and light fixtures, only require a quick cleaning once a month.

*Clean out one cluttered area each month, such as closets and cabinets, so they don't have to be dealt with all at once.

*Kitchen tasks, like cleaning out the refrigerator and wiping down other kitchen appliances, are too big to tackle on a weekly basis but would be overwhelming after a year.

Seasonal Housework

Think of the things that should probably be done every three to six months, but that won't bring the world to an end if they are put off until spring cleaning season.

*Some household chores are best to complete in the spring or summer, like washing the exterior of the windows and cleaning the patio furniture.

*Once a year, bring in the pros to clean carpets, launder drapes and fabric lampshades.

*An easy one to forget is the inspection of, and performing maintenance on, heating and cooling units by cleaning the vents and replacing filters.

*Set up area insect repellents in the yard so spending summer evenings outdoors will be almost bug-free.

Cleaning your home doesn't need to be a second job this spring and you should consider ways to make it enjoyable, like downloading a few upbeat tunes to listen to while cleaning.

STOP BY AND SEE US – The staff at Grand Central Furniture & Gifts in Mtn. Feeding Birds

When trying to keep a clean yard, it's important to consider the type of seed being put out. "Basic mixes" or "economy mixes" contain many extra ingredients that birds simply sift through and push to the ground. These mixes can also attract less desirable birds, such as starlings and sparrows that typically gather in large numbers and can make quite a mess.

For those who want to avoid a messy yard (and nuisance birds), look for products that are made with premium ingredients like fruits and nuts that more sought-after birds such as cardinals and finches love. Products like Wild Delight's new Less Mess Fruit & Berry blend, for example, is formulated with real cherries, juniper berries, peanuts, and hulled pumpkin seeds – ingredients desirable birds will gobble up without excessive sifting and leftover mess.

Another option for those who want to keep a clean yard is to place a tray under a feeder. Trays will help catch any spilled seeds and make cleanup much easier. Plus, they act as another level to the feeding station. What some birds pass up and toss onto the tray, others might feast on happily, creating a wide variety of feathered friends at one feeding station.

Feeding nectar and suet is another way to keep a tidy lawn. These types of food help attract many different types of sought-after birds like woodpeckers, orioles, and hummingbirds, creating a beautiful spectacle of unique wildlife. There are even suet products that you can place close to your home. No-waste products such as Deck, Porch N' Patio Party Suet from Wild Delight don't contain filler ingredients like corn and milo that birds either toss aside or ignore completely. Plus, premium suet products are formulated so they will not melt even in temperatures of 100 degrees Fahrenheit.

It is also important to put out multiple feeders to prevent overcrowding. When too many birds gather at one feeder, things tend to get a little hectic and messy. If birds have the option to dine at more than one feeder, there is less pushing and shoving, which may mean that more seeds are eaten instead of thrown to the ground.

Finally, spreading mulch under feeders is another easy way to keep a yard looking cleaner. Mulch will hide the seeds that may fall, and it can even dress up a feeding station. By adding a border with stones or other decorative items around the mulch, a feeding station can become a nice addition to a landscaper's design.

With the proper food and a little bit of planning, bird lovers and new bird enthusiasts alike can enjoy both the wonderful hobby of bird feeding and a well-groomed lawn at the same time. Thanks to the creation of less mess products, birds can delight in the foods they love, and bird lovers can admire their outdoor pets without the mess.

Outdoor Living Cuts Yard Work, Promotes Relaxation

Four walls and a ceiling no longer define a living space.

Homeowners who want to reduce yard maintenance, bring natural environments into their living spaces, and expand their houses are reinventing the "great" in great outdoors.

It started as a trend toward outdoor kitchens. Now it extends to great-room concepts and other ways to create outdoor retreats from simple to elaborate. Conversation nooks, pergolas, gazebos, arbors, trellises, raised beds, walkways, and benches are all being used to turn back yards into tranquil retreats and havens for al fresco entertaining.

"Homeowners are reconnecting with their outdoor spaces, often in creative and imaginative ways," says Perry Howard, president of the American Society of Landscape Architects. "It's no surprise that people want to take elements that work so well inside their home and recreate them outside."

Outdoor living spaces commonly feature natural materials, especially woods like Western red cedar. The wood's beauty and durability make it a popular material for pergolas, decks, gazebos, and other structures. It creates a natural outdoor feel combined with indoor comfort and design.

Outdoor Living

A movement toward low-maintenance landscaping is contributing to the outdoor living trend. Landscape architects anticipate yard maintenance costs will increasingly influence the size of the traditional grass lawn among cost-conscious consumers, according to a recent American Society of Landscape Architects survey.

Converting part of the lawn or garden to an outdoor living space reduces both maintenance and water usage. Experts recommend that natural materials play a key role.

"People find woods like Western red cedar allow them to spend a lot more time enjoying their surroundings, with minimal investment in maintenance," says Paul Mackie, or "Mr. Cedar" as he is known in the Western Red Cedar Lumber Association.

Home and garden shows, popular in the spring and early summer, are full of ideas for building the perfect outdoor oasis. Low-maintenance wooden planter boxes with ornamental plants, basic and elaborate roofing systems, accent lighting, and patio heaters are among the additions helping homeowners enjoy their outdoor spaces well beyond the summer months.

Real estate and landscaping professionals offer a few considerations for creating that perfect outdoor getaway.

*Keep it natural. It is an outdoor space, so use natural materials. Woods and stones, whether used as primary materials or as accents, are durable and relatively easy to maintain.

*Make multi-purpose magic. Add a wide edge to a planter box or join two with a bench. Multi-purpose amenities can transform a space, add function to decoration and keep costs down.

*Have fun with the space. To add charm, salvage furniture and decorative pieces not currently in use around the house or incorporate the whimsical touch of second-hand finds. Personal style and creativity commonly found indoors are every bit as important outside.

*Use low-maintenance plants. Incorporate native and drought-resistant plants to save water and lessen the time spent maintaining the yard. Planter boxes make changing the locations and types of flowers and bushes much quicker and easier. Planters are also an inexpensive way to define an outdoor space and create privacy.

*Keep some of the lawn. Real estate experts recommend leaving at least some lawn. Green grass has a natural cooling effect on hot days and complements woods nicely. It can also be beneficial when reselling, especially for buyers with young children or pets.

*Consider your lifestyle. Be practical. Think about how the space is going to be used and how much time it will take to maintain. Beauty, durability and ease of care can all come together.

Outdoor retreats, whether for conversation or relaxation, can transform a yard, add hours of enjoyment, and cut down on maintenance demands. A little time and investment now will pay dividends this summer and for years beyond.

How To Get A Great Lawn Without Breaking The Bank

Every year around this time, there's at least one yard in the neighborhood everyone wishes were his or her own. It has the perfectly manicured lawn, the rounded hedges and the flowers that just won't quit blooming.

As you look at your own lawn, with the weeds and brown spots, you wonder where you went wrong. After all, you were out there mowing as much as your neighbors were last year.

Well, time to let you in on a little secret. Not only did those neighbors you envy so much spend time mowing their lawn, they also dethatched their lawn, aerated it, used a rototiller to turn up the dead patches and reseeded, and they also carefully re-edged along the sidewalks before winter set in.

Sound like an expensive proposition? It would have been had they hired a lawn service, or bought all the tools they needed, but they did the entire project themselves with rented tools.

According to the American Rental Association (ARA), more and more people are turning to rented equipment and tools for their home improvement projects. Not only does renting offer significant cost savings, it is convenient as well. When you rent tools, you don't have to worry about equipment maintenance or storage. You will also be able to take advantage of expert advice from a rental professional. These trained professionals will be able to guide you in the right direction and give you tips on how to operate the equipment in the safest and most effective way. They can also help you select the correct tools for your project.

For example, if you visit your local rental business and say your lawn is looking sparse and brown, they'll tell you that thatch – the layer of interwoven grass, leaves and stems that blocks water and nutrients from reaching the roots – is the likely culprit.

To pull out the old thatch, you'll be urged to rent a dethatcher, also called a power rake, which will remove the tangle of grass clippings, leaves, and stems that have collected in your grass.

The next step will be to rent an aerator, which is a gas-powered machine that actually pokes holes in the earth and removes cores of dirt as it goes. The holes allow nutrients, air, and moisture to penetrate your lawn's root system. Once that's done, you'll need to get out there and tackle the weeds.

If you have any patches that are all weeds and no grass, you can use a rototiller to turn up the ground and then reseed. You'll also want to rent an edger once or twice during the season to give your lawn that well cared for look.

With a little effort and some cost-effective rental tools, your lawn may just become the pride of the neighborhood.

For more ideas on using rental equipment for improving your lawn, and to find the rental store nearest you, please visit RentalHQ.com.

Major Events Planned For Earth Day 2008

from Earth Day Network

The 39th Earth Day will be celebrated on April 22. On Sunday, April 20, Earth Day Network is spearheading one of the largest Earth Day gatherings in U.S. history – major day-long events on the National Mall in Washington, D.C. and seven other cities, 1,000 college campuses, and hundreds of community events that are expected to attract hundreds of thousands of participants and rally support for immediate and equitable national action on global warming.

The flagship event on the National Mall is free and will feature elected officials and candidates, community speakers, celebrities, and major musical acts as well as educational displays and voter registration. Simultaneous free events will be held in New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Denver, Dallas, and Miami. The events are being produced by Green Apple Festival and sponsored by Chase.

All the activities are being coordinated by Earth Day Network, the nonprofit organization that mobilizes 17,000 organizations worldwide and 5,000 organizations in the U.S. Earth Day Network was founded by the organizers of the original Earth Day in 1970.

"This Earth Day, it's time to change the forecast for global warming," said Kathleen Rogers, president of Earth Day Network. "Climate change must rise to the top of the national agenda this election year. On April 20, Americans will be hearing our global warming message and we will be mobilizing support for solutions."

"Our events are about highlighting solutions to help overcome the significant environmental challenges we face today," said Peter Shapiro, founder and executive Producer of Green Apple Festival and producer of the new U2 3D film. "By bringing together live music, education, and a wide range of non-profit organizations in America's most prominent parks, we hope to draw significant attention to the most important issue of our time."

The 2008 Earth Day events will include a voter registration component, especially in low income communities. Studies have shown that minority and low income populations are the most impacted by global warming. The solution is a new energy future based on renewable sources that will mean less greenhouse gasses, spur jobs and stimulate the economy.

In addition to the free events on the Mall and seven cities, on April 21 there will be a day of action. For the second year in a row, Earth Day Network is sponsoring Earth Day on the Hill, which will bring community leaders from all over the U.S. to lobby Congress on the issues of global warming and environmental justice and equity.

"We will be creating surround-sound on the issue of global warming," said Rogers. "Our leaders will hear from us on the National Mall, in the halls of Congress and in the news media. We will be making a lot of noise this Earth Day."

Earth Day Network will also be calling for people to take personal steps to fight climate change, such as taking public transportation or carpooling to Earth Day events, as well as signing Earth Day Network's Sky Petition at earthday.net.

The solutions-oriented Sky Petition calls for a moratorium on new coal-burning plants, a move toward renewable energies, a demand for new buildings to be carbon neutral, and protection for the poor and middle class from unfairly assuming more than their fair share of the costs of the transition to a green economy.

Earth Day Network is also working with religious and faith-based communities to support sermons in thousands of churches, synagogues, and mosques.

Campus action will be a major component of Earth Day 2008. Earth Day Network believes strongly in creating personal responsibility for the environment among students around the world. In line with the groundswell of activism on college campuses, over 1,000 of them will be featuring Earth Day events.

Earth Day Network is one of the sponsors of "Chill Out: Campus Solutions to Global Warming," a contest that recognizes campuses and campus leaders for their efforts to solve climate change issues. On Wednesday, April 16, Earth Day TV will host the Chill Out broadcast. Earth Day Network has also signed a Green Schools initiative with former President Bill Clinton and works with more than 25,000 K-12 teachers.

Earth Day Network encourages groups to hold their own Earth Day events in their communities and to register them at earthday.net.

Earth Day Network seeks to grow and diversify the environmental movement worldwide, and to mobilize it as the most effective vehicle for promoting a healthy, sustainable planet. It pursues these goals through education, politics, cultural events, and consumer activism.

Earth Day Network has a global reach with a network of more than 17,000 partners and organizations in 174 countries. More than 1 billion people participate in Earth Day activities, making it the largest secular civic event in the world, according to the network.

Backyard Garden Becomes A Destination

As today's homeowners re-evaluate their spending, chances are they may be re-considering any luxurious vacation plans. This year the back yard is a destination, as homeowners just might prefer to create their own personal paradise and put the extravagant getaway on hold.

Expect the following outdoor living and lifestyle trends to flourish in 2008.

Wise With Water

"Drip irrigation, rain gardens, rain barrels and drought-resistant plants will grow in popularity this year," says Amy Gath, outdoor living and gardening expert at the Scotts Miracle-Gro Company. "Accessories like rain barrels will no longer be the utilitarian 50-gallon drum, but will be a cool, functional fashion piece in the yard."

As homeowners re-evaluate water use, lawn-care habits may change. One way to help the lawn become more water-efficient is to mow high and often, never removing more than one-third of the grass blade. This helps grass absorb water and encourages deeper root growth, allowing the grass to save more water. Feeding regularly is also important to maintaining a healthy lawn that can absorb and use water more efficiently. Look for lawns to be kept fuller, instead of cropped short.

Several regions of the country are recovering from drought, so reviving the garden will be important this season. Start by clearing out dead annuals and cutting back damaged perennials to reveal green and healthy stems. Bed plants benefit from a layer of mulch to retain moisture, and if possible, revive potted plants in a tray of water until the soil's surface is wet.

Low-Maintenance Garden

Most homeowners don't have hours to spend pampering plants. Some may want the beauty of a garden, but not the time commitment. Easy-to-grow-and-care-for plants that require less spraying and less pruning are rising in popularity.

Plants such as rose of Sharon and butterfly bush are simple to maintain and great additions to any garden. Another tip is to use time-saving products like Miracle-Gro Watering Can Singles, water-soluble plant food premeasured in a packet ready to be poured into a watering can.

Edible Garden

No matter how convenient it is to buy veggies at the supermarket, there's a satisfaction that comes from enjoying homegrown produce. Vegetable and herb gardening are growing trends this year. But gardeners won't be planting huge crops, and instead will do vegetable gardening in containers.

"Container gardening is hotter than ever," says Gath. "The smaller surface area in the container makes things easier to control."

Not only are containers convenient, but a cluster of pretty little pots growing leafy herbs like basil or pars-

Big Reasons To Grow Your Own Garden

More homeowners are focusing on health by planting their own vegetable gardens this year, rejecting the rising cost of food and fuel, and pesticide-laden produce most often found in supermarkets.

Just about every environmental group in the United States, Canada, and in Europe warns that store-bought produce is loaded with petro-chemical pesticides that build up in the human body. These chemicals are being blamed for many illnesses, from autism in children to cancer at all ages. Consider the following:

*Potatoes, lettuce, and cucumbers have the highest concentration of pesticides, according to the United States Department of Agriculture's annual crop report.

*A major study by the New York State Department of Health directly links pesticides to diabetes, now one of the most prevalent chronic diseases in the United States.

*The environmental group Global Pesticide Campaign warns that glyphosate used in Roundup causes auto-immune deficiencies in children and the elderly.

*Cornell University says carbyl, an ingredient in Sevin insect dust and liquid, has been linked to Parkinson's disease.

*Purdue University warns "weed and feed" type lawn chemicals have caused bladder cancer in dogs. An Ohio K-9 corps reports several of their dogs developed cancer by coming in contact with chemical fertilizers around their dog pens. Consequently, the federal government is urging veterinarians to report all cancer in animals as an early warning sign for man.

Growing your own pesticide-free food is easy and there's nothing healthier and as good tasting as produce picked at maturity right in your back yard. Using organic methods, follow these few simple steps.

1. Prepare your garden the old fashioned way. Rent a roto-tiller and turn over the earth in a given plot exposing the earth to the sun and the rain. In early spring, hard rake the earth and break up the clumps.

ley makes an excellent decorative addition to any deck.

There's No Place Like Home

This year homeowners will reflect their indoor style in outdoor décor. A hot trend right now is earthy, natural-toned plants punctuated by bright splashes of color. Flowers with invigorating hues like bright blue, sunny yellow, Rococo red and deep blue with violet undertones are striking against muted browns and greens. Many of these color palettes are inspired by fashion and interior decorating trends.

Now more than ever the back yard is the most popular place to retreat. People are designing and enjoying outdoor entertaining spaces as a true extension of their homes. Lawn and garden products and décor will become increasingly important to maintaining these valued spaces. For example, a fire pit is upgraded to an outdoor fireplace and the grill is swapped out for a mini-kitchen.

Loving The Locals

Local farmers' markets and flower stands are becoming increasingly popular as more gardeners discover the varieties of vegetable seedlings and native plant species local stands often offer. Most markets are open only during the summer, so take advantage of them for warm-weather planting.

around the plot and fill with sharp stones. This stops voles from burrowing into the garden.

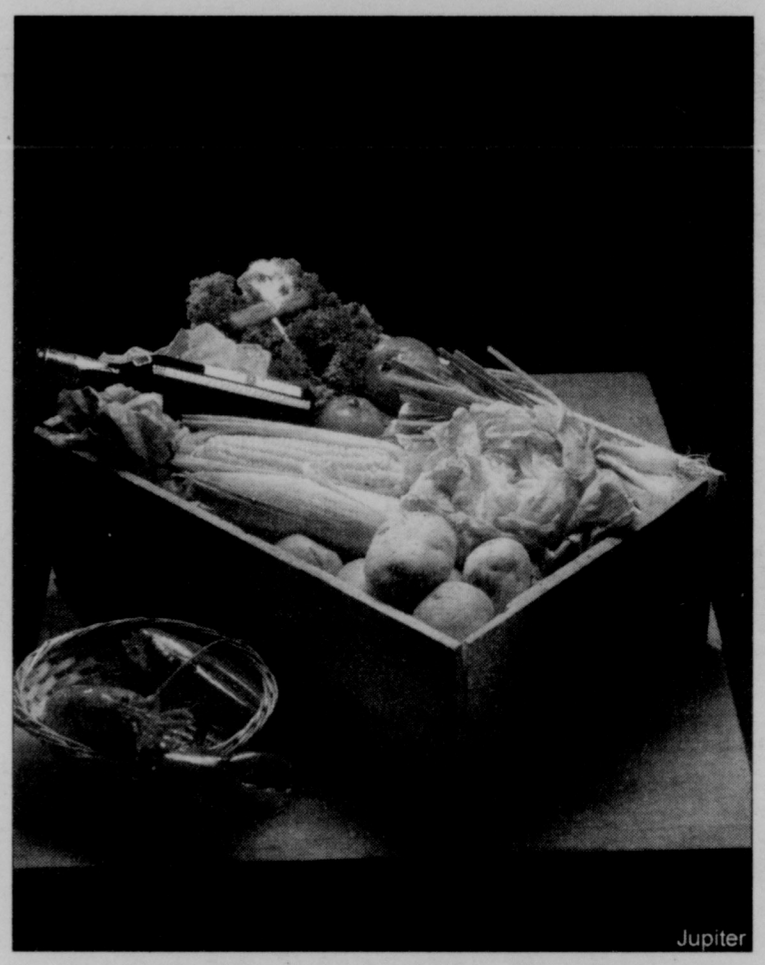
Sprinkle the earth with Milky Spore powder to do away with white grubs that eat away at the roots of garden plants. Milky Spore was developed by the USDA, is nontoxic and approved for organic farming by the manufacturer.

2. Begin by planting early "cool season" crops like spring onions, lettuce, radishes, green peas, Chinese cabbage, broccoli, and turnips. A trip to your local garden center will provide you with lots of growing ideas.

Don't pick seeds that have been genetically altered like GM corn, soy, or wheat. These seeds contain the DNA of pesticides.

Buy old fashioned "heirloom" seeds that grandfather planted.

Use organic fertilizer, not the chemical kind.



Jupiter

3. As the season warms up and the bugs arrive, control them with "organic insecticides." A simple dusting of plants with diatomaceous earth stops almost all bugs.

Organic liquid sprays knock down flying bugs without contaminating the crops.

Organic repellents keep away deer, hedge hogs, rabbits, and other animals.

4. Put in companion plants such as mint and other herbs that repel insects and bugs. Plant watermelon, tomatoes, and other great garden crops.

Plant blackberries and raspberries as these keep coming back year after year and require little attention. Just a few blackberries contain more vitamin C than an orange.

5. When weeds arrive, pull them out by hand, or, selectively spray them with an organic weed killer.

If you do buy produce at the supermarket, be sure to wash it with warm water, then spray with white vinegar. Mix one part white vinegar to one part water. This helps dissolve the pesticide residue. Let sit for 30 minutes, then wash again but with cold water.

You will be surprised at how bountiful a home garden can be and by the second year you might be planning to enlarge the original plot to include a bigger variety than the first time around.

Organic bug sprays, weed killers, and other natural controls and products can be found at milkyspore.com, or by calling 800-801-0061 for a free brochure from St. Gabriel Organics.

Parents Alerted To The Dangers Of Lead Paint

Most parents are fully aware of the recent recalls involving toys contaminated with lead-based paint. While few parents are likely to take such recalls lightly, some might not be aware of the specific dangers lead-based paints present, whether the paint is on a child's toy or on the walls of a home.

While everyone would like to think their homes do not contain any lead-based paint, older homes very well might, making it all the more important that all people understand just what hazards this substance presents.

The dangers associated with lead-based paints are many, and none should be taken lightly. Because lead paint can harm both the brain and the central nervous system, the negative consequences of exposure can be very damaging. Among those consequences are:

- decreased intelligence scores
- learning disabilities, attention deficit disorder (ADD), hyperactivity, problems with memory
- impaired hearing
- decreased growth, poor coordination, muscle and joint pain

Who Is In the Most Danger?

Perhaps the scariest part about lead-paint exposure is those who are most at risk to its negative consequences: children 6 years of age and younger, including the unborn. This is because a child's brain and nervous system are undergoing more rapid changes than those of an adult, and as a result their systems absorb more lead than an adult's.

Adding to the risk factors for children is the typical lifestyle of a child, one that involves playing on the ground or floor. Younger children, especially, frequently put things (such as toys) in their mouths. This makes them more likely to inhale or ingest lead dust. Unborn children are at risk because mothers with elevated levels of lead in their blood can very well pass that lead on to their unborn child. If this occurs, low birth weight, premature births and even miscarriages could result.

How Can Kids Be Protected?

Most homes built before 1978 will have lead-based paint, and nearly all built before 1960 will. However, the presence of lead-based paint alone is not necessarily hazardous. If the paint is intact, meaning it hasn't deteriorated or cracked, then it's likely harmless. People living in older homes should make it a priority to not allow their paint to deteriorate. Chipped paint and any areas, such as windows and doors, where painted surfaces rub together are high-concern areas.

To protect children, first and foremost have them tested. For infants, have them tested before their first birthday and then once more a year later. If you're still concerned, have children under the age of 6 tested annually.

Another way to keep kids safe is to keep them out of work areas around the home. Ward off rooms that are under construction, and keep furniture in such rooms covered in plastic to avoid lead dust. Spray all surfaces with

How To Take On The Task Of Home-Downsizing

Senior citizens or even younger empty nesters find their homes have gotten too big for them. Once the kids move out, a bigger home can not only seem really empty, it can be a genuine chore to manage. As a result, many folks decide to downsize their homes, moving into smaller houses that are more accommodating to their new lifestyles.

While this is an obvious decision for many, it isn't always an easy one. In addition to growing attached to a home, especially one in which their children grew up, homeowners are suddenly faced with the difficult decision of what will make the trip to their new home and what won't. When deciding to downsize their home, homeowners might want to consider the following approach with their sudden abundance of excess possessions.

• Begin where you rarely go. Lots of homeowners have rooms in their home where they don't spend a significant amount of time. Living rooms that are more for show than leisure, for instance, can be a good place to start downsizing. Consider parting ways with furniture that's not regularly utilized but intended more for show. Ridding yourself of excess furniture will do a great deal in lessening your moving load.

Another area to consider is the basement. Oftentimes, basements have items such as pool tables, ping pong tables, etc., that were purchased to entertain the kids. These items won't be necessary at the new home, and chances are they won't fit anyway.

• Make the kids a part of the process. Kids often cherish things from their youth that parents might not know about. To avoid leaving something behind that your kids might cherish, involve them in the process of downsizing. If they truly value something you've decided to get rid of, give it to them rather than simply selling or donating it. Depending on how many kids you have, it might be hard to determine who gets what. Create a system before you begin downsizing and involve the kids in the creation of that system.

• Get a decent head start.

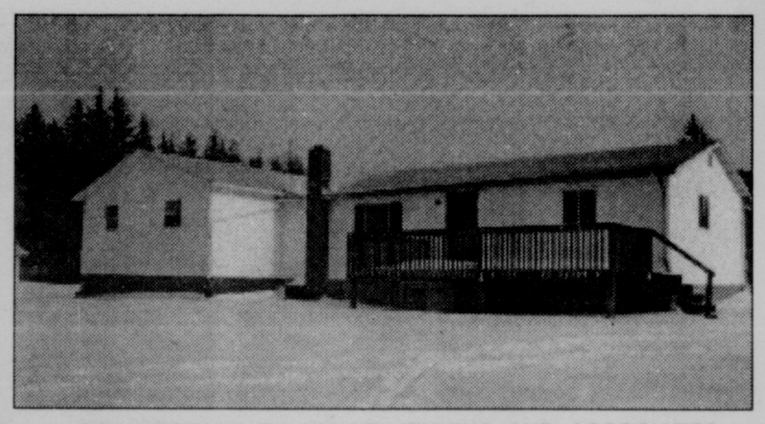
ADDITIONAL HIGH-QUALITY LIVING SPACE can be obtained by revamping the basement, which also increases the resale value of a house.



REAL ESTATE BY VICKIE JENKINS AND ASSOCIATES is ready to assist Maryland and West Virginia residents and visitors find a building site or home this spring, like the one pictured above, located at 1 Pocahontas St. in Loch Lynn. For more information, persons can contact local representative Kenny Green at 304-329-6633, 301-616-6240, or Kgreen10@verizon.net.

Revamped Basements Add Quality Living Space, Increase Resale Value Of Home

You store the holiday decorations there. You have laundry facilities there. But, are you actually living in your basement?

Seen as a high-value feature of a new home, basements have moved a long way since the time of low ceilings, cobwebs and damp areas. While the basements in today's homes may still be used for storage and laundry, you're more apt to find them converted into true living spaces – serving as bonus rooms, children's play areas, and home offices. What makes this evolution possible? The move toward using custom-designed foundations that make the basement warm, dry, bright and livable.

"We've created and installed more than 85,000 custom-designed, damp proof foundations for homes nationwide during the past 27 years," says Aaron Schoeneberger, director of marketing for Superior Walls(R). "These precast insulated foundation systems help homeowners save on energy bills and allow them to fully utilize their basement space as functioning, integrated and comfortable living areas in the home."

According to the "What 21st Century Home Buyers Want" survey of customer preferences conducted by the National Association of Home Builders, the inclusion of basements in new homes has been on an upward rise since 2000. Homes being built on slabs are declining, as homeowners find more value in basements both during their occupancy of the home and at the time of resale.

"There's nothing like a well-insulated basement that can serve as valuable living space to pop the eyes open of a potential homebuyer," says Tina Fountain of Tina Fountain, Realtors(R) in Atlanta, Georgia. "You can see the wheels start turning in a person's mind as they quickly calculate what they can do with the 'bonus space.' A good basement takes the pressure off the other living areas in the home and opens up a world of possibilities for potential homebuyers."

At Superior Walls, Xi (TM) wall panels are constructed with a concrete face shell, backed by 2-1/2-inches of DOW(R) extruded polystyrene insulation. The steel reinforced concrete walls create a permanent barrier against sidewall water penetration, making the home damp proof.

Each Superior Walls panel is custom made to the specifications of an individual home, including built-in openings for windows and doors. Pre-engineered access for wiring or small plumbing elements along with smart stud facing for easy drywall installation are included and help speed up the installation process.

While getting kids to wash their hands can sometimes be a chore, this is also an effective way to protect them from exposure. Lead gets into the body through ingestion or respiration, so kids should wash their hands before eating and going to bed.

A healthy diet can also protect kids from possible exposure to lead. Children who get sufficient calcium, vitamin C and iron in their daily diet will absorb less lead. Consult a physician to put together a diet for a child that will provide healthy levels of all three.

Downsizing

Start downsizing enough in advance to enjoy the process. If you save everything until the last minute, you won't get to enjoy reflecting on the many memories you've made in your current home. A head start will also afford you the time to better determine what possessions you value, and which ones you're not really attached to.

• Decide what to do with the excess. Your kids won't cherish all of your possessions and neither will you, so this will leave you with lots of stuff to get rid of before moving into your smaller home. There are many ways to rid yourself of items you won't be taking along. Donations are almost always accepted by thrift stores, and depending on the time of year you move, a garage sale might be a viable option as well.

• Remember to make room for especially treasured items. If there are items that you genuinely cherish but you think might make for a tight fit at your new home, do your best to make room for these items anyway. If need be, go back over what you've decided to take and re-examine if it's worth more to you than other items you've determined are must-haves.

Vinyl Windows, Doors Shown To Save Energy

Looking to save on energy bills in your home? Then consider environmentally-friendly and energy efficient vinyl windows. That's what John Kosmer did when he used 80 Simonton vinyl windows to help create his solar home in upstate New York.

Thanks to his green building efforts, Kosmer can heat his 4,000 square foot home for just $1.50 a day. "I specified Energy Star compliant windows with a very sensible glass package to help us retain the sun's energy," says Kosmer. "Investing in vinyl windows with an upgraded glass package is one of the smartest moves any homeowner can make to save on energy bills."

Planting Trees Helps Energy Bill And Environment

Strategically planting trees around your home or office not only helps the environment, but can significantly reduce your energy bill, according to information released by the Natural Resources Conservation Service.

Choosing a tree should be a well thought-out decision, as tree planting can be a significant investment in money and time. Proper selection can provide you with years of enjoyment as well as significantly increase the value of your property. An inappropriate tree for your property can be a constant maintenance problem or even a hazard. Before you buy, take advantage of the abundant references on gardening at local libraries, universities, arboretums, parks where trees are identified, native plant and gardening clubs, and nurseries.

Trees can serve numerous landscape functions including beautification, screening of sights and sounds, shade and energy conservation, and wildlife habitat.

When choosing a tree, it is important to consider the following: plant material that is suitable for your area, the size of the tree when fully grown, the average life expectancy of the tree, ornamental value such as leaf color or flowers and fruits, if particular insects, diseases, or other problems are common among the plant species, and whether the tree is evergreen or deciduous. Evergreen trees will provide cover and shade year round. They may also be more effective as a barrier for wind and noise. Deciduous trees will give you summer shade but allow the winter sun to shine in.

Proper placement of trees is critical for your enjoyment and their long-term survival. Check with local authorities about regulations pertaining to placement of trees. Some communities have ordinances restricting placement of trees within a specified distance of streets, sidewalks, and utilities.

The conservation service suggests that you plant native evergreens on the building's windy side and native broadleaf trees on the building's sunny side to catch the sun in the winter and shade in the summer.

A properly planted and maintained tree will grow faster and live longer than one that is incorrectly planted. Trees can be planted almost any time of the year as long as the ground is not frozen. Late summer or early fall is the optimum time to plant trees in many areas, thus giving the tree a chance to establish new roots before
